The magnificent New Cadillac and its companion car, the superb La Salle, are on display at the Cadillac-La Salle Style Salon.

Your first glance at the New Cadillac will set it apart from all other cars—enthrone it in your mind as the finest motor car you have ever seen.

The oncoming view is impelling. The radiator is higher and deeper, blending perfectly with the beautifully proportioned hood and cowl. The rear view is impressive. The aristocratic dignity of the car is emphasized by sweeping, graceful lines, and accentuated by the richly done running boards and fenders of entirely new design.

The interiors are spacious and the seats deeply luxurious; a folding arm rest in Sedan and Imperial being an exclusive touch. Fittings worthy of a jeweler's case and beautiful wood panelings enhance the beauty and luxury.

And coupled with this beauty and luxury is marvelous performance due to the further development of the 90-degree, V-type, eight cylinder engine which literally gives wings to this distinguished car.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—Lucretia L. Allyn, trustee under the will of Mrs. Harriet U. Allyn, has sold to the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company the Allyn family residence of many years, corner of Mohegan avenue and Williams street.

Lucretia L. Allyn, trustee under the will of Mrs. Harriet U. Allyn, has sold a building lot on the westerly side of Mohegan avenue, to George H. Bailey.

George H. Bailey has sold a building lot on the westerly side of Mohegan avenue to the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company.

SAILOR MAY LOSE SIGHT THROUGH GLARE OF TORCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—A sailor at the submarine base may lose the sight of both eyes because of his constant use lately of an acetylene torch, for he was picked up on the street last night when he was groping about because of his sight having vanished. He is now a patient at the base hospital, where it is said that his condition is serious for it is problematical whether the sight can be restored. The blue jacket's work at the base for a number of days has compelled him to use the torch and it is believed that the constant glare has so affected his sight that the nerves have become paralyzed. He came to New London late yesterday afternoon and was about the city, but about 11 o'clock while walking on State street his sight left him. A patrolman found the sailor and took him to police headquarters where he was turned over to a shore patrol, who escorted the sailor back to the base.

Howard Kelliher, of Meriden; Mrs. George Durrell, of Providence; Mrs. Fred Mitchell and infant daughter, Niantic; Roland Enos, 165 Bayonet street; Master Nelson McNeil, 47 Jay street; Mrs. Walter Bugbee and infant daughter, 19 Adelaide street; Mrs. Martin Beckwith, 333 Ocean avenue and Mrs. Frank Rand and infant son, Bridgeport, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Joseph Burvett, formerly of Waterford, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Joseph Raniszewski. The bearers were George Batting, Michael Beck, John Siccola, John Burvett, Robert Parker and Raymond Rondomanski. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

H. Elmer Graves, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Graves, died at the Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital this morning, from spinal meningitis. The child had been a patient there but a few days.

Josephine Stanion has sold three building lots to Nellie V. Daniels. Two of the lots are located on Jefferson avenue and the other is on Potter street.

No date has been set for a hearing for Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky against whom charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were preferred by Jack Whitside, concession proprietor at Ocean beach. City Manager William A. Holt will probably assign a date for the hearing during the present week.

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlin, 50 Moore avenue, who reported to the police yesterday that her home had been entered by a thief during her absence from the city and that a watch and two rings had been stolen, today notified the police that she had discovered further losses, for she said that an earring and her mother's wedding ring, which has the inscription, "Mother" on the inside band, are missing.

Mrs. Trowbridge, of Lyme, last midnight telephoned the New London police and requested that they make an effort to locate a Mrs. Maynard and a young woman of Lyme, who came to New London yesterday afternoon and who, Mrs. Trowbridge believes, were still in this city. They had failed to return home, although they were expected to do so. Mrs. Trowbridge said that Mrs. Maynard and the girl left Lyme on a bus at 1 o'clock and they were supposed to have gone to a dentist for treatment. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin was assigned to the case and he went to the residence of the dentist to whose office the woman and girl were supposed to have gone. The dentist stated that neither the woman nor girl had consulted him. This morning Mrs. Trowbridge informed the police that the woman and girl had been located in New York.

Autoists continue to use the streets of the city as places where they park indefinitely and as fast as these drivers are detected using the highways as garage space the cars are removed to garages. Two such autos were taken in charge by the police today. Both machines were driven to garages where they are held till claimed by their owners, who will be compelled to pay storage. One of the autos and owned by James E. Farnan, 22 Stillman avenue, Westerly, was found parked at Ocean beach, where it had been for over 12 hours. The other car, an Essex and carrying Connecticut registration, 91-831 was found in front of 105 Garfield avenue where the resident of the house said the auto had been parked since last Friday.

Francis J. Reilly, Bay View house, Niantic, was in the police court this morning charged with reckless driving, the charge being amended for Reilly was arrested yesterday charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. The amended charge brought a fine of $25 and costs. The minimum fine for driving while under the influence is $100 and costs. Reilly was driving about the streets when the course of the auto was such as to attract the attention of Traffic Officer John Courtney and he decided to hold up the driver. When he did so he found that Reilly was drunk, so locked him up.

Two youths, school students, were in court, one on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor and the other with intoxication. The former charge was amended to reckless driving and the accused was fined $10 and costs. The latter received a suspension of judgment. The young men and some of their friends were in an automobile at the corner of State and Huntington streets about 10 o'clock when a wheel collapsed, making it impossible to drive further. The police were notified and Lieut. James Sullivan, Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman William Riordan responded. When the officers arrived the youth driving the car was found to be intoxicated and his male companion was in the same condition. The boys claimed to have attended a wedding and said that all that they drank was two glasses of wine.

William Henley was charged with intoxication and he was given a suspension of judgment.

James H. Beers, of Waterford, charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance, failed to present himself in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited. Beers was arrested last night by Patrolman William Riordan, when the former parked his automobile in such a manner as to obstruct traffic on State street.

Giovannina Cash has sold a building lot, corner of Ocean avenue and School street, to Henry H. de Beaulieu.

house and lot, corner of Wall and Sum-

Louis and Dora Kozlin have sold a mer streets, to Shirley Hendel.

Rachel Horenstein has sold to Myra M. Lavern a house and lot on Walker street.

Cornelia L. Stevens has sold to Wolch M. Misalsky a house and lot on Front street.

EARL BULLOCK, U. S. C. G. BEATS UP GEORGE VORVES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—George Vorves, United States Coast Guard academy, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from a head injury, not yet definitely determined and has been unconscious ever since he was taken to the hospital this afternoon. Earl Bullock, also a coast guardsman, is under arrest charged by the coast guard officials with assaulting Vorves. Tonight he was arrested and placed in the brig at the academy, pending the outcome of Vorves' injuries. Vorves and Bullock engaged in a fight during tonight at the government reservation and during the battle Bullock seized a weapon and dealt Vorves a blow on the head. Vorves was rendered unconscious and was given emergency treatment, but when efforts to revive him failed, he was taken to the hospital. Since being admitted to the hospital Vorves has remained unconscious except during a brief period this afternoon, when he was semi-conscious. Then he lapsed into complete unconsciousness and has remained in that condition ever since. Whether Vorves has sustained a fractured skull is not known. Bullock left the reservation immediately after the assault and tonight when the shore patrol was detailed for street duty they were instructed to arrest Bullock on sight. At 9 o'clock Bullock was found on State street, taken to police headquarters and later taken to the coast guard academy.

The city of New London is to build a concrete retaining wall on the westerly side of Union street, between the Central Fire station and the Corticelli Silk company. Building the wall will start this month.

A New York man, who has been in New London on a spree for several days was sent back to his home today by the police. The departure of the New Yorker was the result of his sister, a resident of Waterford, notifying the police that her brother was squandering his money here and that his wife wanted him to return to his family and work. Sergeant John Cavanaugh found the man, took him to the Union station and saw to it that he started on the train that left here at 2:15.

Antonio Grippo, 87 Jefferson avenue, made complaint to the police this afternoon that occupants of automobiles had hurled bottles from the machines as they passed through that avenue and that the bottles had broken and caused damage to other automobiles, for the broken glass had disfigured and mutilated tires. The names of the occupants of the autos making the practice of smashing the bottles in the highway were not learned.

Mrs. Randolph Taylor, 7 Denison avenue, made complaint to the police this afternoon that a navy blue sweater had been stolen from the clothesline in the rear of her home.

Harold Bennett, of Stonington, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

The fishing sloop D-307 is moored at the state pier, pending an investigation by United States Coast Guard officials as to the reason for the boat running without lights at night. The fisher craft was brought into port yesterday by the crew of the patrol boat 288 after it had become necessary to fire a shot across her bow in order to compel the captain to bring his boat to a stop. The sloop was sighted in Gardner's bay and when it was observed that she was running without displaying the customary side-lights, a signal was given to stop. The signal was unheeded, but instead the boat picked up speed and was leaving the patrol boat astern, when an order was given to send a shot across the sloop's bow. This had the desired effect for the sloop came to a stop. The commander of the coast guard boat boarded the sloop, but no contraband cargo was found, nor was any trace found that would indicate that the sloop was being used for illegal purposes.

Adam Marx, old-time resident here and for many years a piano tuner, was committed to the Norwich State hospital tonight by City Physician George Cheney. Marx has been a resident at Hillside home for several weeks, but his mental condition has become such that it was necessary to transfer him to the asylum. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman William Riordan took Marx to the hospital in the police auto.

Frank E. Dupee, Jr., of Newport, R. I., and Miss Lillian A. Whipple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gersham Whipple, of Groton, were married yesterday at the parsonage of Groton Heights Baptist church by Rev. George R. Atha.

Harold Church, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Church, of Richards street, and Miss Phoebe A. Enos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Enos, of Bayonet street, were married yesterday at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley. Charles Enos, brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Dorothy Church, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Mr. Church is employed by the Humphrey-Cornell company. Upon the termination of their wedding trip, the bride and groom will reside at 272 Bayonet street.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theater

A story flavored with the gay charm of old Paris and the swift intrigue of Europe's most famous watering place, Monte Carlo, opens the double feature program at the Breed theater today, when "The Masked Woman" begins a two day engagement.

The film was directed by Balboni, a European, who knows intimately the locale in which the action of the picture takes place. It features Anna Q. Nilsson, Holbrook Blinn, Charlie Murray, Elinar Hanson, Gertrude Short and Ruth Roland.

Twenty dancers, coached by the famous danseuse, Marion Morgan, appear in the First National production of "The Masked Woman".

"The Coming of Amos", the Cecil B. DeMille supervised production starring Rod LaRocque, booked as the second big attraction on the bill for today and Thursday, gives a long looked for opportunity to give vent to a whole column of pure and unadulterated enthusiasm.

It has surpassed fondest expectations.

Rod La Rocque, in the leading role of "Amos" gives a performance worthy of his role and of the story and has proven the trust which the greatest of filmdom's producers bestowed upon him in elevating him to stardom.

Paul Sloane directed this picture at the De Mille studio, with Jetta Goudal and Noah Beery in featured roles.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Today will usher in a show of shows with none other than the personality king, Adolphe Menjou, in Service for Ladies.

The story deals with the love of a head waiter for an American heiress. Circumstances, somewhat uncovered by Menjou, are such that the girl doesn't know of his profession until the very end. Then comes Menjou's big moment of renunciation in which he appears to her for the first time in his professional capacity when she and her father enter the dining room of the hotel to which he is attached. In the meantime, they have spent many rapturous hours in the mountains, where, incidentally D'Arrast has obtained some of the most beautiful and colorful snow effects we have ever seen on the screen.

As always, Menjou is supported by a capable cast. Kathryn Carver, his new leading woman, is charming and one does not marvel at Harrison Fisher's having selected her as the "ideal American girl" for his magazine covers. Lawrence Grant as King Boris is convincing and Charles Lane, the girl's father, is equally effective in a passive role that is reminiscent of a similar part in The Whirlwind of Youth.

All in all Service for Ladies is the sort of picture you will want to see for the sheer pleasure of being delightfully entertained. It is Menjou at his best.

Commencing Sunday for four days, the management announces, Beau Geste as the main attraction. This picture will be offered to Norwich patrons at 25c matinees and 50c at evening performances.

Palace Theater

Today for the last times a real big combination bill of vaudeville and a big special screen feature will be shown at the Palace. Five acts of especially good vaudeville and Reginald Denny in Fast and Furious are the big attractions. The picture is all that could be desired for entertaining purposes. Speed galore and action such as you rarely see. A very good show and went over big to all those who have seen it. Commencing Thursday for three days another combination bill will be offered. Five acts of specially selected vaudeville will be the stage attractions while Renee Adoree in Back to God's Country will be the screen's main attraction. This story is by James Oliver Curwood and the cast includes Walter Long, Robert and Mitchell Lewis. To the valley of peace and plenty, to love and repose with sunshine and leisure, that was her dream and his but, fate snapped the whip and the yellow fangs of lust and desire reached out to strike her. This is a burning, gripping, searing story of one woman's courageous battle against terrible circumstances, seething passion and the angry elements. A gorgeous, dramatic panorama of frozen wastelands of the snow country. You'll marvel at its intensity.

The management announces the coming of the most mystifying picture ever made. Metropolis. You'll wonder and think and then some. This picture will be offered to the public at regular prices with vaudeville attractions.

Mr. Knox Resumes Teaching

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks strong; telephone issues at new tops.

Bonds steady, Cities Service Power 6s sag from record high.

Foreign exchanges firm, Swedish currency at new 1927 peak.

Cotton higher, unfavorable weather forecast.

Sugar easy, European selling.

Coffee steady, trade buying.

Chicago

Wheat weak, increased Canadian crop estimate.

Corn easy, free country selling.

Cattle irregular.

Hogs steady to higher.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—Disregarding early weakness in the commodity markets and a 4 1-4 per cent. renewal rate for call money, stock prices moved upward in impressive fashion today. Several new leaders were brought forward from among the public utility, Copper, oil and rail groups, with quite a few gains running from 5 to nearly 15 points. Nearly two score individual issues attained new peak prices for the year, or longer, including such favorites as American Telephone, Du Pont, General Motors, International Telephone, International Harvester and New York Central.

Cotton fell $2.50 a bale in early trading but recovered all its loss and closed 50 cents to nearly $1 a bale net higher. Wheat broke 5 cents a bushel on publication of a bearish Canadian government crop report and the reaction in corn prices was even larger, but half the losses were recovered in a late buying movement. Other commodities showed little change.

So great was the advance of the so-called barometric issues that the average of 20 leading industrial shares was lifted nearly 2 1-4 points to a new record high for all time. The average of 20 leading rails advanced nearly 2 points to within 1 1-8 points of the high of the year.

In the day's news to influence the price movement reports from steel centers indicated that buying was continuing at a moderate pace and somewhat below expectations. U. S. Steel common, however, advanced to within a fraction of the record high for the present issue, and good gains were recorded by a number of independents.

Expanding earnings provided the background for the advance in the public utility stocks, buying of which has been held in check, of late, by rumors of agitation for restrictive legislation at the next session of congress. Telephone issues were pillars of strength. A sensational buying movement in General Motors (old stock), based on reports of unexpectedly big car sales, carried that issue up more than 5 points to a new high at 264 1-4. Among the many other industrial stocks to reach new high ground were American Bank Note, Kennecott Copper, Cluett Peabody, Freeport Texas and Burroughs Adding machine.

Rails also presented several points of strength with New York Central and Pennsylvania reaching their highest levels in more than a decade. Atchison advanced 2 1-2 points, despite President Storey's pessimistic prediction of last quarter earnings.

There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet, with the undertone firm. Sterling cables continued to rule around 4.86 1-4 and French francs just below 3.92 cents.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Philias Ducharme and her daughter Miss Cora Fregeau of Providence street have returned from a stay of several weeks in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Esdras Caron of upper Merchants avenue have returned from a two weeks motor tour of the province of Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene N. Monty of Riverside grove have returned from Canada where they have been spending the past ten days.

Hartwell Zuerner of Maennerchor avenue, Curtis A. Hedler of Terrace avenue, James Carter of Hunters road, Reginald Monty of Riverside grove and Peter Lukoff of North Third avenue have returned from a week's stay at Gardner lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wajda and two children and Miss Mary Wajda of Norwich avenue are moving to a house on South Third avenue.

A letter for A. C. Woolschlager is being held at the local postoffice, the addressee being unknown to Postmaster Edward Adams.

NORWICH TOWN

In recognition of the 83rd birthday of Miss Mary Freeman of Norwich Town, who is a member of the Johnson Home family, Rev. and Mrs. Dwight L. Stone, entertained informally Friday at their home in Hanover. Rev. Mr. Stone motored to Norwich Town to convey the guest of honor, Miss Freeman, (aunt of Mrs. Stone,) and friends to Hanover where a delicious birthday dinner served. Among the guests was a nephew of Miss Freeman, Frederick A. Barrow, of Hyde Park, who has been visiting for several days with his brother-in-law and sister, Rev. and Mrs. Stone, at the Congregational parsonage in Hanover. An interesting feature was the reading of an original poem by Mr. Barrows, paying tribute to Miss Freeman's long and useful life. Before returning to the Johnson Home that evening, a dainty birthday supper was served. A beautifully decorated birthday cake, with candles was the chief attraction. Besides several pretty gifts, Miss Freeman received numerous cards, bouquets, fruit, etc. She was born in South Coventry, September 9th, 1844, daughter of Frederick and Elizabeth Storrs Freeman. Miss Freeman is also aunt of Mrs. Dwight W. Avery of West Town street. During her long residence at the Johnson Home, she has won the love and respect of many at the home and elsewhere. Rev. and Mrs. Stone have entertained for their aunt's birthday in previous years.

The Joy of Discovery, was the theme of the sermon by Rev. Charles E. Reeves at the Sunday morning worship at the Methodist church. The text was Matthew 13-44. Again, The Kingdom of Heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field. This was the second time Rev. Mr. Reeves has supplied this pulpit, during Rev. Albert E. Whitten's vacation.

The Methodist Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening, was in charge of Dorcas Home Missionary society, the president, Mrs. William Weaver, presiding. Several included in the good attendance present, responded to the request of the president, to give some Scripture verse, or read some quotation which would apply to the general theme, How Should I Spend God's Portion of My Money? The Scripture reference was found in Mal. 3:8-12; II Cor. 8:1-5-9. The responses submitted from both the Old and New Testament proved most interesting. During the service, Lewis Aldrich pleased with a solo, Just for Today, Mrs. Aldrich accompanying at the piano. Lead On, O King Eternal, was given by the junior choir.

At the First Congregational church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey preached from John 9-25. He answered and said, whether he be a sinner or no, I know not. One thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see.

Mrs. Hollis Myron French, of Fort Covington, N. Y., (Ruth Avery) an active member at one time of the Congregational Young People's Christian Endeavor was the leader at this service, Sunday evening, when the topic was, How Should I Spend God's Portion of My Money?

The Congregational mid-week service Thursday evening, in continuing the lesson for study, The World We Live In, will have for its theme, What Shall the Christian say of Modern Literature? Eccl. 12:12. Special reference to 1-14.

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey mentioned the generous gift of $50 to the First Congregational church from the Huntington Family association, which recently held its fifth reunion, at this historic church.

BARGE WITH 3,000 TONS OF COAL RUNS AGROUND IN THAMES RIVER

A 3,000 ton cargo of soft coal in the barge Barnstable of Fall River, consigned to the power house of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. at Montville on the Thames river, got as far as a point off Red Top Monday, but there the barge ran aground and stuck fast. The barge was in tow of a tug of the Thames Towboat company when she ran high on a sandbar with three feet showing below her water line.

The Coast Guard tug Chautauqua and three tugs from the towboat company got lines aboard the barge at high tide Tuesday morning but were unable to move the boat even when all were pulling together. The captain of one of the tugs reported to the power company officials that it would be necessary to remove at least 900 tons of coal before the barge is floated. It was expected that a lighter would be sent up the river Tuesday afternoon to start operations in order to float the barge as soon as possible.

PYTHIAN PAST GRANDS ELECT AT BARBECUE

Although heavy rain disrupted part of the plans for the mammoth barbecue which was held Sunday on the grounds of the Connecticut Farm Home association, Inc., in Lyme and East Haddam, the affair was largely attended, it being estimated that there were more than 1,000 persons present.

During the morning the guests, either crowded into the clubhouse at the farm home or sat in their automobiles. In the afternoon a baseball game was played between nines from New Britain and Old Lyme. The game was close, and it was won by the Old Lyme team by a score of 4 to 3.

During the day a meeting of the Past Grand Chancellors' association was held. L. Erwin Jacobs of New Haven was elected president. Fred Parsons of Seymour was elected vice-president. Manlius H. Norton of New Britain was elected secretary and treasurer.

RALPH ARMSTRONG PASSES FOR MASSACHUSETTS BAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 13—Ralph A. Armstrong, a member of the Northeastern university, Springfield legal department of the Fisk Rubber company, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Armstrong who lives in Norwich, Conn., has received word that he has passed the Massachusetts state bar examinations.

Mr. Armstrong makes his home at 475 Broadway, Chicopee Falls. He is a graduate of Brown university and division. During the war he was in France as captain in the artillery. He is a member of What Cheer lodge of Mason of Providence, Springfield post, American legion, Massachusetts chapter Officers Reserve association, South Congregational church and is vice president of the Connecticut Valley Brown club.

He will remain with the Fisk Rubber company until such time as he decides to start practice.

WILL BE CHAIRMAN OF SALES BREAKFAST

As a part of the program for the One Day Congress of the Norwich chamber of commerce Chairman Abner Schwartz announces the appointment of John B. Caron as chairman of the sales breakfast to be held at the Wauregan hotel at 7.45 a. m., Sept. 28.

All the merchants and business men who are interested in the subject of "Salesmanship," are expected to attend and bring their sales-people to hear Frank Stockdale, a retail merchandising expert of Chicago, on the subject, "How To Build Sales And Grow With Your Store."

The price of the breakfast will be 50 cents per plate, and each merchant is expected to pay for the number of people attending from his store.

STONINGTON SUIT BROUGHT TO GET PROPERTY BACK

Bringing suit for conveyance of title and for $5,000 damages, Harry H. Linger of Stonington is the plaintiff in a suit brought in the superior court against William Linger of Stonington. The plaintiff claims that he owned a two-thirds interest and the defendant a one-third interest in two dwelling houses and a bungalow at Pawcatuck. An agreement was made on Jan. 7, 1926 by which Harry was to deed his interest to William and the latter was to deed the whole property back. Reservation for a life estate in the property was made for the defendant. But it is claimed that William failed to deed the whole property back to Harry, but instead sold it all to John Lander Hayes and Annie Hayes of Stonington.

Gladioli Were Admired

Considerable interest was shown in the exhibits presented by the Stanley gladiolus farm at the New London Horticultural show held in New London on Friday and Saturday. Sixty varieties of gladioli, including the Bengal Tiger, were shown by the Stanley farm, which has more than 125 kinds in their gardens.

LYME ART ASSOCIATION HELD ANNUAL FROLIC

The annual frolic of the Lyme Art association was held Saturday night in the gallery at Old Lyme. This is the closing event of the season for the association, and the frolic this year was said by many of those present to have been one of the most enjoyable ever held. The attendance is restricted to artists and associate members of the association, their families and house guests. About 300 were present.

The invitations had announced that costumes were obligatory, suggesting that they might be of any mode or manner, futuristic, impressionistic, symbolistic, pointillistic, idylistic, rabbleistic, fatalistic or any-istic, characteristic of the 13th century. And a glance over the dancers proved that the suggestions had been largely carried out. There were those who essayed to impersonate the various nationalities, European and Asiastic, the birds of the air, butterflies, beasts, objects animate and inanimate, including the grandfather's clock and the air ship. And more than perhaps of any other single character, angels—angels large and small, male and female, young and old. The largest group of those celestial visitants was made up of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howland Gardiner, their son and daughter and house guests. Each one was authoritatively equipped with wings and halo and mild golden hair. Saint Peter was also in attendance.

The wall decorations of the gallery were in charge of a committee made up of Will Howe Foote, Harry L. Hoffman, Platt Hubbard, Mrs. A. K. Atkins and Miss Louisa Terry, Mrs. William Moss, Nathaniel Terry, Jr., and Griswold Atkins. In the two main galleries, the decorations consisted of large sketches in colored crayons, interspersed with masks. The entrance hall and the gallery, in which sketches are usually hung, had been converted into a flower garden, made up of brilliant festoons of grape vines above a border of growing blossoms, the whole most ingeniously and effectively contrived from lily cups, paper plates of various sizes and paper napkins. A few mirabo caterpillars through the vines added another touch of reality.

Among the notable guests who attended were: Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingram, who have just returned from a trip to China; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Griswold, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton Parsons of New York and Hadlyme, Conn.; and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Goodman of Chicago and Westbrook, Conn. Mr. Goodman is vice president of the Chicago Art institute and president of the executive committee of the Lyme Art association.

The association regards the season just closing as one of the most successful in the history of the gallery. During the exhibition which lasted from July 30 to September 6, more than 3,000 visitors attended. Four hundred pictures were hung, out of which almost one-fifth were sold, amounting to $17,890.

MAKING IMPROVEMENTS TO CONNOR BUILDING

Thomas M. Connor, owner of the Connor building in Broadway, formerly the Central building, is having changes made to the main entrance which will be a big improvement. The work has just been begun by the Peck-Mc-Williams company, which has the contract. The wooden floor will be replaced by a hard finished floor of two types, the inside portion to be of inlaid work and the vestibule will have a rubber mat with the name "Connor Building." An enclosed entrance with a sliding door is to be provided for the elevator and a telephone pay booth is to be installed.

Other changes which Mr. Connor has already had made in the building have been the installation of a large steam heater, which will take care of the entire building, and considerable plumbing repair work, all of which has been done by Thomas F. Burns.

POMFRET MAN TAKES BRIDE IN LEOMINSTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

LEOMINSTER, Sept. 13—Miss Ruth Esther Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Howe of this city was married Saturday afternoon to George Arnold Stoddard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Stoddard of Pomfret, Conn. The ceremony was performed in the family home by Rev. Nathan H. Gist. The double ring service was used.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Evelyn L. Howe, a sister of the bride was bridesmaid. The best man was Charles E. Stoddard, brother of the bridegroom. Eleanor Gallup and Charlotte James were flower girls. Sawyer, Arnold and Richard Medbury, nephews of the bridegroom, and Robert James, a nephew of the bride, were ribbon bearers.

Mrs. Ada Gallup and Mrs. Mary Medway, sisters of the bridegroom, sang, O, Promise Me, accompanied by George Wellington, who also played the wedding march. The home was beautifully decorated with gladioli, asters and palms.

The bride's gown was white crepe, trimmed with Spanish lace, rhinestones, and a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid's gown was orchid satin crepe and she carried a Colonial bouquet.

The marriage ceremony was followed by a reception, which was attended by guests from Pomfret, Putnam, and South Norwalk, Conn., Keene, N. H., Littleton, Fitchburg, and this city. The bridal couple were the recipients of many gifts including silverware, china, and money.

The bride is a graduate of the high school with the class of 1919. She attended Northfield Seminary and the Y. W. C. A. School of Domestic Science, Boston. For the past four years she has taught sewing in the public schools of Norwalk.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Putnam, Conn., high school with the class of 1920, and of the Wentworth Institute, Boston. He is now an electrical engineer at the National Radio corporation, Malden.

Following a week's motor trip through the White Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard will reside in their newly furnished home, 29 Boardman avenue, Melrose Highlands.

WILL INSPECT PARKWAYS OF WESTCHESTER COUNTY

The members of the state park commission and the directors of the Connecticut Forestry association will make a joint trip as guests of the Westchester County Park commission today (Wednesday) to visit the parks and parkways of Westchester county.

The party will meet in New Haven in the morning and drive to Greenwich in an auto bus. At this point they will be met by representatives of the Westchester commission who will show their Connecticut guests over the system of parkways laid out by that county to handle the traffic in and out of New York city. The tour will include the Bronx, Hutchins river and Pelham parkways. After lunch, they will inspect the numerous public bathing beaches, golf links and other features laid out by Westchester county as part of its fifty-million-dollar park and parkway scheme, the cost of which is said to be being returned to the county through increased property values due to the improvements.

CLINE GIVEN SENTENCE OF YEAR IN JAIL, $1,000 FINE

Young Novelist Pleaded Guilty to Manslaughter—Judge Yeomans Explained That Conflicting Testimony of the Preliminary Investigation and Circumstantial Evidence Was the Basis on Which Charge Was Changed From First Degree Murder—Convicted Man Smiled as He Received Congratulations on the Outcome of the Case.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

ROCKVILLE, Sept. 14—The murder trial of Leonard L. Cline, young novelist and former newspaperman in New York and Detroit, vanished almost without a moment's warning in the crowded quarters of the Tolland county superior court at Rockville this morning, when Cline pleaded guilty to a modified charge of manslaughter and was sentenced to one-year in jail and to pay a fine of $1,000.

The abrupt ending of the trial for which elaborate preparations had been made came as a shock to all but the small group of legal minds who had been discussing the problem in closed chambers for one hour and 20 minutes.

Cline's plea was in connection with the death, by gunshot wound, of his guest, Wilfred P. Irwin of Lexington, Va., at the Cline farmhouse in Mansfield on the morning of May 16.

Court had barely been declared open at 10 o'clock when Attorney William A. King, chief counsel for the defense asked for a recess. The wily general of legal battle took into consideration the curiosity of a score of reporters and in tones audible to all said that the recess was to allow a conference concerning witnesses, but in undertones he whispered something to Judge Yeomans. Judge Yeomans then went into conference with State's Attorney Thomas F. Noone, Assistant State's Attorney Michael D. O'Connell; Attorney William A. King of Willimantic and his associate defense counsels, Attorneys John H. King and Samuel B. Harvey.

At 11:20 court was formally opened. Clerk Willis Reed stepped from his chair and approached Cline who was standing up. "Do you wish to change your plea?" was the question put to Cline.

Repeating a whisper from Attorney King who held his arm as if to give him confidence by the touch, Cline answered "Yes."

"And what do you wish to plead?" Clerk Reed asked.

"I plead guilty to manslaughter" said Cline in a thick but even voice.

Sheriff Vinton had to sound his gavel for order as State's Attorney Noone stood before Judge Yeomans.

"It would seem that first degree murder had been committed in this case," said the prosecutor, "but, an exhaustive investigation by the state has revealed only circumstantial evidence. The conference this morning was called to compose widely conflicting views held in this case and after deliberation the state accepts this plea of guilty to manslaughter," he concluded.

Without a moment's hesitation other than to ask Attorney King if he had any remarks to make, Judge Yeomans imposed sentence. But four minutes had elapsed since the attorneys had returned from conference.

After excusing the jurors until Tuesday, October 4, Judge Yeomans ordered court adjourned until next Friday and the last chapter of the impending murder trial was closed.

Judge Yeomans explained that conflicting testimony given during the preliminary investigation of the case and the fact that circumstantial evidence was the basis for prosecution were the principal factors in an agreement to change the plea.

The imposition of the sentence had hardly left the lips of the judge when Cline was surrounded by sympathizers, many of whom were utter strangers to him.

The reporters and some of the court officials were first to congratulate the young writer on having narrowly escaped the trying task of defending himself against a murder charge.

Sheriff Vinton, accompanying Cline from the court room accepted good-naturedly the task of making a path for his charge through the crowd. It was evident that the turn of events was met with a popular vote. Once outside of the building the crowd was inclined to cheer.

Cline's reaction to the lifting of a great burden was very noticeable. While he received handshakes with both hands he smiled for the first time court opened last Wednesday. Freeing one arm he managed to light a cigarette and having done this he placed the arm about his wife who had rushed to his side and was holding to him while she gazed into his face with tearfilled eyes. Mrs. Irwin, wife of the dead man, broke into sobs. She rushed to Mrs. Cline and kissed her, remarking, "We have never wanted revenge." Professor George Irwin, brother of the slain man grasped Cline by the hand.

By noon the courtroom was vacant. Cline had been returned to Tolland jail. He is allowed two months off his sentence for good behavior and it is understood that his New York publisher will pay his fine. While he plans to work on another book Cline said that there would be times when he would be trying his skill at wielding an axe with other prisoners.

Public interest will now turn to other points from Tolland, but the county, which is mainly agricultural and where money does not abound, cannot forget the trial overnight, for there is a large expense to be reckoned with. It has been estimated that the trial, although closing before its actual beginning will cost nearly $10,000. Tolland does not consider that amount slightly.

Since the shooting on May 16, an intensive investigation has been underway, Commissioner Robert T. Hurley and a large staff of state police officers figuring in this work. There was a grand jury hearing in June when Cline was indicted on a murder charge. He has remained in jail since. A total of 190 talesmen were summoned before the jury panel for the impending trial was complete.

The examination of these talesmen started September 6 and was not completed until last Tuesday afternoon. About twenty state's witnesses had been summoned and there were hotel expenses for some of these. The preparation of charts entailed another expense item. It was necessary for Sheriff Vinton to call all of his deputies to duty since the opening of court last week.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO 5 YEAR OLD BOY IN MERIDEN

MERIDEN, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Succumbing to injuries that he had suffered four hours earlier when struck by a hit-and-run automobile, Louis Pasinski, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pasinski, 49 Norwood street, died late today at the Meriden hospital. Death was attributed to a severe concussion and injury to the brain tissue.

Theodore Golanski, 18, of 107 Broad street, is being held in connection with the fatality on charges of reckless driving, evading responsibility, and driving without an operator's license.

The boy was struck by the car as he attempted to cross Miller street. Golanski drove off from the scene of the accident, but gave himself up an hour later.

Today's fatality is the fifth caused during this year by automobiles in this city. Boys have been victims in four of the five fatalities.

TO FIGHT FOR DISSOLUTION OF TOBACCO ASSOCIATION

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 14—(AP)—Members of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco association in this section are prepared to wage a vigorous fight for the dissolution of the organization and the appointment of a receiver at a hearing in superior court at Hartford tomorrow morning. The discontented group contends that officials of the association have failed to dispose of some $2,000,000 worth of tobacco and that for various reasons they are not qualified to carry on the organization's business.

DIED AT THE WHEEL OF HIS AUTOMOBILE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 14—(AP)—Seized with a heart attack while searching for a parking space near the Union station this afternoon, Spencer A. Hale, 74, of West Haven, died at the wheel of his automobile. The machine struck a parked car, doing no considerable damage to either automobile. Mrs. Hale, who had been shopping with her husband, was not injured.

Hale had tried to get his automobile into a small space, without success, and the exertion is believed to have caused the heart attack.

ACCUSED OF POISONING THEIR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

BLAKELEY, Ga., Sept. 14—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hayes were accused in the verdict of a coroner's jury here today of having poisoned their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Amea Hayes of Detroit, who died here ten days ago under mysterious circumstances.

CAMP FIRE MEETING AT G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Stirring days of the Civil war were lived over again here tonight by veterans attending the National encampment of the G. A. R., the occasion being the annual "camp fire meeting," set aside for the spinning of yarns incident to the clash between the north and south.

A huge "prop" campfire, electrically operated, was installed in the center of the National Guard armory and several hundred of the veterans were gathered about swaping reminiscences of the old days.

The campfire climaxed a day's activities featured by the annual parade of the veterans.

Approximately 2,000 of the Blue ranks marched in review before their commander a few were forced to quit the march because of over-exertion and the extreme heat.

Livened by a dozen bands and drum corp, the old soldiers steped along over the mile march with a vigor surprising. It was the last parade for many of them.

In spite of the ruling that no women would be allowed to parade, a number of the veterans stepped along beside their wives, daughters, or in some cases, the granddaughters. Boy Scouts marched with each department, carrying the heavy standards.

The first business session of the encampment will be held Thursday morning.

NEW SUIT AGAINST THE DOHENY OIL COMPANIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—(AP)—Announcement that a new suit had been started by the government against Edward L. Doheny's oil companies attacking their claim to three strip leases in the eastern end of naval oil reserve number 1, in California was made today by the navy department.

The action is based on the contention that operation of these strips might drain naval wells on the reserve. Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, who prosecuted litigation growing out of the Elk Hills lease to the Doheny interests, have been retained as special assistants to the attorney general in the new case.

MAN CHOKED TO DEATH BY A PIECE OF MEAT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 14—(AP)—While Jacob Augustowski was eating his supper with his wife and four children tonight at 137 Sharon street, a piece of meat became lodged in his larynx. In a few minutes, before a doctor arrived, he had died of asphyxia.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ROME, Sept. 14—(AP)—A delegation representing the 332nd Infantry of the American army which served on the Italian front during the World war stopped in Rome and placed a wreath with ribbons in the Italian and American national colors on the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 14—(AP)—The charge that King Alfonso, of Spain forfeited his rights to the throne by approving Premier Primo de Rivera's plans for a non-elective national assembly is made in a letter sent to the sovereign by Jose Sanchez-Guerra, former premier and leader of the Spanish conservatives.

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 14—(AP)—Alimony for husbands is demanded in a petition filed with the ministry of justice by the Austrian Association for Men's Rights which was formed in 1924 "to combat the tyranny of women." The association wants this rule to apply particularly in cases where the wife is the guilty person in suits for divorce or separation.

TO CONSIDER AVAILABILITY OF AL SMITH AS DEM. NOMINEE

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 14—(AP)—Prominent democrats from 12 western states have promised to attend the conference here Sept. 23 and 24, at which it is understood the availability of Governor Al Smith of New York, as the democratic presidential nominee will be discussed, it was disclosed when invitations to the meeting were received by mail today.

The New York Herald-Tribune (republican) said today that the conference was arranged with the knowledge of eastern Smith supporters and that the announcement of the meeting took the anti-Smith forces by surprise.

There is nothing, however, in the invitation to show the meeting is to be an "all-Smith" affair." The invitational letter is signed by Joseph Cheese, Ogden lawyer and former state senator, who sets forth he is extending the invitation in behalf of Fred W. Johnson, prominent Rock Spring, Wyo., democrat.

The letter lists the subjects to be discussed as follows:

(1) The present two-thirds rule prevailing in the democratic national committee.

(2) Who is the most available presidential candidate.

(3) The need of a united intermountain democracy.

(4) More recognition of western industries in our tariff legislation and such other questions as may arise for the best interests and welfare of our national party.

HEAT WAVE CONTINUES IN THE MIDDLE WEST

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—(AP)—A heavy blanket of torrid air continued to envelope the middle west today, driving the mercury to record heights and resulting in suffering, prostrations and death.

Chicago, with a temperature of 95 degrees, led the list with seven heat fatalities. St. Louis reported four. The total deaths throughout the country was estimated at more than a dozen. Kankakee, Ill., reported 99 degrees, the hottest day of the year there.

The high mark here equalled that of yesterday and was within one degree of the record for the summer, being the highest ever set in September. While city dwellers suffered, farmers were elated over the opportunity for crops to mature.

Western Canada experienced a wave of fresk weather, southern Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan had a taste of both extremes. The western prairies were drenched with rain. At Edmonton the mercury sank to 34 while at Winnipeg it was 89, and at Emerson, Man., 92.

Forecasters announced that the greater part of the country is in the path of the torrid wave, the only exceptions being certain lake regions and New York and New Jersey.

Illinois agricultural officials announced the heat would mean money to the farmers.

HOW CROOKS SOUGHT TO MAKE PROHIBITION PAY

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 14—(AP)—A scheme to make prohibition pay caused the arrest of Anthony De Palma, 35, today, and police are searching for two alleged accomplices, one charged with impersonating an officer.

According to the story told by John Roberti, 45, a shoemaker, two men entered his establishment with a can of alcohol, which they offered for sale. Roberti declined to purchase, and while they were talking an accomplice entered, showed a badge, and "arrested the three." On the way to the police station, the "officer" offered to settle for $100. Roberti pretended to try to raise the money and finally wound up at an attorney's office, accompanied by De Palma.

De Palma was charged with idleness and bonds set at $5,000, which he was unable to furnish. His companions were not found at the trysting place he described to officers.

CLERGYMAN A VICTIM OF PARTIAL AMNESIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—With the recollections of the last 30 years of his life erased from his mind, the Rev. Dr. Theodosius Tyng, 78, a retired Protestant Episcopal clergyman of Barrington, R. I., was taken to the Bellevue hospital today.

Dr. Tyng, who had come to the city to visit relatives, was strolling about the streets when partial amnesia overcame him. He was able to tell doctors at the hospital his name, but he could not recall anything that had happened since he was a missionary in Japan. He went to the far east in 1878, and remained there until 1909.

Since his retirement, Dr. Tyng had been living with a son, the Rev. Dudley Tyng, of Barrington, R. I.

For 10 years after returning from Japan, Dr. Tyng, was pastor of St. Mark's parish in Ashland, N. H.

YOUTH FOUND GUILTY OF CRUELTY TO MONKEY

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 14—(AP)—The fact that he was working his way through college was all that saved Maurice Faverman of Providence, R. I., from paying a fine or going to jail in default, when he was found guilty in court today of cruelty to a monkey.

Faverman was accused by Agent Pearson of the S. P. C. A. of poking sticks at a baboon in the Forest park zoo and of striking the animal across the paws when it attempted to grab the stick. Judge Heady at first imposed a fine but withdrew it when he was informed that the defendant was working his way through college.

World Flight Project Has Been Called Off

Schlee and Brock Have Decided Not to Attempt Flight the Pacific.

TOKYO, Sept. 15—(AP)—(Thursday)—The projected flight of the American monoplane Pride of Detroit across the Pacific on its globe-circling tour, was called off here today by its co-pilots, Edward F. Schlee and Walter S. Brock.

The decision to call off the flight followed a lengthy conference with aviation experts here and others interested in the undertaking. Many cablegrams from America urging the fliers to stop at Tokyo also carried weight. Brock and Schlee finally concluded the attempt to negotiate the Pacific would be suicide.

They will take an early boat for the United States and have their monoplane shipped home.

WOULD COURT DEATH IN PACIFIC FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—Edward L. Schlee and William S. Brock, round-the-world fliers, will flirt with death in their attempt to fly to the Midway Islands in the Pacific, officials of the Commercial Pacific Cables company said today. The company maintains a relay station on the larger of the two islands for which the fliers intend to set out in the Pride of Detroit from Tokio, 2,480 miles away, on Friday.

In the first place, said officials who did not wish their names used, it would be nothing short of providential if the fliers succeeded in finding the islands at all.

In the second place, they said, a safe landing would be miraculous. The islands, the larger of which is but a mile and three-quarters long, were said to be composed of soft pulverized coral, the surface of which is wrinkled with dunes.

The islands were described as two tiny specks in the great waste of the Pacific, inhabited by 10 white men, the supervisor's wife, and 16 Japanese and Chinese laborers. There are without radio beacon and the highest point of land is but 40 feet above sea level. On the clearest nights the small carbide lamp in the lighthouse can be seen but 12 miles.

The cable officials denied that there was any gasoline of the kind necessary to refuel the plane.

Formerly the United States government, owner of the islands, maintained a naval reservation there, but it has long been abandoned. The islands, nevertheless are still under control of the navy department.

STEAMER KYLE IS COMING WITH OLD GLORY WRECKAGE

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 14—(AP)—Bearing the wreckage of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Old Glory which she picked up in the north Atlantic last Monday, the government coastal steamer Kyle was expected to start for this port tonight after a futile two day search for the ill-fated plane's missing crew.

Late today the Kyle wirelessed that she was continuing the search until dark. After that it was expected here she would head for this port. The return trip will require about two and a half days and negotiations for the ship to proceed to New York with the wreckage were tentatively started here.

ROYAL WINDSOR FLEW 1100 MILES IN 12 HOURS

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., Sept. 14—(AP)—The monoplane Royal Windsor, returning to Windsor, Ontario, from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, landed here tonight, making a non-stop flight of about 1100 miles in exactly twelve hours. The pilots, Phil Wood and C. A. Schiller, accepted an invitation to dinner as they taxied down the beach at 6.23 eastern daylight time, and will remain over night.

PERSIA WINS THREE POINTS AT L. OF N. ASSEMBLY

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 14—(AP)—Persia has won on three points, after officially announcing acceptance of the project of Frederick Delano, Washington, D. C., to substitute other crops for opium on Persian soil. Her representatives to the League of Nations, who include Daniel W. MacCormack of Boston, succeeded today in getting the assembly committee to adopt a resolution advocating complete tariff autonomy for Persia and the removal of tariff restrictions imposed on Persian goods by all the countries participating in this system.

Persia, furthermore, got through an amendment declaring that the countries which manufacture narcotic drugs should follow Pesia's example in hitting at the opium evil by restricting their manufacture of morphine, heroin and cocaine.

Legionnaires Find Paris Prices High

Many S. O. S. Calls Are Being Sent Home By Visiting Members of the Legion.

PARIS, Sept. 14—(AP)—With the many S. O. S. calls being sent home by visiting members of the American Legion during the past forty-eight hours for financial assistantance, the two special cable offices established in the legion headquarters at Cours de la Reine on the banks of the Seine are proving a real necessity. Many of the legionnaires have found Paris prices higher than those in their home town and have discovered that the sum thought necessary for two weeks in France vanished in less than a week.

One visitor who had a thousand dollars in his possession less than a week ago found that it had quickly melted away in seeing sights of Paris. He is returning home Saturday unable to stay for the convention week.

Besides the actual legion offices in the big barracks, the Salvation army lassies are established with doughnuts and coffee at "home prices" and the Knights of Columbus with everything free.

The American Red Cross also has a headquarters hospital.

The American Library association also has a large room filled with reference books for the studious pilgrims and the legion auxiliary is on hand furnishing shopping news to their sisters from the United States.

N. H. ROAD TO GIVE PROMPT CONSIDERATION TO I. C. C. ORDER

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The order of the Interstate comerce commission authorizing an issue of 7 per cent preferred stock by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, but disapproving the proposal of J. P. Morgan and company to underwrite it for a commission of 2 per cent on the aggregate par value, will have prompt consideration by those in charge of the company's financing, President E. J. Pearson said today.

"The order of the commission will have prompt consideration by those representatives who have the financing of the company in their charge," he explained. "The favorable comment in the commission's order regarding the character of the proposed stock issue gratifyingly reflects the much improved credit position of the New Haven railroad."

INVESTIGATING TRIPLE SHOOTING IN DANBURY

DANBURY, Conn., Sept. 14—(AP)—Police and Medical Examiner E. A. Stratton today concluded their investigation into the triple shooting here last night, and saw no reason to change their opinion that Charles W. Bill had shot his wife and their boarder, A. W. Kelly, and then turned the rifle on himself.

Neighbors questioned today added bits to the information which had been previously brought out. Bill had been acting strangely, they said, for the past few days, and had been heard to make threats that he would shoot Kelly. The latter, hearing of these threats, was reported to have remarked that "Bill wouldn't have nerve enough for that."

BANDITS GOT $50,000 GEMS IN THE HODL-UP OF A BUS

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 14—(AP)—A modern Jessie James hold-up was reported to police here today by officials of a Cleveland-Akron-Canton bus line, who claim that two salesmen of a Cleveland jewelry company were robbed of $50,000 in jewelry by three robbers who held passengers and the driver at bay with revolvers while they made their escape.

Three robbers halted the bus on a lonely stretch of road in Summit county a short distance from the city, commanded the passengers and driver to throw up their hands, took the cases containing $50,000 in jewelry and made their getaway in an automobile, officials told police.

FANNIE BRICE DIVORCED FROM "NICKY" ARNSTEIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Fannie Brice, musical comedy star, today was granted a divorce from her husband, Jules "Nicky" Arnstein, New York promoter, upon whom she lavished loyalty and support when he was committed to Leavenworth penitentiary a few years ago for a New York bond theft.

On Miss Brice's testimony that she received more than an ample income from her theatrical efforts, the court gave her custody of their two children. She did not demand nor receive an alimony stipulation.

ISADORA DUNCAN, AMERICAN DANCER, KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT IN NICE

NICE, France, Sept. 14—(AP)—Isadora Duncan, the American dancer, was killed in an automobile accident at 9.40 o'clock tonight. She was trying out a new automobile on the promenade Des Anglais, when a gust of wind blew a long scarf which she was wearing around her neck over the side of the car. It became tangled in one of the wheels and dragged the dancer out of the machine into the roadway, her neck being broken.

The dancer's body was removed to St. Roch hospital. At the time of the accident Miss Duncan was accompanied by a newspaperwoman, Mary Desto Parks, who came to see her with reference to the publication of her memoirs.

In a conversation with a correspondent of the Associated Press yesterday, Miss Duncan said: "For the first time I am writing for money; now I am frightened that some quick accident might happen."

This premonition of her doom was only too true.

A French chauffeur was teaching her to drive the new car, which was speeding along, when one end of her flowing scarf was whipped by the wind out of the side of the car and caught in the front wheel. The scarf tightened about her neck and in an instant she was dragged out.

The body was removed from St. Roche hospital to her studio tonight.

Fate seemed to have caused automobiles to play no small part in the life of Isadora Duncan. On several occasions she was injured, sometimes seriously, in automobile accidents, and in 1913 her two children, Beatrice, 5, and Patrick 2, were drowned in the Seine river, near Paris, when their automobile crashed into the river.

Later in the same year that the children were killed, she was seriously injured in an automobile accident, and in May of 1924 was knocked unconscious when her car was in collision with another in Leningrad. On other occasions she narrowly escaped death from drowning, and one of the accidents occurred at Nice, where she was killed.

Isadora Duncan was a native of California and the daughter of Charles Duncan, but since the early part of the 20th century when she achieved international fame as a portrayer of Greek and other artistic dances, she had spent the greater part of her time in Europe, particularly in Berlin, Paris and at Nice.

Only a few days ago a dispatch from Nice declared that Miss Duncan was engaged to Robert Chanler of New York. However, yesterday, Miss Duncan said that the report followed a joke passed between her and Chanler at a dinner party.

FRANCE TO INVITE TREATY IN SPIRIT OF RECIPROCITY

French Government in Its Reply Today Will Embody Reciprocity in the Tariff Questions—The Reply is Understood to Carry Implications That if the U. S. Government is Unwilling to Negotiate on the Basis of Reciprocity, France Will Not Be Able to Give American Goods Any Exceptional Treatment.

PARIS, Sept. 14—(AP)—Whether the American government desires to enter upon commercial treaty negotiations in a spirit of reciprocity, offering to give when it seeks to receive, is understood to be the question that the French government will put in its reply on the tariff questions tomorrow.

If Washington wishes to take up conversations on the matter on that basis the French government would be pleased to begin them at once, giving American imports in the meantime all of the advantages of minimum rates as though a treaty had been already agreed upon.

This reply is understood to carry with it the implications that if the United States government does not find itself in a position to negotiate on the basis of reciprocity, France will not be able in fairness to the countries with which there are already commercial treaties to give the American goods any exceptional treatment.

The note has been largely drawn by M. Serruys, director of commercial accords in the ministry of commerce, who perhaps above all others in the ministry is the greatest authority on the subject of tariff regulations.

The delay of twenty-four hours in the delivery of the note was due to further consultation between the ministry of commerce and the French foreign office, as to phrasing and various shades of meaning of the language employed in the note.

The American chargher of commerce in France, protesting that the new rates are discriminatory, today appointed a committee to bring specific cases of discrimination to the attention of the ministry of commerce.

ARGENTINA RESENTFUL TO AMERICAN TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—(AP)—Perplexities besetting American tariff affairs were added to today when, because of resentment in Argentina, the tariff commission abandoned plans to send a committee to that country to investigate the cost of producing flaxseed and corn in the South American republic.

This decision was reached while the American government awaited the reply of France on the proposal to negotiate a new commercial treaty between the two countries which would remove tariff inequalities recently raised against American goods by the new French duties.

While the Argentine and French situations are not along the same lines, inasmuch as one affects American laws while the other deals with French regulations, their sudden emergence into the limelight has served to stimulate tariff discussion here on the eve of a session of congress.

Information reaching members of congress is that the American tariff law provision providing for obtaining production costs abroad has been the source of considerable irritation, so much so that an effort probably will be made at the next session for its repeal.

Members of the tariff commission are understood to feel that they can obtain the same results by a provision directing that body to ascertain the costs of laying down foreign goods at American ports. This information is so complete, it is claimed, that it is not difficult to arrive at the approximate cost of production abroad.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, declared today that the law is impracticable and would have to be modified.

The decision to abandon the inspection in Argentina followed a morning conference between President Coolidge and Acting Chairman Dennis of the tariff commission. Yesterday Dennis conferred with Ambassador Pueyrredon, of Argentina, who described Argentine sentiment against the step as "intense."

"The Argentine government does not refuse admission to our experts," said Dennis, in announcing the change in plans, "but has made it plain to the commission that their presence in Argentina would be unwelcome."

The French tariff problem played a part in a conference today at the house of Ambassador Claudel. As the state department had received only overnight the text of the new French tariff schedules and the embassy had not received either that document or details of the Franco-German treaty, the conversation was of a general character and marked no development in the situation.

STORM ISOLATES THE WEST COAST OF MEXICO

NOGALES, Ariz., Sept. 14—(AP)—Thousands of miles of the storm-swept west coast remained virtually isolated tonight while fragmentary details of the great hurricane of last week adde to the picture of destruction on land and sea.

Over demoralized communication lines came reports that two steamships were lost and many thousands of persons homeless at seaport towns while refugees covered in superstitious horror at high points inland. Uncertainty prevailed as to the probable loss of life, while reports yesterday placed at hundreds.

Reports to the Nogales Herald said many of the refugees feared the visitation of the combined hurricane and tidal wave was the wrath of a patron saint.

The tanker Utacarbon, her superstructure damaged amidships and life boats stove in and part of her cargo lost overboard, wirelessed before her antennae came down in an 80-mile gale, that Chief Officer A. Moreland and others of the crew had been injured and were taken to Manzanillo for treatment.

The steamships Navajos, and Jalisco of the National Navigation line, as well as a fleet of fishing boats, are missing from their home port of Mazatlan, Sinaloa.

IRISH FREE STATE ENDS POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

DUBLIN, Ireland, Sept. 14—(AP)—In a blaze of torchlight processions the political campaign, which holds the record for number of meetings and speeches, ended tonight, and polling in the general elections will take place tomorrow, with each party declaring satisfaction over the prospects of success.

It is conceded that the Cosgrave government cannot win sufficient seats to give it a majority of the whole house, but expect to gain enough accessions to carry on with the assistance of the farmers and independents.

The De Valera, Fianna Fail, party, which captured 44 seats in June expects to gain 10 seats, aided by the Sin Fein, making a total of 54. Labor, through lack of money, was prevented from nominating more than 28 candidates as compared with 45 last June. The laborites expect to retain their 22 seats, and the Redmonites are confident of retaining their 6 seats.

POISON FOUND IN VISCERA OF MARY JANE BAILEY

ENID, Okla., Sept. 14—(AP)—Finding of poison in the viscera of Mary Jane Bailey, 18 year old daughter of the Rev. Charles Bailey, Episcopal pastor, who died under mysterious circumstances a week ago, was reported tonight by Dr. W. H. Bailey, Oklahoma City pathologist.

Mary Atkinson, a nurse who attended Mary Jane and four other members of the family when they were stricken ill several weeks ago, is in jail here. She was alleged to have professed her love for the pastor. The minister's wife died about three weeks ago, but other members of the family survived the illness.

SEA CAPTAIN CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING ALIENS

BOSTON, Sept. 14—(AP)—Jose J. Perrira, master of the schooner Matthew S. Greer, now tie dup at New Bedford, was arraigned in the federal court here today charged with conspiracy to smuggle and with smuggling aliens into the country. He was jailed in default of $2,000 bail.

GERMANS ARE PRESSING TOWARD DISARMAMENT

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission should hurry up its work and get something concrete accomplished toward disarmament, Count Von Bernstorff, Germany's wartime ambassador to the United States, declared to the assembly committee today.

Von Bernstorff asserted that the people of the world were beginning to say that overstress on "security" was merely an excuse for not disarming.

The feature of the assembly disarmament committee's sitting today was the introduction by Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, the Polar explorer, of "the draft of an optional convention for obligatory arbitration of disputes."

It is designed to allow the powers, whether members of the league or not, to agree to submit their differences to arbitration in the hope that by the adhesion of more powers to the convention recourse to war may be gradually "outlawed" along the line taken up in the Briand-Kellogg negotiations and propounded by United States Senator Borah and Professor James T. Shitwell.

Dr. Nansen's recommendation would include the setlement of disputes, of whatever nature arising between the signatories, which have not been settled within a reasonable time by the normal method of diplomacy. The second article stipulates that all legal disputes would be referred without special agreement to the world court of justice. If any doubt existed as to whether the disputes were juridical in nature, and hence came under the compulsory arbitration clause.

TWO FASCIST OFFICIALS SHOT BY COMMUNISTS

RAVENNA, Italy, Sept. 14.—(AP)—With Strict discipline in force throughout the city to prevent serious disorder or attempts at reprisals, two fascist officials are in the hospital tonight, victims of a communist. The communist, Leopoldo Misiroli, was shot to death by one of the men he intended to assassinate.

Ettore Mury, commander of the eighty-first legion, was the more seriously wounded in the fray. A bullet was extracted from his abdomen. Renzo Morgi, secretary of the Ravenna Fascisti, was shot in the leg.

Immediately upon learning of the shooting, Premier Mussolini telegraphed the victims. To Murry he said: "This bloodshed renders you scared to the cause," and to Morigi: "Though your sacrifice fascism in Italy will become even stronger."

SEEKING OWNER OF $2,000,000 LIQUOR CARGO

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14—(AP)—Seeking to determine the ownership of the $2,000,000 liquor cargo of the steamer Bulko. Seized here Saturday night by customs men, federal agents today questioned Samuel Sugarman, employe of a local law office, and companion of the bondsman who bailed out the six members of the vessel's crew and to stevedores.

Sugarman's presence at the hearing led authorities to believe that his employer, Bernard L. Lemisch, would represent the men but this was denied by the lawyer.

Federal officials here declared that they were without clews to the identity of the Bulko's owners, although arrests were predicted today by treasury department officials at Washington.

VOTING MACHINES WILL USED AT NEXT ELECTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 14—Voting machines will become quite the vogue here for the town elections Monday, October 3 and the city elections later in the year. The machines have been rented on a 50-50 basis by the town and city as an experiment. Should their trial prove successful it is likely that a purchase of half a dozen of the machines will be made. It is pointed out that the machine has many good points, being accurate and eliminating the work of counters who have labored until about midnight on election nights to compile the results. The machines give these results a few minutes after the polls close. Next Monday the rented machines will be installed at the various voting booths where demonstrations as to their use will be given afternoons and evenings. In checking up on the various booths it was found necessary to repair the Third District booth which has suffered badly from the depredations of boys.

The call for a special town meeting to be held next Monday night was issued today by First Selectman Ernest P. Chesebro to determine if the voters will rescind the action taken at the special meeting of September 7, when it was voted to hold biennial town elections, effective in 1928. Selectman Chesebro issued the call upon receiving a petition requesting that the electors be given another opportunity to vote on the bi-ennial election project. It is claimed that the last meeting had not been given sufficient publicity and that the vote of 22 to 15 in favor of the resolution was not fully representative of the people. The subscribers to the petition are: Valentine L. Murphy, James J. Lee, John R. Pickett, T. Frank Cunningham, Thomas Murray, Daniel J. Cremin, Patrick J. Twomey, Albert J. Piche, Bert F. More, David P. Ahern, Conrad E. Dubeau, Louis J. Flynn, William B. Sweeney, J. Francis Keon, F. D. Donahue, John F. Carr, Eugene E. Curran, John J. Sullivan, M. J. Donaghy, Daniel P. McCarthy, P. J. Laramee, A. J. Martineau, Adelard Bacon, Arthur J. Dubreuil, Florimond N. Normandin.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church held its annual meeting in the church parlors in the afternoon, business following a dinner served at one o'clock. The reports of work done were read and plans outlined for the year. The resignation of Mrs. Ada I. Burlingham from the office of president, which she has held faithfully for many years, was accepted and her successor will be elected later. Other than the president the election of officers resulted as fiolows: First vice president, Mrs. Idelia Morse; second vice president, Mrs. Cora Nye; third vice president, Mrs. Walker; recording secretary, Mrs. Sadie Morrill; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Lucinda Hayden; assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. Nellie Parkhurst; mite box secretary, Miss Addie Webber; secretary of literature, Mrs. Ada I. Burlingham; secretary of children's work, Mrs. Florence Lewis. The program committee comprises, Mrs. Harold H. Critchlow, Mrs. Cora Nye and Mrs. Nellie Parkhurst.

Officers of San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus were elected as follows at the annual meeting held Tuesday evening: Patrick A. Connor, re-elected grand knight; deputy grand knight, John Sugrue; chancellor, Walter Hughes; recorder, Edward Ashton; treasurer, T. Frank Cunningham; advocate, James F. Twomey warden, William H. Martin; inside guard, Pasquale Lamorte; outside guard, William V. Palmer, Jr.; trustees, for three years, Andrew J. Carey, for two years, William J. Grady, for one year, J. Francis Moriarty.

Everett Perkins, 36, was arraigned on a charge of non-support of his wife and child at the session of police court this morning. He pleaded guilty and Judge Foss ordered him to furnish a bond of $200 to insure the payment of five dollars a week or go to jail for six months. A. Sussman, Perkins' employer, furnished the bond.

A social meeting, one of a few held each year in connection with business sessions, was held by the officials and directors of the Willimantic Trust company at the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday night. President E. Frank Bugbee presided. There were 16 present including George S. Stevenson of Hartford, the speaker of the evening.

It was learned today that Rev. F. F. O'Shea, LLD., P. R. V. F., who is pastor of the new half million dollar St. Mary's church dedicated last Labor day in Newcastle, Pa., is a brother of Mrs. Katherine F. Shea of 47 Jackson street, this city. Among those attending the dedication were C. V. Shea of this city and Rev. M. W. Barry of Hartford.

A break, committed late at night or early this morning and which resulted in theft of about five cents worth of candy from the North Windham station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad was reported to the police today. Station Agent Walter I. Nichols discovered that entrance had been forced into the building by breaking a pane of glass and part of the sash allowing the window catch to be unlatched. Although merchandise in the station appeared to have been handled the candy, valued at a nickel, was all that was missing. The local and railroad police are investigating.

Louis H. Arnold, chairman of the tournament committee at the Willimantic Country club stated today that the players eliminated in the first play-offs for the individual golf championships at the club, were to be held in readiness for the beaten eight tourneys to be staged.

On the Willimantic Country club links on a recent afternoon a large group of spectators were treated to a "grudge" contest between two promising amateurs, Representative A. Linn Weatherhead and Frank P. Lombardo. The game was a hot one in every sense of the word and also of the words used by the contestants on the occasion of a swing that proved nothing more than an air-beater. Big Tim won out, 3 up and two to play. The loser asked for a return match and is ready to place stakes on his ability to overturn the score.

Seven cases of whooping cough reported from the town of Hebron for the week ending September 10, according to the morbidity report issued today by the state health department.

MISS M. E. DECKER BRIDE OF CARL E. EBBETTS

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Decker, 5 Rathbun Place, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, their daughter Miss Mary E. Decker and Carl C. Ebbetts of Brooklyn, N. Y., were united in marriage by Rev. Lyman G. Horton, D. D. The bride was attired in white crepe satin. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Martha Decker, sister of the bride was the bridesmaid. She wore peach blow canton crepe and carried butterfly roses. Relatives and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, after which a reception was held. The numerous gifts included money, cut glass, silver and other articles. The bride has been employed at the local telephone exchange and a shower was given her by the operators when she resigned. She was popular and will be missed. The bridegroom is a bookkeeper. After a wedding trip they will occupy an apartment in Brooklyn.

At the corner of Willow street and East Main street Tuesday a Ford touring car owned and operated by William Herno of North Stonington and a Chevrolet sedan driven by Amelia Silver of 18 Hancock street, Stonington collided.

No one was injured but the Chevrolet car was damaged, the Ford escaping with scratches. Policeman F. W. Burroughs ordered Heino to appear in Stonington town court Wednesday morning to answer to the charges of reckless driving and failing to grant the right of way.

The Friendly League of the Union Baptist church met Monday night after having omitted meetings during the summer. About thirty were present. Mrs. Artis Stoddard, president presided. After business was considered Mrs. L. J. Shepler told of her two weeks at Northfield, in a most interesting way. DANIELSON

REPORTS SHOW TOWN HAS KEPT WITHIN BUDGET

(Special to The Bulletin).

DANIELSON, Sept. 14—Forthcoming town reports that are now in the hands of the printers hold special interest for the voters of Killingly this fall. They indicate that the town has gone through an expensive school building program and maintained its regular obligations of expense without increasing the indebtedness of the town as much as a great many people believed would be the case.

It was stated at the office of the selectmen this afternoon that all departments have kept within budget appropriations, as voted in March, 1927. The debit balance for the year has been increased by $90,388.02, which added to the increase in the debit balance last year makes the total increase for two years of high schoo. extension $142,690.60. To show for this the town has additions to its high school that cost, with equipment, $158,000.

The $142,690.62 represents what may be termed the "pet back" while the town has been engaged in building the enlarged high school. The replacement cost of this building today being not less than $350,000.

The statement of the financial condition which gives a survey of what the town has to show for its expenditure makes inventory of only the more plainly evident equipment, leaving out highways and lesser bridges which have shared in the general indebtedness. It is pointed out that the interested citizen may give to the items not listed such value as he may choose, keeping in mind that all physical properties of a town must be taken at their operating value; that a town cannot liquidate and go out of business, selling at a forced sale loss.

The forthcoming report will show a reduction of $4,500 in current liabilities, notwithstanding taxes in excess of over $9,000 usually on hand at this time of year remain uncollected and out of the present tabulation because of pending litigation! This temporary shortage of money has a bearing on the estimates that have been made on the budget for the current fiscal year.

During the past year $12,000 has been paid on the bonded indebtedness of the town, including the first payment of $5,000 on the issue of $150,000 of high school bonds made last year, as well as the interest on the entire issue.

The selectmen's budget for the current year is at present estimated at $58,000 net, and likely will remain at that figure if no unseen and extraordinary expenses have to be met. The school committee's budget for the same period, including provision for the annual retirement of $5,000 in school bonds, interest, etc., will be $96,378.50, or a total for the town of $154,987.50. These figures would indicate a reduction in the tax rate by several mills from the rate of 25 mills paid last spring. There will be no county tax to pay this year, a circumstance that figures in the prospect of a lower tax rate.

This year's reports will show in detail the expenditures in various departments of the town, are very complete and comprehensive and well worth the study of Killingly's citizens.

TOWN COURT HAS NEAT PROFIT FOR THE YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 14—The town court made money the past fiscal year—something like $500 over and above expenses, the town reports, now complete, will show. The profit arises largely from the prosecution of violators of the liquor laws of the state and the fixing upon them of such comparatively heavy penalties as are commonly applied in such cases.

A series of simultaneous raids made in various sections of the town early this summer developed liquor cases that accounts for a large part of the court revenue of the fiscal year that closed July 31, last. Heavy fines were applied in practically all of these cases. However, the court obtained revenue from other than liquor cases, a considerable sum coming in from persons found guilty of violating motor vehicle laws or laws pertaining to their conduct while operating cars. Minor cases also produced a share of the court income. The cost of maintaining the court is $1,200 annually.

This morning carpenters entered upon the workof demolishing the Dowe building in the heart of the business section. Very considerable progress was made during the day. At the end of this week the building will have been vaacte dentirely and by the end of next week, if plans work out, the work of wrecking the structure will be about complete.

Enlargement of the cellar under the present building must precede other work to be done in getting ready for the construction of the new building, which will set farther out toward the street curb than does the present building and on a line with the Berris building, next to the south.

It has developed that insurance companies balk at paying claims on signs that extend out over the sidewalk into the street. Such a method of hanging signs is in violation of a state law, and should signs so hung be damaged, it has been contended, an insurance company is not liable to pay a loss on them, though this is a matter in dispute. There are a few such signs in Danielson, all of them liable to be damaged by motor trucks carrying high built loads.

After an illness with tonsilitis extending only from last Friday, Mrs. Del. E. Gillette, 62, wife of Samuel Gillette, died this afternoon at their home in Dayville, where she had been a resident the greater part of her life. Mrs. Gillette was born in Colchester, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Standish. She leaves her husband and the following sisters and brothers, Mrs. George Beebe of Norwich Town, Mrs. Sarah Holbrook of Waterford, Mrs. Abby Wilcox of Mystic, Miss Lucy Standish of Middletown and Arthur and Myles Standish of Colchester.

It's a dirty proposition for anyone to tackle, but it should be done now and done right—chimney cleaning that will pass inspection. Call Julius A. Rainville. Tel. 114-14.—Adv.

Lillian P. Peckham Scott of Eatontown, N. J., visited with friends here today. Formerly she was a resident of Danielson.

Gerard Gorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gorman of Cottage street, was entered today as a student at Assumption college, Worcester.

Nathan Blumenthal was in Hartford today on a business trip.

Wild grapes are said to be quite plentiful in certain out of the way places in the country side hereabouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Boucher and their son, Junior, of Willimantic have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gorman.

Manager William Sangster, Miss Pauline Boulaine and Miss Mary Walsh were at the Griswold Tuesday attending a conference of New England electrical corpartions.

Taking of the school enumeration, something that is done each fall in Killingly, is now underway in Danielson.

A press dispatch telling of a D. A. R. chapter arranging for the preservation at Bingham, Me., of a church having a bell cast by John Revere, son of Paul Revere, recalls that there is a Revere bell in the spire of the Unitarian church at Brooklyn.

There were no developments today relative to the burglaries here in the earlier part of the week, but a report that the Herdman garage on Mechanic street had been entered, though nothing taken.

Arthur Williams, who was an outstanding figure on the Connecticut Aggies' football squad last fall, has started out in a spectacular way again this season. His home is in Danielson.

Telephone employes here had a pleasant day today contemplating how nice it is that numbers of them own A. T. and T. stock and that it hopped to 178 1-8 in yesterday's market, rising from 171.

Egg prices have climbed along more or less steadily recently and were being quoted at poultry farms in this neighborhood today at 60 cents per dozen.

There is the possibility, police said today, that the persons who made the breaks in various parts of the borough during the early hours of Tuesday morning also were responsible for climbing the stairway in the Maple street tower of the Powdrell and Alexander mill, while the night force was at work in other parts of the mill, if the door on the fourth floor, which was forced and entry made to the curtain department.

Practically all of the cows that were frightened away by aeroplanes at Wood's Hill farm Saturday had returned to their pastures there today, it was stated here this morning.

Dowe's entire stock, at the old store for the remainder of this week, is being closed out at reductions from one-third to one-half off.—Adv.

PUTNAM

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE THEIR TICKET FOR TOWN OFFICES

(Special to The Bulletin).

PUTNAM, Sept. 14.—The following candidates were put in nomination last night at the democratic town caucus:

Selectman, Edward F. Girard, the present incumbent; assessor, Regis Bouthilette; member board of relief, Eugene Berthiaume; member school committee, Dorothy Jones Bartlett. Henry N. Benoit, republican candidate for town clerk and town treasurer was endorsed. No nomination was made for tax collector. John J. McGarry was chairman of the caucus.

S. Ali of Boston, who was given a permit recently by the city council of Putnam to erect a theatre on Church street near Providence street, expects to get the building completed in time for its opening on the first day of the year. The manager is to be Joseph Belair of this city and proposals of contracts for the erection of the building are to be submitted to him.

The structure is to be of frame with a frontage of 45 feet and a depth of 128 feet. The seating capacity will be between 680 and 700, all on one floor, no galleries or boxes. There will be one store room, opening on Church street.

Mr. Belair states that the theatre will be modern in every respect and that a high class of pictures and vaudeville will be shown. The stage will be of a size suitable to the house, ample lighting, the seats roomy and comfortable. There will be four exits to comply with the state safety laws.

Mr. Ali has had experience in theatrical matters and his two brothers who live in Michigan and who are associated with him in this project, control a number of movie houses.

Dowe's, Danielson, at the old location for the remainder of this week only, selling out entire stock, and especially toys, books, stationery at 1-3 to 1-2 off regular prices.—adv.

Miss Alma Berntson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Berntson of Corona, Long Island, and Bert J. Johnson of Woodstock, county commissioner and representative from the town of Woodstock to the general assembly, were married Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's uncle, Robert Bernston in West Woodstock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. G. Gidart, a member of the faculty of the University of New York, who is a life long friend of the Berntson family and spends his summers in Woodstock.

The ceremony was performed on the lawn under a bell hanging from an arch decorated with autumn leaves and flowers, while Mrs. Paul Erickson played Mendelsshohn's Wedding March. The bride wore silver grey satin and carried pink roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Bertson, a sister of the bride wore orchid georgette and carried pink roses. The best man was the groom's brother, Henry T. Johnson.

After an extended wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home in the old Johnson homestead in Woodstock.

The annual pilgrimage of the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R. will be held on Wednesday, September 21, 1927, when the members of the chapter will visit historic Lebanon. Each member will carry her own basket lunch. There will be a small fee of twenty-five cents per person, to cover admission to the War Office and hot coffee will be served by the Governor Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R. of Lebanon.

The committee would appreciate it if those who have extra seats in their cars, as well as those who have no way of transportation, would telephone Mrs. Mary B. Bishop, Phone 690. The party will leave the Putnam high school at 10 a. m. daylight saving time. It is hoped that all members will reserve this date and plan to visit Lebanon.

Leon T. Wilson, Deputy collector of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service is having his annual vacation.

Rev. James F. English is spending the week with relatives in Hartford.

Walter N. King of the Guerin Mills at Woonsocket is spending a week's vacation at his home on Grove street.

Kermit Howe of Abington, one of the recent graduates of the Putnam State Trade school is now at Hartford where he is employed by the Underwood Typewriter company.

Merton Ames and the Misses Dorothy and Thara Ames leave this week for Aurora college at Aurora, Ill.

Miss Anne Hogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hogan of Tatem street, has gone to New York where she will continue her studies at the New York university.

Miss Dorothy Keefe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Keefe of Ring street and Miss Jane Haines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haines of Pomfret leave today for New London where they will enter the Connecticut College for Women as freshmen. Both young ladies were graduated from the Putnam high school last June.

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Larocque have returned from their wedding trip and are now at home to their friends.

Miss Esther Nelson has returned to her school duties at Plainville.

Although the state trade school operates throughout the summer months there is always a considerably increased enrollment at the opening of the fall school term. With the added floor space made possible by recent additions and the additional equipment installed throughout the summer months this year the school is in a position to offer still greater advantages to the youth of this part of eastern Connecticut.

Practical training in six trades is available—machinist, carpentry, electrical, cotton textile manufacturing, drafting, and masonry.

Methods of instruction are based upon the current trade standards of proficiency and all academic subjects such as drafting, mathematics, and technical knowledge are taught as they are actually applied in the trade. Approximately one-third of the student's tims is devoted to these subjects. The length of the course is 4800 hours of trade and related work. All instruction is free and most neighboring towns have made arrangements for the transporting of students, a portion of which cost is paid by the state, the towns therefore manifest their interest and thus encourage young men to take up definite vocational training of some type.

The demand for instruction at the school is constantly increasing and from present indications the enrollment this year will exceed all previous records. The various departments are in charge of competent men of adequate experience and education. Each instructor is required to take a teacher training course thereby fitting himself as a teacher as well as having had a thorough understanding of his trade.

The school faculty this year is as follows:

Ernest Stary and John F. Craig—Carpentry department.

Henry E. Burgess—Machine department.

Carl A. Linderson—Textile department.

James R. McCormick and Lloyd C. Cutler—Electrical department.

Thornton E. Barr—Drafting department.

Thomas C. Clarie—Masonry department.

Miss Hannah E. Pease and Miss Ethel E. Spooner—Home economics department.

Evening school sessions are held at the school throughout the fall and winter months. Enrollment night this year will be Monday evening, October 3, 7.30 to 9.30 p. m. Those desiring instruction should appear at the school at that time.

These evening school courses are intended as supplementary training for those employed. Applicants for evening courses should be 14 years of age or over.

The Order of the Eastern Star has presented a $75,000 home for the aged in Richmond, Va., to the Wright Masonic Memorial foundation.

JEWETT CITY

HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER INJURES VOLUNTOWN GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 14—Mrs. Andrew Culver and her daughter Lucy, who is fifteen, were driving in an automobile toward Jewett City from Voluntown this morning. Near the former Dearnley and Clarke store in Voluntown, a coupe traveling in the opposite direction suddenly turned to its left, and struck the Culver machine. Miss Lucy was thrown through the windshield and so badly cut that she was taken to Dr. H. T. Thurber's office. There was a deep gash on her nose, her left hand was cut, there were two cuts on her back and one on her forehead. Several stitches had to be taken. The driver of the machine made his getaway, as seems to be the custom, without waiting to find out the damage he had done.

Capt. Charles B. Palmer and William Lord escaped serious injury Monday morning while otter trawling in the waters of Block Island sound, in the power fishing boat Bertha E.

Getting an unusually large catch, they were attempting to get the purse of the net aboard, with its load of several tons of fish, when the top-rigging let go under the strain, letting everything crash to the deck, mast, boom and all. After laboring about four hours they were able to get lines around the net, and with the aid of a power winch got the load of fish aboard. The boat is now at the Mystic Marine railway being repaired. The catch was the largest single catch brought in for some time, consisting of several barrels of flatfish, whiting and fluke.

The funeral services for Miss Elmire E. Mecteau were held at St. Mary's church Wednesday morning. Solemn requie mmass was celebrated by Rev. Nicholas Caron, with Rev. John D. Carey of Voluntown, deacon, Rev. John J. McCabe, sub-deacon. Members of Council Jean of Arc attended. Mrs. Noel Garand sang Beau Ciel as a waiting hymn, and the offertory election was Meritum Parsionis. The bearers were P. E. Couture, Adelard Mecteau, Amedie Nadeau, Roger Vachop, Leon Mecteau and Felix Nadeau.

Burial was in St. Mary' cemetery in Lisbon where Fr. Caron read at the committal prayers. Hourigan Bros. were the funeral directors in charge.

The quantity of candy sold up this way seems indicative of a sweet tooth population. Not to have the sweetness all at one end, some unfortunate party here provided for a sweet-foot. A quart of molasses had been purchased, and was being taken home in a jar carried in a paper bag. Something happened, with the result that on the granolithic walk from a great central puddle of molasses, sticky sweet tricklers had radiated in several directions. Passers by, after dusk got theirs.

Beginning Sat. Sept. 17, 1927, Jewett City Trust Co., will be open evenings 6:30 to 8:30, instead of 7 to 9 as formerly.—Adv.

The case of Jerome Gareaux, of Providence, whose automobile caused the death of Fred S. Campbell in North Main street, on the night of September 3d, has been again continued, to September 19th.

A local man in Boston one day met an old acquaintance, "Happy" Ed. Clark, a native of Jewett City, whose brothers William and Patrick, live here now. Ed Clark is one of the many who have made good in one of the great government ship building plants. He has been at the Portsmouth, N. H., yard something over 20 years, and has attained during that period to several appointments of importance. During the war Mr. Clark was in the Canal Zone for over a year attending to imperative ship construction majters. During his term of service he has been an expert compressed air riveter, an occupation requiring much skill and of great hazard, yet, one that "pulls down the chest." In about two years Mr. Clark is due to retire on term of service rating, of which, after 25 years of steel shipbuilding, he propose to take merited advantage.

With the hunting season opening soon, recent visitors to several local bird covers, with crates of pheasants, were surprised to meet with plenty of gray squirrels, running along the roadside fences on peering down from leafy hiding places.

The hundreds of weekly patrons of the Finn theatre, are interested to learn that Manager Thomas Barnett has been able to secure for early dates two attractive local Pathe reels. They will include the picture of the aquatic events at the recent water carnival at the Ashland park, also the Indian pageant, pictures taken at the Labor day celebration at Norwich fair grounds.

The A. C. G. club met at the home of Miss Gladys Jeffers Tuesday evening. One of the members Mrs. Flora Littlefield Collins is a bride, and she was presented by Miss Jeffers, the club president, a beautiful set of sherbet glasses and goblets. Refreshments were served in the dining room which was decorated in pink and white. At Mrs. Collins' place she found a shower of gifts from the members. Games and music filled out the remainder of the evening.

At the meeting of Dorcas Circle of The King's Daughters Tuesday evening held at Mrs. G. H. Thornton's, Mrs. Beatrice Read James, the Circle's bride andtreasurer, was presented a quilt.

The World Wide Guild girls met in the Baptist vestry Tuesday evening. The program was a Missionary play entitled Meditation of Martha Aurelia. She conducted a tearoom in New York and the part was taken by Ellen Prior. Her customers were: Mrs. Justen, an English woman, Beatrice Cathcart; Miss Ima Britain, Verna Tarbox; Mrs. Western Bourne, Florence Quimby; Miss Ida Howe, Isabel Button; Mrs. O'Clare Homer, Mrs. Samuel Cathcart, Jr.; Helen, Doris Bilven; Dorothy, Winifred Scates; Jane, Priscilla Scates. Florence Quimby, acting president, presided at the business meeting. Refreshments were served. Mrs. R. A. Wilbur and Mrs. J. P. Post had charge of the program.

BUS TRANSPORTATION

Marked are the changes that have taken place in transportation methods during the past quarter of a century. Possibly the changes in the last five or six years have attracted less attention and yet they are nevertheless impressive when we stop to consider the figures prepared by the American Electric Railway association.

It was well recognized that the trolley roads had been extended in all directions, that the time had come when the trolleys were obliged to give way to the busses, even to the extent of abandonment of operations, but it has probably been less understood how extensively the electric lines have resorted to the use of the busses in carrying on their business of serving the public.

It was a natural thing for them to abandon a more expensive method of transportation for a less expensive one and particularly so when it was more satisfactory to the public. How generally this action has been taken is indicated by the report which shows that 372 street railway companies are now owners and operators of 7777 motor busses where six years ago there were but 16 companies which had busses numbering only 73. Six years ago these 73 busses were covering routes aggregating 35 miles, while the present route mileage totals 16,334. This of course doesn't include the bus lines not owned by trolley companies.

There are only 48 of the companies which have given up the running of trolley cars entirely and are doing business exclusively with busses. They are small companies and cover only a small mileage while most of the companies find it advantageous to run both trolleys and busses, the former for the cities and the latter for suburban runs as well as for such new lines as may be established to give additional service to the public.

It seems improbable that the day is near when the trolleys will be abandoned for service in cities, but it can be expected that the service rendered by busses will continue to increase and it is a logical move for the electric companies to employ them.

CONSTITUTION DAY

There was once a song entitled Every Day'll Be Sunday Bye and Bye. From the way in which they are increasing it is reasonable to expect that every day and every week will be observed for a special purpose in the not distant future. It is difficult even now to point to a week which hasn't been set aside for the promotion of a certain cause, or a day that isn't used for the concentration of thought upon a particular movement. If there are a few left there will probably be no time lost in laying claim to them as new propositions are advanced.

Through the efforts of the National Security league Saturday of this week will be observed throughout the country as Constitution day. The idea is to encourage the understanding of the Constitution and the teaching of it in the public schools of the country, and by bringing it to attention on a special day, when many cities will have exercises fitting the occasion. It is hoped to get enough thought focussed upon the idea to arouse the desired interest, enthusiasm and action.

Much is said about the Constitution of the United States. Frequent are the references to the advantages which it affords and yet it will be recognized that there is a big opportunity for a much better understanding of it on the part of more citizens and residents of this country. If Constitution day will serve to set in motion the action that is necessary to bring that about it will be an easy way to accomplish it. Certainly it is an effort in a direction which cannot fail to be regarded as praiseworthy, though there is no doubt that it deserves observance on the part of a great many more than will give it.

PANAMA OR NICARAGUA

Until it is possible to get down to a careful consideration of the facts concerning the need for a Nicaraguan canal, with a setting forth of those in opposition as well as those in favor, it can be expected that advocates on each side will continue to voice their sentiments. Like all big problems there are two sides to it and while such construction may not be actually called for at the present time it must be fully realized that such big projects cannot be decided in a minute.

Before the American Society of Civil Engineers, John F. Stevens, former chief engineer of the Panama canal, championed the view that there is no need of bringing up the Nicaraguan plan until the time comes when the Panama canal cannot handle the business that is offered it. This he declares is not being done now and it is possible to make such changes at the canal that it will not be probable for a good many years to come.

By his statement Panama canal is being operated at about 40 per cent of its capacity, while a third lock and increased water storage would allow a doubling of the present capacity. This he regards as the logical thing to do instead of making the huge outlay that would be called for in building the Nicaraguan canal. Advocates of the new canal lay stress upon the shorter route by Nicaragua and believe that the new outlay that will be required at Panama should be applied to new construction rather than to the remodeling of the present canal.

Every point that is raised in behalf of one outlay must be carefully weighed against those of the other. It is a matter where experts must be relied upon even as they were at the time when the Panama route was selected in preference to the Nicaraguan plan. Consideration must be given to the respective advantages of each project and proper regard shown for the fact that if there is to be another canal eventually whether it would be advisable to put more money into the further development of Panama canal which would go a long way toward the construction of a second waterway.

NORTHERN EXPLORATIONS

Frequently the question is raised as to what is actually accomplished by the many expeditions into the frozen north. While much of the information gained is of a scientific nature and value it is nevertheless important to know the topography, the geography and the resources of such territory.

George Palmer Putnam is at the present time making explorations of Baffin land. It was more than three centuries ago that explorations were first made there and many have gone into that region since that time but how uncertain the knowledge of Baffin land even now is indicated by the wireless report which has come from the expedition showing that observations by the party make it necessary to reduce the estimated size of Baffin island by 5000 square miles.

Heretofore there has been a general idea of the coast line, and yet the Putnam expedition is finding much to correct as it gives careful study and makes more definite measurements. It may make little difference to those who study about the land but to those who attempt to navigate ships in that region it should prove of particular value.

It is not to be expected that this party will be able to make a complete survey of Baffin land, either along the coast or in the interior, but it will make a thorough start in the particular region to which it was attracted and it can be anticipated that it will bring back information that will be much more thorough and correct than anything which has previously been available.

Gradually by similar surveys will it be possible to become informed on just what is to be found in that far off and little visited territory. All adds to the fund of scientific data possessed regarding the scarcely as well as the thickly populated parts of this globe and there is no small measure of credit due to those who make the sacrifices and undergo the hardships connected with such explorations, however fascinating they must be when everything goes well.

McBRIDE'S APPOINTMENT

The death of Wayne B. Wheeler was justly regarded as a serious blow to the Anti-Saloon league and the fight that it was making for prohibition, and because it was far spread interest has been displayed in the selection of his successor. Though another Wheeler might not be available it was necessary to have a successor. It was thought that more than one would be chosen to take up his duties, but so far as announced the league has picked only one and that person is Scott McBride. He will shoulder the legislative duties which were so persistently carried on by Mr. Wheeler.

The selection must be regarded as an excellent one from the standpoint of the league. He is known as a fighter and an organizer. He may not lay claim to being another Wheeler but he fully understands what is required from one in his position and it can be expected that he will make an aggressive fight in behalf of the organization's cause. His choice clearly indicates that the league regards him as an able successor. Those who know him will probably be of the same mind and others will have a chance to judge as they get an opportunity to study his activities. It is quite evident that it doesn't mean any letting up in the dry fight. Possibly there will be no great change in the tactics.

The new appointee cannot fail to realize, in view of the position occupied by prohibition these days and the light that has been thrown upon it, that he assumes no easy task. Having been a close friend of his predecessor he can have no mistaken notion about what is required on his part if he is going to attempt to follow in the footsteps of Mr. Wheeler, or if he is going to get similar results through own methods.

QUARTZ-HEAD

Fifty years ago Samuel Blatenbaum did not dream he would have the discreetly handsome suite in the Onyx building, nor the solid mahogany office furniture, nor the 24 well-bred clerks. There wasn't any Onyx building on LaSalle street then, nor much mahogany office furniture, and the clerks—well plain Joe Renwick was the clerk.

Joe was what they call a self-made man, which, like homemade bread, is rapidly disappearing from the face of the earth. Joe had driven coal wagons for a while, painted barns for another while, peddled wood for a third while. And by that time Samuel Blatenbaum was catching hold with young, eager business fingers. Somehow Joe happened to be on hand when Samuel needed a clerk. Joe was hired, given a desk, a blank ledger, a salary of $10 and told to get busy.

The first week Samuel asked Joe's advice on something. It worked. After that Samuel used to come up to Joe often, frowning, rubbing his ear over a letter.

"Funny, this here, Joe," he'd say. "What do you think—"

And Joe always told what he thought, so Samuel called him old quartz-head.

When he was a kid Joe used to wonder how a mushroom grew so fast. When he was 60 he was still wondering. Anyway, Joe finally won for himself the eye and ear marks of success—a private mahogany office, his name done in gold on the frosted glass door, the respect of the Blatenbaums. And Blatenbaum Sr. would ring for Joe every time he made a deal in cards or bonds.

"Boy'y!" Joe would crisp out to the office lad, "boy-y, that eastern mail, quick now!"

But there came a day when Blatenbaum ceased to be concerned with all earthly deals. Blatenbaum, Jr., was a new type of man, read all the pink-paged financial journals, employed efficiency experts and press agents at Hans Christian Anderson-like salaries. Blatenbaum, Jr., was that sort of young business director that the success magazines are always talking about. He was young, ambitious; he didn't come in and ask Joe about things; he hired an efficiency expert instead.

"Renwick's slipping up on his work," Blatenbaum admitted to the new sleek-brained expert. "Made an error on those totals last week. One of the clerks caught it before it went through. I told the old boy about it. 'Why, now, that's too bad,' he said to me; promised to be more careful—kept calling me Sammy-boy. Hasn't called me that for 25 years."

Then Joe dictated a wrong letter to a right customer. Blatenbaum was serious, impatient.

"Renwick," he frowned, "look what you did to Hodge Bros. They're roaring mad. Wired a demand for an explanation. Canceled their last order."

"Why, Sam, I'm downright sorry," Joe said, a bit absent-mindedly. He rubbed at his forehead. "I—can't seem to understand what h-how—"

And suddenly Blatenbaum knew. Poor old quartz-head was slipping.

"How old are you?" he asked.

"Seventy-five come November," proudly. "I've just about grown right into this business for the last 50 years." Blatenbaum became brusque, but only because tears were not far behind.

"Suppose you take a couple of days off a week, come down at noon instead of 9, just for a rest, Renwick. Remember, it's just for a rest." Joe was pleased.

"That's mighty fine of you, Sam, mighty fine. I guess a little extra rest won't do me much harm."

"Boy-y!" he called to the office youngster with something of his old crispness. "Boy-y, those eastern letters, quick now!"

So Joe came down four times a week instead of six. He'd call sharply for the mail. He'd open it, frown over it, rub his forehead, ponder, start dictating replies and then look suddenly out of the window, thoughtfully draw a watermelon on the envelope, ask the stenographer whether Rome fell in 476 or 674 and if she agreed with Bernard Shaw that cement mixers were ornamental.

Soon when Joe called for the eastern mail the office boy brought him a wire basket of fake telegrams and correspondence. He never knew the difference. Poor old quartz-head!

When Joe was 76 he came down only twice a week, and at 77 once. He called Blatenbaum Sammy-boy more than ever and talked about mushrooms a great deal.

Then Joe didn't call for the eastern mail any more. The Big Silencer had come one night and gently carried off old quartz-head.

"Boy'y!" still echoed in the corridors.—Exchange.

NEW BOOKS

They Also Serve. By Peter B. Kyne. Cloth, 344 pages, with illustrations and drawings. Published by Cosmopolitan Book corporation, New York. Price $2.

Peter B. Kyne is a master craftsman at spinning a yarn you can't lay down. His latest story purports to be told by a horse to his meadow mates and is one of the most thrilling war stories from the "horse's viewpoint." Kyne has managed to get in incidents, excitements and observations foreign to the mere man made tales.

Himself an ex-soldier, possessed of deep insight into human nature, and of true Celtic wit, Kyne has dug keenly and understandingly into a real war psychology and has exposed the luster of character and fine courage instead of finding base metal.

Those who fought, those who waited for them, those who love horses, and those who h ve a swift tale full of the unexpected—these will love Kyne's new book. And even if you're inclined to quibble that Roosevelt might have called it "nature faking" to portray a horse putting his own Alyssey into such skilled words and witty thoughts—you'll still have to admit that a horse's nose is closer to the ground and the muck and mire than the rider's, and that it's a wonderful tale for a' that.

The younger generation of equestrians and equestriennes could almost make this newtale a textbook on how to recognize and care for fine horseflesh, because the why's, asides and commentaries woven into the story contain so much of an old horseman's sound wisdom.

The Queen's Gate Mystery. By Herbert Adams. Cloth, 315 pages. Published by the J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

Jimmy Haswell receives a letter from his friend, Gregory Brudon, asking him to settle a bet regarding the ownership of treasure found in a house just purchased. Then, only a few minutes later, Jimmy reading of a murder in a vacant Queen's Gate residence, recognized the victim as Gregory Bruden. Was it a coincidence, or was there a great treasure hidden in the Queen's Gate house? Had Bruden met his death while looking for it? And how had anyone entered the house? The agent claimed that no one had had the keys for several months, and every window was protected by heavy iron bars. But the man had been dead less than 24 hours, so someone must have been in there and continued to come in even after the lock on the door was changed. If not, how was that trap laid on the cellar stairs? And how did a newly used golf score showing "a hole in one" get on the cellar floor? Jimmy sets out to solve the mystery of his friend's death. But he finds it a big contract; the men who enter the house in such a ghostly way are too sly to be caught "redhanded." Many a time it is Jimmie who is in the greatest danger, not the intruders. It's a story of narrow escapes, adventure and thrills, with a solution that not even the most experienced detective story fan will guess." It is by the same author as The Crooked Lip.

By Night. By Robert Clay, author of A Chequer-Board. Cloth, 352 pages. Published by J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

"From the very foundations of the Abby rose a deep sound—dull, reverberating—like a groan. Gathering her courage, Miss Mollita slipped into the Shadowy, moonlit hall and—on the pillar beyond something moved—blurred, thickened—became a bestial hand. Then the head—loathsome, inhuman, it seemed to glisten, as if faintly luminous. The head moved slowly, deliberately and sightless eyes seemed to search the hall." . . . Old Timothy was dead. Neil himself had seen his coffin lowered into the grave. And his will had left everything to Neil without reservation, save one—that Kito, the Japanese gardener should always remain in charge of the abbey hothouses without interference from anyone.

The day Neil came to live at the abbey strange things began to happen. A boy on a motorcycle was brutally murdered, a tramp was slain, the doctor's horse was nearly driven insane by a phantom that dogged its steps, and as the last straw Neil saw the head watching him through the window. It takes courage for a man to face the superhuman—much more than to face a flesh and blood murderer. But Neil thought of the girl in the dower house and felt that he could do the impossible. The story is skillfully worked out and the mystery story holds its secret until the very last page.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States, who will celebrate his 70th birthday today at his summer home, Murray Bay, Quebec, is the only living ex-president. His public career has been not only distinguished but unique. His political record shows that while he has held a number of the most important and highest positions in the land he never has sought preferment at the polls but once, and that was when he was chosen President of the United States. All his other public positions have come to him by appointment, beginning with his first office, that of assistant prosecuting attorney in Cincinnati. By appointment he has held offices as Collector in Internal Revenue, Solicitor-General of the United States, Federal Judge, Governor of the Philippines, Secretary of War, and Chief Justice of the United States.

ORINOCO DELTA

"The Orinoco Delta, above which Paul Redfern, Brunswick, Georgia, aviator enroute for Rio de Janeiro, is reported to have been sighted, is a vast low-lying region of tropical swamps heavily wooded and intersected by numerous outlets of the Orinoco," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The triangular delta region embraced between two outer branches of the great river is about 700 square miles in extent. It lies on the coast of Venezuela just south of the Island of Trinidad and about ten degrees north of the equator. Tucupita, near which the Georgia airplane is reported to have been sighted, is the chief town. Owing to low altitude and nearness to the equator the climate is hot and the country thinly populated.

"The delta has been built up by the deposit of sediment brought down by the Orinoro, which is ranked among the ten largest river systems of the world, and the third largest stream in South America. It has seven main mouths and about forty smaller ones which discharge muddy, fresh water far into the Atlantic ocean. The northern mouth empties into the gulf of Paria, between Trinidad and Venezuela, the freshness of whose waters was noted by Columbus in his voyage of 1498.

"These outlets are connected by a veinlike network of canals or backwaters, few of which are navigable on account of sand and jungle obstructions. The main channels, however, are navigable to steamers which continue to the very foot of the Andes mountains. Communication is carried on largely by water since tropical jungles and swamp lands obstruct land traffic.

"The Orinoco Delta is one of the landmarks on the northern coast of South America between Port of Spain, on the Island of Trinidad, and the coasts of British and Dutch Guiana, across which lies the air route to the Amazon valley in Brazil.

"The forestation of the delta is so heavy that floating logs and vegetation form embankments at times strong enough to change the channel of the stream. Much of the country is continually flooded, and the whole region presents difficulties of land travel that have hitherto prevented development. Cocoa is the chief article of trade with the outside world.

"Most of the inhabitants of the Orinoco Delta are Indians, friendly, but extremely poor, without resources to develop their rich delta lands. They dwell on plantation clearings where they raise tropical fruits and vegetables of all kinds. This diet is supplemented by a great variety of fish as well as turtles. These Indians are famous for their giant canoes made of single logs.

"The delta of the Orinoco was first explored by Spanish adventurers of the sixteenth century, who have left small trace of their influence. Most of these gallants died of fever and hardships, but such as lived to return to Spain electrified the country with their tales of creeper entwined jungles, alligators, gorgeous plumed flamingoes, and black silent waters. One of the most romantic figures connected with the region was Sir Walter Raleigh who sailed up the Orinoco in search of the mythical land of El Dorado. The physical aspect of the country has changed very little to the present day."

The formula for strangers who overpark in polite Bangor, Me., is a tag which reads: "It appears that you do not understand our parking regulations in leaving your car (to be filled in with the nature of the violation.) We welcome you to use our streets and parking places, and your familiarity with the regulations will help you and every one. Obtain a copy at headquarters. Bangor police department."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Cubby Tries to Hide

Guilt will always seek to hide,
Wholly lacking as to pride.
—Old Mother Nature.

Cubby was a badly frightened little Bear. Perhaps it was a guilty conscience that frightened him. Without being told, he knew that he had been in mischief, and right down inside he had a strong feeling, a very strong feeling, that it would be a whole lot better for him if he could hide somewhere where he couldn't be found.

Up the cellar stairs, into Mother Brown's spotless kitchen, raced Cubby, his feet covered with molasses, and molasses and syrup from the broken preserved jars daubed all over his coat. Of course every time he put his foot down he left a sticky print.

There was no hiding place in the kitchen. He made sure of that by racing around it pellmell, as fast as he could go. There was a door ajar just a crack. He pushed his nose in and opened it wide. It led into a hall. Cubby didn't waste any time; he scrambled through the hall and up a flight of carpeted stairs. At the top of the stairs he paused for a moment and cocked his ears and listened. He heard Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown running up the cellar stairs to the kitchen. He must find a hiding place and find it right away.

Cubby looked this way and looked that way all around. There were several rooms opening off that hall. Cubby ran into the nearest one. He hastily ran all about, but there seemed to be no hiding place there. He ran out into the hall again and into another room. Mother Brown's work-basket was there. Cubby upset it. The spools of thread and the balls of yarn went in all directions. He jumped up on the bed and pulled open the bedclothes, but somehow this didn't suit him. He jumped down and once more ran into the upper hall and from there into a third room. This was the room of Farmer Brown's Boy himself. He could hear his pursuers starting upstairs. Farmer Brown's Boy had removed his sticky shoes in the kitchen. Mother Brown had reached the kitchen and her exclamations as she discovered those sticky footprints everywhere warned Cubby that it would be just as well not be caught. Things had to be very bad indeed to make Mother Brown angry, and certainly there was an angry ring to her voice now.

As in Mother Brown's room, Cubby jumped up on the bed here and tried to burrow under the bedclothes. But somehow this didn't seem to be a real hiding place. Those footsteps were in the next room now, and the exclamation of Farmer Brown and of Farmer Brown's Boy, too, for that matter, didn't add to Cubby's peace of mind at all. He jumped down from the bed, intending to dart out into the hall, but before he could do this heavy footsteps sounded so near that Cubby changed his mind. He knew that

The spools of thread and the balls of yarn went in all directions

Farmer Brown himself was close to that doorway. Cubby's small twinkling eyes looked eagerly this way and that way and every way. Where, oh where, could he hide?

"If I once get my hands on that Bear," said a gruff voice, "he'll wish he never had been born." It was the voice of Farmer Brown, and it sounded as if Farmer Brown had reached the end of his patience. A moment later Farmer Brown was right in that room. But though he looked everywhere about the room and even peered under the bed, there was no Cubby to be seen.

SCHOOL CHILDREN NEED
Father John's Medicine

Good-bye swimmin' hole—
Good-bye good old summer time—
Back to the books—
Good Morning Teacher!

Dreary days of fall and winter are ahead with lots of study and work and worry. How are you going to keep your children from losing the health and strength they gained during vacation?

Give them Father John's Medicine. They need it now to maintain their fighting force; it will help build them up to face sleet and snow and keep them from coughs and colds.

For over seventy years mothers have protected their children with Father John's Medicine. Pure, nourishing, wholesome and safe—no alcohol or harmful drugs.

How Policemen Relieve Aching Feet

Policemen who stand on their feet all day say that when they get home they like to bathe their feet in a Sylpho-Nathol solution—one teaspoonful to a quart. It relieves the soreness and ache. Instantly takes out the sting and stops the burning. Ends callouses, bunions, corns. Refreshing in bath, too. Get Sylpho-Nathol at all dealers.

ADVISES APPROPRIATION FOR ADVERTISING NORWICH

A report recently made by the publicity committee appointed by President Case of the Norwich chamber of commerce and composed of Max Hanover, chairman, P. W. Neil, H. T. Foote, H. H. Vignot and Arthur Peale has requested an appropriation of $3,500 to advertise Norwich. The committee felt that advertising had become an established factor in the scheme of modern economic affairs. It was stated that no business could afford to leave out the advertising appropriation from its annual budget.

Mr. Neil stated that the Thermos bottle plant would spend one-quarter million dollars during the coming year in advertising their products, a great deal of which would carry the words "Norwich, Conn."

The committee suggested that in developing its plans for advertising the city, an effort be made to first of all determine exactly what Norwich had to sell. It may be climate, educational advantages, industrial possibilities, geographical situation, proximity to certain raw materials, cheap power, excellent shipping facilities, ideal labor conditions or a combination of several of these which may bring notice to the community.

As a second step, the committee very emphatically recommends a program which would include selling the people of Norwich definitely upon the virtues of their own city. As one member of the committee stated, you never can sell Norwich to the outside world until its own citizens become boosters, and finally having sold them, the logical thing to do is to sell the rest of the world. There are two ways of doing this: Tell the outsiders about the community or arrange to get them there to see for themselves. This program in a nutshell is the essence of community advertising.

No doubt much advertising has been and is being made in Norwich in carrying on regular programs for the buildings of good will. This is always an important feature in any chamber schedule. A good merchant never seeks customers until his store is ready to receive them. He puts his house in order before he goes after business. He knows definitely what he has to sell and advertises particular wares except in general good will building publicity. A sensible city follows the same practice. An industrial survey is a first requisite for proposed expansion along commercial lines. It will bring out the faults to be corrected and be formulating a program for the chamber of commerce activities and also develop the selling features of Norwich which may be used in making definite and specific presentation to prospective industrial settlers.

The next requirement in building the city is the community advertising program. As a preliminary step, this committee has recommended a program which will include publication of 5,000 or more booklets compiling in attractive form all the important facts about Norwich with photographs of the principal buildings and views. It has also recommended the erection of three or four large signs at the various highway entrances to Norwich and which would bear some timely message that would remain in the minds of the travelling public as indicative of Norwich.

This committee's program has been adopted by the board and an appropriation has been included of $1,000 in the coming year's budget of $11,000 for which campaign plans are now going forward.

CHARGING CHARLES KRIPPS WITH FALSE PRETENSES

Charles Kripps of this city will face the city court this (Thursday) morning on a charge of obtaining goods by false pretenses. The offense with which he is charged is alleged to have been committed August 15th and the police have been looking for him for sometime. Wednesday he was arrested in North Haven, this state, and held for the local police. Wednesday evening Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer Patrick Shahan went to North Haven and brought him to Norwich. He was looked up for the night in default of $500 bonds.

It is claimed that Kripps represented himself as a proper agent to purchase supplies for First Battalion Headquarters and Combat Train, 192nd Artillery, C. N. G. this city and through such representation secured cigars, cigarettes and tobacco to the value of $86 with intent to defraud.

COMBAT TRAIN WILL BEGIN DRILL SEASON

Headquarters Battery and Combat train, 192nd F. A., will resume its regular weekly drills this (Thursday) evening at the state armory on McKinley avenue, starting at 8 o'clock, d. s. t. This will be the first drill of the fiscal year, starting a new training period. Uniforms will be denims.

The indoor shooting season will be started with tryouts for the rifle and pistol teams. A short meeting of the association will be held after the drill. With good weather in the next few months the outdoor range will be used to finish instruction practice with service revolvers and record shooting for qualification.

The enlisted personnel is limited to 45, of which 43 have now joined.

GRANGE MEMBERS PARTICIPATE IN SPEAKING CONTEST PROGRAMME

In the lecturer's hour at the regular meeting of Norwich grange, No. 173, Patrons of Husbandry, in Steiner hall on Wednesday evening, feature was provided in a prize speaking contest in which seven members of the grange participated.

After the first part of the meeting in which the fourth degree was conferred by the grange officers with Worthy Master Ralph Marsh presiding, the lecturer, Mrs. Althea Brown, presenter her programme, which opened with a sketch, Birthday Characters, given by Women of Mooseheart Legion with the following in the cast: Monday, Irene Stockdale; Tuesday, Anna Stockdale; Wednesday, Vera Watters; Thursday, Catherine Brown; Friday, Marie Lavalle; Saturday, Ethel Hoelck; Sunday, Blanche Bijnowski.

The speaking contest made a very interesting event and provided quite a problem for the judges to decide the two prize winners. The following were the selections and speakers: Trees (Van Dyke), Mrs. Ida Richardson; The Glory Road (Wood), Miss Marion Gibbs; An Abominable Bumblebee, Mrs. Ivy Peckham; See It Through, Miss Louise Avery; The Sick King, Mrs. Anna Woods; The Duel, Mrs. Ciara Burke; Columbus (Miller), Miss Buelah Rogers.

While the judges were reaching their decision, a pretty tableau with song, Pal of My Cradle Days, was effectively presented by the following cast: Daughter, Irene Stockdale; soloist, Anna Stockdale; mother, Marie Lavalle; at the piano, Faith Brown; son, Teresa Watters; grandmother, Ethel Hoelck. For an encore, Boy of Mine was presented.

At the conclusion of the programme the judges, Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Hall and Mr. Whitney, announced their decision as first prize in the speaking contest to Miss Gibbs and second prize to Mrs. Woods, their decision being greeted with prolonged applause.

Light refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting which had an attendance of about 90 including visitors from Preston City, Pachaug, North Stonington and Franklin.

THE SEASON'S NEW DAHLIAS AT FANNING PARK GARDENS

Each year there is keen interest among flower growers to see how the new blooms turn out, especially new dahlias. Visitors from Groton have been in Norwich to see the newest beauties among the 3,000 hills brought to such a marvel of cultivation in Fanning park dahlia gardens, Oneco street, by Mrs. Roswell J. P. Brown. It may be that the blossoms' day of grace is short—for often the first frost takes the superb flowers; but Mrs. Brown has overcome the handicap of a rainy and almost sunless season, achieving remarkable success.

Of the year's new blooms, conspicuous is the "Marion Broomal," a magnificent shaded pink blossom fully nine inches across. Near by stands "Frances Bullard," which in California is a peony flower, but here is a decorative full cactus. The "Alexander Pope," a hybrid cactus, is of rich cardinal, a wonderful beauty. It has a rival in "Edna Ferber," shaded gold rose hybrid cactus. The Eagle Rock beauty, from Colorado is a Broomall dahlia, pink shaded cream, a toe of which cost $30 early this season.

"Margaret Hennessey," orange-pink, "Italian sunset," a fascinating blending of white, yellow, red and pink, ($30 the toe) "American glow" red and white (a $25 toe rarity) "Robert Scott", yellow shaded pink, which brought $10 per toe this spring, "Marmion", a Tyler, western bloom with gold center, shaded yellow, its splendid petals fully three inches thick, "Sheila Ward", which is yellow with white tips, all enchant a true dahlia sharp. But the real sun worshipping is done before the majestic "Fort Washington", its stalks fully seven feet tall, the rich dark red blooms topping stems in some instances 26 inches long.

"Mrs. E. P. Judd" is an appealing specimen in old rose shaded to deep pink; "Jersey ideal" is an immense lavender flower—in the $25 a toe class last year. "Eagle Rock sunshine", a beautiful yellow cactus excites admiration; "Elkridge" is a dainty white cactus, while "Eliza Clark Bull" is a superb decorative white. The prize "Herald elite" is another snowy specimen over which flower sharps exclaim.

It is an interesting fact that these dahlias are not disbuded, growing absolutely without forcing; yet a magnificent lavender "Siskiyou" in the gardens measures fourteen inches across.

Mrs. Brown has three dahlia gardens under cultivation. Were their fine dahlias not so striking and commanding in interest, visitors might well devote attention to her long lines of gladioli, where bloom all the latest in these favorite spikes. Of these there are fully 50,000. She also has grown an interesting variety of old-fashioned straw flowers. The asters in the gardens are of good assortment, but for the most part asters have not done well this year.

FRAUD IN CALIFORNIA BY ALLEGED HARTFORD MAN

Correspondence between the Connecticut insurance department and several firms in California has led to the suspicion that a person representing himself to be an adjuster for the Guardian Health and Accident Insurance company of North America, the home offices of which are alleged to be in Hartford, is practicing a fraud in that state.

After the department received two or three letters requesting information as to the status of the company, it attempted to secure information as to the reasons for the inquiries and learned that a man representing himself to be C. A. Allen, adjuster for the "Guardian Health and Accident Insurance company" had been "going through California presenting loss expense drafts presumably issued by the assistant treasurer of the Guardian Health & Accident Insurance company, on a regular expense draft form, which drafts are supposed to be payable at the home office at Hartford.

"These drafts are being presented at various hotels for amounts ranging from $25 to $100. The drafts are very similar to the usual expense drafts issued by the insurance companies and of course are readily cashed."

Inquiry was first made by the Boston office of a detective agency and later by an insurance man and an hotel manager in Sacramento and San Diego, California. The drafts have been found to be worthless and efforts are being made to apprehend the man calling himself C. A. Allen.

The Connecticut insurance department has been unable to identify the man, nor is there any company on record as the Guardian Health and Accident Insurance company of North America.

REV. F. W. THOLEN GOES TO SPRINGFIELD CHURCH

Rev. F. W. Tholen, for the past six years pastor of the Stafford, (Ct.) Baptist church, and formerly at Preston City, has accepted the call to become pastor of the Community church, at Springfield, Mass. The full name of this church is the Church of the Nazarene. Mr. Tholen succeeds Rev. Charles J. Washburn, and accepted the call to Springfield because of the larger opportunities which he believes are offered there. He has had much experience as a missionary and a pastor.

Mr. Tholen started his work in city Sunday, conducting both the morning and evening services at the church. In the morning he preached on "Following Jesus," and at the evening service his subject was, "Discerning between him that serveth God and him that serveth him not."

Loyola college, noted Catholic institution of learning in Baltimore, today observes the 75th anniversary of its opening.

FRESHMEN AT STORRS WILL BE GIVEN TESTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Sept. 14—Achievement tests on general mentality and mathematics will be held at Connecticut Agricultural college for both men and women freshmen students Thursday morning and afternoon. In the evening, proctors in the freshman dormitory will meet with the men rooming in their respective sections to take up affairs needing co-operation, and to set practical personal standards for best college citizenship.

Additional work in connection with registration and choice of divisions will be required of the freshmen on Friday, as well as an achievement test in English and modern foreign languages. An "Activities Night' program for the freshman girls will be held in Holcomb hall under the auspices of the Womens' Student Government association.

All new students will be given physical examination Saturday morning, and men students required to take military drill will be issued uniforms. Freshmen are included in the latter group. An entertainment has been planned for freshman girls in Holcomb hall Saturday night, when women of the three upper classes will be the hosts. A college smoker for all men will be held under the auspices of the sophomore class in Hawley armory.

On Sunday a mass for all Roman Catholic students will be held in the Storrs Community house at 8:30 in the morning, with Father Dennis Moran of Coventry preaching. A later service for all denominations will be held in the Community house at 11 o'clock, with the Rev. Morris E. Alling, college chaplain, preaching.

"Contrary to reports in newspapers last month, which largely overstated the case, we estimate that the college will have to refuse admittance to only 95 qualified applicants, rather than 200 as was the number given in a newspaper account," said Registrar David L. Greene today in discussing registration figures.

"Relative to the entering freshman class of 1931, 140 applicants had been admitted entire from the upper two thirds of their graduating classes in high school, and almost entirely in the upper halves of these classes by July 1", continued Mr. Greene. "This improvement in scholastic preparation has been paralleled by stronger testimonials as to their purpose in education, student leadership and all-around activity.

"With assurances of return to Storrs of 325 upperclassmen, the size of the incoming freshman class is automotically set at a 175 maximum, with the possibility of a reduction in this figure if more upperclass students return this week. The 35 vacancies remaining in the freshman ranks after July 1 have been allotted to those applicants for admission who have not only the best high school records scholastically, but in other activities and student leadership as well.

"College will open with the usual proportions in the returning classes," said Registrar David L. Greene. "The freshmen will appear in the usual proportions in home economics and mechanical engineering, with the agricultural division increased by 80 to 90 per cent, largely at the expense of the agricultural science division. The waiting list of well qualified applicants represents considerable pressure on all divisions, especially the science division. Assuming that these conditons will become more intense next year, there is a clear duty for keener selection, improved by more interviews and more genuine and more numerous testimonials. Perhaps the findings of our achievement tests in English, mathematics and general mental ability, given now, will reveal through the year that we ought to give these tests before rather than after admission, as Connecticut's state normal schools do already."

INTRODUCING SECTY. PILCHER AROUND THE STATE

Secretaries of the 41 chambers of commerce throughout the state have received letters from Clark Belden, executive vice president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, Inc., calling their attention to the fact that the Norwich chamber has a new secretary, Walter H. Pilcher. The letter, which welcomes Mr. Pilcher to Connecticut, says:

Walter H. Pilcher, former assistant secretary at Rochester, has succeeded John O'Rourke as secretary at Norwich. Before Mr. Pilcher's arrival, President Case asked the state chamber to greet Mr. Pilcher upon his arrival and to assist him in every way possible.

The Norwich chamber will have a campaign to increase its budget at $11,000. Field Secretary Orr of the state chamber will speak at the opening meeting of the campaign workers on September 30. On September 12 the undersigned spoke at a farewell dinner to Mr. O'Rourke, at which Mr. Pilcher was formally introduced to the members of the Norwich chamber.

Carrying out President Case's suggestion, it has been a pleasure to work closely with Mr. Pilcher. In a letter he states: "I have much appreciated the helpful way in which your office has worked with me, so far. I believe if more chambers worked through a clearing house such as the state chamber that better results might be obtained."

Mr. Pilcher has found the documents issued by the state chamber a helpful source of suggestions for new literature for the Norwich chamber. Thinking that this material may also help the other local chambers, we are sending under separate cover a set of state chamber documents.

It has been a pleasure for the state chamber to assist the Norwich chamber and its new secretary, Mr. Pilcher. The state chamber is glad to assist any of its 41 local chamber members in any and every possible way.

The board of directors of the local chamber recently authorized Secretary Pilcher to attend the New England convention of chamber secretaries to be held at Northampton, Mass.

COLLEGE FRESHMAN WEEK FOR PAINLESS ADJUSTMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

"Painless adjustment is what we hope to accomplish by the institution of freshman week," says Dr. Benjamin T. Marshall of Connecticut College for Women at New London-on-the Thames, in commenting upon this innovation which this year will be held September 14 to 20. "Ordinarily the freshman spends a good quarter of her first year in getting herself fitted into the college environment. She is often unhappy and sometimes her entire college career is colored by these first months of maladjustment. By devoting a whole week to it, just before the formal opening of college, we acquaint the new student with her social and physical environment and thus enable her quickly to swing into step and march happily off to the work in hand."

Freshman week was held at Connecticut college for the first time last year and was seen to be such an altogether beneficial innovation that it is to become a fixed part of the college plans. The administration points out that thus in one more way this first and only non-sectarian college for women in this state of many schools is proving itself a leader in meeting one of the recognized problems of college life.

The class of 1931, with 188 members the largest class in the history of the college, will arrive in New London Wednesday, September 14. All trains will be met by upperclassmen who will conduct the incoming freshmen to their dormitories where they will be welcomed by the house fellows and members of the faculty and administration who are in residence. All meals will be served in Thames hall. Commuting freshmen who do not plan to live in the college halls are invited to eat there, as guests of the college, this week.

Thursday morning the freshmen will be formally welcomed by President Marshall and Dean of Students Mary K. Benedict, after which they will arrange appointments for their medical and physical examinations which are required of all students before matriculation.

The new students will meet the faculty and their families the same afternoon at tea in the open quadrangle, and then proceed to the gymnasium where they will be addressed by Dorothy Bayley '28, of Woodhaven, N. Y., president of the student Government association and Eleanor Fabes '29 of Boston, president of the juniors.

A third event of the day will be the "college evening," in Knowlton hall at which Dean of Faculty Irene Nye, who was present at the first opening of the college in 1915, will speak informally on college history and ideals. The Service League, the social service organization of the campus, will have charge of the charades dancing and refreshments which follow and with which this first busy day of college life will close.

The morning hours of each day will be given over to tours of the campus, conducted by upperclassmen, to conferences with faculty freshmen advisors who assist the freshmen in choosing their courses, and to the required medical and physical examinations as well as to the psychological test which will discover the "I. Q." rating of each new student.

Other social events of the week will be the reception at the home of the president, a musical evening in the Knowlton house, a boat ride excursion on the river, house picnics given by the residents of each house to the incoming group, and hikes, games, tennis matches and other sporting events arranged by the college Athletic association.

Monday and Tuesday will be occupied with registration, instruction in the use of the library, and other necessary preparations for the formal opening on September 21 when the class of 1931 will be ready for the real business of college.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR DISTRICT C. E. CONFERENCE

The executive meeting of the Norwich Christian Endeavor union was held Monday evening at the home of the president, Harold Muttart of Preston City. Plans were completed for the New London county district conference to be held Saturday in the Norwich Town Congregational church, with Clarence Hamilton of Boston as the speaker of the evening. The regular routine of business was transacted. Committees were appointed to make plans for the annual meeting which is to be held at some future date.

The committee for the annual meeting is Ellen Nelson, Gertrude Ladd and Mabel Corrigeux. The following nominating committee was also chosen as follows: Reginald Avery, Cynthia Crary and Robert Schmidt.

After the business meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Muttart. Members were present from Lebanon, Goshen, Norwich Town Congregational and Preston City.

DUSTRY LEAGUE CLOSES WITH BURST OF VERBAL FIREWORKS

N. F. A. students are lucky they have a school to go to this morning. Engine 3 can thank its good fortune that it is still a member of the Norwich fire department and residents of the immediate vicinity of left field and center field at the Academy are also rather fortunate that their domiciles are standing for had last night's Industrial league affray gone much longer those wicked socks from the bats of the combined teams and especially from the champion Richmond Radiators would have done a whole lot of damage. As it was, in three innings and 2-3 of the first half of the fourth these combined teams raked the suburbs with all kinds of base-hits to the grand total of 22.

The Richmonds poled out, off Eddie Koslowski and Johnny Greene, 14 drives, including six doubles, three of which just missed by the proverbial hair of being home runs. The Silvers found Couture for eight hits, one of which was a double. The Richmonds were ahead 17 to 5 when the game was stopped.

But all this pales in comparisons to other doings up on the Red and White field last night.

It was the scene of the last regularly scheduled Industrial league game and the Champion Richmond Radiators and the third place Insilcos the two most bitter rivals in the loop, were down for the tilt.

The game started about 6 o'clock before over 2,000 mildly enthused fans, little realizing what a farce was in store for them.

The Ironmen got to Eddie Koslowski for seven runs on as many hits and two errors in the first while the Silvers secured three tallies off Couture in their half of the inning on four singles and an error.

The Radiators added five more in the second on two doubles, a single hit batsman, pass and two errors while the Insilcos scored twice on two singles and a double with an error.

The Ironmen got three more in the third on two doubles, a single and two more errors while the Silvers did not score in their half.

The fireworks rattled in the fourth. Apparently sensing that with the way they were piling up scores the game would not go the required four innings the Richmonds essayed to speed things up by "trying" to get out in their half of this inning. Red Smith was first batter and after swinging at a couple had ones missed one right through the heart of the plate for the third strike and immediately trotted to the bench. Mish dropped the ball and made no attempt for the play at first. Hank Morin then stopped the game and announced to the crowd that Smith would either get down to first and that the Richmonds would try to play or he would forfeit the game. Smith went to first after a few minutes delay and on the first pitch, started for second. Mish with an easy play in sight made no attempt to get him and Smith was safe. Cimikoski walked on four extra wide ones Smith then attempted to steal third and Mish threw to Lemieux and Bill McKnight called Red out. One out. Cimikoski took second on a passed ball while Jarvis was fanning. Two out. Kampf got his fourth hit of the evening into left field and Cimikoski came home with the sixteenth run. Coughlin came to bat and Kampf started for second with Greene on the mound. The latter, making no attempt to get Gil, heaved the ball skyward into center field where Eddie Koslowski made the catch. Greene then threw another wild one through second but some one stopped it and Kampf stayed at the keystone bag. Coughlin then tapped one to Lemieux, who, after fumbling the ball, straightened for the throw but Zaremba, the first sacker, was parked somewhere out in right field making no attempt to cover the initial sack. Kampf raced home with no play on him and it was then that Hank announced to the crowd that the game had been called.

Immediately the crowd swarmed on the fiel dand several wordy battles ensued. Each one seemed to have a different opinion of the thing but most all fans were together in the denunciation of the conduct of the outfits. It was fully half hour before the diamond was cleared.

Several were strong against Hank's umpiring and especially his handling of the Red Smith strikeout affair in that last inning, claiming that no umpire can make a batter run out any play.

It seemed that the Richmonds were less at fault than the Insilcos. After receiving a warning during the Smith episode the Ironmen at least tried to play while the Silvers got worse, if anything. Although no official verdict has been given as yet and will not be given until a special league meeting is held, it would seem that the fair and only course would be to award the game to the Richmonds for they so far outclassed their opponents that the thing took on much of a joky atmosphere.

They slammed most everything that Koslowski and Greene threw up right back with Jarvis, Kampf, Bargnesi, and Coughlin leading the attack. Jarvis had two doubles and a single in four attempts and both of his two-bashers came close to being home runs. The first one landed way on the west corner of the manual training building and after bounding around on the roof lodged in the gutter but, according to Morin "ground rules" would hold it down to two bases. Lloyd's other double struck the centerfield fence. Tim Coughlin had a double that hit the scoreboard on a line. One of Kampf's four hits struck the fence while Bargnesi had three hits in as many tries.

RISKO GETS VERDICT OVER JACK DELANEY

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 14—(AP)—Johnny Risko of Cleveland, won the judges' decision over Jack Delaney, retired light-heavyweight champion, in a furious ten-round bout at Taylor bowl tonight. Delaney weighed 178 pounds, Risko 189 1-2.

RICE SAVES GAME FOR SENATORS WITH NICE CATCH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—(AP)—Bunching hits in the third inning, the Senators scored three runs, enough to win today's game from the Tigers 3 to 2.

In the third, Rice, after a triple, scored on Harris' single. Speaker's double scored Harris. Goslin beat out a hit to Blue, Speaker coming home when Blue threw wild to Whitehill. After the Tigers had scored their second run in the eighth, Fothergill, with two on base, lined out to Rice who made a beautiful running catch. Score:

REDS GATHER FOUR RUNS IN NINTH TO BEAT PHILLIES

CINCINNATI, Sept. 14—(AP)—The Reds gave Philadelphia a ninth inning surprise party today with a rally that netted four runs and turned a 6 to 3 defeat into a 7 to 6 victory.

It made eight straight wins for Cincinnati.

Bressler's bat turned the trick. With Allen and Zitzmann who ran for Jablonowski on base, Ulrich passed Walker. There were two outs, when Bressler viewed the loaded bases and cracked out a triple for two runs to tie the score and one to win. Earlier in the ninth, Picinich had doubled to right and Jablonowski had scored him with a single. Score:

GODFREY KNOCKS OUT MUNN IN FOURTH

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—George Godfrey, Philadelphia heavyweight, won his scheduled 12-round bout with Monte Munn, former Nebraska legislator in two minutes and 20 seconds in the fourth round tonight, at Ebbets field, Brooklyn.

Referee Lou Magnolia stopped the bout, with Munn hanging on, groggy and helpless, giving Godfrey a victory by a technical knockout.

Munn was outclassed from the start, landing only a few blows and those without great force.

GIANTS AND CARDS STILL IN TIE FOR SECOND PLACE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14—(AP)—New York and St. Louis remained in a deadlock for second place in the National today by breaking even for the second successive day in a double-header while the Pirates galloped on to a four game advantage by walloping the Braves twice. Some 30,000 fans went wild with joy and showed a straw hat barrage on the field when the Cards stacked away the opener by 6 to 3 in ten innings but the cheers turned to groans as the Giants brought out a furious attack to win the closing game by 9 to 3.

Hafey was the hero of the first contest by injecting a homer with two on base off Relief Pitcher Henry for the triumph. In the ninth, Orsatti's triple and Douthit's single had tied the score, Barnes was starting pitcher for New York opposed to Alexander, the latter giving way to a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Littlejohn, who was credited with the victory in the first game, showed up so well that the Cards started him in the second contest but he weakened in the sixth inning after a line drive hit Umpire Hart's shins for a single. With three runs in and a runner on third, Kaufmann, late of the Phillies, relieved Littlejohn but four of five batters who faced him hit safely and the other walked. Ring had to relieve him to end the inning, seven runs crossing the plate.

Ben Cantwell went the distance for the Giants in his first major league start. The $25,000 Jacksonville purchase had done only relief pitching up to today. Score:

FARRELL PLAYS BRILLIANTLY TO WIN CHICAGO OPEN

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—(AP)—Johnny Farrell of New York turned his attention today to excellent golf, and, by equalling Bobby Jones' record score for the British open, won the Chicago open golf championship, his eighth open title of the year.

Farrell's putter, never faltering in laying the ball dead from all parts of the green, allowed him to nose out Al Espinosa of the home club by two strokes. Last year's title holder, Macdonald Smith of New York, was third with 290, taking a 75 on the final round while Farrell was only one above par with 72.

Espinosa took one stroke off par for a 70 in spite of a six on the tenth and until Farrell finished with a birdie three on the 430-yard 18th, by holing a 25-foot putt the outcome was in doubt.

In a tie for fourth place at 293 were Harry Cooper, of Los Angeles and Tommy Armour of Washington, U. S. and Canadian open champion. Armour spoiled his good chances by going wild on the penultimate nine for 42 strokes, as he shot par 71 in the third round.

Jock Hutchinson, formerly British open champion, was next with 295, while Emmet French got 297. Farrell fought an uphill battle to entitle him to cut another notch in his famous aluminum headed putter.

HENNESSEY FURNISHES UPSET BY SENDING COCHET DOWN TO DEFEAT

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 14—(AP)—John Hennessey of Indianapolis rose to the heights of tennis greatness today to score a sensational victory over Henri Cochet of France in the third round of the national turf court championship. He won on sheer grit and staying power in a furious five-set match, 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 3-6, 6-1.

While an almost incredulous gallery shrieked and shouted, the fighting Hoosier gained an early lead of two sets, was overtaken and then came back to crush the Frenchman in the final set with a dazzling barrage of volley placements.

With the upset, Hennessey and not Cochet will meet Francis T. Hunter in the quarter finals. Hunter today entered the bracket in easy fashion by downing Jean Washer, Belgian champion, 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

Tilden, however, will clash again with a member of the French Davis cup team, the lanky Philadelphian, victorious today over Elmer Griffin of New York, 4-6, 6-1, 1-9, 6-0 will take on Jean Borotra.

The bounding Basque, like Tilden, had a hard fight for the bracket, but timely won at 2-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3, over Jerry Lang, ex-Columbia university star.

"Little Bill" Johnston, improving steadily with practice, fore-handed his way to a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Jack Wright, ranking Canadian player. The California veteran's quarter final opponent will be either Jacques Brugnon of France or Arnold Jones of Providence, R. I., the two were tied at two sets each when darkness halted play. Brugnon won the first and fourth at 9-7, 6-1 and Jones the second the third 6-4, 6-3.

Rene Lacoste, the French defending titleholder, scored his third straight victory of the tournament by beating Takeichi Harada, Japanese who is ranked third in the United States, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Manuel Alonso, second on the national rating list, defeated John Van Ryn, Princeton star, at 5-7, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0 today.

The quarter final matches as scheduled for tomorrow:

Hunter vs. Hennessey; Tilden vs. Borotra; Lacoste vs. Alonso; Johnston vs. Jones or Brugnon.

DUWELL A. A. PUTS ON LAST AMATEURS TUESDAY

On next Tuesday night, when the Duwell A. A. stages its fourth outdoor amateur boxing show, the fans will see probably the finish of a program which has proved the sensation of the local athletic activities.

Every two weeks, since the first of August, thousands of people, both dyed in the wool fight fans, and others, some of whom had never seen a fistic encounter before have gathered within the temporary arena over at the Duwell field, and have been entertained with clean wholesome sport which has sent them away on every occasion, with a broader and better view of the manly art.

The Duwell's have given good shows, and no doubt have been repaid for their efforts, as plenty of sheckels have found their way into the cash box. The only fault that the fans have to find is that amateur boxing was not inaugurated earlier in the season.

Unless October proves a much more pleasant month than is expected, the card on Sept. 20 will be the last of this season, staged out in the great open space.

To say that the last set of bouts will be better than those of the past, would be unfair, as every match seen at the Duwell field has been a corker. However the local matchmaker is lining up the best men of the past shows, and plenty of new blood, to furnish the show which will probably mark the closing of the outdoor season. Another feature of next Tuesday's fracas will be the appearance of the heavier boys, as many welters and middleweights have already sent in their entries.

In the meanwhile, while preparations are being made to close the outdoor season, plans are in the works to secure an indoor stadium for the shows throughout the winter.

BARRED SPORTS WRITERS HOLD INDIGNATION MEETING

(By Charles W. Dunkley)
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—(AP)—Newspaper correspondents, foiled in the attempt to crash the gate and watch Jack Dempsey in his moonlight manoeuvres, held an indignation meeting with Promoter Tex Rickard today, protesting because Dempsey had refused to train in their presence and had elected to do his training at night instead of the afternoon.

Rickard refused to intercede for the correspondents.

"Dempsey and Flynn know their business and I'm not going to interfere," Rickard said. "It is my idea that Dempsey is boxing at night with nobody around to get his eyes accustomed to the glare of the lights. That sounds all right to me."

Rickard declared that it would be suicide, in a pugilistic sense, for Dempsey to train in the afternoon in the terrific heat now prevailing.

Rickard announced that Dempsey and Tunney would battle in the same ring in which Dempsey knocked out Jack Sharkey in the Yankee stadium two months ago.

The ring will be twenty feet square inside the ropes and will be erected five feet above the ground to give the spectators located way back in the distant sections of the "ringside" seats a better view.

Rickard said he received word from Jack Sharkey that he would arrive next week to challenge the winner.

SPEEDBOYS TO HAVE POWERFUL TEAM THIS YEAR

The Jewett City Speedboys, eastern Conn., football champions, will again have a powerful team on the field this year. In order to retain the championship the management has spared neither time nor expense in signing a group of stars that should have little trouble in mowing down local opposition.

The Speedboys consider themselves quite fortunate in signing "Big Boy" Christy, formerly with the Greeneville Tigers. His addition to the line should make the defense well nigh impregnable. Last year's squad is back without an exception and all are in the pink of condition. Sam Smith, crack end, will again captain the eleven.

An effort is being made to open the season Oct. 1, at Ashland park with the Noank Crushers as possible opponents. In an effort to bring to eastern Connecticut followers of the sport a brand of football that will rank second to none in the semi-pro line, the management will book games with some of the crack teams in the western part of the state and Mass. Pop French, star ball carrier will probably be added to the list of backs.

Any team desiring games please write, stating guarantee expected to C. J. Parkhurst, Box 14, Jewett City. Bill Bakanowsky and C. J. Parkhurst will again direct the affairs of the club.

YANKEES MAKE IT THREE FROM INDIANS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—The Yankees made it three in a row over Cleveland by winning today's tussle by 4 to 1. Southpaw Ruether hanging up his 12th triumph of the year. The New Yorkers bunched hits off Miller in the third and fourth innings for all their runs. Ruth and Gehrig were stopped with a single apiece in three times at bat. Score:

EARLY RALLY GIVES DODGERS AN EASY VICTORY

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—(AP)—Launching forth with nine runs in the first three innings, Brooklyn had no difficulty in trouncing the Cubs today by 10 to 6 which relegated Chicago to six and one half games behind the league leading Pirates. Max Carey produced a homer with the sacks loaded in the third. Hartnett bagged a home run with one on base in the ninth. Score:

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Interesting items taken from the files of The Norwich Courier of September 1852 are as follows:

Saturday, Sept. 11, 1852—A small cotton factory at Jewett City owned by Mr. Horace Whitaker, but stocked by Mr. Horace Warren, both of this city, was burned on Sunday night last with its contents. We do not learn the estimated amount of loss but understood there was $2,000 insurance in the Hudson River company upon the mill and $500 insurance in the Franklin Marine and Fire Ins. company, of New York, upon the stock. There are strong suspicns, we are told, that the mill was fired by an incendiary.

Editor Norwich Evening Courier.

Dear Sir: The building on Central wharf which belonged to me and which was consumed by the lamentable fire on the morning of the 8th inst., was a substantial store, 100 feet long, 35 feet wide 2 1-2 stories high built but a few years since. It was filled with property belonging to Mr. John G. Huntington, part of which was covered by insurance. That gentleman had erected and filled other buildings belonging to himself on my wharf which were entirely destroyed.

Your Obt. Sevt.,
JEDEDIAH HUNTINGTON.

Saturday, Sept. 18, 1852—The death of the Rev. George Perkins, of Norwich Town, occurred last evening. He was a native of Plainfield, graduated at Yale college in 1803, studied law with the late George Marsh of Vt., and also with Asa Bacon, Esq., of Litchfield, was admitted to the bar in 1806 and immediately entered upon the practice of his profession in this city. About the year 1823 he abandoned the law, studied theology and was settled over the Congregational church society of Ashburnham, Mass., where he remained several years until he accepted a call to the church at Jewett City in 1832. Sept. 4, 1838, he was compelled by ill health, to relinquish his charge and he removed to Norwich Town where he resided until his death.

A frightful collision occurred on the New York and Erie railroad on the 13th inst. by which five persons were killed instantly, four or five severely, if not fatally injured, and 20 or 30 slightly hurt.

Saturday, Sept. 25, 1852—It will be seen by official notice that the Auxiliary Foreign Missionary society of New London county, takes place, in this city, on Wednesday, the 29th inst. This society, we believe, one of the oldest, as it has ever been one of the most efficient associations for missionary purposes in the country. It is to be hoped that the approaching meeting will be fully attended and that the interest of the occasion will not fall short of the grave importance of the object it aims to promote.

NORWICH TOWN

The September meeting, first for this season, of Home chapter of the King's Daughters, was held Monday afternoon at Johnson home, with a good attendance. The leader, Mrs. William E. Manning conducted the devotional period. Interesting reports were submitted. About a dozen dish towels were turned in at this meeting, for the Johnson home.

Mrs. Manning opened the study of the Book of Acts, by reading the first chapter, also read sketches of St. Luke. Continuing the study, Mrs. Manning appointed to have charge at the October meeting, Mrs. Herbert Branche, Mrs. Charles Cross and Miss Martha Briggs. In response to an open letter sent to Mrs. Manning, who also is county president of the King's Daughters, Home chapter at its meeting Monday voted $25 to a King's Daughters' hospital in Greenville, Mississippi. This hospital erected in 1926 suffered greatly from the effects of the flood, being seriously handicapped yet is carrying on good work especially in the maternity branch, although with much difficulty. During the flood there was four feet of water in the lobby.

Before her death, Miss Lucy Geer, an interested member of Home chapter, turned over to Mrs. Benjamin Lewis, a quantity of pieces of cloth, patchwork blocks and an assortment of scraps to be utilized by Home chapter.

Miss Marion Briggs having given generously of her time, has sewed together a quantity of the pieced blocks, thereby making two quilt tops for the chapter. One of these was sold Monday bringing a good sum. Announcement was made that the first meeting of Home chapter sewing society for the winter season, will be held at the home of the leader, Mrs. Manning, Williams street, Thursday, September 15. Basket lunches will be carried by the members.

The meeting Monday concluded with the chapter motto, after which during the social hour Mrs. Louis Engler chairman of the social committee and assistants, served sandwiches and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Tully M. Sterry of Brooklyn, N. Y., have sent out announcements of the marriage of their daughter Cecelia Katheyn and Alfred Lewis Lankeman of Glendale, Sunday September 4th at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Lankeman, who spent their honeymoon in Norwich and vicinity, returned Tuesday. They are to take up their residence at Charlotte Place, Glendale. Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Lankeman were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hough, of West Town street.

The bride is a descendant of one of the oldest Norwich Town families, grand-daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sterry who formerly owned and at one time occupied, the mansion on Town street, at present known as the Johnson home. Her father, Tully Sterry, is well known in Norwich Town, where with Mrs. Sterry, he occasionally visits, since locating in Brooklyn. The late Mrs. Park and Miss Carrie Sterry, long time residents of West Town street were sisters of Tully Sterry's father, the late John Sterry.

Having passed several weeks with Norwich Town relatives, Rev. and Mrs. Hollis Myron French (Ruth Avery) and infant son William Avery French are returning this week to their home at Ft. Covington, New York, where Rev. Mr. French holds a pastorate at Ft. Covington Methodist church. While here they were guests for about a month at the home of Mrs. French's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. Avery of West Town street.

Mrs. Mary Gaffney and daughter, Miss Marjory Gaffney of Danielson motored on Sunday to Norwich Town, and were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy and Miss Alice H. Kennedy.

HAMPTON

Hampton this year has had an unusual amount of activity. The first big event was the Old Home day, which the Bulletin did so much to make public. This was followed by a very effective musical comedy given by a company from Providence. That was followed by a musical given by the instructors in the Julius Hart School of Music, Hartford. These were all under the Hampton Improvement society. The Ladies' aid society of the Congregational church held a very successful fair and the Catholic ladies' society held a largely attended supper and fair. Now Little River grange plans a fair. Judging from the committees appointed it is to be an interesting event. These are: Fancy table, Mrs. George Fitts and Mrs. Charles Burnham; Mrs. Reuben Pearl, candy table; Mrs. Wallace Jewett, floral display Mrs. Chester Jewett is to demonstrate home economics. Mrs. W. L. Muttart will direct the interests of the mystery table. Mrs. J. T. Estabrook and the publicity committee: Mrs. Arthur Pearl, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. Lloyd Edwards and Mrs. Frank Nichols are to provide for the supper tables. The farmers around will bring vegetables and fruit and the young people will have exhibits of their baking and their canning of fruits and vegetables.

Governor John H. Trumbull and members of his family arrived home after a month's vacation at Moosehead lake, Me.

WESTERLY

KINGSTON FAIR OPENS WITH COUNTY DAY ATTENDANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 14.—Kingston fair, the 52nd anniversary exhibition under the auspices of the South County Agricultural society, began auspiciously this morning with pleasant weather at the fair grounds at West Kingston. The thousands who visited the fair grounds on the first or County day came from all parts of the state.

Thursday will be Grange day, when three granges of the state, Narragansett, No. 1, of Hope Valley and Westerly have entered exhibits, the competition of two being keen. Music is furnished by two bands, the Peacedale band and that of the Columbia Narrow Fabric company of Shannock. The exhibition of blooded cattle attracts much attention and there is an exceptionally large entry of sheep. Cattle judging is scheduled for 9 a. m. Thursday. Agricultural hall exhibits of vegetables, fruit and flowers, where is the showing of the state granges, aroused lively interest. Where in years past the automobile exhibit has been made under a canvas tent, this year a new building, Automobile hall, not only contains the showing of new models of the various makes of automobiles, but also farming machinery, tractors and milking machines. Hazard hall, where it has been customary to hold the Governor's day exercises with addresses by the governor and agricultural society president, is filled to a greater degree than ever before with the showing of the products of the various Rhode Island state institutions and the handiwork of boys and girls, and has resulted in the transferring of the Governor's day exercises to the stage in front of the race track grandstand. Governor's day this year at the fair is Friday. Saturday, the last day, will be Children's day. As last year, day and evening programs are carried out.

Officers of Washington County Agricultural society for 1927, having charge of Kingston fair are: president, Henry D. Bailey; vice presidents, Dr. Edward E. Kenyon, South Kingstown; Charles C. Reynolds, North Kingstown; Z. Herbert Gardner, Exeter; Amos J. Dawley, Richmond; Erlo N. G. Barber, Hopkington; Charles H. Crandall, Westerly; Thomas L. NOANK

MESSAGE IN A BOTTLE PICKED UP BY CAPT. SISTARE

After almost five months, a bottle containing a communication from the crew and passengers of the steamer High Wind was picked up Tuesday by Capt. Leon B. Sistare. While on the fishing grounds he noticed a beer bottle, corked and sealed. He opened it and found a piece of coarse wrapping paper on which the following was written with lead pencil: "This bottle was thrown off the steamer High Wind, off the southeast part of Block Island, April 5, 1927 by the crew and passengers." The words were difficult to distinguish. The captain's name was William Brousseau. The last of the note reads, "Whoever finds this bottle return it or let it be known."

Inquiry was made of several of the old-timers in the village as to information of the steamer High Wind and her master, but if the vessel ever made this port she seems to have been forgotten; her name is not on the list of merchant steam vessels of the United States.

Several girls in the village are planning to form a basketball team. Nearly all have played the game while attending school at New London and no doubt a fast team could be organized. The first practice game will be as soon as the backboards and baskets are put up.

Noank grammar school officially opened the football season Wednesday when first practice session under the direction of Coach Leo Harris was held on the school grounds. There were 19 candidates on the field when the session started, as there was no graduation last year all the veterans will be with the team this fall. Coach Harris is confident that he will be able to produce another winning combination this season.

Noank Fire company is to hold a smoker and turkey supper at their rooms on Ladder street. The auxiliary members will be guests of the evening and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Heckers' FLOUR Superlative Quality

Matchless flavor and full strength

THE sweet wheats chosen for Heckers' Flour have an extra measure of flavor, and they are rich in gluten.

Gluten is recommended by food specialists for its ease of assimilation and concentrated food values—an energizer and a builder of tissues.

Famous cooks favor this superlative unbleached flour.

POETRY

American Names

I have fallen in love with American names,
The sharp, gaunt names that never get fat.
The snake-skin titles of mining-claims,
The plumed war-bonnet of Medicine Hat,
Tucson and Deadwood and Lost Mule Flat.

Seine and Piave are silver spoons,
But the spoonbowl-metal is thin and worn,
There are English counties like hunting-tunes
Played on the keys of a postboy's horn,
But I will remember where I was born.

I will remember Carquinez Straits,
Little French Lick and Lundy's Lane,
The Yankee ships and the Yankee dates
And the bullet-towns of Calamity Jane.
I will remember Skunktown Plain. . .

I shall not rest quiet in Montparnasse.
I shall not lie easy at Winchelsea,
You may bury my body in Sussex grass,
You may bury my tongue in Champmedy.
I shall not be there. I shall rise and pass.
Bury my heart at Wounded Knee.

Stephen Vincent Benet in Yale Review.

A Song of Little Towns

You may sing of cities,
Factories and mills;
I will sing of little towns
Set among the hills.

I will sing their freshness
In the early spring,
When from every maple tree
Friendly robins sing.
I will sing of hollyhocks
Blooming by the door;
Cheese and bread and garden seeds
At the little store.
I will sing of neighbors
Stopping when they meet
For a little visiting
In the shady street.

You may sing of cities
With their craft and greed;
I will sing of little towns
With their simple creed.

I will sing of church bells
On the quiet air
Of a Wednesday evening,
Calling folks to prayer.
I will sing of pleasures
Innocent and free;
And of grief and sorrow
Borne with dignity.
I will sing of workers
Resting in the sun;
Of the sunset's beauty
When the day is done.

You may sing of cities
With their gleaming lights;
I will sing of little towns
And starlit nights.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"And did the doctor give you any hope?"

"Well, I'd hardly call it giving."—Boston Transcript.

Musician—"Do you have a pianoforte?"

Mr. Dumme—"Yes. Forte dollars down and $10 a month."—Detroit News.

Sprague—Do you play golf?

Pelsma—Oh, dear, no; I don't even know how to hold the caddie.—Pathfinder.

Stranger—Ah, Mrs. Mudge, one-half of the world is ignorant how the other half lives.

"Not in this village, miss."—Answers.

John (passionately)—The more I look at you, dear, the more beautiful you seem.

Julia (expectantly)—Yes?

John (brutally)—I ought to look at you oftener.—Tit-Bits.

"From what my friends say," remarked the old lady, "golf must be a very sociable game."

"What gives you that impression?"

"They talk so much about its tees."—Boston Transcript.

Father (addressing son at the dinner table)—I see you are at the foot of the spelling class again.

Son—Yes, sir.

Father—How come this time?

Son—I put too many z's in scissors.—Montreal Family Herald.

A young man walked into a grocery store and asked for two dozen loaves of bread. The grocer looked surprised.

"Have you a dinner on?" he inquired.

"No," said the man. "I'm working at the zoo, and the kangaroo has kicked the elephant, so I want to make a bread poultice."—The Progressive Grocer.

Barley has been cultivated longer than wheat, as far as evidence now in hand indicates. In the Journal of Heredity, Dr. O. F. Cook, of the United States department of agriculture, discusses the researches of an English scientist, Professor G. Elliott Smith, who has been examining the remains of grains found associated with the mumies of the most ancient times in Egypt—frequently inside them. In these oldest mummies, the grain is always barley, never wheat, whence the conclusion is drawn that the Egyptians knew barley long before they cultivated wheat.

Children will soon romp on the spot where, untold ages ago, the ferocious saber-tooth tiger tore at the vitals of prehistoric mammoths, when the famous La Brea fossil pits in Los Angeles are turned into a public park. Plans are completed and work is soon to be started on this track, with the object of preserving as much as possible the natural landscaping of the site. These pits are the richest in fossils of any locality in the country. Already thousands of fossils of saber-toothed tigers, giant ground sloths, giant wolves, mammoths, mastodons, lions, camels, peccaries, tapirs and birds have been recovered. Concrete replicas are to be made of some of the more familiar species and set up in the park.

FRIGIDAIRE saves average of $105.36 a year over ice refrigeration

Amazing facts reported by FRIGIDAIRE users

Low cost of operation an achievement of FRIGIDAIRE engineering

MANY still regard electric refrigeration as expensive. To prove that this is not true of Frigidaire, we sought the opinion of some 20,000 users.

Saves $105.36 per Year

The answers were startling. They indicated savings even greater than we anticipated. According to carefully tabulated records, an average of $105.36 per year—over and above all operating costs! These amazing economies are due to two things: (1) No ice bills. (2) No food waste.

A Scientific Achievement

Frigidaire represents years of research and development on the part of Frigidaire Engineers, and the Research Department of General Motors—the largest organization of electrical, chemical and mechanical engineers in the world. In Frigidaire modern science has incorporated elements that the exterior of the cabinet can't reveal.

New, Low Prices

To the wealth of evidence in favor of Frigidaire, add the new, low prices—the lowest in Frigidaire history. A complete model with Duco-finished enamel-lined steel cabinet—all ready to attach and operate from any convenient electric outlet—for the amazing price of only $180 f.o.b. Dayton.

Few Dollars Puts It in Your Home

Frigidaire is used each day in the year. The whole family enjoys it. And it pays for itself with the money it saves, as proved by the signed reports of users. Visit our display room and see the new models. A small deposit puts one in your home. Then pay a little each month under liberal General Motors terms. Come in today.

PLAINFIELD YOUNG MAN FINED FOR DECEPTION AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14—Harry Vincent, of Plainfield, was fined $25 and costs in the city court today on a charge of perjury. Vincent went to the office of the department of motor vehicles here several weeks ago, represented himself as being his brother and applied for a driver's license. Vincent already possessed a license and by obtaining another in the name of his brother he would supply his brother with a license when it is believed, the latter could not qualify to drive. Vincent having been given a license, naturally, passed the test and was given a second license, but in his brother's name. A short time afterwards the reception was revealed and State Policeman Donald Brown arrested Vincent here, Sept. 1. The case has been continued several times in the police court.

EASTERN POINT BUS SERVICE WANTED THROUGHOUT YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14—The Groton chamber of commerce is making an effort to obtain all-day bus services between Eastern Point and New London throughout the year. With the approach of the closing of the Hotel Griswold for the season next Friday when only a partial day service is scheduled to be put into operation, a committee was appointed at the September meeting of the chamber last night to confer with officials of the Groton and Stonington Traction company, in the hopes of securing the service sought. The committee is composed of Patrick J. McNamara and Francis J. Neilan. At last night's meeting a report was received from William Jobl, a committee appointed to confer with the Groton water and light officials, with a view of solving the problem of further purifying the borough's water supply. A report was also received from the banquet committee which showed a balance, after all expenses had been paid for the recent banquet.

CLAIM THAT GEO. VORVES WAS INJURED IN BOUT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14—George Vorves, United States Coast Guard academy, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from a head injury that may result in a fracture of the skull being revealed, a possible injury sustained yesterday afternoon in a fight with Earl Bullock, also a coast guarder. The patient is very slightly improved today. Vorves remained in an unconscious state throughout last night, but today he showed symptoms of regaining consciousness. It was stated last night by members of the coast guard that Vorves received the injury by being struck a blow on the head by a blunt instrument. This is denied by United States Coast Guard officers who state that Vorves received the injury in a ring fight. Bullock and Vorves, who are mess attendants decided to engage in an eight round ring battle and yesterday afternoon was selected as the time for the bout. The men went to the academy gymnasium, entered the ring and participated in a regulation bout with seconds and referee handling the battlers. Seven rounds were fought, but in the eighth round Bullock delivered a hard right cross to the jaw that sent Vorves to the canvas. He landed so forcibly that his head struck the covered boarding and he was rendered unconscious. When his seconds were unable to revive him, Vorves was given treatment by a physician and when consciousness did not return, Vorves was taken to the hospital. Coast Guard officials said that the fight was not a grudge battle, but only one of many bouts among the enlisted men. Bullock feels keenly the injury sustained by Vorves and went to the hospital to personally inquire for his friend's condition.

PINKY BURNS A PATIENT AT LAWRENCE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14—Pinky Burns, local welterweight, who has appeared in fistic rings throughout Connecticut and New York states, may have fought his last battle and from present indications he is making a fight to regain lost health. He is a patient at Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital under observation. Burns' health has been on the decline for some time and recently he underwent a physical examination which revealed that his lungs were affected. Fearing tuberculosis, Burns decided to go to the hospital where he may regain his health. If his condition does not improve he will probably seek beneficial results in another climate.

William T. Pelhel, submarine base and Albert A. Powell, formerly of New London, now of 38 Richards street, East Hartford, were in the police court this morning charged with reckless driving, but they escaped penalty for the man who made complaint against Pelhel and Powell did not appear and testify against them, so a nolle was ordered. Pelhel and Powell were driving through State street yesterday and at a speed that attracted the attention of Isadore Machol, a pedestrian, who said that Pelhel and Powell were racing. Claiming that the drivers endangered the safety of pedestrians and other auto drivers, Machol made complaint to the police and Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy arrested them. Pelhel and Powell were present when court convened, but when Machol was not on hand to tell his version of their driving, the case was thrown out of court.

Warren White, 483 Pearl street, Straughton, Mass., was presented on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He was fined $50 and costs, but execution of the sentence was suspended. White, who is a schoolboy, was arrested by Patrolman George Perkins two weeks ago when detected carrying the weapon, a 32-calibre revolver. The case was continued to today.

William Scott, charged with intoxication, was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested last night on Main street by Patrolman Walter O'Neill.

Benjamin A. Armstrong has sold to Stephen J. Crouch and Clifton W. Watrouse a building lot on the easterly side of Mountain avenue.

Stanley Miasrsky, 23, of Chesterfield, died yesterday at Home Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient only a few days. He is survived by his mother and brother, who reside at 100 Winthrop street, this city.

The funeral of H. Elmer Graves, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Graves, Walden avenue, was held at Jordan cemetery this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Washington, wife of Andrew Washington, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 33 Chappell street, the services being conducted by Rev. Sinclair Grimstead, pastor of Shiloh Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Joseph Sengarena, of Norwich; Miss Elinor Cowhey, 13 South Ledyard street and Miss Marion McQuillan, Old Lyme, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

COST SLOOP CAPTAIN $50 FOR DISREGARDING LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14—Emil Forland, commander of the fishing sloop, D-307, and residing at 350 Main street, Gloucester, Mass., who was detained yesterday by the crew of the United States Coast Guard patrol boat, 283, charged with running the boat without proper documents and without lights, was fined $50 when presented before United States Custom officials here today. After paying his fine, Capt. Forland boarded his boat and started for Gloucester. The fishing boat was in Gardner's bay yesterday when she was detected running without lights. The patrol boat was speeded up and an order was given for the master of the sloop to bring his boat to a stop. He failed to heed the order and a shot was fired across the bow, causing the boat to stop. The commander of the patrol boat boarded the sloop and made a search for contraband, but no liquor was found. Neither was there any evidence that liquor had been carried aboard the boat. The sloop was brought into port and detained here until after the hearing of Capt. Forland.

SCHOOL GIRL IS STRUCK BY CAR WITH FAULTY BRAKES

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14—Marion Madden, 5, residing with her parents at 33 Spring street, was struck by an automobile owned by Louis Margolis, Bank street plumber and driven by John Lombardi, 21, of 33 Elm street, this afternoon on Truman street, corner of Blackhall street. The child sustained a laceration of the left arm and lacerations of the head. Lombardi was arrested charged with driving an automobile equipped with defective brakes and was held in bail of $200 for appearance in the police court tomorrow. The child recently suffered bad burns of the arm that was injured today and that member had not improved so that the youngster had full use of it. The girl was returning home from school and in crossing the intersecting streets, the automobile headed in a westerly direction rand down the child. The police were notified and Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin was assigned to make an investigation. He did so after the child had been taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Officer Martin drove the auto a short distance and when he applied the foot brake, the auto did not stop, or even slacken speed. When he applied the emergency brake the speed of the car was only slightly reduced.

Arrangements are being formulated for the dedication of Mercer Field, October 15th by Homer K. Underwood, headmaster at Bulkeley High school. This was given to the school several months ago by Frederick W. Mercer as an athletic field. The field was formerly known as Cannon Ball park and at one time was the home of the old Connecticut Baseball league. The members who will assist Prof. Underwood in making the arrangements for the dedicatory exercises are Henry Canty, Henry P. Shea, Carlton F. Small, Philip P. Pasquale, Frank H. Hamlen, Francis McGuire, Raymond Palmer, Eugene Belden, Newman Harrigan, Montrello Gray, Cloney Dean and Wilcox Smith.

Capt. H. G. Hamlet, commander of the United States Coast Guard destroyer force, has returned to the state pier, having spent three days in Washington on official business.

Two drunks were arrested this afternoon by Sergeant John Cavanaugh on North Bank street. One fellow was charged with intoxication and the other with intoxication and breach of the peace, for the latter struck the former and inflicted a laceration of the head that required the services of a physician. Both will be in the police court tomorrow morning.

Elmer Slates was arrested tonight by Patrolman John Sullivan, charged with violation of the traffic ordinances in parking his automobile contrary to provisions of the law. He furnished a bond of $2 for his appearance in the police court.

The police are continuing their drive to put a stop to the parking of automobiles in the rear of the Soldiers and Sailors' monument, State street, in a manner that prevents automobiles parked in allotted space from entering or leaving. Several autos were tagged for this violation tonight, but in most instances the drivers were strangers and they were not required to give a bond for their court appearance. They were released with a warning.

Mrs. David King, of this city, reported to the police this afternoon that she had lost her purse containing $19 and two tickets for transportation between New London and Sag Harbor.

Raymond Scribner has sold to George T. Dyer an undivided one-half interest in a building lot on Park avenue.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

The combination of cast and story in "The Coming of Amos," the Cecil B. DeMille supervised production which opened the double feature bill at the Breed yesterday, and which will be shown today for the last times makes this offering from the DeMille studio one of the banner pictures of the year.

The story, a melodramatic comedy adapted from the famous novel by William J. Locke, ranges in locale from Australia to the gay Riviera, and LaRocque, in his leading role has a fine opportunity to extend himself to the limits of his vast ability in portraying this character.

Featured in the supporting case are Jetta Goudal, as a fascinating Russian princess, with whom LaRocque falls madly in love; Noah Beery in the role of the sleek and polished villain who also strives for the hand of the princess; and Trixie Friganza and Richard Carle in featured parts.

Anna Q. Nilsson, Holbrook Blinn, Einar Hanson, Ruth Roland, Charlie Murray and Gertrude Short are the featured players in the "Masked Woman," the second offering on today's program.

Tom Mix and his wonder horse Tony, will come riding down the silver sheet of the Breed theatre tomorrow for two days only. He comes in "The Broncho Twister," the most colorful romance of hard riding, swift action and breath taking suspense in which he has yet appeared.

The beautiful Helene Costello, is the winsome heroine who fires the heart of the cowboy.

Broadway Theater

Winter sports in the Swiss Alps, including a sensational race down the fastest toboggan slide in the world and a spectacular ice carnival, are some of the features of Adolphe Menjou's latest Paramount picture, Service for Ladies, closes today at the Broadway theater.

Snow scenes of exceptional beauty are said to characterize this phase of what Menjou declares to be the best picture he has ever made. High up in the Sierra Nevada mountains of Northern California, 24 hours by train from Hollywood, snow is to be found all winter long. By the frozen shores of Lake Tahoe, one of America's most beautiful scenic spots, were the scenes made.

A toboggan slide modeled after the famous slide at St. Moritz, reputed the fastest in the world, was constructed. There were made scenes declared by critics to be the most spectacular toboggan shots ever filmed.

In the brilliant ice carnival staged on the smooth ice of the lake, Menjou appears in the colorful garb of a hetman of Cossacks.

Commencing tomorrow for two days, Tim McCoy in Foreign Devils.

The devotion of Chinese Christians to their foreign friends during the Boxer rebellion is one of the human notes of Foreign Devils, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring Tim McCoy, coming Friday and Saturday. During the desperate siege of the foreign compounds by the Boxer fanatics these Chinese converts stood shoulder to shoulder with the whites and many of them died in the long weeks of fighting before the arrival of the allied relief expedition. Due credit to those heroes is paid in this thrilling film of love and battle.

Excavations at Ur, the home town of Abraham, show that it was customary to bury a dead man under the house in which he lived.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The New London County Fair

This the 73rd, annual county exhibition will be a whale.

Under the management a complete change has been effected and new policies governing the fair adopted.

The splendid grounds of the society are being slicked up and are now resplendent in new paint, new buildings, new lighting effects, and our home has been put in order. Buildings that were poorly located have been moved to make room for a huge midway. Old grand stands have been overhauled and made available for use. New horse sheds erected to care for more fast steppers; in other words a business management is in control of our old county fair.

For three days and as many nights there will be a rapid fire of spectacular and astounding features. Original unique, and embracing all interests of the county. This is no longer a one man fair. It is your fair, it is a fair of all the people by the people and for the people of this great New London county of ours.

Thursday, Sept. 22nd, opening day has been named, club and style show day.

A pageant consisting of many floats representing our historical, medical, and bar associations, women's clubs, civic and commercial organizations, bands of music, pretty girls, the governor of Connecticut. Artistic floats and all around the race tract. The big night feature on this day will be the most astounding pyrotechnical display ever produced by this or any other organization in New London county and we don't mean "mebbe."

These will be largely set pieces and the dazzlingly, spectacular outstanding piece of them all is being made expressly for this great fireworks barrage. The Spirit of New London County, in the sky.

Friday September 23rd, has been named New London county town day, and all the towns of the county are competing with floats for a silver loving cup and a prettiest girl cup to be given the one who gets the decision.

The big night feature of this day will be the tableau, The Spirit of New London County. Twenty three floats in this tableau in front of the grand stand, under gorgeous and spectacular lighting effects.

Saturday, Sept. 24th, has been named industrial and educational day. A huge pageant comprising many floats with music, and beautiful girls, from our many, splendid industrial plants, of the county, will, with special educational line-up, attract, interest and educate thousands of people as to our great industrial strength. The big feature Saturday night will be boxing bouts of sparkling, scintillating, sizzling, soaking.

Three clowns, professional, will be in all parades all three days. All school children will be admitted free on this day if under 12 years of age and accompanied by parent or guardian. Day and night these great features will be participated in by the club life, industrial life, civic and educational life as well as the agricultural. A whale of a fair but puts it mildly. A living style show of artist models day and night will be seen in the new and splendid dance pavilion erected this year for the young people of the county. This building offers a practical and perfect setting for exhibitions of this kind under the best conditions.

The society stands for home consumption of home products and urges all our people to trade at home, purchase home made and manufactured products and to give our agriculturalists the benefit of choice when in need of the fruits of the soil. Thats what the New London county fair stands for.

The high spots in our fair this year will be horse racing, hair raising, wind splitting horse racing, a real dog show, dancing in new pavilion, with a jazz orchestra and colored spot lights, night and day. Big automobile open show. You can't miss it, boxing tournaments, vaudeville, on stage, cattle show, horse show, exhibitions of flowers never equalled, vegetables, fruits, fireworks will be the opening night only. It was decided by the committee to bunch our hits on all three nights program and explode them all Thursday night and you'll understand what that means when you see the display. Band of music, orchestra, beauty contests. Fast steppers direct from the Eastern States fair.

Forty acres parking space has been secured that will accomodate 10,000 autos at 25 cents, directly opposite the south gate. (Manwaring lot.)

Admission will be 50 cents, for adults and 25 cents for children. Grand stand admission, 50 cents day and night. The spirit of New London county is being exemplified and all who attend this great fair this year will marvel at the wonderful team work that has cemented all interests in the county to the New London county fair.

Palace Theater

A new show opens at the Palace today for three days. Five acts of supreme vaudeville will be featured on the stage. Bryan and Reban revue a fast song and dance offering of pretty girls with real talent. Marvin and Reilly a comedy team in Follow the Swallow. Richard and Gray in a skit called In the Hotel Lobby. Farrell and Chadwick in songs and clever piano accomplishments. Ernest Arnold in a remarkable feat of working upside down.

A picture as impressive as the vast uncharted snowy regions of the north is holding forth at the Palace theater.

It is Back to God's Country, a dynamic tale of the north, from James Oliver Curwood's ever-popular novel of the same name, and has been made into a really spectacular production by Irvin Willat who directed for Universal.

The story might be likened to the snow country, full of surprises to the explorer traveling its smooth, sparkling surface. He plows through snow drifts, rises on knolls from where he can overlook the placid sea of snow, then to the top of a mountain range whence he sees the boundless panorama of nature's mighty creation.

This is the way Back to God's Country impressed the reviewer. The rise and the drifts representing minor crises and the mountain representing the exalting climax of a tale told as smoothly as the newly fallen snow.

Renee Adoree is effervescent in her role which is both dramatic and gaily youthful. This characterization will win for her many more fans. Robert Frazer is handsome and manly in the the male lead and demonstrates his ability as a real actor.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—Spectacular advances in General Motors new and old stocks, transactions in which comprised about one-fourth of the day's total sales of nearly 2 3-4 million shares, overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market. General Motors old stock soared 9 points to a new top at 263, against the year's low of 145 1-2, and the new moved up 4 points to 131 7-8, both at new record highs.

The general market disclosed considerable irregularity, but the bulk of the activity was again on the up-side, with another large sprinkling of gains running from 3 to 10 points. A reduction in call money rates to 4 per cent and predictions of a big rail buying movement had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment, although the rapidity of the advance in some issues led to hasty profit-taking by traders who feared that the technical position of the market had been weakened.

Cotton advanced $1.25 to $3 a bale on publication of a bullish government cotton consumption report, and predictions of unfavorable weather. Early gains in the grain market were not fully maintained. Coffee and sugar prices showed little change.

Heavy buying of the General Motors issues was attributed to traders who already have amassed gigantic paper profits in that issue. Current sales of the corporation are reported to be running at a high rate. Chrysler showed a moderate gain, but other motors were mixed. A collapse of nearly 7 points in Gabriel Snubbers and the establishment of a new 1927 low by Briggs Body at 21 on the decision of the directors to pass the cash dividend, attracted widespread attention in the accessory group.

U. S. Steel common was lifted to a new high at 157 3-4 but closed at a small fractional loss on selling presumably inspired by the delayed pick-up of fall business and the further reduction in pig iron prices to the lowest level since 1916. Among the many issues to reach new high ground were American Bosch Magneto, American Machine & Foundry, Coca Cola, Dupont, Endicott Johnson preferred, International Shoe, Kennecott, and Rossia Insurance.

Houston Oil broke from a high of 153 1-2 to 145 and then snapped back to 147 7-8 off 4 5-8 net. Final quotations also disclosed a large number of 1 to 3 point declines by such stocks as International Harvester, American Smelting, Bayuk Cigars, Crucible Steel, Eastman Kodak and Woolworth.

Northwestern rails showed consistent strength under the leadership of Chicago & Northwestern, which responded to predictions of increased earnings. Pennsylvania and New York Central again attained new high prices and Western Pacific was bid up more than 3 points.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent and then dropped to 4. A stiffer undertone was apparent, however, in the time money market, the shorter maturities being quoted at 3 3-4 to 4 1-8 per cent instead of 3 3-4 and 4.

Foreign exchanges were irregular, with 5 point drops in Spanish pesetas, Norwegian kroner and Japanese yen, and sterling cables at the year's high of $4.86 5-16 as the only features

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Kean of South Second avenue are enjoying a motor trip to Montreal, Quebec and St. Anne de Beaupre, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Elzerd Godere of Pratt avenue have returned from a visit of several days in New York.

On Monday evening, the regular monthly business meeting of the members of the Taftville Social and Football club was held in the clubrooms at the Ponemah house. In the absence of the secretary, Robert E. Cooper, Archie Torrance, Jr., acted as secretary. David Murphy was elected janitor for the coming month and was also made chairman of the committee which is to renovate some of the club property. A number of bills were ordered paid and there was other routine business transacted. Fred Ince, the president was the presiding officer.

Oscar E. Mathewson, Jr., of Providence street is in Hopedale, Mass., where he has accepted a position.

The regular business meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society was held Wednesday evening at the society's rooms on Providence street, with the president, Miss Mary Ward presiding.

Robert E. Cooper of the Ponemah house is spending this week with his parents in Fall River, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leclerc and family are moving from South C street to a house on South Fourth avenue.

James Hartley has resigned his position with the No. 1 weaving department of the local mills, has given up his house on North A street and is moving out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sharples of North Second avenue are leaving this week for a motor tour of the province of Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Armand Trembley have taken a house on Terrace avenue.

Miss Luminosa Desmarais of Terrace avenue has resigned her position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

North Second avenue has been repaired, having been treated to a coat of tarvia and gravel.

NORWICH GRANGERS GAVE PROGRAMME AT HAMBURG

Norwich Grangers played to a packed and enthusiastically applauding house at Hamburg Tuesday night when they presented The Show Actress, under the direction of Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, with the following cast:

Goldie, The Show Actress, Elizabeth Murray; Ma Martin, jealous of Goldie, Ivy Peckham; Pa Martin, in love with Goldie, Thurston Lillibridge; Mandy, the old maid, Charlotte Fowler; Miss Jordan, actress in company, Esther Smith; Zekiel, village constable, Fred Lefingwell; Danny, chore boy, Ralph Marsh.

The characters were given with clear delineation, the lines were spoken with spirit and interest that made the production one of much merit.

The Black and White Revue, a musical comedy, was also finely given by the following cast:

Interlocutor, Ralph Marsh; end men, Thurston Lillibridge, James Lockhart; soloists, Charlotte Fowler, James Lockhart, Ida Richardson, Ralph Marsh; recitation, Catherine Brown, Esther Smith; chorus, Ivy Peckham, Dwight Richardson.

NEW LAW CLEARS UP METHOD FOR SERVICE MEN'S TAX EXEMPTION

The new law passed by the January session of the 1927 general assembly clarifies the situation as to tax exemption for military service and for the blind in the state of Connecticut in a way that those interested should take notice of.

The new law allows $1,000 exemption to one who has served in the army, navy, marine corps or revenue marine service of the United States in time of war and has received an honorable discharge therefrom. This includes those who have served in the Philippine insurrection or the China relief expedition (Boxer war), but not those who were in the shipping board or the emergency fleet corporation during the World war.

Blind persons, in order to obtain the exemption of $3,000, must be in needy circumstances and residents of Connecticut.

Either class of exempt persons coming under this new law must prove the right to the exemption on or before Oct. 1 of this year in order to have it apply on the 1927 list. In other words, the exemption applies at the next assessment date after the claim has been granted, this date being Oct. 1 each year in Norwich. This being the law, the assessors are calling it to public attention that any person entitled to exemption must do so on or before Oct. 1, 1927 in order to get the exemption on the list to be filed this year. Those who have applied and have had the exemption legally granted do not need to pay any attention to this change in the law.

SPOKE TO ROTARIANS ON THE U. S. CONSTITUTION

In observance of Constitution Week, the Norwich Rotary club had as the speaker at its Wednesday noon meeting at the Wauregan hotel Arthur M. Brown, prosecuting attorney for New London county, who spoke on The Constitution. Mr. Brown was introduced by Dr. Fred Richards, who was in charge of the program for the day.

In his usual eloquent manner Mr. Brown reviewed the historical facts which led up to the drawing up of the constitution and clasified it as one of the greatest pieces of work in history which stands as a monument to the 31 lawyers who drew it up. People of today little realize just what the Constitution has meant to this nation. We take all our rights and liberties as a matter of course seldom reflecting on what the conditions would have been had not the constitution been drafted. About all the average person of today knows about the constitution is the 18th amendment. This is much more to the constitution than this amendment, said Mr. Brown, it is the fundamental law of the land on which are based all the laws governing our conduct.

In 1785, after the close of the Revolutionary war, 13 colonies scattered along the coast from New Hampshire to Georgia, each had set up their individual form of government and were jealous of the other.

Friends of George Washington, feeling that they should be held together by certain articles of federation, decided to call together delegates of the different states.

Although some of the states were believers of a strong federal government, others could see nothing but state government and the proposed conference accomplished nothing.

However, the outgrowth of this resulted in congress calling for a conference at Philadelphia in May of 1787. After a stormy session lasting from May to September, 39 of the delegates, which at no time numbered over 55, signed the constitution consisting of ten amendments.

The two delegates from Connecticut to attend the Philadelphia conference were Roger Sherman and William Samuel Johnson.

As the years passed additional amendments were added to the constitution, so that at this time there are 19 the last of which was submitted by congress in June 1919, and proclaimed in effect on and after August 18, 1920.

Before concluding his address Mr. Brown explained to the Rotarians what rights and protection the various articles gave to the citizens of the country.

Mr. Brown was given a rising vote of appreciation at the close of his highly interesting talk.

At the business session President Clarence A. Spear presided and Frank G. Aubrey was the song leader. Secretary Jewett made further announcements regarding the fall conclave and President Spear spoke of the participation of the Rotary club in the parade on the first day of the New London county fair.

Copies of the constitution were distributed to the members through the courtesy of Charles R. Butts.

COUPE AND TRUCK IN MAIN STREET COLLISION

About 9 o'clock Wednesday evening a Ford coupe driven by Alvin L. Fargo of Yantic collided with a Cadillac truck owned by the Norwich gas and electrical department and driven by John B. Keenan of No. 81 Fifth street on Main street, in front of the Bishop school. A front mudguard and wheel on the truck were damaged and the damage to the coupe consisted of a broken front spring and bent mudguard. The coupe is owned by George Miller of Manchester, who is in Yantic on a visit.

WILL RING TESTS ON NEW FIRE ALARM BOXES

Two new fire alarm boxes which have been placed by the fire department will be given their first test alarm rings today (Thursday), one at noon and the other half an hour later.

Box 315 which has been placed at the corner of Sachem and Uncas streets will be rung at noon, and Box 141, at the corner of High and Summit streets, will be rung at 12:30.

Both boxes are of the non-interfering type, which means that after they have been pulled no alarm can come in from any other box in the city until after the box first pulled has finished striking its complete round.

SUSPENDED JAIL SENTENCE FOR MISSING WITNESS

Failure to appear as a witness in a city court case recently, resulted in the arrest of Alex Grutski Tuesday night and his presentation in the city court Wednesday morning. He was given a five day suspended sentence. He was summoned in to appear against Joseph Uglaiko who was charged with creating trouble at his home. Rather than appear as a witness Grutski left town, Tuesday night he showed up at Thames square and was arrested. He spent the night in a cell at police headquarters.

NORWICH MEN FINED IN WORCESTER COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 14—Peter Frzskap, 21, of 156 Hickory street, Norwich and Sigmund Liakecwicz, 20, of 263 Prospect street, Norwich, arrested here last night on charges of operating an unregistered truck, were fined $20 each at district court today.

Charge Was Reckless Driving

Through error it was stated that the charge made against J. F. Mulvey of 395 Pequot avenue, New London, when he appeared before Inspector Devnew for an automobile hearing in this city last Monday was driving under the influence of liquor. The charge actually was reckless driving. Mr. Mulvey expects to have his license returned soon.

USED BLACKBOARD FOR CHURCH SCHOOL WORKERS

A novel plan was employed by Professor Berkeley at the session on Wednesday evening at the Central Baptist church in illustrating his subject, "Attention." A square was placed upon the blackboard and afterwards Professor Berkeley wrote "Goodness", asking the class to give their attention to that while he looked at his watch. At the end of two minutes most interesting reactions were received from the class.

The devotional service by Rev. J. H. Graham of Trinity Methodist church was very fine. The classes are attracting a large number of church school workers.

Thursday evening the classes will be open to everyone, whether they are teachers in the church school or not, since this is the prayer meeting night. "Self-Assertiveness and Self-Control" and "Planning the Lesson" will be the topics. As usual, the classes will begin at 7:30 in the auditorium of the Central Baptist church.

THIRTEEN IN WEEKLY LIST OF SUSPENSIONS

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out on Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are thirteen names on the list. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles. The list follows:

Joseph F. Antonowicz, New Milford; Paul Bognor, Torrington; Agostino Cavanna, Stamford; Donato D'Aslesandro, Hartford; Hugh Haggerty, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Joseph Martinelli, Stamford; Gaines McBrown, Bridgeport; Alex Novak, Stamford; Louis Prevort, Bridgeport.

Frank P. Sadlon, Westport; Eugene Small, Noroton Heights; George Snyder Fairfield; Andrew Joel Sperry, New Haven.

BIDS ON ROAD WORK IN THIS SECTION

Bids for state highway construction and repairs to cost nearly half a million dollars were opened Tuesday by state highway department officials and read in the presence of more than 100 contractors in the hall of the house of representatives at the capitol at Hartford. The apparent low bids for the 11 jobs total $460,378.37.

For work in this section of the state the apparent low bids were as follows:

Town of Columbia, concrete road on the Hartford-Willimantic route, John Arborio, Hartford, $74,516.50; town of Preston, concrete on Brewster's road, New Haven Road Construction company, $47,434.50; towns of New London and Groton, reconstruction of fender work on the Thames river bridge, the Merritt-Chapman and Scott corporation, New London, $22,984.

The department engineers will go over the bids of the apparent low bidders in the next few days, and if they are found to meet all the specifications and requirements and if the contractors are found to be reliable and responsible, to the low bidders will be awarded the contracts.

TOWNS ARE REPORTING ON TICKETS NOMINATED

Report of nominations in the 158 towns which are to hold elections on Oct. 3 are being received rapidly at the office of the secretary of the state at Hartford according to Deputy Secretary Elmer H. Lounsbury. All party caucuses were to have been held on or before Monday, and the town clerks have until Thursday to notify the secretary of the state of the nominations, in order that ballots may be prepared. Twenty-eight reports had been received Tuesday afternoon, copy for the ballots being forwarded to the printers immediately.

In 140 towns, the vote in the election will be by ballot and 18 towns will use voting machines. Reports that the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn will use machines this fall are incorrect, according to information at the secretary's office, which shows that printed ballots are to be prepared for the two towns.

WHIST AND PINOCHLE BY A. O. H. AUXILIARY

Tuesday evening in Buckingham Memorial, Ladies' auxiliary, No. 18, A. O. H., held the first of a series of whists.

Mrs. Theodore Levitsky was in general charge of the affair assisted by Mrs. Lucian Bissonnette, Mrs. Jere Shea, Mrs. David Dunn and Mrs. Mary McNally. Miss May Nolan and Mrs. Niles scored.

The prizes were won as follows in whist: Ladies' first, Miss Mary Leary, linen guest towels; second, Mrs. Dennis Sullivan, bridge set; gentlemen's first, William Bowen, tie and consolation, Mrs. Timothy Leary. In pinochle first prize went to Mrs. Levitsky, pie plate and stand; and the gentleman's a box of socks to Mr. Nevins, consolation, Mrs. Burke.

CONNECTICUT HAS 634 IN INSTI. FOR FEEBLE-MINDED

There were 634 patients in Connecticut's one state institution for feeble-minded and epileptics on Jan. 1, 1927, according to a preliminary announcement of the results of a state and federal census of these institutions made by the department of commerce.

Connecticut's 634 patients represent an increase of 50 over the year previous, the total on Jan. 1, 1926, being 584. On Jan. 1, 1923, according to the announcement, this figure was 565 and on Jan. 1, 1922, it was 540. The 1927 figure was estimated at 39.1 to each 100,000 of population, the 1923 figure 37.5.

The Mission circle of the First Baptist church held a meeting Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. H. Woodworth, of Spring Garden avenue.

WORCESTER MINISTER WILL TAKE THOMPSON PASTORATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 14—Rev. Everett S. Lyon has tendered his resignation at the official meeting of the standing committee of the Hadwen Park Congregational church, and announced he has accepted the pastorate of the Federated church in Thompson, Conn. His pastorate at the Worcester church, will terminate Oct. 15.

The resignation of Rev. Mr. Lyon from the pastorate he has held for the past three years, came as a distinct surprise to the members of the board, which had recently accorded him an increase in salary. In giving his reasons for making the change, he stressed the larger field for service he feels will be found with the Connecticut church. Rev. Mr. Lyon has been for years an exponent of a greater unity among Protestant denominations.

Rev. Mr. Lyon holds two degrees from Dartmouth college, and is a graduate of Bangor Theological seminary. On coming to Worcester he entered the graduate department of Clark university and together with his parish duties, took advanced studies for two years in psychology and educational theory.

NOLLE ON CHARGE OF DRIVING WITHOUT PERMISSION

Charles Yankowski, alias Young, of Moodus, was presented in the city court Wednesday morning on a charge of operating a machine without the owner's permission. The charge was nolled. The machine in question was purchased sometime ago by Peter Yankowski, and his mother, Peter and Charles are brothers. Peter left town shortly after the purchase of the machine and Mrs. Yankowski sold her share in the machine to Charles. The latter registered the machine in his name in New York. Then Peter learned that Charles was driving the machine and trouble started. Peter had Charles arrested for driving the machine without permission.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS EVA HYDE

A miscellaneous surprise shower was held Wednesday evening in A. O. H. hall in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Eva Hyde of 34 Division street to William Sargent of New London. About 40 were present. Games, music, and dancing were enjoyed during the evening and sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Thomas P. Connelly assisted by Mrs. B. Breen, Mrs. Julia Brock and Mrs. Margaret Peterson. Miss Hyde received many beautiful and useful gifts.

Prizes for Highway Safety

Prizes totaling $1,000 have been offered by the American Road Builders' association for the best ideas for reducing the number of highway accidents occurring each year. The contest, which is being held in connection with a national safety campaign, is open to everyone. It will close midnight November 15th.

First prize in the contest is $500. There will be nine other prizes, totaling $500. The awards are offered for "the best workable plan that will decrease street and highway accidents. The plan," the association explains, "may be a complete comprehensive thesis covering the entire subject or a mere description of a single idea that would contribute to highway safety. The plan must be practical and capable of being put into operation at reasonable expense."

Winners will be announced in the press and by radio January 11, 1928, during the annual convention and road show of the association in Cleve- January 9 to 13.

Fairview reservoir stood at 5 feet below full pond on Wednesday, a very favorable figure for this time of the year.

BARGE WITH COAL CARGO STILL FAST AGROUND

The barge Barnstable with a cargo of 3,000 tons of soft coal aboard, consigned to the Eastern Connecticut Power company station at Montville, remained fast aground in the Thames river at a point opposite Red Top through Wednesday in spite of efforts to get her off. During the afternoon the towboat company having the barge in charge was engaged in removing several hundred tons of coal into a lighter with the expectation that this would make it possible to pull the barge off the sandbar where she has been held fast since Monday afternoon.

FORMING ORGANIZATION IN COMMERCE CHAMBER CAMPAIGN

Colonel E. O. Rodier of the air squadron division of the campaign to be held this month by the Norwich chamber of commerce announced on Wednesday the completion of his organization of lieutenants as follows:

Lieut. L. M. Crandall, Lieut. F. Russell Smith, Lieut. Henry D. Johnson.

Admiral Herbert W. Cary of the sea fleet has secured the acceptance of John J. O'Rourke and Edwin Hill as commodores in his division.

General Arthur M. Brown, commander-in-chief, announces the appointment of Walter H. Lester as vice commander.

Brigadier General James L. Case of the advance marine corps, the division who will have the special solicitations of subscriptions to the special activities fund, has appointed the following associates in his contingent: S. B. Palmer, Earle Taggart, Robert W. Perkins.

NO TAX NOW ON BANK DEPOSITS OF $500

A Norwich bank official called attention Wednesday to the change in the state tax law by which hereafter there is no tax due on bank deposits of $500 or more held in commercial banks on Oct. 1.

Under the former state law, a tax was due on deposits amounting to $500 in commercial banks on Oct. 1, the tax being payable either to the state or the town, as the bank depositor might elect. In order to avoid payment of this tax, it was the practice of large depositors to withdraw from their accounts so that they would not have $500 in the bank on the first of October. This will now be unnecessary as the tax has been abolished.

Fly-Tox Needed Everywhere

Flies Carry Disease Germs Twelve Miles

Army Sanitary Officers investigating sources of contamination in army camps found flies carrying substances obtainable twelve miles away. Thus flies can bring into homes everywhere filth, contamination and disease germs from a long radius. Fly-Tox kills flies. It is fragrant, safe, stainless and sure. Every bottle is guaranteed. —Adv.

FRENCH PORTS TO WELCOME AMERICAN LEGIONNAIRES

Great Peacetime Armada Will Arrive Today and Tomorrow—All the Atlantic Ports Are Gay With Bunting and Flags—Guns of French Warships Will Boom and Airplanes Will Circle Over the Leviathan Today as the Great Liner Makes Port With General Pershing and His Companions.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Paris and the Atlantic ports of France are gay with bunting and flags tonight ready to welcome tomorrow and the next day that great peacetime armada which brings the American Legion.

General John J. Pershing, who ten years ago slipped across a sea infested with submarines and entered this country then in the midst of war, with a few staff officers, will return tomorrow. The booming of the guns of French warships and the roar of the motors of the airplanes circling overhead will welcome him and his companions aboard the Leviathan who were once soldiers in his victorious army. At 10:45 a. m. "The General Pershing Special," will put out of Cherbourg for Paris, with most of the American Legion officials and prominent Frenchmen aboard.

Two other special trains which will bring the remaining legionnaires from the Leviathan will land their passengers at Gare St. Lazare, the usual terminus for the boat expresses.

The Steamer Republic, which reached Cherbourg late tonight, and the President Harding, which arrives tomorrow morning, will land hundreds more of the American Legion.

In a drizzling rain that continued throughout the day, Paris workmen finished the job of decking out the French capital in its holiday attire.

MURDER AND ROBBERY OF AMERICANS IN MEX.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—(AP)—Official reports of the murder or robbery of Americans in Mexico, Santo Domingo and China reached the state department today from consular officers.

In Mexico, the fatal shooting of David L. Fisher, of Philadelphia, a chief clerk on the Southern Pacific railroad offices at Guadalajara by a Mexican employe was reported by the American consulate. Fisher died last night.

The consulate's dispatch told of radical disturbances at the Mazata mines in the Guadalajara region and of occupation by rebels on September 9 of the property, from which foreigners were forced to flee. The message also reported a renewal of activities of radical agitators at the Amparo mines from which, it was said, Mexican troops, with the exception of a sergeant and five soldiers, had been withdrawn.

Another telegram from Guadalajara advised the state department that Javier Diaz had been arrested for the recent murder of Arthur Brewer, an American.

From Santo Domingo came the official report of the killing of Rene R. Dunearrest, believed to be a naturalized American from New York city, in a dispute over collection of an overdue account.

A Dominican has been arrested for the shooting.

The killing of three bandits and probable mortal wounding of two mothers by a marine detachment in Nicaragua was reported to the state department by the legation at Managua. The marine patrol made an all night forced march and surprised the band near Sanoto. The leader of the band was said to have been "the Honduran bandit, Santos Lobol."

FRENCH TREATY PROPOSAL BASIS FOR NEGOTIATIONS

PARIS, Sept. 15—(AP)—A proposal that is regarded as furnishing a basis for negotiations with the United States on the question of tariff rates but which even in quarters close to the French government is not expected to satisfy Washington, was made today by France.

France proposed to accord American commodities a fifty per cent. reduction off the general tariff now effective.

This general tariff is four times the minimum rate and thus American products would have to pay twice the amount assessed on imports from Germany and other countries with which France has commercial treaties. The proposed reduction would be effective during the negotiations with the United States looking toward a commercial treaty.

Until a reply from the United States that that government is ready to begin discussions the present high rates will prevail.

The French government's reply was communicated in a form which is called in diplomatic language "aide memoire," which is a degree more informal than the so-called verbal note.

SENSES RESTORED BY JUMPING INTO LAKE

HINSDALE, Mass., Sept. 15.—(AP)—After pouring kerosene on a woodbox near the stove and setting fire to it, threatening at the same time to burn his wife with the house, Alex Robinson went to the lake near his home early today and dived into the water. When police and firemen arrived in answer to a call Robinson was walking up the bank from the lake, his senses apparently partially restored by the shock of cold water. He is under observation.

OBITUARY

Rev. Henry Irving Cushman

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15—(AP)—Rev. Henry Irving Cushman, S. T. D., dean of the Universalist clergymen in this state, former head of the department of homiletics and pastoral care at Crane Theological school, Tufts college, and for 62 years secretary of the class of 1865, Dartmouth college, died at his home here today in his 84th year.

The funeral will be conducted here Saturday. Burial will be at Montpelier, Vermont.

A. Kirtland Michler

GREENWICH, Sept. 15—(AP)—A. Kirkland Michler, for 35 years an officer in the United States navy, and during the Spanish-American war assistant paymaster-general, died today in the Greenwich hospital at the age of 75 years.

Born in Philadelphia, February 19, 1852, the son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Nathaniel Michler, he was the descendant of a family long prominent in military and naval circles. After the Spanish-American war he resigned from active service because of his health, and after traveling for some time came here to live.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Emily H. Michler, a son, Gordon H., and a daughter, Miss Joan R. Michler.

$465,000,000 INCME TAX PAYMENTS DUE YESTERDAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—(AP)—Fiscal operations aggregating $1,500,000,000 were recorded today on the books of the treasury in addition to flotation of two kinds of government securities, redemption of maturing issues of certificates of indebtedness and payment of interest on obligations.

Income tax payments due today were estimated at $465,000,000 by treasury officials, who said final figures would not be available for several days.

A total of $500,000,000 came into the treasury's vaults through the new issues of securities, consisting of six months certificates and 3 to 5 year notes. Both offerings were oversubscribed.

Maturity of two issues of certificates of indebtedness was responsible for the paying out of $350,000,000, while interest on the Third Liberty loan, treasury certificates of indebtedness and the first payment on the 1930-32 treasury notes issues last March at the beginning of the refunding of the Secon Liberties, aggregated approximately $90,000,000. Other minor transactions were expected to bring the total for the day's financing to $1,500,000,000. Additional financing to take place during this quarter includes further exchange of Second Liberty 4 1-4 per cent bonds for 3 to 5 year notes which will close Sept. 29 and the refunding of the Second Liberties which have been called for Nov. 15.

HUGE TRANSACTIONS IN GENERAL MOTORS STOCK

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—A sensational buying movement in the old and new stocks of the General Motors corporation, transactions in which totalled nearly 600,000 shares, or more than one-fifth of the day's entire volume of business on the New York exchange, today gave Wall street another thrill and renewed active discussion as to what was "behind the market."

General Motors (old stock) was run up more than 7 points to a new high at 270, as against the year's low of 145 1-2, but fell back to 267 3-4 on realizing. The new "when issued" shares attained a new top at 155 and then eased to 138 1-2, up 1 3-4 net. Last week's final quotations were 249 7-8 and 128 1-4 respectively.

The bullish demonstration in these issues preceded the publication of a record-breaking August sales report, which showed 158,619 dealers car sales to users last month, as against 134,749 in July, 122,305 in August, 1926, and 78,638 in August 1925. While no detailed figures were supplied as to sales of the various units of the corporation, it was assumed that Chevrolet showed the largest gain, due in part to the increased demand for those models as a result of the delay in the introduction of the new Ford cars.

WINDHAM ASKS DECISION ON BIENNIAL ELECTIONS

HARTFORD, Sept. 15—(AP)—The attempt of signers of a petition for a special town meeting in Windham to secure a reversal of the acceptance of a biennial election plan for the town has been placed in the hands of the attorney general's office for decision, it was learned today at the state capitol. An act of the 1927 legislature authorized a town meeting to accept a charter amendment providing biennial instead of annual elections. This was voted September 7.

Inasmuch as the terms of some of the town officers to be elected October 3, hinge on whether elections are to be held biennially or annually, Deputy secretary of the State Elmer H. Lounsbury has asked for an opinion on the legality of rescinding the September 7 vote to govern his preparation of the ballots. Opponents of the town meeting to rescind the vote of acceptance claim that under the charter amendment itself, only the legislature can reverse the acceptance of the amendment.

STRIKE WILL CAUSE FRUIT SHORTAGE IN NEW LONDON

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—Dwellers in Manhattan tomorrow will be faced unexpectedly with a shortage of fresh fruits and vegetables with the sudden strike today of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, local 202, today. The strike followed closely the settlement of the strike of 7,000 truck drivers last week.

The strikers, who haul most of the city's perishable produce, were called out by representatives of the local at noon after demands for an increase of $7 a week from the Produce Merchants' association met with refusal.

GERMAN ACE TO ATTEMPT PACIFIC OCEAN FLIGHT

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 15—(AP)—Captain Jack Von Weigand, German ace who is credited with having shot down 22 planes during the great war, including that of Quentin Roosevelt, today said he will try to fly across the Pacific ocean next month in an attempt to set a new endurance record.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ROME, Sept. 15—(AP)—The marriage of Princess Anne of France to the Duke of Apulia, eldest son of the Duke of Aosta, will take place at Naples, November 5. King Victor Emmanuel has given his consent to the wedding. Naples was chosen as the scene of the marriage because the parents of the bridegroom live there at the royal villa Capodimonte.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 15—(AP)—Additional United States marines were sent to Puerto Cabezas from Bluefields today for protective purposes. The Standard Fruit and Steamship company, which has large holdings at Puerto Cabezas, is in fear of attack by groups of malcontents who have concentrated at Wawa, south of Puerto Cabezas, and other nearby points.

NICE, France, Sept. 15—(AP)—The body of Isadora Duncan, whoe beauty of movement in the classical dance enraptured thousands, lay in death at her studio in Nice today, surrounded by great masses of flowers. Every stage of social life along the Riviera, and in many capitals of the world, which recognized her as an ideal exponent of the dance, was represented by those who sent tokens of sympathy.

HOTTEST SEPTEMBER 15 ON RECORD IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—All local heat records for September 15, were broken today when the mercury officially soared to 90 degrees at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The previous high temperature record for the day was established in 1915 when 88 degrees was officially registered.

Only one prostration was reported. This was due, according to weather bureau officials, to the fact that the humidity remained remarkably low.

The heat wave, coming on the last official day of the straw hat season, found most Manhattanites in felt headgear long since donned because of the long siege of unseasonable August weather.

In contrast to today's high temperature, statistics showed that the coldest September 15 on record here was in 1895 when a drop to 45 degrees brought top coats hastily out of their moth ball preservatives.

HOTTEST WEATHER OF THE SUMMER IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15—(AP)—Sizzling in from the sun-baked plains of the middle west, the heat wave which for a week has held that district in its grip, today sent thermometers in this section soaring to the highest point of the summer.

At 5 p. m. the official thermometer registered 95 degrees, one degree higher than the previous hottest Sept. 15 on record in this city, the highest for the state heretofore having been 90 in 1916.

102 Degrees in Washington

WSHINGTON, Sept. 15—(AP)—Apparently waiting for the return of President Coolidge to the city, hot weather came down upon Washington with a vengeance today and as the mercury soared to 102 degrees at the white house the president took the afternoon off.

Prostrations in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15—(AP)—Five persons were overcome by heat today as the temperature mounted to 97 degrees at four o'clock, the highest ever recorded here for the 15th of September.

FATALLY INJURED IN FRIENDLY BOXING BOUT

NEW LONDON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—A friendly boxing bout at the Coast Guard academy here, in which George Vorves, 20, was knocked out Tuesday by his close friend, Earl Bullock, resulted today in the death of Vorves at the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital. An autopsy is to be held to determine if concussion of the brain or a fractured skull caused the death. Vorves did not recover consciousness after the knockout.

The two youths, evenly matched as to weight and otherwise, were trying out their skill, with large gloves, in preparation for a coming smoker for the benefit of the coast guard war memorial fund.

Bullock is being held pending an investigation by a board of officers appointed by Commander H. D. Hinckley, in charge of the Coast Guard academy. The board will report to Washington, and in case criminal negligence on the part of Bullock is found, the case will be turned over to the civil authorities.

NEW COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF GRAND ARMY OF REPUBLIC

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Elbridge L. Hawk of Sacramento, Calif., was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic by acclamation today. This is the first time that a G. A. R. commander has been elected from the Pacific coast.

Denver, Colo., was chosen as the site of the 1928 encampment.

Only three cities were ballotted upon for the convention city next year, Portland, Maine, lost to Denver by 26 votes with Wichita, Kans., third.

Calvin A. Brainard of Buffalo was unopposed for senior vice commander. The officers of junior vice commander, chaplain-in-chief and surgeon-general will be voted on tomorrow.

Walter Mable of Philadelphia, was elected commander-in-chief of the Sons of Union Veterans' organization, and D. B. Boelwy, San Francisco, senior vice commander-in-chief.

Mrs. Margaret L. Waters, Woburn, Mass., was named national president of the Ladies' auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans' organization, and Cora Swartz, Indianapolis, national vice president.

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF CLERGYMAN'S DAUGHTER

ENID, Okla., Sept. 15—(AP)—Formally charged with the murder of the daughter of the Rev. Charles Bailey, a clergyman for whom she had professed a deep devotion, Miss Mary Atkinson, 26 year old nurse, late today pleaded not guilty when arraigned before a justice of the peace. Tonight she was back in jail where she has been held a week during investigation of the alleged poisoning of Mary Jane Bailey, 18 years old.

Mary Jane's death followed within less than two weeks that of her mother, who was believed to have succumbed to a stroke of paralysis. County Attorney Dan Mitchell of Garfield county said tonight he was still undecided whether he would investigate the cause of Mrs. Bailey's death.

The nurse was returned to jail without bond following her arraignment.

Fed. Reserve Board Governor Resigns

Daniel R. Crissinger's Successor Has Been Selected by President Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—(AP)—Daniel R. Crissinger, governor of the Federal Reserve board, has resigned, effective today.

Crissinger, who was appointed comptroller of the currency in 1921, and to the Federal Reserve board in 1923 by President Harding, will become chairman of the executive committee of the F. H. Smith company, a Washington investment banking house. He was designated successively by both Presidents Harding and Coolidge as governor of the board.

Crissinger's home is in Marion, Ohio, where he formed the acquaintance of Mr. Harding.

Mr. Crissinger's resignation has been accepted by President Coolidge. Secretary Mellon said he believed a successor already had been selected by the president and predicted that his name would be made public soon.

At the treasury it was said that Mr. Crissinger's resignation had no connection with the recent difference of opinion between the Federal Reserve board and the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago over initiating a cut in the bank's rediscount rate. The resignation, Mr. Mellon said, has been under consideration for some time.

Those mentioned to fill the position include Edward H. Cunningham of Iowa, a member of the board, and Vice Governor Edmund Platt, who opposed the discount rate reduction for the Chicago bank. The possibility also was recognized that the president might go outside the board for a successor.

CAÑADA AND CUBA NEW MEMBERS L. OF N. COUNCIL

GENEVA, Sept. 15—(AP)—Canada and Cuba, two of the United States next door neighbors, were elected tonight to the league of nations council. Three seats were to be filled and Finland got the third.

Canada, Cuba, and Finland will sit for three years on the council, which now is composed of 14 members. The other members are Great Britain France, Italy, Japan and Germany, which hold permanent seats in perpetuity and China, Colombia, Chile, Rumania, Poland and Holland, who are non-permanent members.

The new lineup means that the council contains four countries representing the American continents and has created special interest among many delegates because of the particularly friendly relations existing between Canada, Cuba and the United States.

STATE SCHOOL FUND IS LARGER THAN EVER BEFORE

HARTFORD, Sept. 15—(AP)—The school fund is larger than ever before in its 130 years history, according to the annual report on the condition of the fund made to Governor Trumbull today by State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers.

The report shows that on June 30, the principal in the fund was $2,087,419.31. This total is $9,778 higher than the greatest previous one, which was in 1847. It is nearly $35,000 greater than the total a year ago, when there was $2,052,427.79 in the fund.

The increase is the largest yearly gain since 1835. It is said that "the largest increase in capital may be properly credited to the disposal of bank stock rights, which netted more than $30,000, the direct result of a local banking merger. Another factor included in the gain was derived from the sale of United States government securities at a premium.

COAST GUARD CAPTURED A SPEEDY MOTORBOAT

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—For the second time within a week the steel motorboat Cum-an-Go, said to be one of the speediest in New England waters, was captured by the coast guard today charged with failing to stop at the signal of a boarding officer. She was taken by the destroyer Burroughs off the coast of northern Maine, near Grand Manan, N. B.

Officers of the destroyer said the motorboat attempted to escape after being ordered to stop, but was overhauled. Several days ago the Cum-an-Go showed her heels to a patrol boat off Boston Light and her owners posted a bond in federal court pending a hearing.

NEGRO CRIMINALLY AND FATALLY ASSAULTED WOMAN

DORA, Alabama, Sept. 15—(AP)—Regaining consciousness long enough to tell her husband that she had been criminally attacked by a Negro, Mrs. Mary Treece, her head crushed with a piece of slag, died on the way to a hospital here today after being found at the edge of the underbrush, 50 yards from their home.

Husband Killed, Wife Beaten By Negroes

Couple Attacked While in Automobile on Road Near Hammonton, N. J.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 15—(AP)—A retired physicion was shot to death and his wife beaten today by two negroes who jumped on the running board of their automobile and attacked them on Middle Road near here.

Dr. William Lilliendahl, 60, who lives on a small fruit farm near Vineland, was killed in an attempt to route the highwaymen and his wife was struck several times on the head when she came to his aid. Her condition was reported as serious.

Before the negroes fled into the woods bordering the road they stripped rings from the fingers and money from the body of her husband.

The murder and robbery aroused all South Jersey and tolling fire bells summoned farmers and residents of nearby communities to the scene of the attack, where they were organized into posses by state police. Armed with all sorts of weapons, members of the posses beat the wooded sections and searched the country-side over a wide area. Captain William Carter, of the state police, directed the search.

Three suspects were arrested several hours after the attack.

The first intimation the physician and his wife had of the attack was when the two men leaped on the running board of their car. Both the negroes held pistols and commanded Mrs. Lilliendahl, who was at the wheel, to drive in the woods. When the car was hidden from the road, the negroes turned on Dr. Lilliendahl.

"They didn't give him a chance to fight for his life," Mrs. Lilliendahl told the workmen who picked her up. "They shot him down before he could lift a hand to defend himself."

Mrs. Lilliendahl said she had fought her assailants until she fainted. When she recovered her garments were torn and the negroes had fled.

ALLEGED MURDERER OF BREWER ARRESTED

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15—(AP)—The alleged murderer of Arthur Brewer, American resident of Guadalajara and former Harvard football star, has been arrested, the consulate informed the American embassy here. He is a Mexican named Javior Diaz.

Since the shooting of Brewer, who was killed in a quarrel over business affairs, the embassy has sent to the Mexican government five notes requesting the apprehension and punishment of Brewer's assailant. Recently the government ordered the Guadalajara authorities to apprehend the murderer. Now that he is under arrest both consulate and embassy have made representations to the Guadalajara and federal authorities respectively, asking that the full penalty provided by law be inflicted if the accused is found guilty."

COTTON PRICES DOWN ON ERRONEOUS REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—An erroneous report intimating that the department of agriculture predicted a decline in cotton prices during the next few months disrupted the market on the New York cotton exchang today and actually forced prices down $7.50 per bale. The market fell to a level lower even than that after the break of Tuesday, December contracts reaching a basis of 21.35 cents a pound, or about $16.50 a bale below the season's high prices of Sept 8.

The report, published on news tickers, attributed to the department the statement that, should present estimates of production be realized and past relationships between supply and price prevail, it was likely prices would decline in the next few months.

WOMAN PLUNGED THREE STORIES TO THE GROUND

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 15—(AP)—Mrs. Nellie Driscoll, 35, remained on the danger list at New Haven hospital tonight as the result of injuries received today when she plunged three stories to the ground, after her brother had been unable to retain the grasp on her hair by which he tried to prevent the plunge. Slight improvement was reported in her condition.

Hearing his sister pacing about her room, and then raising a window, James Sullivan rushed into the room just in time to grasp her hair as she clambered to the window sill. He was unable to retain his grasp, however. The woman received a fractured leg, broken jaw and internal injuries.

She is believed to have been suffering temporary derangement, brought on by a nervous breakdown.

All offerings for the metal at 13 1-8 cents a pound have been withdrawn, and the market is firm at 13 1-4 delivered in the Connecticut valley.

AGAINST THE PROHIBITION OF PIONEERING FLIGHTS

Vote Taken by the Members of the Government's Air Coordination Committee Was Against Any Specific Governmental Action—Action Taken Upon President Coolidge's Request For Conference to Consider the Situation Caused by the Loss of Life in Recent Over-Water Flights in Land Planes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. —(AP) — Science and the pioneer instinct won a victory over risk of life today when the government's air co-ordination committee decided against any federal ban on transoceanic flights in land planes.

The committee, composed of the three air secretaries of the war, navy and comerce departments, rendered its decision after a meeting at the Navy department. The conference was called at President Coolidge's called at request to consider the situation caused by the loss of life in recent overwater flights in land planes.

The committee expressed profound regret over these air tragedies, but saw no reason why such pioneering ventures, if undertaken by personnel competent to judge the risks involved and with carefully tested equipment of the highest type, should be prohibited absolutely by law.

Flights that are not planned in this manner, should be discouraged, members of the committee agreed.

They were unanimous in the statement "that public opinion will itself act to that end and will impose a restriction on the offering of any direct incentive for the making of exceptionally hazardous flights without requirements of reasonable precautions."

The committee emphasized that seaplanes or flying boats were better adaptable for long over water lights.

TO CONTINUE SEARCH FOR CREW OF THE OLD GLORY

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 15—(AP)—The government coastal steamer Kyle, apparently abandoning plans to return at once to St. John's with wreckage of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Old Glory which she picked up last Monday, wirelessed today that she was continuing the search for the three missing members of the ill-fated plane's crew.

"Wind northwest. Sea calm. Hazy. Still searching," was the gist of today's curt message to the government shipping department.

52 ENTRIES FOR SPOKANE AIR DERBY—OPENS MONDAY

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 15—(AP)—Eleven air planes had arrived here today as the advance guard of the 57 entries in the Spokane derby which begins Monday with its western goal at Felts Field, Spokane.

Although no plane entered in the non-stop classification had appeared officials declared that seven were expected to take part in the race. The latest entrant is "Duke" Schiller's and Phil Wood's "Royal Windsor," which abandoned the proposed Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, Eng., trans-Atlantic flight.

The two classifications besides the non-stop flight are class "A" and class "B".

The former class will take off from here Tuesday morning at 5:30 o'clock, each plane carrying two passengers in addition to the pilot, and making one overnight stop. The itinerary calls for five minute stops at Cleveland, O., Chicago, (St. Paul, overnight), Aberdeen, S. D., Miles City, Mont., and Butte, Mont.

Class "B" planes will make two overnight stops with one passenger, starting on Monday morning at 5:30 o'clock. Stops of five minutes, except for the overnight stops, will be made at Bellefonte, Pa., Cleveland, Byran, O., Chicago (overnight) St. Paul, Fargo, N. D., Bismark, N. D., Glendive, Mont., (overnight) Billings, Mont., and Missoula, Mont.

HIGH RECORD WEEK FOR MOTOR VEHICLE ACCIDENTS

HARTFORD, Sept. 15—(AP)—Labor day crashes contributed to establish an all-time record in the state for motor vehicle accidents in a single week, according to the report of the department of motor vehicles for the week ending last Saturday.

With two days of crushing holiday traffic, accidents for the week mounted to a new high total of 670, of which 332 were in the 14 cities, for which detailed reports are given. The total exceeds by 11 the 659 accidents during the week which included July 4, when the previous record was established. Last year 609 crashes during the Labor day week created a record.

New Haven surpassed Hartford in accidents, reporting 67 while this city had 59 and Bridgeport 57. Totals in other cities were: Waterbury, 32; Stamford, 25; New Britain, 23; New London, 16; Middletown, 9; Norwalk, 9; Greenwich, 8; Meriden, 8; Norwich, 7; Danbury, 6; Winsted, 6.

In spite of the large number of accidents, there were only six fatalities as compared with nine last year. Places where the fatal accidents occurred and those killed were as follows: Southington, Joseph Charamut; Jewett City, Fred Campbell; Milford, Mrs. Daniel Strecker; Waterbury, James O'Connor; Naugatuck, Miss Fanny Mitchell; South Norwalk, Randolph Wright.

STAMFORD MAN GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT AND ARSON

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 15—(AP)—Pleading guilty to the crime of embezzling $6,000 and of arson, Henry N. Scofield, prominent in the social life of Stamford and in business circles, was sentenced to state prison from one to three years each on the two counts, the sentences to run concurrently, by Judge Leonard B. Nickerson in the criminal side of the superior court today.

Assistant State's Attorney Loren Willis explained to the court that the accused was appointed manager of the Glendale branch of the manufacturing firm of G. W. Davis and company of New Haven in the fall of 1913, and the branch factory was known as the Davis-Scofield Company, Inc. Willis said that Scofield started in to collect moneys due the firm in 1904, and collected from 60 customers of the firm about $6,000, which money he appropriated to himself.

The second charge was that on November 19, 1926, Mr. Scofield attempted to set fire to the office and factory of the Glendale plant.

PILOT DROWNED WHEN PLANE FELL INTO BAY

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 15—(AP)—J. K. Kruger, aviation pilot in the United States fleet air service, was drowned today when the torpedo plane he was piloting fell into San Diego bay.

J. L. Payne, also an aviation pilot, who was a passenger in the plane, managed to extricate himself from the wreckage and was swimming toward shore when he was picked up by rescue boats.

Kruger was flying at a height of about 500 feet when his plane went into a tail spin and tumbled to the waters of the bay. When the plane struck the surface of the water it turned over. Kruger was entangled in the wreckage and held under the water, it being twenty minutes later before rescue parties were able to free his body.

BELIEVES PROSPECTS GOOD FOR A FIVE CENT CIGAR

HARTFORD, Sept. 15.—(AP) — The public taste in cigars has deteriorated. No longer does the public want a 15 cent cigar. The public wants a five cent cigar. Listen to President Joseph W. Alsop of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco association:

"The 15 cent cigar has disappeared from the market. The five cent cigar has taken its place."

The prospect for the five cent cigar is good, he believes.

40 FIREBALLS WERE VISIBLE ON THE NIGHT OF AUGUST 10

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 15—(AP)—Forty different fireballs were seen in the area between Nova Scotia and Maryland and Long Island and Ottawa on the night of Aug. 10, it was disclosed today by Dr. Willard J. Fisher, of the Harvard observatory, who compiled data on the meteors from 249 reports sent to the observatory.

Dr. Fisher's investigation grew out of a report that residents of Bridgeport, Conn., had seen a meteor on Aug. 10 that gave off a bluish light. He made a request for observations by eye witnesses with the resulting flood of reports.

From these reports, Dr. Fisher said, it appeared that there had not been a single meteor but a swarm of bright lights, mostly over New England, all so striking as to impress the observers deeply. Of the 40 meteors of fireballs, 26 fell within a few minutes of 8 o'clock, eastern standard time. In six instances, the ending points were well fixed.

These were: Hatfield, Mass., Thompsonville, Conn., South Woodstock, R. I., North Scituate, R. I., North Lyme, Conn., and Seymour, Conn. Concerning the others the information was not complete enough to plot the courses, Dr. Fisher said.

BREAK IN HEAT WAVE IN THE MIDDLE WEST

CHICAGO, Sept. 15—(AP)—A springlike shower late today started the rout of September's mid-summer heat wave, in which middle west millions have sweltered for four days.

Darkening clouds intervened earlier in behalf of a parched country, driving the mercury slowly downward here from its high point of 93 degrees, reached shortly fater noon. Hourly readings had equalled those of yesterday, and the temperature threatened to exceed the 95 degree record of th two previous days until clouds appared.

Like readings were reported throughout the central states, the highest being 100 degrees at Peru, Ill.

A shower of short duration in Chicago caused postponement of the National league Brooklyn-Chicago baseball game, while the sun was shining 30 blocks away.

A cool area was moving in from the west, however, and forecasters predicted further rain tonight with temperatures around 80 tomorrow and in the normal seventies by Saturday.

The break in the heat wave found a total of more than a score of deaths attributed to the unprecedented rise in temperature, due, it was said, to lack of contcat between a high pressure area in the south and a low area in the north.

TROUBLES OF CONN. VALLEY TOBACCO ASSOCIATION

HARTFORD, Sept. 15—(AP)—The Connecticut Valley Tobacco association weathered an application for a temporary receiver of its affairs in the superior court today. The 400 of its members who sought the receivership were given their choice by Judge Newell Jennings of having the petition for a temporary receiver dismissed or having the hearing continued for a final determination as to whether a permanent receiver should be appointed. They chose the alternative and will be heard further next Wednesday.

DISCOVERY OF VAST VEIN OF MANAGESE DEPOSITS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 15—(AP)—Discovery of a vein of managese deposits, two miles long and sixty feet wide, with depth unknown, on the property of Anson G. Betts of Kinderhook, N. Y., in Plainfield, Hampshire county, was announced here today by John D. Colton, mining expert.

Manganese, which is used in hardening steel, is rare in America, only about 10 per cent of the total amount used yearly being produced in this country. The vein discovered is believed to be one of the richest in the United States.

FRENCH AND AMERICAN CONTROVERSY MIGHT DEVELOP INTO A TARIFF WAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. —(AP)— rejection by France of American proposals for a most-favored-nation commercial treaty to correct French tariff discriminations against American goods brought the two governments to the verge of an open clash today that, in the opinion of some officials, might develop into a tariff war.

While the French comunication declining the offer was not made public it was said authoritatively at the state department that there will be little delay in formulating the American answer as the trafiff act forbids the negotiation of treaties as to tariffs on any basis but that of equal treatment for all nations. This limitation upon the powers of the president preventing acceptance of the French counter-proposals undoubtedly will be brought out sharply in the reply.

Washington officials indicated astonishment that the French foreign office and its technical advisers were not fully advised as to the provisions of the American tariff act.

It also is uncertain whether the French government is aware of the so called retaliatory provisions in section 317 of the tariff act under which the president may impose penalty duties or even absolute embargoes against importations from countries exercising tariff discriminations against American goods. It is practically certain that the American answer to the French reciprocity suggestion will make no mention of these provisions, confining itself to an exposition of the limitations of law which make the French plan out of the question.

The French comunication not only rejected the most favored nation's treaty negotiations but declined to grant any temporary relentment for American goods of the maximum schedules of the French tariff reform decree of August 30, unless and until the United States had formally committed itself to the French proposal for negotiations on a give and take reciprocity basis as to specific duties imposed by each country. In the event of an agreement for such negotiations, the French communication added that France would be willing to grant a fifty per cent easement from maximum tariff rates on American goods affected, but warned that this temporary relief would be promptly withdrawn and the full maximum rates reimposed in the event the negotiations failed.

CONTROVERSY OVER LEGALITY OF RESCINDING VOTE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 15—There is some diversity of opinion being expressed here on the legality of rescinding the vote taken at a special town meeting September 7, adopting a resolution for holding biennial town elections in Windham, in preference to the annual elections. Acting on a petition presented to him, First Selectman Ernest P. Chesbro has issued a call for another special meeting at which the petitioners propose to give the public a chance to rescind the vote. Political leaders here point out that the meeting will not have the power of rescinding due to the fact that town biennial election was a project enacted by the general assembly and signed by the governor. Once a discretionary law of this nature is accepted by a town by a majority vote at a meeting having been legally advertised, it becomes more than a town law, it is pointed. The acceptance makes biennial elections a state law effective in the town and therefore outside of the town's power to rescind or alter. The petitioners for another meeting on the issue claim that the previous meeting had not received sufficient publicity to attract a representative gathering of the electors. There were but 37 at the meeting, the resolution to adopt the new legislation being adopted by a majority of seven votes. There is a general suspicion that biennial elections is being made somewhat of a political stick to be thrown into the fire of propaganda which precedes elections. Regardless of the worth of the new legislation, it is expected that the discussion Monday night will center about this legal point.

SUPERIOR COURT SESSION HERE IS POSTPONED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 15—A criminal session of the Windham county superior court which was to have been held here today was postponed and will be held as a reopening of the criminal side during the civil session of the term which opens with a short calendar and assignment of cases at Putnam Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Sheriff Charles A. Gates was notified by Clerk of the Court Edgar M. Warner to call off the session scheduled for today thereby postponing until October 4 the case of Alvin Pearl of Windham, charged with reckless driving and to be tried by the court. The criminal session will resume in this city on October 4. At the reopening of the criminal side in Putnam, it is expected that William Kaminski, charged with breaking and entering and theft, will be arraigned. Kaminski pleaded not guilty to the charges last week, while his companion, Stanley Budnick pleaded guilty to similar charges. Burdick will receive his sentence Friday. There is belief that Kaminski will change his plea in which event he will also receive sentence.

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, the funeral of George Edmund Stiles was held at two o'clock this afternoon with a service conducted by Rev. David Winslow Lovett of the local Baptist church and Rev. Raymond Maplesden of Suffield. There was an extensive display of floral tributes attesting to the love and esteem in which the deceased was held. Burial was in the family vault at the Willimantic cemetery. The active pall bearers were, G. Everett Harrington, Homer M. Harrington, George E. Whitford, Archibald W. Buchanan, Jr., and James P. Mustard of this city and Harold T. Robinson of Norwich. The honorary bearers were, William N. Potter, Dwight A. Lyman, Fred Moulton, Arthur I. Bill, W. D. Grant, H. Clinton Lathrop, John F. Carr, John Reilly, Herbert R. Chappell, John E. Brick, Frank Larrabee and Attorney William A. King. During the services the Windham National bank, of which the deceased was a director, and several other institutions with which he was affiliated, were closed. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

The voting list will be increased by 173 for the coming town elections, of that number who have signed as "to be made" voters return to take the elector's oath. The potential voters are to qualify at one of two sessions to be held for that purpose by the board of selectmen, Ernest P. Chesbro, Jeremiah C. Healy and C. Arthur Keeney with Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. There are 101 men on the list and 72 women. The first session will be in the selectmen's room at the town building, Saturday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and the second Saturday, September 24, during the same hours. The town elections come on Monday, October 3 and the city election, Monday, December 5, and the registrars announce that no voters will be made after September 24.

Funeral services for Mrs. Juliette Roy were held from the family home, 93 Quercus avenue this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at nine o'clock. Rev. E. A. Mathieu was celebrant. With Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau at the organ special singing was rendered by the choir. There was a large attendance and many floral tributes were in evidence. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Mathieu conducted a committal service over the grave. The bearers were Adelard Marchand, William Strappler, Albert Martineau, Joseph Therrin, Philip Metivier and Adelard Honrigny.

The activities of the Catholic Welfare council for the season have been outlined and the committee chairmen chosen, it was announced today by Mrs. Joseph B. Riordan, chairman. Mrs. A. J. Squires has been named general chairman of the semi-monthly card club which begins the first Wednesday in October; Mrs. Katherine Pratt is chairman of the music club and Mrs. Susan Sullivan chairman of the current events club. The luncheon committee for the month consists of Mrs. T. J. Connolly, Mrs. Walter Costello, Mrs. Andrew Carey and Miss Kathleen Colgan.

That were exists a general desire for continued education among the youth of this town is manifest, in the decrease of weekly applications for employment certificates. But three children between the ages of 14 and 16 took the examinations at the session held here this forenoon by Archibald W. Buchanan, Sr., of Mansfield, agent for the state board of education.

When struck on the head by a heavy chain suspended from a crane, Russell Hooker of 168 Mansfield avenue, employed by the Jones company at the sand and gravel pit at Dugway Hill was rendered unconscious. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment and there is little likelihood that he will suffer any ill effects from the accident.

Spontaneous combustion in the hayloft of a barn on the farm of John Arndt in the town of Ashford caused the destruction of the barn, the two-story residence and several outbuildings on the place Wednesday. The fire wiped practically all of Mr. Arndt's belongings causing a loss estimated at over $3,000. A volunteer fire-fighting brigade made up of neighbors who rushed in from fields failed to confine the fire to the barn. The residence of 13 rooms burned with all the furniture and furnishings. Two automobiles and a motor truck parked in the yard were also destroyed as well as a garage. The barn contained a large quantity of new hay. Only $800 insurance was carried on the house which was valued at about $2,500. There was no insurance on the barn or garage which represent a total valuation of about $700. Mrs. Andt states that she lost $25 which had been left in a safe.

Adelbert T. Trowbridge is now able to be about the house after being confined to his bed at his home in South Chaplin for ten weeks.

Tom and George have gone to Washington, D. C., to enjoy a week's vacation and take in the captivations of the capital city. They are two old friends, tried and true, and have worked together for years for the Slater Mills. When they do go, it's with eyes wide open, and will experience a keener pleasure than often comes to the confirmed globe trotter. They went from New London on "The Colonial" the New Haven's crack Washington express and were scheduled for the Hell Gate route, with Pullman and diner reservations. It is not to be supposed for a minute that they started at all shy of mazuma. Not so. Tom had a roll in his jeans that would choke a horse, while George carried certified checks in sufficient quantity to paper a small house. No doubt by the time their many town friends are gleaning this intelligence, their cups of happiness will be brimming. Both travelers are members of Mt. Vernon lodge, and one of their cherished objectives is Mt Vernon, the birthplace of Washington. They are going to Arlington, too, and no visitor will ever gaze and wonder at this great, silent bivouac of the dead, with more reverence than Tom and George. Home interests and home duties are aid aside, and none there are in Jewett City, but wish for them every pleasure and a safe return.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON COURT SHOWS CREDIT BALANCE OF $500

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 15—Discussing town court revenues today, Judge W. Fenner Woodward pointed out that while the court shows a credit balance of approximately $500 for the last fiscal year over and above court expenditures, the credit would have been materially higher excepting for certain provisions of the state statutes.

Of the many hundreds of dollars in fines that the court assesses for violations of the liquor laws, half the amount goes to the state if the cases are brought by members of the state police department, as the majority of them have been in Killingly during the past fiscal year. The other half of the money goes to the town. In automobile cases all of the fines imposed go to the state. As violations of the liquor and automobile laws produced the great bulk of the revenue of the court, it will be seen that the court credits would have been materially higher had the town received all of the money. A sidelight on such cases as are herein being considered is, that in case the state loses in a prosecution of them, the entire expense of the prosecution rests on the town. The state does not share in the expense of prosecuting cases where the verdict to it as adverse, though it takes half the money when convictions are obtained.

This afternoon at the home in Brooklyn funeral services for Josiah D. Hunt were conducted by Rev. George E. Hathaway of the Westminster Unitarian church at Providence, with numbers of relatives and friends in attendance. During the service Mrs. Ada Holding Miller of Providence sang Beautiful Isle of Somewhere, and Nearer My God to Thee. Burial was in the Plain Meeting house cemetery, about five miles from Greene, R. I. The bearers were Dr. Calvin M. Parker of Boston, Ralph C. Patton of Providence, S. Irving Frink of Brooklyn and Arthur Thomas of Hartford. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

At the first meeting of Danielson chapter, No. 77, Order of the Eastern Star after the summer recess over 100 were in attendance. A class of six were initiated and matters of special interest was brought up. A pleasing part of the meeting was a visit by the worthy grand patron of the O. E. S. of Connecticut, Joseph C. Lounsbery of West Hartford.

The chapter appropriated money for their usual hospital work at the Masonic home in Wallingford, and a number plan to go to Wallingford for Grand Masters day Sept. 24th. Refreshments of coffee and sandwiches were served and the committee in charge was the Worthy Matron Ethel B. Ingalls and Worthy Chaplain Ethel King.

A sidelight on the transaction that recently brought the Mortlake house at Brooklyn, the place also known as the General Putnam inn, into the possession by purchase, of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt is the publicity of a historical nature now being given other Brooklyn properties by real estate agencies that happen to have them on their selling lists. Press despatches covered the entire nation in telling of Mrs. Roosevelt's purchase, and these have been followed up with illustrated sketches of the ancient tavern, the General Putnam monument that stands beside it and other historical things pertaining to Brooklyn. It is not unlikely that Brooklyn's colonial background will result in various advantages to it, now that so much has been on the subject in print. The real estate men are among the first to capitalize it.

Next Tuesday is entry day for the 78th annual Brooklyn fair. The grounds have been made ready and only good weather is needed to assure the same success that has marked the holding of this old agricultural show during the past decade. The forecast is for heavy entry lists in all departments of the fair, which will be featured by a cattle show, horse racing, the usual midway, band concerts and the like.

A comparatively new line of effort among agriculturists in this and surrounding towns is in these closing days of summer beginning to yield the profits of a long season of labor—this involving the marketing of the Brussels sprouts crop, now valued at thousands of dollars every fall in the territory within six or seven miles of Danielson. The bulk of this crop goes to the Boston market, trucks leaving here at night to reach New England's largest city in the very early hours of the morning. A sort of community shipping arrangement has been perfected and is working out very satisfactorily. It appears that no difficulty is experienced in disposing of the truck loads of sprouts, loaded into crates that are taken out of this territory. Shipments of the crop are now being made, but the bulk of it will not be ready until somewhat later. Finnish, Lithuanian and Polish farmers produce the greater part of this money-making crop, though the native farmers also figure in the development of it.

Lague's barber shop is temporarily removed to quarters over Shumway's Clothing store.—adv.

As compared with the heat wave in the middle west, the chill weather experienced here this afternoon was very much of a contrast.

Because of the demands of his business upon his time, Henry P. Dubuc of Mechanic street has resigned as district deputy for the Knights of Columbus in this territory and has been succeeded by David Derosier of North Grosvenordale. Last evening the new deputy conferred for the first time the third degree, having a class of twenty candidates.

Attempts to steal cars parked on side streets in Danielson at night this week likely will be a warning for motorists to lock their cars or otherwise protect them against being taken.

The barking of shotguns in outlying sections would appear to indicate that there are those who are after protected game prior to the opening of the hunting season next month.

Josiah D. Hunt, whose funeral was held at Brooklyn this afternoon, was for 60 years chaplain of Prescott post, G. A. R., of Providence. It is also mentioned in connection with Mr. Hunt's eventful life that he was for years on a New Bedford whaling ship and visited practically every important port in the world.

A novelty in politics is reported from a neighboring town, where, in an effective speech, a citizen presented his own name for nomination for a town office.

Henry A. Hendrickesen of Lowell visited with friends in Danielson today.

Considerable rot is reported by various potato growers in the territory hereabouts, while other growers find their crop of tubers doing splendidly. There is promise of a generous crop.

A crew of men is engaged in painting the Quinebaug bridge on Main street, the structure to be a sort of battleship gray.

At West Brooklyn the new concrete bridge is practically complete except for surfacing, but is not yet in use, traffic continuing to move over the temporary bridge.

Severian Chartier, who has been in poor health for several years, was reported critically ill today at his home on the West Side.

New York newspapers, in motoring articles advising fine and interesting routes into New England, stress the beauty of the No. 3 route, which is the one running between Hartford and Providence through Danielson.

E. B. Wilfur and Jesse A. Smith are the Killingly jurors that have been drawn for service at the present criminal term of court in Windham county.

George Michie, who has been designer for years at the plant of the Assawaga company in Dayville, has resigned his position.

There is interest among its members here in the quarterly meeting of the Woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital, set for Wednesday next.

Mrs. E. H. Keach has returned to her home on Broad street after having spent the summer at the family summer place at Kelsey Point.

Visitors in Hartford this week were Edward Bacon and Leo Belodeau.

Deer damage is being reported from every nook and corner in this section of the county. The pretty animals have been browsing on cauliflower tops, turnip tops and other green stuffs and are doing hundreds of dollars of damage every week.

Such few candidates for town offices in Killingly as feel the occasion warrants their hustling for votes are out soliciting electors for support, but it so happens that these candidates are few this year.

Miss Florence Moiur of New Bedford is in Danielson to spend the week end with relatives.

There are farmers in towns hereabouts who worried about the corn crop during the early summer who now declare that, given two more weeks without a killing frost, and they will have one of the finest crops on record.

J. Carl Witter of Broad street has been acting as starter on the races at Woodstock fair the past two days.

Marketmen and grocerymen again enjoyed a Thursday half-holiday today, as they will on Thursday during September, but other business houses in Danielson were open as usual.

In view of the fact that the mills at Attawaugan, Ballouville and Pineville are now being operated by Powdrell and Alexander, there is the prospect, more people having work in town than at this time last year, that the enumeration of children now being made will show an increase over the figures for September, 1926.

PUTNAM

WOODSTOCK FAIR REGARDED AS AN UNUSUAL SUCCESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 15—Yesterday and today were the two big days for the Woodstock fair, the 69th exhibition of the Woodstock Agricultural society. The attendance yesterday was almost a record one, and today after the weather cleared up a bit and the sun came out was another big day. This morning the outlook for today's attendance was not very promising but about noon the sun came. Agricultural exhibits are of course, the leading features at the fair, but the racing also attracts many and this afternoon there was an athletic meet, under the direction of L. Edwin Hill, county secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The midway, with its barkers and sideshows and booths and refreshments was a drawing card for many, while others from all over Windham county regard Woodstock fair as an old home day. Woodstock fair this year was regarded by the society as an unusual success.

Arthur Marquis of this city was held at the police station after his arrest by the state police upon the complaint of an Eastford resident, charging him with breaking and entering and theft. Some antiques had been stolen and Marquis was held here pending his hearing at Eastford.

Both tennis courts at the high school are now entirely completed, having been marked and nets are available for them. One of the courts was taped by the high school and the other by the State Trade school and a net kept at each place. The Putnam Tennis association has the charge of the upkeep of the courts, and the wire enclosure is to be kept locked when not in use. The courts are now in excellent condition and Putnam tennis players are now afforded the best courts in this part of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Smith, Jr., who have been the guests of Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Smith and family on Bradley street, have returned to their home in Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Smith is interested in aviation and at present is in charge of the Ford Aviation field at Cleveland.

Miss Ella C. Farrows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olin D. Farrows of Woodstock avenue and Joseph C. Powell were married in Albany, N. Y., on September 6th. The bride is a graduate of the Putnam high school and after her graduation was the bookkeeper for the Ballard and Clark hardware dealers. From there she went to Springfield, Mass., to enter the Bay Path institute and since finishing there has held a clerical position at Springfield. During the past summer with her sister, Miss Lucy Farrows, a teacher at the Israel Putnam school, she spent the summer in California, returned about two weeks ago.

On September 12, Mrs. Powell's only brother, Albert C. Farrows, was married to Miss Bessie Jarvis of Springfield. Mr. Farrows is also a graduate of the Putnam high school and makes his home now at Springfield.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Mary Julia Wright, wife of James M. Wright, for many years a passenger conductor on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at their home in Mansfield, near Willimantic. Mrs. Wright was 68 years old and died on Monday after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Wright was well known in Putnam and lived for a number of years on South Main street. She was born in East Boston in 1860, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morse and was married to James M. Wright in 1878. She is survived by one son, Harry O. Wright, who made his home with his parents. While in Putnam, Mrs. Wright took a prominent part in local affairs. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, the Rebekahs and the Women's Relief corps, in all of which she held prominent offices. Funeral services will be held at her home and the body taken to Sturbridge for burial.

Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows is planning to hold a whist tournament in its hall following the lodge sessions. It is the desire that all of the members of the lodge turn out and make the tournament a success.

Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm M. Willey, who have been spending part of the summer with Prof. Willey's mother, Mrs. Helen M. Willey of Oak Hill, have gone to Minneapolis, where Dr. Willey will take up his duties as instructor of sociology in the University of Minnesota.

James W. Lacey of Fort Worth, Texas, has been the recent guest of friends in Putnam. Mr. Lacey has charge of the southwestern district for one of the largest welding corporations in the country, whose chief business is welding and conserving the steel rails on railroads. This welding has become one of the big national industries as it doubles the life of the tracks. He is now in charge of the New England district for a short time in order to instruct the trackmen of the Boston and Maine Railroad company in the process employed by his company.

The quarterly meeting of the Woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital will be held in the chamber of commerce on Wednesday, September 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Mellor and Mr. and Mrs. Eben Holden have returned from a visit with friends at New Bedford, Mass.

For the Fall Bride! Four Room Outfit $495

Fall brides must see this new and attractive home outfit to appreciate its convenience and fine character. Each room has been selected with expert skill combining these pieces that tastefully and luxuriously furnish a home. Everything harmonizes and every detail has been considered. Arrange to see this set before you furnish your new home.

Young Couples

Our advice on all home furnishing problems is yours for the asking.

The Living Room

A gracefully designed suite, richly upholstered in figured velour forms the foundation for this living room. Many other pieces are included—a davenport table and end table with book trough beneath, both finished in rich walnut color, a mirror, a bridge lamp, and a pair of curtains complete the group. An exceptionally luxurious outfit.

The Dining Room

It is a real convenience to know that each piece of furniture is of excellent quality and above all to know that it harmonizes in every respect. The dining room set includes a beautiful buffet, an oblong extension table, five side chairs and a host chair, all constructed of walnut veneers, combined with other fine cabinet woods. A room size rug and a pair of curtains are also included.

The Bedroom

Refinement is expressed in every graceful line of this beautiful suite, which is made in American walnut veneer, with other cabinet woods. The outfit includes a vanity dresser, bowfoot bed and a spacious dresser with tilting mirror and roomy drawer space. A wonderful bedroom suite for any better home, designed with graceful flowing lines.

The Kitchen

SENSIBLE DECISION

Regardless of the advice of some of the best fliers not to stop the taking of chances by those airmen who are willing to risk their lives in behalf of aviation, it is believed that the best judgment was exercised when Brock and Schlee decided to call off their projected flight across the Pacific from Japan to California with stops at Sand Island and Hawaii.

It is to be realized that they have met with repeated success in their trip around the world up to the time they reached Japan. There they encountered a storm that forced them down. There's no telling but what they would meet similar weather should their Pacific flight be started and should they be forced to surrender themselves to the tender mercies of the boisterous Pacific during a storm they might be quickly added to that fast growing list of aviators who have gone to quick deaths.

Furthermore grossly inadequate preparations have been made for the flight across the Pacific. Sand Island is but a coral stretch a mile and a half long by a half mile wide and 40 feet high at its highest point. Trying to find that on the boundless waste might be easy if all went well, but storms and fog have seriously handicapped those who have been trying to land on continents, much less a low, insignificant island nearly 2500 miles away. The island, if found, has only a sandy beach for a landing place, is without a radio beacon and has no supply of gasoline for an airplane. To carry enough fuel to get to Hawaii would simply be burdening the plane to a dangerous extent.

Fully appreciated must be the courage of those who were desirous of making the attempt to be the first to cross the Pacific at this point but it is preferable that they should be available under better conditions than to make the try and eliminate themselves because the elements willed otherwise.

NARROW ROADS AND SPEED

Many localities have come to realize in the marked increase in motor-vehicle traffic that highways which were plenty wide enough a decade ago, and could nicely accommodate all the traffic at that time, are not adequate today. The narrow road, even though it is improved, the many users and the speed at which many drive, regardless of conditions, create dangers and when it is pointed out that either wider roads or greater care is needed in the interest of safety it is quite often the case that the greater emphasis is placed upon wider roads.

In connection with a movement for the widening of what is known as Defense highway in Maryland, it is admitted by the chairman of the state road commission of that state that the 36 foot road ought to be wider, but that even in its present condition it is not unsafe, provided the users drive at a decent rate of speed. That is well enough as far as it goes, but when this official regards 40 miles an hour as a decent rate of speed it is not surprising that he finds many who disagree with his judgment. Where 40 miles an hour might be regarded as a decent and safe speed on a road sufficiently wide to accommodate traffic without crowding, it can hardly be figured such on a narrow road with heavy traffic, and it is the attempts to drive at such speed, the cutting in and the running onto soft shoulders in keeping away from other traffic that results in so many needless accidents.

It is a matter of experience that the drivers making speed lay claim to all the road they are entitled to and frequently a little more. They figure that their speed will force the other fellow to yield, and the other fellow is only too glad to keep as far as possible from the big or little car that is hugging the center of the road and burning it up. The speedsters are not running on the outside of their part of the roadbed. It isn't wise for them to do it and the consequence is that the other fellow finds himself in an uncomfortable position on a narrow road. The situation is acute when speedsters meet going in opposite directions and neither wants to yield. Narrow roads and high speed cannot be regarded as being conducive to safety.

OUR SHIPPING

Time and again a demand has been made for larger expenditures by the government in behalf of the merchant marine. In spite of the opposition encountered these demands continue. They call for the reconstruction of vessels, reconditioning, the building of modern freighters and the investment in fast passenger ships. We are constantly being told that our merchant marine needs to be brought up to date and this in spite of the fact that the merchant marine has already cost us more than three billion dollars, the American shippers are not demanding the moving of our goods in American bottoms and it is impossible for the government to get out of the business and turn it over to private capital.

With other nations the shipping lines receive government subsidies. That idea has been repeatedly advanced in this country without success, although the government is paying heavily for the maintenance of such ships as are operated and those which are swinging idly at anchor.

Indications point clearly to the fact that the merchant marine will be one of the matters to command much of the time of the next congress. There are advocates of government ownership who shut their eyes to the bill of expense that goes with it. There is recognition of the desirability of keeping open certain of the trade lines which have been established, but there is a keen desire for the government to get out of the business and have the merchant marine handled entirely by private capital.

When that step is urged there is always raised the question of so modifying existing laws concerning shipping that American shippers can compete with those of other countries. Our laws do not permit this at the present time and thus successful competition is strangled.

The situation is a complicated one. There is no certainty that the next congress will be able to solve it but it can be expected that it will be kept to the front until some adjustment is reached. In the meantime it must be expected that the government will pay.

MR. MELLON'S POSITION

We have reached that time in relation to another presidential campaign when it is necessary to wait for confirmation of certain statements which are attributed to men in important positions.

Efforts have been made to get Secretary Mellon to talk since his return from Europe concerning presidential candidates. Thus far there hasn't been much success and it is fair to draw inferences only if the whole situation is set forth.

When Mr. Mellon called in the reporters to clear up any misunderstandings he recognized the danger from distorted statements and he has taken care to make it plain that it is his belief that when President Coolidge declared that he did not choose to be a candidate for the presidency in 1928 he meant what he said.

When it comes to getting the secretary on record as backing the candidacy of any other other person no one has as yet succeeded, although it is indicated that in case the president is actually out of the race and would not consider a renomination Mr. Mellon looks with favor as his successor upon Charles E. Hughes.

That is far from putting himself back of Mr. Hughes as a candidate. If developments come right it is indicated where Mr. Mellon's influence might be expected to go but that is decidedly different than taking a stand for and putting Mr. Hughes into the field at the present time. There is the demand for the renomination and reelection of President Coolidge which stands in the way.

A MYSTERY PREVENTIVE

Mysteries are not new for New York. It has always been a center for them and it gives promise of continuing. The big city gets a bit lonesome when it hasn't something out of the ordinary that calls for a solution.

Just now it is much concerned over a lost child. That is, the parents think it is lost but whether it is or not furnishes the element of mystery. In one of the hospitals a baby was born. After the birth the parents were told that they had a son and the news was spread accordingly. Within a day or two the parents were confronted with the news that their son was a daughter and now they are trying to find out if there has really been a mixup of children, where the boy is if it was a boy and just who could have been so careless as to have given them the report that it was a boy if it really was a girl. The parents aren't satisfied with the explanation that the nurse in her haste attached to the child's arm a marker indicating a boy when the baby should have been tagged as a girl.

In hospitals where there are so many children such mixups have occurred before, only there has been no question in many instances but what the parents have actually been given the wrong baby. Here there is the prospect that the nurse mixed the tags and not the babies, but it becomes quite apparent that had the finger or the footprint system been in operation at that institution there would have been eliminated any chance of the present uncertainty. Every case of such doubt as the New York parents are laboring under strengthens the need for an efficient identification system.

ELIZABETH ANN'S SALESMANSHIP

The voice of the mother of Elizabeth Ann McCartney was raised in loud lamentation because of a $90 coat which she had purchased, on credit, to wear to a theater party. She didn't think it was becoming and how was she ever going to pay for it!

Elizabeth paid little attention to her mother's lamentations, partly because she was used to them, partly because she had worries of her own and partly because she was engrossed in a want ad. The fortunes of Elizabeth Ann were directly affected by the $90 coat purchase, which had a direct bearing upon any purchases Elizabeth Ann might desire to make.

For instance, Elizabeth Ann felt a strong impulse toward one of those waterproof garments known as a "slicker." All the girls with whom Elizabeth went to school had "slickers," and by a strange coincidence nearly all the slickers worn by her friends were red slickers. There was a red slicker in the window of the very store at which Mrs. McCartney had purchased the aforementioned $90 coat. This slicker in the window was being offered at a special sale for only $9. Elizabeth Ann had noted the price with a gasp of passionate hope, but the purchase of Mrs. McCartney's coat had removed all possibility for any negotiation for the waterproof coat. Slopping around in the rain without a red slicker, or any sort of slicker whatever, when the other girls had them was a sore experience.

But then there was that ad in the newspaper. A used car was described as needing paint. The words "needs paint" started active gyrations in the brain of Elizabeth Ann. She had a doll buggy which needed paint. Sometimes people said that Elizabeth Ann did not favor her mother at all, that she was more like her uncle J. J. than anybody else, especially around the eyes. And now when Elizabeth Ann gazed right through her mother without seeing her as she contemplated the "needs paint" idea her expression was decidedly Uncle J-ish.

"Needs paint," said Elizabeth Ann to herself, still looking at her mother, although the terms were quite inappropriate in connection with that lady.

Elizabeth was interested in the advertisement for another reason. She knew nothing about used cars. She had a friend who dealt in them. This friend, Mr. Blodget by name, worked in a wrecker's yard during business hours, and at home in his own yard when he was resting. Elizabeth Ann knew Mr. Blodget and Mrs. Blodget and Junior. She was an intimate friend of the Blodget family and often engaged in confabs with them.

Mr. Blodget was only mildly interested in the car that needed paint. If it had needed axles or engines or something of that sort he would have been keenly alert. He was like a surgeon who dealt only in extremely difficult operations. But from cars that needed paint the conversation drifted to doll buggies that needed paint and in due time Elizabeth started for home with two cans containing two different kinds of paint and a paint brush.

Not long after this a wide lady in a wide fur cape appeared at the none too-wide doorway leading into the home of Elizabeth Ann.

"I came to look at the doll buggy that's advertised for sale" she announced. "I understand that it's as good as new."

"Just the same as new," repeated Elizabeth Ann. "I'll show it to you."

"But it isn't new! And I think $15 an exhorbitant price for it!"

"Wait till you see it!" responded Elizabeth Ann. Passing through the kitchen Elizabeth Ann encountered her mother, who caught her by the arm urgently.

"Let her have it for $10!"

Elizabeth Ann returned to the living room trundling a red resplendent doll buggy with stripes and streaks and other embellishments. The child put the buggy through all its various postures, pointed out the balloon tires and the demountable rims. She spoke the language of the used-car man as she had learned it from Mr. Blodget.

"This is a real wagon," she declared. "An expert mechanic has been all over it and it's as tight as a tub. Nobody could tell it from a new boat. Somebody'll be tickled to death to pay me $15 for it because it looks like new. It's worth $20 of anybody's money!"

"Sell it for $12," whispered Mrs. McCartney urgently.

"I couldn't think of paying $15 for a second-hand buggy!" insisted the lady. "I couldn't think of it!"

"Oh, well take it along with you for $12," conceded Elizabeth Ann magnanimously, and the lady left with the doll buggy in her possession. Twelve whole dollars lay in the palm of Elizabeth Ann's hand and the red slicker was just around the corner.

"You're just like your Uncle J. J.!" said her mother admiringly.

"I don't see any signs of rain!" sighed Elizabeth Ann.—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

DYSPEPSIA

By Robert T. Morris, M. D., New York City

Member Gorgas Memorial

There is a saying in the medical profession which is paradoxical to the ear of the layman: that when one has stomach trouble, it is not stomach trouble that one has.

That is a half truth which carries the whole truth by implication. What is the other half of the truth? It is this: dyspepsia is nothing more than a symptom, like a headache for example, or like a cough or a sneeze. When a patient has dyspepsia or a headache or a cough it is a signal to the doctor to find out what is really the matter.

Why should the stomach speak up so loudly in a case of dyspepsia very much as the brain does when it cries out with a headache? The reason is briefly that the stomach is closely in touch with very large nerve centers.

Nerves are telephone wires which carry messages from all parts of the body to central nerve stations, the main one of which is the brain. There are many others but a very large one is known as the solar plexus, and is located near the stomach.

What does this mean? It means for example that if a man has a painful corn on his foot, messages of an irritating nature may be sent to the solar plexus or central station near the stomach. The stomach listens-in on this message because the stomach is on a party line and obliged to hear the message that is sent from the painful spot in the foot to the solar plexus. The solar plexus is in such close contact with the stomach that whatever irritation to the one commonly goes to the other.

Perhaps we may get a better picture of chronic dyspepsia by turning for a moment to the subject of acute indigestion. This is a popular term for various conditions suddenly involving the solar plexus. The stomach makes a sympathetic and feeling response to illness elsewhere. Acute indigestion may mean that the patient, due to hard arteries, has had a crisis in heart action or perhaps a blood vessel in the brain broken. Violent infection of the appendix causes "acute indigestion." In other words when we read in our favorite newspaper that a man has died from acute indigestion we are to understand off-hand that there was nothing at all the matter with his stomach.

In very many people the muscles of the two eyes are not evenly balanced because of some ordinary defect. If the muscles of one eye are obliged to keep tugging away in an attempt to make that eye focus evenly with the other eye, the tugging muscles become tired when one is engaged in reading fine print or doing needlework calling for close attention. One or both brains may "talk back." The head brain may respond with a headache and the stomach brain may respond with digestive disturbance. The patient says that he has dyspepsia. The doctor on the other hand says that the eye muscles are tired. Comfort may be given and cure of the dyspepsia may result from proper adjustment of glasses to rest the overworked eye muscles.

Irritating messages go to the solar plexus from many directions. Eye strain, anger, fatigue, and almost any or all abdominal ailments send them in and cause reaction by the stomach, popularly known as dyspepsia. This is a partial list of the causes for dyspepsia. A complete outline of the subject would make a volume almost like an outline of science or an outline of history. My object is to impress people with the idea that if they attempt home treatment for dyspepsia they will find it largely futile, because dyspepsia is merely a symptom which occurs from a wide variety of causes.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. F. Scott McBride, who is regarded as the likely choice of the Anti-Saloon League of America to succeed the late Wayne B. Wheeler as national leader of the organization, is now the general superintendent of the league. He has been identified with the league work for more than fifteen years and is regarded by the leaders as best qualified to maintain the organization in power by aggressive tactics, especially in politics. Dr. McBride is a native of Carroll county, Ohio, which has given numerous leaders to the temperance movement. Muskingum college gave him his early education. In 1901 he was graduated from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary and in the same year was ordained in the United Presbyterian ministry. Previous to coming to his present position in 1924 he had been district and state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league in Illinois.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

BARODA

"Baroda city, reported flooded by 10 feet of water, is the capital of Baroda state, one of the largest and wealthiest of India's native states," says a bulletin fro mthe Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The capital lies about 250 miles north of Bombay. It is the residence of one of India's most illustrious Gaekwars and also is an important railroad junction and commercial center. The railroad from Bombay to Delhi passes through Baroda and other lines penetrate the fertile farming regions in the neighborhood.

"Baroda has some of the finest cotton lands in India. Rice, wheat, sugar and other commodities flourish in the highly productive alluvial soil. The well kept farms with their hedges and trees, which surround the city, give the landscape the appearance of a large English park.

"The city proper is inclosed in the walls of an old fort with gates at frequent intervals," continues the bulletin. "Approaching the city from the railroad, which is in a new section, one is impressed with the accomplishments of modern city planning. At first the road is broad and straight and one can imagine oneself on the boulevard of a European capital except for the endless swarm of Hindus. Then, as the gate is reached, the picture changes—an oriental city with its narrow, tortuous streets, is entered. However, even Baroda's old section has been improved during the last decade. A reservoir and filtration plant furnish pure water, a sewage system has been constructed, streets and roads have been widened, and many of the old, dilapidated buildings have been replaced. The streets are kept clean and well-lighted at night.

"Numerous huge temples that pierce the skyline indicate that Baroda is a Hindu stronghold. Nearly four-fifths of the 103,000 inhabitants are Hindus.

"Leading from the Laharipura, or western gate, is a wide thoroughfare pass through the city. It is fringed with wards, the gates of which are heavily barred against outsiders. Each ward is set aside for a separate caste or class in true oriental fashion.

"Near the eastern end of the thoroughfare is the Nazar Bagh, a white stucco palace which is the depository for the jewels of the Gaekwar. They are said to be worth about $10,000,000. Among them is a diamond necklace containing the famous 'Star of the South' diamond, a brilliant stone weighing 128 carats. Another part of the collection is a cloth embroidered with precious stones and seed pearls. It was made to cover the tomb of Mohammed.

"Four miles south of the city is Makarpura palace, summer residence of the Gaekwar, noted for its beautiful gardens, fountains, grottoes and pergolas. The third of the ruler's residences, and the principal one, is Lakshmi Vilas. This building contains a huge Darbar hall, the walls and floors of which are decorated with Italian mosaic. Screened wooden galleries around the hall provide reserved seats for the ladies who wish to observe state functions.

"Last year the Gaekwar of Baroda celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his coronation. In 1875 the ruler of the state was accused of an attempt to poison a British official and was deposed. The present ruler, a collateral relative, was a young lad when he ascended the throne in 1875. He was the son of a humble herdsman. He is one of only five Indian rulers entitled to receive a salute of 21 guns.

"Baroda state has an area of 8,000 square miles but is 'sprinkled' over 90,000 square miles. It is divided into four prants or districts. Each district includes a large area, with numerous small patches of land nearby. One of these patches is 225 miles from the capital on the easternmost tip of the Kathiwar peninsula."

CHILD TRAINING

MOTHER INTERFERES

Pauline Herr Thomas

"Let's play wash-day," said Jeanne.

"Oo, yes, let's! I'll wash and you iron," said Arlene.

"No, I want to wash."

"No, you won't either. Then I won't play. I'm going right home."

I tried to close by ears to this continual disagreement between my little girl and her playmate. I was reminded of a crowd of boys in the back lot trying to organize a ball game without a captain. The two children disagree so much that they could not accomplish their ends in play.

I had heard so much about the error of interfering in children's arguments that I had steadfastly refused to do so. Yet, I felt that I could discriminate. The children were not just quarreling—they were refusing to recognize one or the other as leader and so failing to organize their play. It seemed to me that the fairly cried out for a captain, so I decided to act in that capacity.

Whenever a disagreement arose which promised to be of sufficient consequence to break up a play, but which was not of a personal nature such as a test of strength or ability, I would step by and inquire what seemed to be the trouble; I would suggest that each tell her side of the argument and, together, we would weigh the advantages and disadvantages of each, after which I would suggest a plan of procedure. After they had given it a trial, I would inquire how the plan worked. Of course, it justified itself, and they would be enthusiastic.

After a period of such procedure, I began to withdraw my own personality in the decision, leaving suggestions and plans entirely to them. In this way it was not long before I needed "to interfere" no longer—they came to me, instead of my going to them. I found their judgment to be much better than I suspected, and they were solving their problems as well as learning valuable lessons in judgment and decision.

I still remain the kindly monitor who they know will listen and even suggest, if they wish, but for the most part, I have dropped out of the picture. They settle their disputes "out of court," as it were.

"Let's play house," says Jeanne.

"Oo, yes, let's," says Arlene.

"I want the dishes and you can have the washing set."

"Oh, no, I want the dishes."

"I said I wanted them first."

"Then I won't play!"

"Oh yes, come on, Arlene, I'll tell you what let's do—I'll be the mother and have all the things in the house, and you'll be the lady that comes to see and then—"

"Oh, yes, then I'll be the mother and and you'll be the lady."

"Won't that be a good plan?"

"Then we'll each have them both to play with," say both at once.

So the play goes on to a finish, Jeanne and Arlene are happy,—and Mother is happy, too!

Victory

Did you tackle the trouble that came your way
With a resolute heart and cheerful?
Or hide your face from the light of day
With a craven soul and fearful?
O, a trouble's a ton, or a trouble's an ounce,
Or trouble is what you make it
And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts,
But only, how did you take it?

You are beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that?
Come up with a smiling face;
It's nothing against you to fall flat,
But to lie there, that's disgrace.
The harder you're thrown, why the higher you bounce;
Be proud of your blackened eye.
It isn't the fact that you're licked that counts,
It's how did you fight—and why?

And though you be done to the death, what then?
If you battled the best you could,
If you played your part in the world of men,
Why, the critic will call it good.
Death comes with a crawl or comes with a pounce,
And whether he's slow or spry,
It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts,
But only—how did you die?

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Mysterious Disappearance

Mystery is seldom nice,
But it gives to life a spice.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Farmer Brown's Boy looked at Farmer Brown, Farmer Brown looked at Mother Brown, and Mother Brown looked at the other two, and on each face was the same funny expression. They were standing in the room of Farmer Brown's Boy.

"Well," said Mother Brown, "what do you make of it? Is that a real Bear, or is it a ghost Bear?"

Farmer Brown grinned. "By the looks of things around this house I'll say that it's a real Bear," said he. "But where under the sun he's gone to now is beyond me. We heard him racing around upstairs here when we started to come up and he hasn't had a chance to get downstairs since. He must be here."

"But where?" asked Farmer Brown's Boy. "None of the closet doors is open. Nevertheless, I've looked in every closet. We've pulled the clothes off every bed. There isn't a place in these rooms big enough for a squirrel to hide, let alone a Bear, even if he is little. He couldn't have gotten out of the windows, because the screens are in all of them. He must have gotten downstairs somehow; though how, I haven't the least idea."

Farmer Brown shook his head. "No," said he, "he couldn't have gotten downstairs. He was upstairs when you and I started up. Your mother was at the foot of the stairs by the time we were at the top. He couldn't possibly have gone downstairs without being seen by her."

Farmer Brown's Boy grinned. "All perfectly true," said he, "so supposing you tell us where he is."

It was Farmer Brown's turn to grin. "He's a mystery Bear," said he. "It looks to me as if he couldn't get out, but did. Probably he is laughing at us now. Are you absolutely sure that no closet door was open? One may have been open and blown to after he had gone in, or been pushed to."

"I am absolutely sure," replied Farmer Brown's Boy, "but just to make doubly sure, we'll go through those closets again. Mother can stay right here at the head of the stairs while we search the closets in all the rooms."

So Mother Brown remained at the head of the stairs while Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy opened and searched every closet. They made a good job of it, too. But they didn't find Cubby. Moreover, they didn't find any signs that Cubby had been in any of the closets. There was no stickiness anywhere. Nothing was upset or disarranged, as was the case in the various bedrooms.

"Well," said Mother Brown.

"It isn't well," said Farmer Brown. "That Bear isn't in any of the closets. He isn't in any of the bedrooms. You've seen that for yourself. I think he is bewitched."

All this time Cubby was in one of the bedrooms and he wasn't bewitched. Where do you think he was? This much I can tell you: Wherever he was, he was keeping very, very still. He was keeping as still as any mouse that ever lived.

Stories That Recall Others

He Will Learn

Six year old Don has been thrilled by all the aviation events of the summer and searches for pictures of airplanes and pilots in every paper. The Honolulu air race claimed attention for several days.

Everyone was excited over the winning of the race by Goebel and Jensen, and interested in the fate of the other two planes. Not hearing anything from Miss Doran and the Golden Eagle, Don came in one evening and noticing his father reading the paper, exclaimed: "Oh, daddy, have they found those folks that got lost in the Hallelujah race?"

Just Gin

The proprietor of a butcher shop kept a jug of water in the refrigerator. One day he was drinking from the jug when a large colored woman, one of his customers, entered the store.

"Say, boss, that looks mighty suspicious," said the newcomer, with an interested look in her eyes.

"This isn't what you think it is, auntie," said the butcher, wishing to tease her. This isn't anything at all—just a little gin—a little cheap gin."

"Lawdy, boy," said the woman hurrying herself, "you don't know what you is saying. Gin! That sure do make my mouth water."

Only the proof of the contents of the jug would satisfy auntie that her aroused hopes were doomed to disappointment.

Now—this safe way gets clothes whitest yet

No more washboard scrubbing—no boiling

INSTEAD of rubbing out dirt (and rubbing out the life of your clothes!) try this gentle new soak-and-rinse way!

Just use Rinso in place of ordinary soap. It's all you need. It gives thick, creamy suds even in hard water. Not frothy soap bubbles—but suds.

A tubful of these sparkling suds will soak your wash spotless. No boiling, no scrubbing, no washboard—just soak and rinse! See if this safe, easy Rinso way doesn't get clothes whiter!

So easy on hands, too. Keeps them from getting red and washworn.

Great in washers! The makers of 30 leading machines endorse it.

FUNERAL
Mrs. Gustav Kaempffe.

Funeral services for Mrs. Gustav Kaempffe were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home in Lisbon with a large number of mourners, including relatives and friends from Brooklyn, N. Y., New Bedford, Mass., Attleboro, Mass., and Plainfield. The services were conducted by Rev. Herman Huxzinger, pastor of the German Lutheran church of Norwich.

Burial was in the family plot in Ames cemetery, Lisbon, where a committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Hunzinger. The bearers were Martin, Richard, George and Herman Krauss, brothers, George Hermann and Alwin Kaempffe, brothers-in-law. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George G. Grant of Taftville.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and included:

Besides those previously mentioned Mrs. Kaempffe is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Krauss, four brothers, Martin, Richard, George and Herman Krauss, and three sisters, the Misses Wilhemina and Louise Krauss and Mrs. George Hermann, all of Lisbon.

In the death of Mrs. Kaempffe the community loses one who has been highly respected and whose long residence in the town had gained for her a wide circle of friends, who learned of her death with sincere regret. She was a loving wife and mother; her place in the home can never be filled and her departure from this life will be greatly felt by her associates.

OBITUARY
Harry Watkins Trafton

Harry Watkins Trafton, formerly of this city, son of the late Charles and Ellen Trafton, died in Boston on Sept. 13, 1927. He was born in this city on Aug. 10, 1874.

Mr. Trafton, until his removal to Boston to become connected with the drug business there where he became a noted pharmacist, was well known locally. He was a graduate of Norwich Free Academy, was a member of Christ Episcopal church and the boys' choir and sang in the quartet at Park Congregational church for many years. He was also a member of the Y. M. C. A. where he often played the piano and organ at the various entertainments.

In Boston he entered the College of Pharmacy from which he graduated and was associated with Dr. Arthur Hudson of Newton, Mass., well known bacteriologist, for many years. In 1923 he became proprietor of the West Roxbury pharmacy and was also associated with the local interests of West Roxbury.

He married Helen Reed of Boston in 1915, who survives him. He is also survived by his mother, Ellen Trafton.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Emmanuel Episcopal church, West Roxbury.

Miss Katherine E. Lyons

Following a long illness Miss Katherine E. Lyons, secretary, treasurer and manager of the Lyons Co., store, 13 Broadway, died Thursday morning at her home, No. 59 McKinley avenue. Miss Lyons was the daughter of the late Dennis and Margaret Trainor Lyons and was born in Norwich. She was educated in the local schools and had always made her home in this city.

Surviving Miss Lyons are two sisters, Mrs. R. F. Sullivan of this city, and Mrs. Eugene F. Farley, New Haven, three nieces, Misses Margaret and Katharine Sullivan and Miss Ruth Farley and one nephew, Francis R. Sullivan. Miss Lyons was widely known throughout Norwich and vicinity and the news of her death was received with deep regret by all her friends and acquaintances.

William A. Card.

The death of William A. Card occurred Wednesday morning at his home on the Canterbury turnpike after a long illness. He was the son of Charles P. and Mary White Card and was born in Westminister and educated in Plainfield where he spent most of his life up to six years ago. He had been employed for 13 years as a motorman by the Connecticut company, but for the last six years had worked at the A. C. Swan Co., in this city. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen and was affiliated with the Baptist church. Mr. Card is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Elalia Phillips Card, and by a son, Emory Card, of this city.

WOOLEN MEN OF NEW ENGLAND TOOK PART IN ANNUAL GOLF TOURNEY HERE

About 100 men connected with the woolen industry, either as wool brokers or woolen manufacturers, gathered Thursday at the Norwich Golf club for the annual one-day golf tournament and dinner. The price of wool was the least of the troubles of this assemblage who barred shop talk during the day and devoted their attention strictly to the ancient and royal game. Golf was the order of the day and 88 players trooped to the dinner table shortly before seven o'clock and 36 holes of golf under the most favorable of golfing conditions.

The repast was a steak dinner prepared by Chef Strandberg of the club and was heartily enjoyed. After dinner addresses and talks were brief and snappy and dealt largely with the happenings of the day which was voted one of the best ever. W. G. Park, David M. Morton, Philip S. Hall and Charles A. Saxton was the local committee in charge.

In the golf tournament David M. Morton of Norwich and Harold Pinney of Stafford Springs led the field with a low gross of 78 and in the toss-up for first prize Mr. Morton was the winner. The field was divided into two divisions, a manufacturers' division and a dealers' division. Prizes for low gross and low net were awarded in both divisions. The prizes were awarded as follows:

Manufacturers' Division.

Low gross—First, David M. Morton, 78; second, Harold Pinney, 78; third, David Mitchell.

Low nets—First, Silas Wheelock, 65; second, Tom Greives, 67; third, George Ellis, 71; fourth, Ralph Hartland, 71; fifth, Percy Ainsworth, 72; sixth, Chas. Bottomley, 72; seventh, Ronald Mitchell, 72; eighth, W. Keeney, 73; ninth, Philip S. Hall, 73; tenth, Charles Pinney, 73; eleventh, Benjamin Hall, 74; twelfth, F. G. Way, 76; thirteenth, W. Haig, 76; fourteenth, R. Connelly, 77; fifteenth, M. Pendleton, 77; sixteenth, J. T. Hunter, 77.

Dealers' Division.

Low gross—First, O. Forte, 82; second, Harry Bloomfield, 85; third, M. Hyslop, 86.

Low net—First, Albert Snyder, 64; second, Frank Mullen, 69; third, J. Whitman, 71; fourth, R. Lindsey, 71; fifth, Jack Billings, 72; sixth, J. Jonhodrow, 72; seventh, P. Teolon, 73; eighth, C. Beatty, 74; ninth, B. Allison, 74; tenth, J. Cockery, 73; eleventh, J. Garrettson, 75; twelfth, H. Sawyer, 75; thirteenth, W. Walker, 76; fourteenth, N. Dupee, 77; fifteenth, B. Harmon, 78; sixteenth, A. Robinson, 78.

The prizes included bolt of woolen suitings donated by the manufacturers and silver and glassware given by the dealers and were very beautiful.

SALEM LIBRARY HAD HIGH CIRCULATION IN YEAR

The thirteenth annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Salem library was held last Saturday, at the home of Senator Hiram Bingham in Salem. Before the meeting Senator Bingham entertained the members of the board at a delightful luncheon. This feature of the annual meeting has always been such a delightful attraction that no member of the board of trustees is ever absent unless it is absolutely impossible for him to attend. The Salem library was established in the fall of 1915 and probably no other organization ever had at its meetings a more nearly 100 per cent attendance than has been true of the meetings of the trustees of the Salem library, all of which is due to the delightful place of the meeting and the engaging personality of its president, for Senator Bingham has been president of the organization since its beginning.

The usual routine matters of the board were disposed of. The treasurer's account showed a balance of $200. The circulation of the library has been high, showing that the little town of Salem appreciates the service rendered by the library. During the summer the library committee held its annual festival which netted the library the sum of $50. A vote expressing hearty appreciation for the work of the librarian and the library committee rendered during the year was passed. As a result of the discussion and consideration, the board finally instructed the chairman of the library committee, Mr. Lane, to take from the shelves of the library those books which were no longer used and pack them in boxes. This is done to make room for new books, the facilities of the library at present being so limited that it was found necessary to make way for new books.

There were present Senator Hiram Bingham, Hon. E. E. Beaver, Professor Harry W. Foote, James Lane and John A. Young, Professor E. W. Brown who has always been very regular in attendance was unable to be present at the meeting.

At the close of the meeting each of the trustees contributed in his usual manner to the support of the library for the following year.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Board of trustees—President, Senator Hiram Bingham; secretary-treasurer, John A. Young; Ernest E. Rogers, Professor Harry W. Foote, Professor E. W. Brown, James Lane, first selectman, town of Salem. Librarian—Mrs. Helen Malona. Library committee—Chairman, James Lane, Mrs. Edward Mitchell, Mrs. Donald Fraser, Miss Harriet Lane, Miss Alice Rix, Lawrence Spencer.

CONFERENCE LEADERS FOR CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR MEETING

Clarence Hamilton of Boston, field manager of the international society, and Mrs. Madeline Kruse of Hartford, former field secretary of Kansas, are to be the leaders for the New London County Christian Endeavor conference which is to be held Saturday at the Norwich Town Congregational church. There will be afternoon and evening sessions.

The programme for the afternoon session begins at 2:30 with a praise service, devotional service and the conference continuing until 5 o'clock. From 5 to 6 will be the social hour and the banquet will be served at 6 o'clock.

The evening session will open at 7 o'clock with a praise service and devotional period, followed by an address by Mr. Hamilton at 7 o'clock.

SEEKS N. E. SUPPORT FOR NEWTON THEOLOGICAL INST.

Professor James P. Berkeley of Newton Theological institution, Newton Centre, Mass., spoke Wednesday afternoon before the annual conference of the New London association of the Connecticut Baptist State convention in Flanders church, East Lyme. Professor Berkeley outlined the program of the seminary for the coming year and led a discussion of the support to be given by churches in this district to the intensive church campaign scheduled for next month in behalf of the school.

The success of Newton's million-dollar "Second Century Fund" campaign, it was said, will depend from now on on the widespread support of New England Baptist laymen. Since the opening of the drive last spring, more than $150,000 has been secured from a small number of subscribers, while John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the board of education of the Northern Baptist convention have each made conditional pledges of $100,000. With the resumption of active work following the summer interval, according to Professor Berkeley, Baptist churches of the New London association and throughout New England are now asked to accept a definite share of the amount to be raised. Two plans of raising this quota are suggested: by securing a limited number of individual gifts from members of the congregation, or by raising the sum through a churchwide effort as a part of the denominational program.

Professor Berkeley's presentation of Newton's program was one of a series of similar addresses now being given by friends of the seminary before 35 local Baptist associations throughout New England.

DROPS DEAD AT END OF FAMILY PARTY

George G. Avery, about 60, of No. 241 Broad street, New London, died suddenly in this city shortly after midnight this (Friday) morning. Mr. Avery came to Norwich to attend a social gathering at the home of his brother-in-law, George B. Crosby, of No. 93 Franklin street. As he was about to depart for home he dropped dead in the hallway of the house. Dr. A. C. Freeman was called but Mr. Avery was beyond medical aid. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner was notified and conducted an investigation after which he gave Undertaker C. A. Gager permission to remove the body to his undertaking rooms.

Mr. Avery is survived by his wife and one son, Griswold Avery of New London. Mr. Avery was a well known follower of the race track and for years was a timer at the New London county fair in this city. For many years he was in livery business in New London, but retired a number of years ago. The news of his sudden death will be received with keen regret on the part of his many friends and acquaintances. He had been in poor health for some time and his death was caused by heart trouble.

WE MODERNS BEGINNING THEIR PINOCHLE SEASON

Mrs. Charles Prodell entertained the We Moderns at her home at 53 Fourth street, Thursday afternoon, with all the members present. At the first game of the series of pinochle, Mrs. Jensen had the high score and Mrs. Prodell the second.

Lunch was served after cards by hostess. The club meets with Mrs. Manchester of Laurel Hill avenue next week.

BOZRAH SECTION WOMEN ENTERTAINED STATE SECTIONS

The Bozrah section of the National Council of Jewish Women entertained the members of all Connecticut sections at a luncheon and bridge party Wednesday at Nadelson's Spruce lodge, Fitchville, with an attendance of over 75. The tables were set in a novel manner, beautifully decorated with ferns and flowers. Other decorations consisted of American flags, bunting around a huge poster on which was inscribed the word, Welcome.

At 1:15 p. m. a dainty and delicious luncheon was served by the members of the Bozrahville council, with Mrs. Nathan Gilman acting as chairman and before partaking of lunch Mrs. Gilman requested all to stand so they might pay our respect to Old Glory. Following the singing of America, Mrs. Bernard Freeman, president of the Hartford section, read the council prayer. The chairman in behalf of the Bozrahville council, extended a most cordial welcome to the members and their guests and then spoke in part as follows:

"The members of our section have looked forward with great anticipation to this pleasure of greeting you here today and extend to you all a most cordial welcome to our town. I assure you this is a very proud and happy moment for a small section like Bozrahville to have this opportunity to reciprocate the many courtesies and cordial hospitality accorded us at your various council functions. We are not going to adhere to any formalities today. We are just going to try to give expression to the thought, which was uppermost in the mind of our state president, Mrs. I. L. Cohen, when she conceived the idea of a closer contact for Connecticut section. So I hope, you will enter in the spirit to help make this a real council get-to-gether, a rally of good will and friendship and opportunity to renew old friendships and make new acquaintances, to promote the spirit of good fellowship, which is one of the fundamental principles for which the council stands and is so justly proud of. I feel that it is this spiritual unity that has made the council what it is today, that it is that very spirit which draws us together from far and wide and it is that spirit, which stirs us on to greater and noble deeds. Let us do all in our power to keep this spirit alive."

Following the address of welcome by Mrs. Gilman, Mrs. Bernard Freeman, president of the Hartford section, responded briefly; also Mrs. I. L. Cohen, state conference president, and Mrs. H. P. Levy, honorary and first president of the Hartford section.

Each speaker congratulated and highly complimented the Bozrahville section on the splendid and successful manner in which it carried out the first council get-to-gether, which was so well exemplified in the cordial hospitality and the spirit of good fellowship, which prevailed here today. Some spirited singing was done during the luncheon hour, all joining in; adding much to the pleasure of the day was also the violin and piano selection, beautifully rendered by George Gulle of Norwich, accompanied by Mrs. Jannette Manes of Norwich.

After the luncheon a bridge party was enjoyed and prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. Goldie Hermann and Mrs. Rose Cohen of Norwich, Mrs. A. F. Goldberg and Mrs. I. Glotzer, the last two named members of the Hartford section, which was well represented.

The committee in charge of arrangements follows: Mrs. Nathan Gilman, Mrs. M. Nadelson, Mrs. J. Manes, Mrs. Belle Rubinstein, Mrs. Hermann, Mrs. Miller, Miss Ida Laskowicz, Mrs. C. Fishbone, Mrs. F. Schatz.

SUGGESTS STATE TREES FOR PENNIMAN HIGHWAY

The project of honoring George Washington the coming year by a 13 mile highway of the Thirteen Original States, from Washington to Mt. Vernon, each original state to beatify one of the 13 miles, was suggested recently by Dr. James H. Penniman, of Philadelphia, a former resident of Norwich. The project has been taken up with great interest by the newspapers and prominent individuals throughout the nation.

Now Dr. Anne H. Wharton, of Malvern, Penn., makes another suggestion which appears very pleasing. Dr. Wharton has written many books on Colonial times. She says regarding Dr. Penniman's plan:

"I think the idea of a highway from Washington, presumably from the capitol, to Mount Vernon a beautiful plan; a fine, wide avenue to connect the points and why not have each state plant in its special mile the tree that belongs to it?"

Connecticut would naturally chose the elm, Pennsylvania the oak or maple; perhaps the magnolia would be the tree for one of the southern states—although a live oak would seem to belong to South Carolina. This could all be arranged by an expert.

"Like Joyce Kilmer, I think trees are the most beautiful things we have—and when it comes to statues and decorations such lamentable mistakes are often made."

WEDDINGS
Start-Hill

The wedding of Miss Margaret Hill, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William Austin Hill of New Rochelle, and Cedric Hubbell Start, son of Mrs. Margaret Hubbell Start of New York city, took place Saturday, September 3, at the summer home of the bride's parents at Isle La Motte, Vermont. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father. The bride wore white embroidered Brussels net over flesh color and carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses. The procession of the six bridesmaids, school friends of the bride, as they passed through a multi-colored garden with a cedar grove as a back ground made an effective picture. Miss Ruth A. Hill, a sister of the bride who was maid of honor wore sky blue chiffon, with a lilac hat and carried a basket of butterfly roses.

The flower girls were Misses Evelyn and Isabel Seaton of Moosup, Alice Hayden of Framingham, Mass., Helen and Ann Burton of Pelham Manor, N. Y., and Miss Hubbell of Garden City, L. I. Thomas J. Seaton, Jr., of Moosup, acted as page and carried the bride's train.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for the 200 or more guests present. During this time a feature was the opening of a reconstructed log cabin, artistically furnished with antiques. Many of the gifts to the bride were antiques which belonged to the original settlers of the island.

The bride is a graduate of New Rochelle high school, also of Pine Manor, Wellesley, Mass. Mr. Start was graduated from Lawrenceville, has studied at Columbia and is at present with an architect in New York city. The bride is the oldest child of Annie Cranska Hill, daughter of the late Floyd Cranska, of Moosup. Relatives from Norwich attended the wedding.

Wilcox—Sanford.

Miss Nina M. Sanford of New London and James F. Wilcox of Waterford were married in New London at 162 Gardner avenue by the Rev. Charles E. Spaulding of the Methodist Episcopal church, Wednesday night at 7.30 o'clock. The marriage took place in the presence of about 20 relatives and friends of the couple.

SUPERIOR COURT LIST HAS 54 CASES CLAIMED

The September term of the superior court which commences next Tuesday at New London with Judge Allyn L. Brown, presiding contains 34 court and 20 jury cases on the trial list.

The following are the cases claim

SIXTY-FIVE CANDIDATES REPORT FOR ACADEMY FOOTBALL SQUAD

About 65 candidates reported to Coach Court Whitney at a meeting, signifying the first call for candidates at the Academy Thursday noon. Little of any definite nature was accomplished other than to take the names and get ready for the first outdoor workout this afternoon.

Little more is expected today but by Monday things will start in full blast for the first game of the season, Saturday, Oct. 1st with Chapman Tech here.

A sort of unofficial slogan has been adopted which reads "state champions in all major sports" but just what chance there is of putting this idea into a reality can be seen by a brief inventory of what is on hand at N. F. A.

At the present time there are three major sports at the local school, baseball, football and track. Basketball which was inaugurated last year is still a minor sport but indications are that it will be promoted to a level with the three above mentioned games before many weeks have passed this school year. Tennis and cross-country are the remaining sports and they, of course are minor. Cross-country came to life last year after many year's absence from the Academy athletic curriculum and it also enjoyed success.

During the last school year at least one championship was gathered by more than half the sports. Five titles and a tie for another were gained in all and realizing that that is quite a record, this season's material will have something to work for.

Baseball topped the list last year in the matter of championships, winning no less than three. First the eastern Connecticut, western Rhode Island interscholastic league pennant was copped in a post season game with Westerly. Then by downing Warren Harding High of Bridgeport, Coach Earle E. Brigham's men, with fifteen other victories and but two defeats made themselves the outstanding claimant for the Connecticut title. Harding was the other recognized title-hunter but they fell by the wayside and that naturally the locals went ahead. The third title that the local baseballers secured was that for southern New England. Westerly, whom they had taken a two out of three game series from, won the Rhode Island championship.

In basketball Coach W. C. McKean's boys annexed the eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island league championship, quite a feat for a first year team. They dropped but one league game.

In tennis the locals took the eastern Connecticut title for the fifth consecutive year.

In football the Academy and Windham High were generally recognized as joint claimants of the eastern Connecticut title although to many of the Red and White followers it seemed that the locals had a better record.

So that, those teams in this new school year will have something to aim at if they are to surpass what was done in 1926-27.

Football practice with Courtland C. Whitney, former all-round athlete at the school, returning after a year's lapse as coach, will start in earnest within a few days. But three regulars of the 1926 team will return but there are several promising candidates from the last year scrub teams expected out and they should help somewhat in the order of things.

Jack Marks, back, is captain and he with Johnny Greene, end and Kahn, tackles are the only ones to return who saw regular service on last year's successful eleven. Jim Kelly, former amateur star and captain elect of the basketball team, is expected to make a strong bid for a berth on the grid squad while from last year's squad there are Buck LaCroix, end, Freddy Fox and Shea, guards, Billy Tirrell, quarterback, Vitliano, McGlone and Fenton, half back and a couple transfers from other high schools.

The season's schedule of nine games will open Oct. 1, with Chapman Tech of New London here.

Coach Matthew Sheridan of cross-country will have nearly all regulars back for cross-country. But Hymie Sadinsky is gone from the 1926 aggregation. The schedule for this squad has not been announced.

Basketball holds the brightest prospects of all for but one regular is gone here, Capt. Ray Yerrington, forward. Those slated to report for this team who have had previous experience include Capt. Jim Kelly, Buck LaCroix and Swatzburg, guards, Les Pingree, center and Joe Vieau, center or forward, Lloyd Jarvis and Dave Tigar.

Manager Mace Goldblatt is now busy arranging his schedule and he expects to book the leading teams of the state for games here this winter.

In baseball Coach Brigham will have somewhat of a job defending the title for but four regulars are left, namely Capt.-elect Mace Goldblatt, catcher, Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene pitchers and outfielders and Billy Tirrell, who performed at first base.

Promising material comes in the forms of Arico, a first baseman, Chubby Gibbs and Buck LaCroix, infielders.

Manager Lawrence Gilman will get busy soon after school opens on this schedule and the cream of games of New England can be expected here next season as the natural aftermath of the past successful seasons.

In track Matthew Sheridan should have plenty of capable performers although Artie Armstrong, high point man is lost.

Anyway, Norwich fandom seems to be in for some mighty fine contests with the Academy as one part for with the local school at the present time recognized as a top notcher throughout this and neighboring states only the fastest school teams can be expected here.

CARDS AND GIANTS SPLIT TWIN PROGRAM AGAIN

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15—(AP)—The World Champion Cardinals divided their third straight doubleheader with the Giants today and the two clubs continue in a tie for second place, each dropping half a game further behind the league leading Pirates who trimmed the Braves. The Giants won the first game by knocking Haines out of the box in three innings, piling up a six run lead and continued the assault for a final total of 11 to 3. The Cards took the closing battle by 8 to 5, darkness halting the contest after the New Yorkers had batted in the eighth.

St. Louis used 20 players in the opening encounter, five being pitchers. Terry hit two homers, his 18th and 19th of the season, one coming with two on base. Taylor made two triples, one with the bases full when Haines had purposely passed Harper to get at Taylor.

Big Lefty Faulkner, the newGiant from Toronto, made his debut and allowed seven hits in five and two-thirds innnings, being lifted with the bases loaded. Larry Benton came to his rescue and put on the brakes, allowing neither a run nor a hit for the remainder of the game. Faulkner credit for the victory.

In the second combat, the Cards took advantage of New York errors and hit Fitzsimmons and Walker hard. Roush and Hafey hit homers in this game in which Frankhouse, righthander from Houston, Texas, won his third straight start for St. Louis. About 27,000 witnessed the twinn session. The Cards and Giants are four and one--half games behind Pittsburgh with one more clash in the current series. Score:

ATHLETICS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP WITH WHITE SOX

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15—(AP)—The Athletics made a clean sweep of their three-game series with the Chicago White Sox by winning the final today, 5-4. Jimmy Foxx hit a home run with two on in the third round and gave the Mackmen a 4-0 lead that Chicago tied in the sixth. A double steal by French and Cobb, the former scoring put over the run in the seventh that defeated Ted Lyons, the Sox pitching ace. Score:

HILL PITCHES PIRATES TO FIFTH VICTORY OVER BRAVES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15—(AP)—Batting opportunely behind brilliant pitching by Carmen Hill, the Pittsburgh Pirates continued their march pennant-ward today by defeating the Boston Braves 2 to 1.

It was the Corsairs fifth straight triumph over the Braves, their eighth victory in a row and Boston's 12th consecutive defeat. It marked at the same time, Hill's 22nd win of the season. He has been defeated nine times. He allowed only five hits today.

The game was a tight hurling battle between Hill and Bob Smith. The Braves' only tally came across in the second inning on successive singles by High and Fournier, a sacrifice and an infield out, the league leaders tied the score in the sixth with the aid of an error by Bancroft. Hill singled but was forced by Lloyd Waner. Comorosky then lined to Bancroft who threw wild in an effort to double Lloyd Waner at first base and the speedy Pirate went to second. Paul Waner then put on the "brother act," and scored Lloyd with a single to right. The game was lost and won in the next inning on Traynor's double and singles by Harris and Earl Smith.

Bob Smith was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, Guy Morrison finishing the game.

Lloyd Waner went hitless after cracking out one or more safeties in 16 consecutive games. Score:

TUNNEY WORKS OUT BEFORE CROWD OF 2000

LAKE VILLA, Ill., Sept. 15—(AP)—With but a week to go before facing Jack Dempsey in defense of the heavyweight championship, Gene Tunney put in his busiest eight hours since arriving here more than two weeks ago.

Opening the day reception of about 50 newspapermen, Tunney later was examined by Dr. Joseph L. Russell, representing the Illinois State Boxing commission who announced him "normal in every respect," before working out ten rounds. More than 2,000 spectators watched. Gene boxed three sparring partners two rounds apiece and punched the light and heavy bags another round.

The workout was Tunney's first in three days. Gene warmed up slowly on the bags, apparently a bit soggy after the lengthy layoff, and displayed little real energy until he locked gloves with Chuck Wiggins and Billy Vadabeck. In two rounds with Jackie Williams, a Chicago heavyweight, Gene clinched a great deal to avoid the straight right hand Williams occasionally landed on his face.

Tunney boxed with speed and deftness, dancing lightly out of range whenever Wiggins or Vidabeck cut loose with both hands to the head. He missed frequently with both hands and his timing appeared a bit rusty.

Tunney talked of a variety of things in his conference with the newspapermen. But only once during the session did he mention Dempsey's name and then only to remark that they both were drinking the same brand of spring water.

The intent of Tex Rickard to stage the next heavyweight championship fight in London appealed to Tunney only in the event that he successfully defends the title against Dempsey. Gene said he would not cross the sea to fight as a contender.

ROSSIE A. A. TO PLAY STARS OF NEW LONDON

The Rossie Athletic Association Baseball club will play the Fort Trumbull stars in New London, Sunday, September 18th, at Rossie Park, Mystic. The Fortmen will have an entirely new lineup than when the Rossians faced them a few weeks ago. In their lineup includes some of the fastest players in New London. Johnson who beat the All Coast Guards of New London twice will be on the mound for the stars.

The Rossians will use the same lineup as used against the Riverview club.

The following Sunday the second game of the series between Socony and Rossians will be played at Rossie Park.

The lineup for Sunday's game will be as follows:

Rossie A. A. Dabroski, 2b; Brewer, ss; Schiller, cf; Gregory, 3b; Barraclough, lf; Wilson 1b; Santin or Ellis, rf; Kellers, c; Maine, p; Tedford or Brewer, utility. Stars, Havens, 2b; Jackson or Tuneski, ss; Ryan, cf; Hutchinson, 3b; Chapman, lf; Gilmore, 1b; Gadbois, rf; Douton, c; Johnson or Dickson, p; Hanson, Belknop or Walton, utility.

MANY EASTERN CONN. BOYS TRYING OUT FOR AGGIE FRESHMAN ELEVEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Sept. 15—Freshman football at Connecticut Agricultural college will get under way here next Monday afternoon, when Coaches Roy J. Guyer and Elmore G. Ashman '23 meet the large group of first year men who are expected to report for the initial workout.

Uniforms had already been issued to 29 candidates this morning, indicating that the freshmen are taking the usual keen interest in this sport. Fully 15 to 20 more candidates will probably be issued uniforms in time for the first workout.

Due to the fact that fewer first yearmen are being admitted to C. A. C. this year, there is a strong probability that the frosh football squad will be smaller than the yearling groups of the past two years. More than the usual number of upperclassmen returned to the State college this year, and because of the 500 student maximum law, there were fewer vacancies for freshmen students.

There is at present a game pending for the opening date on Oct. 15, after which the Aggie Frosh will meet the Springfield yearlings at Springfield Oct. 22; Wesleyan Freshmen at Middletown Oct. 29; Trinity Junior Varsity at Hartford Nov. 5; and the Rhode Island Freshmen at Storrs Nov. 11.

Among the candidates who were issued uniforms today and who will report for the first practice of the season for the freshmen next Monday were Peter Rassano, tackle one year for West Hartford High; Fred Schwartz, center four years for Norwich Free Academy; Herman Leboutsky, alternated between tackle and guard one year for Hartford High; Harold Eberle, tackle one year for Hartford High; James Moore, end two years for Norwich Free Academy; James Williams, quarterback four years for Norwich Free Academy; Elmer Hall, alternated between the line and backfield three years for Simsbury High; Stanley Storrs, tackle one year for Windham High of Willimantic; Daniel Chubbuck, Tourtelotte Memorial High star in basketball, who will try out for football for the first time; Clemente Balmer of Lakeville, another newcomer to the game; Daniel Douglas, end for one year with Norwalk High; Hyman Sanders, quarterback one year for New Britain; Pete Baggish, fullback one year for Hartford High; Morris Levson, tackle three years for Middletown High; John Roach, end two years for Bulkely High of Hartford; and Daniel Carter, tackle two years for Stratford High.

Also Berner Zuckler, end one year for Wilby High of Waterbury; Lee Fisher, halfback one year for Harding High of Bridgeport; Gordon Winslow, quarterback four years for Putnam High; Charles Murphy, end two years for Stonington High; John Gavitt, halfback three years for Stonington High; Peter Crapulli, guard one year for Hartford High; George Seizer, guard one year for Hartford High; and John Enslee of New Haven Hillhouse, Ruel Sloth of Hartford Bulkely, Daniel Sayers of Hartford High, Nathan Minsky of Hartford High, and Owen Clark of East Hartford High, all of whom will be receiving their first taste of the sport.

GLICK GETS DECISION OVER DOC SNELL

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, N. Y., Sept. 15—(AP)—In a fast and furious 10 rounds of slugging, Joe Glick of New York, tonight won the decision over Doc Snell, of Tacoma, Wash.

Snell weighed 130 1-2; Glick 130.

Glick spent his time piling up points, while Snell spent his time trying for a knockout. Both took stiff punishment, especially in the last three rounds, when Snell tore in with frenzy.

Honeyboy Finnegan, Boston lightweight, took the decision over Billy Grimes, Australian. Grimes peculiar style of fighting bothered Finnegan. Neither was in danger or bad shape. Finnegan weighed 130; Grimes 127 1-2.

Felix Spotiello, Italian middleweight, won the decision over Laddie Lee, of Portland, Me., in their six round bout.

Phil Knight, 202, won the decision over John Casanova, 196, in their four rounder. Both are Porto Ricans.

RICHMOND TEAM GETS GAME BY FORFEIT

It was stated Thursday by a member of the governing board of the Industrial league that the Richmond-Insilco fracas Wednesday night had been forfeited to the champion Ironmen, thus officially closing the season by giving the Richmonds a percentage of .857 on 12 wins and 2 defeats for a full three game lead over the second place Y. M. C. A. nine. The Insilcos finished the season in third place, a game behind the Yers. Werman and Thermos are tied for next place.

The final official league standing:

LARGE FIELD FOR WOMEN'S NATIONAL GOLF TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—Feminine golf stars to the number of 148, representing all parts of the United States, as well as including the champion of Britain and France—Mlle. Simone Thion de La Chaume—are paired for the qualifying round of the national women's golf championship at the Cherry Valley club, Garden City, N. Y., next Monday.

The first pair will leave the first tee at 8:30 a. m., and the last of the big parade will pass that point at 2:40 p. m., the pairs will be five minutes apart. Only 32 of the 148 can qualify, the medal scores of Monday's round of 18 holes determining the select few to enter the first round of match play Tuesday.

NEWSPAPER MEN STILL BARRED FROM DEMPSEY CAMP

By Charles W. Dunkley,
Associated Press Sports Writer

LINCOLN FIELDS, Crete, Ill., Sept. 15—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, waiting until darkness fell before doing any boxing, was a luncheon host today to Tex Rickard, George F. Getz, John C. Righeimer, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, Michael Hughes, chief of police, and F. C. Batchelder, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

After the luncheon there was a secret session, with the former title-holder and Leo P. Flynn, his manager, discussing with Rickard, Getz, his associate in promoting the fight, Righeimer and others, various details of the battle.

Chairman Righeimer stated that the referee and two judges would not be named until just before Dempsey and the champion crawl into the ring a week from tonight.

"Neither Dempsey, Tunney, nor the public will know of our selections until just before the fight starts," Righeimer said. "The referees will be asked to be at the ringside, to work in the bouts, but none will know which will work the championship battle."

"I do not blame the fighters for not working in this hot weather. Dempsey has just finished a hard fight with Jack Sharkey and really does not need much. I cannot ask either Dempsey or Tunney to change their plans," said Rickard in reference to protests of newspapermen to the fighters training in secret.

Dempsey did some light work this morning, sharpening up his punches on the light and heavy bags.

PLANS ARE ALL COMPLETED FOR TAFTVILLE FIELD DAY

Everything is ready for the monster field day at the Providence street grounds at Taftville on Saturday afternoon and all that can be desired is a favorable break from the weatherman. Plans have been made to accommodate a crowd of at least 2000 persons and there will be room for plenty more. The events start promptly at 1 o'clock with the parade to the field where the various athletic and novelty events are to be held. The parade is an additional and unique feature of the field day this year and will border on the old-fashioned "horrible parade" which were in vogue many years ago.

Chairman John Henry Murphy in charge of the athletic events stated at a recent meeting of the general committee that everything points toward a banner field day. Entries for the various events, of which there will be 22, are coming in fast and large fields are to be started in each event. Many prominent track athletes from Connecticut are entered in the open events for which valuable prizes are to be given. The women are responding well for the special events for the fair sex and these in themselves will be well worth seeing.

One of the features this year will be the exhibition by the Maennerchor Turnen section which includes many accomplished performers. The Maennerchor section has an enviable reputation in the state and they will display a number of new stunts at the field day.

TILDEN AND JOHNSTON PUT OUT BOROTRA AND BRUGNON

(By F. G. Vosburgh)
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 15—(AP)—Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, two of the great French tennis players who won the Davis cup, were put out of the national turf court championship tournament today by William T. Tilden and William M. Johnston, beaten veterans of the United States Davis cup defense team.

Tilden and Johnston needed but four sets each to win from the French today, "Big Bill" defeating Borotra, 6-1, 3-6, 10-8, 6-1, and "Little Bill" coming from behind to down Brugnon, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

With the defeat of Henri Cochet yesterday by John Hennessey of Indianapolis, only one of the four French entries now remains in the running for the championship. The lone survivor, Rene Lacoste, who won the title last year, continued his onward march toward a probable finals meeting with Tilden by defeating Manuel Alonzo of Philadelphia 6-3, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

As Francis T. Hunter, United States Davis cup doubles player was the fourth to reach the semi-finals, that round was filled by three Americans and a single Frenchman instead of the three French and one American who reached the bracket a year ago.

Hunter's victory was achieved in five hard fought sets over Hennessey, 4-6, 5-7, 6-0, 6-3, 6-4.

CHINESE ELMS THRIVE WHERE FED OTHER SHADE TREES LIVE

For shade or as a windbreak the Chinese elm has proved its value in most sections of the United States. The United States department of agriculture introduced this tree nearly 20 years ago and now recommends it as useful and widely adaptable. It is particularly valuable in regions of light rainfall and extremes of temperature where few trees thrive. Trials indicate that the Chinese elm grows even more rapidly in the relatively dry area of the middle west than in the moister regions of the Atlantic coast. Trees have weathered the severe winters of the Northern tier of states and have made satisfactory growth near Yuma, Ariz., where few shade trees are able to survive the dry climate.

This elm grows with numerous slender, almost wiry, branches. The leaves are eliptical and smaller than those of the American elm. Leaves appear early in the spring, and the tree is one of the last to lose foliage in the fall. It is free from injury by plant diseases and insects and grows rapidly. At the Fort Hays experiment station in Kansas Chinese elms developed in four growing seasons from shoots 3 feet tall and the size of a lead pencil to trees from 15 to 25 feet in height, with trunks from 16 to 19 inches in circumference.

Several nurseries in the south and west have realized the value of this importation and offer plants and seeds for sale.

SOYBEAN BREEDERS URGED TO DEVELOP STRAINS

Soybean breeding and selection to produce two distinct strains, one desirable for stock feeding and other for bean milling, was recommended at the recent Washington, N. C., convention of the American Soy Bean Growers' association by E. Z. Russell of the United States department of agriculture. This was suggested as a means of meeting the objection that soybean feeding tended to produce soft pork and a consequent reduction in market prices.

"We believe," said Mr. Russell, "the cause of soft pork is primarily that of fat in the feed. Bean varieties vary in oil content all the way from 12 to 24 per cent. We have found in our investigations that, if there is a total fat content of the feed very much in excess of 8 per cent, soft pork is likely to result."

"The protein feeds the farmer uses for hogs are high priced," the speaker continued. "Most of them must be purchased. Soybeans furnish sufficient protein to balance the corn ration, but the results of some of our tests indicate that it would be better to feed an animal protein such as tankage or linseed meal in addition to soybeans. In the usual case we believe that it would be better to feed soybeans as a supplement to corn or other feeds of like nature, rather than as a basal or fattening feed. If the latter plan is used soft pork is almost sure to result."

"Now," Mr. Russell said, "We have in mind a plan of experimental work to be undertaken by soybean growers. If successful we think it would be of decided benefit to the hog producer. It is briefly this, to reduce the oil content of some of your varieties of beans by breeding to a point where they could be fed to hogs with safety from the standpoint of soft pork. We would have to keep in mind the desirability of high protein content and palatability. Frankly, we do not know whether reducing oil content would affect palatability. We realize the soybean miller wants a bean of high oil content, the opposite of what we do. If, however, a bean of low content can be produced by breeding, why can not one of the reverse be grown. It is a long-time job, but we see working for the future. If the farmer can grow his own protein feeds and avoid soft-pork production, his profits will increase materially."

IMMEDIATE ACTION URGED TO PREVENT SEED-CORN SHORTAGE

Farmers who have not already done so should begin at once to plan for obtaining seed corn for planting in 1928, says the United States department of agriculture. Much of the corn in the corn belt and northward is so far behind that it has little chance to mature sufficiently for seed before frost. This condition, together with the small hold-over due to poor maturity of the 1925 and 1926 crops, brings about a situation which may well result in a serious seed-corn shortage in 1928 in some sections if steps are not taken this fall to prevent it.

No time should be lost in arranging to select an abundance of seed corn from the present crop. There are few areas in which some fields will not mature sufficiently to permit selection of good seed. Farmers whose crops for one reason or another are so late that they will not mature sufficiently to make good seed should arrange to select seed from the field of a more fortunate neighbor.

All hold-over corn of the 1925 and 1926 crops which is suitable for seed should be retained for planting in 1928. Old corn is likely to be infested with insects or to have been damaged by rodents. When such corn is likely to be infested with insects or to have been damaged by rodents. When such corn is to be held for seed, it should be examined, sorted, disinfected if necessary, and protected from further damage.

The best seed corn is that which has matured thoroughly upon the plants in the field. The loss in vigor, however, which comes from slight immaturity at the time the seed is picked is unimportant compared with the loss that may result from using seed of an unadapted variety obtained in the spring from some distant source. Seed corn picked about three weeks after pollination and dried carefully will germinate. The plants grown from such immature corn will be weak and unproductive and the selection of seed so soon and tasseling is not recommended. The vigor of germination increases rapidly with advancing maturity and a good quality of seed may be obtained from ears with kernels that are well dented.

Seed corn containing excess moisture must be dried and handled carefully until thoroughly dry. Sappy seed ears left in a sack or even in a pile over night are likely to heat or mold. Ample ventilation is the most important consideration in drying seed corn. If the ears are stored so that the air can move freely about them they will dry rapidly even without artificial heat. The use of a little artificial heat will promote rapid drying. The seed also is more likely to mold under higher temperatures so that a good air movement and rapid drying are even more important when artificial heat is used. A small heater located below the seed corn will cause a rapid upward current of air which will promote rapid drying if ventilation permits this air to pass out of the building at the top.

The possibility of obtaining better seed later on should not prevent playing safe by selecting an ample supply of seed of an adapted variety just as soon as it is mature enough so that it can be relied upon to germinate well. If frost holds off longer and weather conditions are favorable for development a new supply of seed can be fed, the only loss being the small amount of time required to select and dry the first lot.

GREEN FEED FOR POULTRY STOCK IN WINTER

The question of green feed for poultry stock in winter may be solved by adapting dairy methods and feeding hay to the birds, if evidence continues to pile up in favor of this method. The Ohio state experiment station reports on this matter as follows:—

"Green food or its equivalent is one of the most vital parts of the ration for chickens, and it is that part of the diet which many poultry keepers find the greatest difficulty in providing. It is believed that without green food or its equivalent no ration can prove successful. It seems that more poultry keepers fail to meet this than any other feeding requirement. In summer the best solution of the green-feed problem is a good range. During the late summer and fall when the range becomes depleted, a generous supply of early cabbage or swiss chard is probably best. But the big problem is during the winter months.

"The winter supply of green feed is usually limited, and it is difficult to store. In various feeding trials conducted by the station, to learn whether there are any satisfactory substitutes or equivalents for green feed, surprisingly favorable results were obtained from the use of legume hays. While no direct comparisons were made with succulent green feed and the legume hays yet the results were equal, if not superior, to what we would expect according to our previous experiment in feeding greens in the succulent form. The first year's test with alfalfa gave the highest winter egg production of the rations enumerated. Soybean hay gave surprisingly good results. It was also fed to 220 other pullets and they laid especially well and the mortality was low.

"It would mean from these results that high quality, green, leafy alfalfa, red clover, or soybean hay may be effectively substituted for succulent green feed, especially during the fall and winter months. A satisfactory way is to cut the hay in one-half inch lengths by passing it through a cutter. The cut hay can then be put into a wire netting basket feeder and kept before the birds all the time. Or the hay without cutting can be fed in suitable wall racks with the front inclosed by lath or wire netting. Still another method is to tie a bundle of the hay with a small rope and suspended from the ceiling so the center of the bundle is about 10 inches above the floor.

"Alfalfa, red clover, and soybean hay are satisfactory. Results thus far secured indicate these hays to be about equally valuable. Regardless of the kind of hay, it is necessary that it be made from the immature plant so as to carry a large proportion of leafy portion that carries the valuable constituents for chickens. The hay should be of high quality, which means that it must be carefully cured without getting wet, so that it will have as green a color as possible. Sometimes it may be necessary to cure the hay inside, although sun-cured hay is regarded as being superior in some respects to that cured without exposure to direct sunlight. Usually the second or third cuttings of clover and alfalfa are best. Soybean hay should be cut when the seeds are just beginning to form in the pods. At this stage a large proportion of the hay is leafy, palatable, and of a high protein content.

"In various feeding trials at this station during the last three years alfalfa hay gave uniformly good results. Needless to say it is easier to provide a uniform, dependable supply of legume hay for the winter season than succulent green feed, and furthermore, the hay involves much less labor of feeding."

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE FARMERS

When the honeyflow is over, all empty supers should be removed so the bees will not be forced to keep empty spaces warm during the winter. Comb honey left on the hives becomes soiled and discolored.

A 6-pound hen laying 144 eggs in a year produces about three times her body weight, and one laying 240 eggs produces about five times her own weight. For such hard work a hen must be vigorous and in the best of health. Vigor is indicated by a bright, full eye, bright-red comb and wattles, a well developed body and strong, well placed legs. A poor layer usually has a dull eye, narrow beak and head, an extremely long and narrow back, weak abdominal muscles, and sometimes weak legs.

To keep butter from sticking to paddles and other utensils these should be thoroughly rinsed immediately before using, first with hot water, then with cold water. This fills the pores of the wood with water and prevents the butter sticking to it. Wooden utensils should be cleaned immediately after using so that the fat will not have an opportunity to get into the pores of the wood.

Coarse sawdust is a good extinguisher of oil fires, especially if the oil is in a deep container. Poured on burning oil, the sawdust floats and smothers the fire by shutting off the oxygen. Care must be taken that the sawdust does not become oil soaked and as dangerous as the oil itself. Two or three pounds of common soda mixed with a bucketful of sawdust makes it almost entirely incombustible. On a very hot fire the soda gives off a gas which aids in smothering the flames.

Air leaks will cause loss of silage by mold. It is now time for the silo to be made ready for the new crop. A careful check should be made to see that it is airtight.

After the calf is two weeks old give it access to plenty of fresh, clean water at all times, and when old enough to eat roughage see that salt always is accessible. The calf needs water even though it does drink milk.

A horse may be taught to overcome the habit of kicking everytime something touches his heels. Take a gunny sack around one end, allow the horse to examine it with his nose, then rub it over his body and legs. After he becomes submissive to the pole, tie sacks of hay to the traces and breeching, and continue the lesson until he pays no attention to them.

FRAGRANT FERTILIZER

Fragrance is not normally associated with the fertilizer industry. Many farmers have judged the potency and value of a commercial fertilizer largely by the desirability of a gas mask for use in handling it. Research by the bureau of soils of the United States department of agriculture has discovered a fragrant fertilizer, derived from the by-products of the manufacture of cocoa and chocolate, that carries with it the pleasant aroma of a newly opened can of cocoa. This press cake or cocoa meal is a convenient source of nitrogen for plant food. It contains about 4 per cent of nitrogen which is the equivalent of 4.9 per cent of ammonia.

PIMPLES AND BLACK-HEADS ALL OVER FACE

Was ashamed to be seen—simple remedy brought quick improvement

Munden, Va., Aug. 5:—"Awhile ago I began to be troubled with enlarged pores and blackheads. Then pimples developed, and even boils. My skin was very sore and in a terrible condition. It was so disfigured and unsightly I was ashamed of it. I tried about everything to be had for pimples, but with no good results. I had heard Resinol Ointment and Soap so highly recommended for troubles like mine, I decided to try them. After one treatment there was a decided improvement, and the pimples began to fade away. I advise everybody with skin trouble to try Resinol." (Signed) Miss Hazel Beasley. Your druggist sells Resinol Soap and Ointment. Why don't you try them?

At the annual Old Home day held in the church and community house, the committee had arrangements so well in hand that everything moved smoothly. The dinner was served at 12 o'clock (standard time.) The bake was directed by King George Jaques and as usual proved a great success. The exercises in the afternoon were held in the church and consisted of music, addresses and short talks by many former residents. The chairman of the committee was A. E. Hall; head waiters were Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Place and Hollis Young. Mrs. R. C. Kies and Mrs. P. H. Coffey had charge of supplies and Mrs. Mervin Kent had the cake table. Mrs. A. E. Hall, Miss A. J. Holland, Mrs. A. E. Phillips and Mrs. G. A. Slater attended to the fritters. The net amount is not available yet, but it is certain that a substantial sum will be added to the church treasury.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"How is Flo feeling since she married a title?"

"Right on the crest."—Detroit News.

May—I hear Ted Brown has a dual personality.

Fay—Does his wife know about her?—Judge.

She—You should always make light of your troubles.

He—I do. Whenever a tradesman sends me a bill, I burn it.—Montreal Family Herald.

"Has putting in that lunch counter helped your business?" asked Jones of the druggist.

"Well, it has about tripled the sale of indigestion tablets," he replied.—Pathfinder.

She (after spending the evening with neighbors)—I think the Smiths are an ideal couple—they think alike about everything.

He—Yes, but I notice she always thinks first.—Tit-Bits.

"I hear that your divorced wife has made up her mind to marry a struggling young lawyer."

"Well, if Margaret has made up her mind he might as well cease struggling."—Boston Transcript.

Ruth came home from her first visit to Sunday school eating a bar of chocolate.

"Why, Ruth, where did you get the chocolate?" asked her mother.

"I bought it with the Nickel you gave me," she said. "The minister met me at the door and got me in for nothing."—The Progressive Grocer.

Leon, age two, was in the grocery store when a neighbor said to him:

"Hello, Leon, whose little sweetheart are you?"

"I'm mamma's sweetheart," he replied.

"And where does your daddy come in?" the woman inquired.

"Daddy comes in the doorstep," was Leon's quick reply.—(Life).

Issack Baskowitz's eyes were attracted to the likeness of a pretty girl on a calendar in a Dallas (Tex.) office. He was amazed at the resemblance to a younger sister from whom he was separated in Russia ten years ago. Baskowitz communicated with the lithographer of the calendar and learned that the subject was none other than his sister Gertrude, who is now eighteen years old. He left for New York for a reunion with the girl.

Factory-made wings have eclipsed the feathered species. Lindbergh's nonstop flight was 3,610 miles. The distance flown by Chamberlin and Levine is estimated from 3,900 to 4,400 miles. The longest nonstop flights of birds have been those of Alaskan plovers from the Aleutian islands to Hawaii, a distance of 2,400 miles and the annual migrations of golden plovers from Newfoundland and Nova Scotia to the Leeward Islands and the northeastern coast of South America, a distance of 1,700 to 2,200 miles.

How does the sky rocket go up and scatter its stars? People in China and India knew long ago. In the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Italian fetes were held with fireworks. The body of the rocket is a hollow tube with a strong pointed cap. A plug holding a smaller tube fits into the bottom containing the powder which shoots it off. Lighting the fuse starts the flame upward toward this powder. When the exploding powder blows out through the narrow opening it does so with great force. The "kick" of the discharge forces the rocket upward. The backward streaming flame forms its tail. Just as the propelling charge becomes exhausted the fire flashes through the tiny hole at the top, setting off the powder, which scatters and ignites the fine metallic fragments that become "stars". The purpose of the stick on the rocket is to guide it in a straight line.

HOW MRS. WEAVER WAS HELPED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

WESTERLY

TRYING OUT NEW SIREN FOR THE FIRE DISTRICT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 15.—During the past week the siren whistle, on trial for the Westerly fire district, has been blown morning, noon and night at the plant of the Coduri Granite Works by William O. Hill, plant engineer and member of Westerly Fire department. The whistle is operated by compressed air and starts at 180 pounds pressure then reduces to 90 pounds, the installation requiring three air tanks and a compressor. At the Coduri granite cutting plant pneumatic tools require a large quantity of air for operation and it was the idea of Fire Chief Egger and assistant engineers to test out the whistle alarm in comparison with a bell alarm, previously used. The first day of the test, with strong south and westerly winds, residents of Wood River Junction, reported hearing it distinctly while the present sized whistle being tested could barely be heard in the center of the town. Another disadvantage of the present location is that the whistle is in a hollow spot at the foot of the Oak street hill. A whistle, if permanently located, will be at the top of a tall building, or on the tower of the new fire house to be constructed on Union street.

The coming Saturday "Constitution day" will be observed in Rhode Island. Governor Aram J. Pothier by proclamation issued Thursday sets aside Saturday, Sept. 17 as Constitution day and urges the people to commemorate the 140th anniversary of the signing of the constitution of the United States by devoting a period of the day to the study of the text of the constitution.

Dunn's Corners Triangle club of Westerly will have a representation by its leader, Mrs. Elmer Macomber, and one member, Frances Parker, 15, at Camp Vail, Eastern States Exposition, Springfield, the coming week. Mrs. Macomber is to be one of the chaperones of the Rhode Island group of boys and girls going to the camp.

The grounds about St. Michael's church on Liberty street, Pawcatuck, were filled Thursday, at the opening night of the carnival for St. Michael's parish. Music is furnished by an orchestra composed of Miss Jessie Hughes, John Cella, George Ward and Hector Richards and by St. Michael's Fife and Drum Corps. The event has the backing of St. Michael's Council, Knights of Columbus, and St. Michael's Brench, Connectcut Council of Catholic Women.

The committee in charge of the carnival includes: Chairman, Daniel Coogan; treasurer, John J. Donohue; chairman of women's division, Mrs. Michael O'Connell; Mrs. Patrick Casey, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Joseph Parkinson, Mrs. George Ward, Mrs. M. Devine, Mrs. John Marr, Mrs. Timothy Leary, Mrs. Patrick, Whalen, Mrs. Patrick O'Connell, Mrs. Aaron Foberg, Mrs. James Savage, Mrs. John Grady, Mrs. Frank Cella, Mrs. P. Twomey, Michael Spellman, Joseph Keane, Michael O'Connell, John Marr, John Lenihan, John Twomey, Thomas Purtil, Salvatore Sanquedolce, William Sylvia, Daniel Kelliher, Charles Connors, Peter Grills, John F. McCarthy, T. J. Connors and James Shea.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk:

Sept. 15. Arthur Champlin of Hartford to A. Barcley Robinson a certain lot on the beach between Pleasant View and Weekapaug on the highway known as Atlantic avenue and the easterly one-half of lot 5, 47 feet width and 180 foot depth.

Verna Stillman Thompson to Bell S. P. Nibecker, a parcel of land extending 137 feet northerly from Cross street with 13 feet width, adjoining properties of the grantor and grantee.

Funeral serves for Stephen R. Burdick, Pawcatuck, were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at 46 Granite street, by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church. Burial was in River Bend cemetery.

The mortality records for the town of Westerly for the month of August for the past five years varys greatly as shown in the office of the Westerly town clerk. The deaths for August have been, 1927, 28, of that number 1 occurring out of town. Other years have been 1926, 17; 1925, 6, and 2 of the number out of town; 1924, 5 and 1 out; 1923, 15, 3 out; and 1922, 12 and 5 out.

Frank Fiore is having a week's vacation from his duties at the freight office of the Westerly station.

George A. Champlin is among Westerly visitors who have attended Kingston fair for many years.

KINGSTON FAIR THURSDAY WAS FEATURED BY PAGEANT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 15—For the second day today at the fair grounds at West Kingston, many more visitors were present than on the record opening day Wednesday. The county visitors of Wednesday gave place to granges from all over the state Thursday and in turn will give way Friday to politicians, for it is Governor's day. The society hopes to close Saturday without a South County family failing to have at least one representative present. Some rain apparently fell during Wednesday night but on Thursday there were only occasional spits and not enough to put a damper on the ardor of the concessionaires of the Midway, which this year has as strong an urge as in seasons past to pry visitors away from their inspection of prize winning cattle, poultry, fruit and flowers.

King Phillip's Indian village, the Boy Scout camp with nearly fifty Scouts from all over Rhode Island present, displaying their skill in woodcraft, and ready at all times for service as emissaries or couriers for the fair management and attendants, are receiving due attention. This is the first time in six fair years that Miss Lucy M. Crowley of Wequetequock, executive secretary of the Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross has not been present at the fair.

Featuring Friday's fair will be the attendance of and address by Governor Aram J. Pothier, who will be accompanied by his staff. The speechmaking will be listened to in front of the grandstand at 10:30 a. m., and will be followed by the cavalcade of prize winning animals around the race track. Guests will then be entertained at dinner by the management and there will be vaudeville and horse racing in the afternoon.

Following the vaudeville and music program at 7 p. m., Thursday which part of the evening's entertainment was interrupted Wednesday night when trouble to the electric light circuit on Kingston hill caused the loss of a considerable time the pageant, portraying the early history of Washington county was begun. The fireworks of both Wednesday and Thursday evenings were elaborate and greatly enjoyed, as was the dancing which followed.

The pageant, each night is under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon B. Wade of Fostoria, O. As a prologue, Miss Arlena Sheldon of Hope Valley, in the role of Miss Washington County, queen of the pageant, arrives with her attendants, gives an address of welcome, and takes her place in the court of honor.

Under the general head of "The Prophecy of Time," the following episodes are enacted: Episode I, "An Indian Village;" II, "The Treaty with Chief Canonchet;" III, "The Coming of the Whites;" IV, "An Indian Attack;" V, "The Great Swamp Fight;" VI, "Youth of Yesteryear;" VIII, "The Masque of Nations."

The actors taking part in the prologue, and Episodes I to V are from Hope Valley. Episode VI is enacted by members of Richmond Grange.

Following is the cast:

Prologue—Miss Washington County, Arlena Sheldon; attendants, Dorothy Stanley, Gladys Card, Anna Kugler, Frances Woodmansee, Mildredge White, Christina Buteau, Evelyn Maines, Vivian Shepard; Father Time, Rev. Walter F. Parmelee.

Changes the Odor

Changing the odor of substances that ordinarily smell like rotten eggs and garlic to the fragrance of the geranium and the tea rose is part of the work of Dr. Marston Taylor Bogert, professor of organic chemistry in Columbia university. Professor Bogert is director of the research department established in the university more than a year ago by the American Manufacturers of Toilet Articles, an oranization representing the perfume and cosmetic industry, for the purpose of making a study of the relation between odor and chemical constitution. Since the founding of this department gratifying results have been obtained. The new sulphur and selenium compound is typical. Ordinarily unoxidized sulphur or selenium organic compounds have exceedingly disgusting and unpleasant odors. Sometimes the odor is so powerful that 1-460,000,000 of a millegram of the substance is sufficient to give a fairly perceptible smell. The odor of sulphur is like rotten eggs and garlic. Yet Professor Bogert and his associates have succeeded in synthesizing both unoxidized sulphur and unoxidized selenium, yet recalling in its fragrance the geranium and the tea rose.

Intermarriage is not tolerated by the natives of Rapa, a tiny island in the South Pacific. As a result, there are five pretty native girls on the island, related distantly to every other resident, who are destined to remain spinsters until they can find a mate who is not related to them.

STRANGERS EXPLAIN COD LIVER OIL PROJECT

A few days ago two men who failed to give their names were in town, looking over factory and residential sites. They stated that they represented a million dollar corporation that had been formed to convert codfish livers into oil. From their conversation with local people, not much credence is given to their assertions, as it seemed too good to be true.

Such a corporation as they claimed to represent is just what the village needs, as they maintain they would pay fishermen the market price for their codfish. Several years ago, a late resident of the village had a power press installed and experimented with the pressing of cod livers, but for some reason it did not prove a success.

A resident of the village has in his possession a treatise called "Battle Axe and Weapons of War," calculated to detect hypocrisy wherever it may exist. It was written by Timothy Watrous and Zachariah Watrous and was published in Groton in 1841, by Silas Watrous. It is said it created great discussion at the time on account of the beliefs expounded.

What is expected to prove the most amusing entertainment ever given in the village is being rehearsed by the members of the Sardine club entitled "Excuse Me." The three scenes take place aboard a Pullman train, while a young man is on his way to Reno, to secure a divorce. He meets his wife, who is journeying to the same place for the same purpose and upon this strange coincidence are involved extremely humorous situations. The committee in charge is Neil Morrison and Walter MacDonald. The club is to hold a meeting Saturday evening. The Glee club will sing.

At a meeting of Groton Fire Co. held recently at the town hall Poquonoc, Foreman William Alexander outlined the progress that has been made and spoke in detail concerning the plan to be laid before the electors of th etown of Groton at a special meeting called for September 19th when the project will be discussed of authorizing an appropriation of $3,500 for fire apparatus for safeguarding the unprotected portion of the town.

Mr. and Mrs Herbert R. Palmer of Cleveland, O., are spending this month at their cottage at Groton Long Point.

Some interior equipment is being installed in the cottage owned by Edward Martin.

Albert Brown of New York is the guest of his parents, Capt. and Mrs. Wallace Brown.

Norbert Hill has returned to his home in Flushing, L. I., following a brief visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Hill.

R. H. Mullier of the Marine Journal was a business visitor in the village Thursday.

Miss Mehitable Williams has returned to her home in Old Lyme after a visit with local friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop who have been visiting in Providence have returned home.

Miss Marjorie Clemens of Groton Long Point is the guest of her family who are staying at Point o' Woods, in East Lyme.

Miss Marion Carson has returned to her home on High street, after spending the summer with relatives in New York.

Mrs. Emma Latham and daughter Ethel have returned after a brief visit to Hartford.

William Holaday has been making a lengthy visit with relatives in New Haven.

Charles Wolverton of Utica, N. Y., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wolverton.

HEBRON

Miss Lucy Tennant, who was operated on for appendicitis at Hartford hospital recently, expects to be at home the last of the week.

Mrs. Della Porter entertained for the week end her brother Herbert Wilcox and family of Waterbury and her cousin, Mrs. Anna Peck of Danbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Strong of Oregon are visiting Mr. Strong's sister, Mrs. L. M. Lord.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Keefe have returned from their wedding trip.

Mrs. May Clark of Portchester, N. Y., was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hilding.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Daniel Way have returned from a two weeks' vacation through New York state.

Invitation have been issued for the wedding of Herbert Porter and Miss Laura Hills, to take place in Gilead Congregational church, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 24th.

Mrs. R. A. Raymond, who has been very ill the past few days, went to Middlesex hospital Tuesday morning.

Miss Irma Lord of Willimantic, Miss Eunice Porter of Hartford, Miss Florence Smith of West Hartford and Miss Clarissa Lord from Storrs college spent Sunday at their respective homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Porter have closed their store at Giant's Neck and are spending a short time on the Porter farm.

Frank Bissell of East Hampton and George Bosom of Westchester spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Seyms on Gilead Hill.

Invitation have been received for th ewedding of Miss Mary Esther Lord and Mahlon Snow Chapman, Saturday afternoon, October 1st at the home of Miss Lord's mother, Mrs. Clayton Lord, at Manchester Green. Miss Lord was formerly of Hebron.

At the republican caucus held in the town hall Saturday the nominations were as follows: First selectmen, Elton Post; second selectmen, Rufus Rachbun; town clerk, Frank R. Post; town treasurer, Mrs. Della Porter, agent town deposit and school fund, Mrs. Della Porter.

A Message to Underweight Men and Women

The one supremely good health building tonic that is also the one great weight producer known to modern science the country over is McCoy's Tablets.

They build flesh where flesh is needed—sunken cheeks, neck and chest—and many a man and woman, skinny and scrawny have thanked McCoy's after a few weeks' treatment for the decided improvement in looks and figure.

Many times the increase in weight is astonishing—one exceedingly thin woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Lee & Osgood Co. or any drug store in America.

BIG DAY FOR CHILDREN AT PACHAUG GRANGE FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 15—Pachaug Grange fair opened today with a large attendance, although the weather was not favorable. The bus carried full loads both afternoon and evening. The houses of exhibits are well filled. Particularly fine are the junior exhibits. Voluntown schools have a wonderful display, and the rural school children have raised every conceivable kind of vegetable, have canned vegetables and fruits, have cooked and have made fancy work. Pachaug Grange association gave them seeds, or sold them at cost, and gave each child who wanted three pounds of potatoes. The potato products are to be weighed to see who gained the largest yield. The tallest sunflower and biggest squashes, cabbages, beets and turnips excited many exclamations at the result of this part of the plan for the fair.

Plainfield Grange has a fine exhibit. The initials of the grange are seen in a case of white and brown eggs, the numbers in corn stalks. The flower display is remarkable for beauty and artistic grouping. The antique display is much larger and better than in previous years. Vegetables, fruits, grains, canned goods, homemade candy and cooked food, arts and crafts, fancy work of every description, make splendid showings.

The Boy Scouts exhibit articles they have made, the New London Co. Home and Farm bureau exhibit baskets, tea tables, woven and rush-bottomed chairs and trays. Romeo Pepin has a racoon, crow, squirrel, mallard duck and pheasant which he has mounted. Jeanne Rousseau has a large display of drawings and water colors. Edward Rousseau is in charge of the Silent Glow Oil burner concession.

Outside are the cattle sheds with stock, horses, ponies, sheep and pigs. The poultry house has every pen occupied, a wee owl attracting much attention. W. P. Holmes has a Kohler electric plant, Burke's turbine electric pump, Olson barn equipment, and the Ross Co. metal silo, garage, brooder houses and ensilage cutter, all set up for inspection.

The Jewett City Auto Sales Co., has tractors in operation.

F. C. Whiting has charge of the eats and drinks. In the "dog" house, chowder, sandwiches, hot dogs, pie and coffee are served by Mrs. Patrick Weaver, Mrs. William Bitgood, Mrs. Victor Campbell, Mrs. Harry Hull, Grace Campbell and Mrs. Frank Mell. Ice cream and soda are sold by Mr. Whiting, Alvin Douglass, Kenneth Griswold and George Whipple, Jr. Mrs. W. C. Terry and Mrs. Herbert Tift sell candy.

The Jewett City Hardware store in charge of Charles Donohue shows washing machines and vacuum cleaners. Bernard Wechsler is in charge of the Reliable Grain company's fine display of grains and dairy feeds. A specialty is made of peat moss imported from Germany, to be used as poultry litter.

There are a number of concessions, one in charge of Frank Mix again this year. A Thriller provided a hair raising ride in the air.

The afternoon sports were for the children. These sports were in charge of W. W. Bromley, assisted by Elmo Karjola. P. W. Chase was the starter, and Everett Thornton scorer. The 75 yard dash for boys from 12 to 15, first prize a jacket was won by Joseph Perry; 2nd jackknife by Arthur Vachon. Girls' 50 yd. dash 12 to 15, first prize, box of candy, to Staffie Roberts; 2nd prize, bottle of toilet water to Evelyn Laframboise. Boys' 50 yards up to 12 years, first prize, packknife, to Stephen Tenczar; 2nd prize, harmonica to Joseph Babik. Girls' under 12, 50 yd. race, first prize box of candy, to Jennie Roberts; 2nd, can of talcum powder to Josephine Kargul. Ball throw for girls; a baseball went to Eveleyn Laframboise. Ball throw for boys; a baseball to Joseph Perry.

Standing jump for boys, 1st prize, a baseball bat to Joseph Perry; 2nd prize, baseball glove, to Thomas Wakely. Running jump for boys, 1st first, 6 ft. rule to Joseph Perry; 2nd prize, baseball bat to Michael Tenczar. Boys' 3-legged race, 1st prize, a sweat shirt to Maurice Harrington (Voluntown); 2nd prize, a sweat shirt to Stanley Roberts. 1-3 mile race for boys, 1st prize, a watch, Joseph Perry; 2nd prize, flashlight, Alec Mackin. 3-legged race for girls, pongee silk dress, to Mary Laframboise; 2nd prize, roller skates, Jennie Roberts. Highest score of points, a flashlight, to Joseph Perry.

Rev. Dr. W. Flitcher Daum, prominer war chaplain and relief worker, will assume the pastorate of the Presbyterian church in Thompsonville, Sunday.

Spread of Species

One of the problems that confront the naturalist is that of accounting for the distribution of identical forms of life through widely separated localities. Investigation frequently shows that this has been accomplished in many ways that appear quite simple when once discovered, although one would hardly have thought of them.

Some interesting facts have been gleaned concerning the dispersion of fresh-water mollusks, accounting for their appearance in remote and isolated ponds. Water fowl play an important part in this work. Ducks have been known to carry mussels attached ot their feet a hundred miles or more. Bivalve mollusks not infrequently cling to the toes of wading birds and are thus transported for considerable distances. Even aquatic insects have geen known to carry small fresh-water mollusks attacked to their legs.

The striking of bells on board ship dates from the time of the half-hour sand-glass. The bell was struck each time the glass was turned.

Male tortoise shell cats are rare, fewer than one male to 700 females occuring.

Tiny Crawfish

Feebly crawling in a small tank at the O'Rourke Zoological institute in Balboa park at San Diego, Cal., are 50 tiny crawfish which may be the only members of a rare species alive anywhere. The crustaceans were hatched from eggs laid by a specimen brought by Mrs. George Waring from Spook canyon near Escondido, Cal., which excited the curiosity of naturalists as being a new and rare variety. Several days later the canyon was swept by a brush fire which dried up pools and mud. The crawfish are believed to have been exterminated. Preserved specimens are held by the Natural History museum and the Smithsonian institution, of Washington, but those at the Zoologidal institute, are the only ones known to be alive. The adult specimens were large and red and at first believed to be sea lobsters. Extreme precautions will be taken to preserve the hatch of 50 or more, and if animal life is found to be exterminated in Spook canyon the waters there may be restocked. The new species has not been named.

THE VERDICT OF THE JURY.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Mr. Worldly Wiseman and Mr. Facingbothways and Mrs. Gossip and Mrs. Grundy will doubtless join in saying that this is too late in the day to discuss the Sacco-Vanzetti case. "Why, that's ancient history, now," they'll agree. "Nothing about it belongs to the category of news, any longer. Give us something that's fresh. Don't dig up stale issues from a dead past."

We-l-l, really wise men learned, long ago, that the best possible way in which to better the future was by carefully studying the past. Only in that way can its mistakes and blunders be avoided.

Our surest hope of doing better tomorrow than we did yesterday lies in steering clear of the failures of that yesterday. If we forget them as soon as they've been committed, we're mighty likely to make them right over again. According to a famous verse, "Men rise on stepping-stones of their dead selves to higher things."

A very wise and notoriously successful man once said to me that he cherished the memories of his mistakes as much more valuable to him than those of his triumphs. "Every morning," he said in effect, "I recall as completely as I can the occasions when I've made an ass of myself. Then I know what not to do, next time. And, my boy," he went on with almost solemn emphasis, "the most important thing in life is not knowing what to do, but knowing what not to do. Your best boosting of the universe doesn't amount to very much. In the end, it'll keep on running without your help. But your throwing a monkey-wrench into the machinery or rolling a big rock on the track may cause a good deal of temporary trouble."

Now, it seems to me that the very fact that the Sacco-Vanzetti case has gone into history and is no longer the subject of controversy and dispute, is the strongest reason why thoughtful men should take the opportunity to review so much of its conduct as they can, intelligently, and mark out the mistakes made, so as to avoid them in future cases of a similar sort.

And you're a thoughtful man, aren't you? I should not dare to question it to your face. Very well, then since you are such, let's you and I put our thinking-caps on for 10 minutes. Those who are not thoughtful or haven't any thinking-caps, can go out to the ball game or the movies. They don't have to read another word.

To begin with, the very first question which had to be settled was whether two innocent, law-abiding citizens had been brutally murdered for the sake of the pay-roll money they were carrying. That question is really and basically the most important of all. For the whole function and purpose of organized society, of governments and courts, is to protect just such innocent men from just such attacks. This fundamental question, however need take none of our time. The fact that the two men were thus murdered is not open to doubt. Everybody knows it. No one disputes it.

And there rises to shake its gory locks at government and courts and the whole community the first failure. The men were murdered, in spite of all the prohibitions and threats of organized society.

Now rises a second and very puzzling question: Who did it? Those whose duty it is to investigate such crimes reported their belief that it was committed by Sacco and Vanzetti, and held them for trial. That trial was duly held. Twelve impartial and unbiased jurors were drawn from the county. Their qualifications were passed upon with pernickety care, in which examination the counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti had ample opportunity to sift out and reject all such as, by prejudice or other cause, they regarded as unlikely to pass fairly on the testimony submitted to them.

Then the public prosecutor laid before them the facts on which he based his claim that Sacco and Vanzetti did the murders. The 12 jurymen heard all the testimony, saw how all the witnesses looked and acted, heard all the cross-examinations by which the prisoners' counsel tested and re-tested their stories, down to the minutest details. Next the 12 jurymen heard all the evidence the prisoners' counsel had been able to gather, either in rebuttal of that given by accusing witnesses, or tending to show the said prisoners' innocence.

These 12 jurymen heard everything which able advocates could urge on boh sides. They were the only 12 men in the world who confronted all the witnesses, heard all the evidence, listened to all the arguments and pleas of counsel on both sides. There were many others who heard parts of the case; there were very many others who read summaries of the testimony, etc., in the newspapers. But these 12 jurymen were the only men who heard it all and were bound, by oath, to give their honest judgment on the prisoners' guilt or innocence.

Right here let me interpolate a word about newspaper reports of this or any other trial. For reasons of space, if no others are admitted, newspaper reports of a trial are never absolutely complete. As a matter of fact no newspapers gave one-quarter of the testimony which the jurymen heard. They couldn't have done it and at the same time have printed anything else. Some was omitted as, in reportorial judgment, unimportant; some was summarized; some was unquestionably colored by the reporter's own personal bias. It is neither necessary nor sensible to ascribe deliberate unfairness either to the reporter recording his impressions or to the editor condensing them to fit his available space. Neither was under oath and subject to cross-examination. Nor was either sworn to hold the balance true between charge and denial, between proof and disproof, with two more human lives depending on the sanctity of that oath. It is more than doubtful if any human being would ever have read the entire testimony in any newspaper, had one been found able to give it in full. It is absolutely certain that no such report was ever printed in the press. Even if a man had been able to read it, to the last word, he would still have failed to confront the witnesses and the counsel and consider their manner and behavior as well as their spoken words. Yet it is often the witnesses' manner of answering which enables a keen-eyed juryman to form a truer opinion of their veracity than their language.

The point is that these 12 jurymen heard it all, saw it all, considered it all, as no one else on earth did or could. They were the only 12 men in the world capable of giving a verdict upon all the testified facts.

And they agreed, not by a majority vote, but unanimously, that Sacco and Vanzetti killed the Braintree pay-roll carriers.

Whereupon a certain number of people, who had not heard all the testimony, who had not confronted all the witnesses, who had not heard the lawyers' arguments, but who had read something or other, more or less, about the case in the newspapers, proceeded to denounce the verdict as unjustified and contrary to the evidence.

"Human nature," said wise old Uncle Ike, "is a dum queer kettle of fish." One of its queerest exhibitions is that of people who know very little about a given subject presuming to contradict those who know all that is knowable about it.

As a matter of simple fact, neither you nor I nor any other outsider has or ever had any means of finding out, for ourselves, whether these men were guilty or not. We delegated that task to 12 of our compeers. They heard what we couldn't hear, saw that we couldn't see, followed traces we knew nothing of, opened doors we never got within 1,000 miles of, and then, under the stress of a solemn oath, declared their assurance that there was no reasonable doubt of the prisoners' guilt.

Now, when you or I want to know the best way to raise potatoes in New London county, we should be knocked stiff with amaze if we found that the 12 men in the county who admittedly know the most possible about potato growing agreed exactly as to the methods most desirable. So hard is it for different men to agree in a given judgment. If such a thing should happen, neither you nor I would have the cheek to sneer at their united decision.

To me, the most aastonishing thing about this whole case is the way in which outsiders set up their half-baked and prejudiced personal opinions against the unanimous verdict of the jury. It shows a degree either of wrongheadedness or of swellheadedness which seems almost incomprehensible to one accustomed to use reason.

Personally, I do not believe in capital punishment. I don't want to have anybody killed by anybody else, whether murderer or sheriff. I didn't want to have Sacco and Vanzetti electricuted. But that doesn't give me any more than it does you or any one else the right to controvert or denounce the unanimous verdict of the only 12 men on earth who had fullest opportunity to find out and declare their guilt. My own feeling is that men who have been found guilty of murder should be stratly confined for the remainder of their natural lives, with no possibility of parole or pardon or release upon any ground except the establishment at a new trial upon new evidence of their innocence. There are others who share that belief. Perhaps you do. It makes small difference. We're in a powerless minority.

Anyway, we have no legal or moral right and it is an unpardonable mistake to set up our inadequately based opinions as to the guilt or innocence of those whom a jury, adequately informed, has found guilty, against the unanimous decision of such a jury.

It shows more self-conceit than sagacity; more bumptiousness than brains; or, possibly, more prejudice than reason.

It is perfectly true that juries are not infallible. Unfortunately you and I are not, either.

CAR WITH DEFECTIVE BRAKES EXPENSIVE FOR NEW LONDON MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 15—John Lombardi, 21, of 34 Elm street, employed by Louis Margolis, Bank street plumber, was in the police court today charged with driving an automobile that was equipped with defective brakes. The charge was preferred after the truck had struck a child and caused her to be taken to a hospital for treatment. The child was Marion Madden, 5, of 32 Spring street who sustained a lacerated arm and face and head, when run down while attempting to cross Truman street, corner of Blackhall street. After the police had been informed of the accident, Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin tested the brakes and discovered that neither the foot nor the emergency brake would function properly. The foot brake was absolutely useless and the emergency brake not much better. Lombardi was fined $25 and costs.

VORVES' SKULL FRACTURED IT IS DECIDED AT HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 15—George Vorves, United States Coast Guard sailor, stationed at the coast guard academy, who was knocked out in a fight with Earl Bullock, another coast guardsman in the ring of the academy Tuesday afternoon, has suffered a fractured skull and will probably die. At Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where Vorves has been unconscious since the fight, it was stated this afternoon that Vorves' condition was critical. Vorves and Bullock, members of the mess hall detachment, arranged the fight several days ago and agreed on eight rounds. They entered the ring about 3 o'clock and after seven rounds had been fought, the fighters started the eighth. Bullock caught Vorves with a right to the jaw that sent Vorves to the mat. Vorves' head struck the floor with such force as to produce the fracture and render the fighter unconscious. Vorves was taken to the hospital. Bullock is under arrest at the coast guard reservation.

Vorves died late this afternoon without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Michael White, of 2 Union court, who suffered a shock several months ago and who received treatment at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, has returned to the institution for additional treatment. At the hospital this afternoon it was stated that there was a very slight improvement in Mrs. White's condition.

The funeral of Michael Devine, formerly of New London, who died in New York several days ago, was held at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, this morning at 9 o'clock and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. George Clark, with Rev. Michael Reagan deacon and Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan sub-deacon. The bearers were Edward, James and Charles Boyle and Donald, James and Joseph Delmore, nephews of Mr. Devine. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Reagan.

The funeral of Bernard J. Smith, a former resident of New London, who died Sunday in a New York hospital, was held at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church at 10 o'clock this morning, the mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Carrie H. Thompson has sold a house and lot on Vista street to John Donatello.

Patrick Moriarty, of South Manchester, today communicated with the New London police for the purpose of ascertaining when the body of the man found floating off Block Island 10 days ago, had been identified. Moriarty is seeking the whereabouts of John Callahan, who has been missing from South Manchester for several weeks. The body was that of a Lowell resident, who committed suicide. Callahan is described as being about five feet 11 inches in height and weighs about 170 pounds.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of William W. Edwards, 795 Bank street; William F. Burke, United States Coast Guard, state pier; Allen Elmore, U. S. S.-19, submarine base and Lester Kraas, United States Coast Guard destroyer, Davis, state pier. Commissioner Stoeckel also denied the right to drive of Ray R. Rustad, U. S. S. O-1, submarine base.

C. M. Howard, of Uncasville, sustained painful but not serious injuries this morning when he slipped and fell on State street, receiving severe bruises and scratches. Howard was near the corner of Atlantic street and in stepping from the curb he stepped upon several pieces of tomato, which caused him to be thrown violently to the pavement. Howard went to the residence of C. O. Tracey, 306 Pequot avenue, where his injuries were treated. Tracey reported the accident to the police.

Arthur McMahon, a stranger of the vagrant type, was in the city court today on a charge of breach of the peace and was fined $25 and costs. McMahon was partially intoxicated yesterday afternoon and when he went to the restaurant, corner of Atlantic and Potter streets, he found William Henley seated there. With no provocation whatever, McMahon delivered a blow on Henley's head, which opened the flesh so that three stitches were necessary to close the wound at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. The assault upon Henley was reported to the police and a short time afterwards, McMahon was arrested at the Union station by Sergeant John Cavanaugh.

William Scott was fined $10 and costs on a charge of intoxication. He was arrested on Main street last night.

Edwin Slates was charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinances. As he did not appear in court, his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

J. F. Noonan and S. J. Holewski, United States Coast Guard sailors, state pier, were arrested last night on Bank street by Patrolman George Cockell and two members of the coast guard shore patrol, when they were found fighting. Noonan and Holewski were not presented in court today, but were taken back to the state pier for discipline there.

DR. H. S. CAMPBELL, NORWICH, EXAMINES PINKY BURNS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 16—There is no change today in the condition of Pinky Burns, New London welterweight and formerly a familiar fighter in rings of New England, who was taken to Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital yesterday, suffering from acute tuberculosis. Last night Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, superintendent of Uncas-on-Thames, came to New London and gave Burns a thorough examination. The physician found just who Burns' physician had discovered. It is not believed that Burns will remain at the local hospital, but will go to Uncas-on-Thames or some other tuberculosis sanatorium. Burns' condition came as a complete surprise to followers of the ring, his friends and even his relatives, for he was supposed to be in excellent health.

ONLY ONE BID RECEIVED FOR RUNNING FERRYBOAT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 15—But one bid was received by the city for the operation of the ferryboat Mohican at the municipal building today and this bid was submitted by Captains Geo. Crandall and David Sheehan present lessees of the ferryboat. Their bid was $6,000, the same amount now being paid for the privilege of operating the boat. This bid specified the operation of the boat on the present schedule. Captains Crandall and Sheehan also submitted a bid for operation of the boat under a revised schedule that would not include Sundays and holidays. The bidders did not submit a bid calling for the running of the boat on a schedule that would permit but one crew being employed instead of two, as at present, for Messrs. Crandall and Sheehan do not consider such a schedule practicable. The matter will be brought before the city council next Monday night, when it is probable Messrs. Sheehan and Crandall will be awarded the contract for another year.

William McGuire became intoxicated this afternoon and when he went to a restaurant he dropped his bank book. When he discovered his loss he went to police headquarters and asked aid in finding the book. While there a patron of the restaurant who had found the bank book on the floor delivered it at headquarters. McGuire, who is elderly, was sobbing when the bank book was returned to him and because of his condition, he was locked up he and his property were considered safer in a cell than roaming about the city. He will be in the police court tomorrow charged with intoxication.

Within a few weeks the police have received any number of communications requesting aid in finding husbands, youths and girls. The latest request came today when Mrs. Fred Donohue, 49 Walnut street, Newark, N. J., asked the police to assist her in locating her husband, who has been absent from home several weeks. Mrs. Donohue said that her husband is known as "Jack" and described him as being 40, about five feet five inches in height, has red hair, blue eyes, is smooth shaven. He wore a black suit and gray cap. She also said that Donohue might be known to Captain Edward McQuarrie, of the launch Nelseco.

Announcement has been made of the marriage at the Immaculate Conception church, Westerly, the 6th inst. of Jerry Kononchik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kononchik of Groton and Miss Elizabeth Teresa McCormick, of Westerly. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Bruno. The best man was Delmore Kenney and the bridesmaid was Miss Catherine McCormick, sister of the bride.

Miss Anna Hill of Noank; Thomas Collins, Groton; R. O. Moore, 347 Pequot avenue; Miss Marie Spadori, of Hartford; John Kupise, 2 Front street; Miss Mary Fournier, 43 Church street and Miss Anna Canter, Montville, patients at Lawrence-Memorial and Home Memorial hospitals, were discharged today.

James F. Wilcox of Waterford and Miss Nina M. Sanford of this city, were married last night at 161 Gardner avenue by Rev. Charles F. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Thomas B. Woodworth of Quaker Hill and Mrs. Lillian S. Robertson, of Quaker Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sherman of Howard street, this city, were married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. G. V. Lassen, West Hartford, sister of the bridegroom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church, New London. Mr. Woodworth is manager of the Quaker Hill paper mill and has held office in the town of Waterford as selectman.

Thomas Davitt of Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly of New London, is spending a few days in this city.

Miss Letitia M. Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa E. Barnes, 17 Belden street, is a surgical patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, having been operated upon this week. Her condition is considered favorable.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy O'Leary have returned to their home on Montauk avenue, having visited in Montreal and Quebec.

Mrs. Frank Saunders of Whittlesey street, is visiting friends in Hartford.

The Hotel Griswold will close for the season tomorrow. Practically all the guests left for home today, and many of the help have already started for other employment. Some of the present help will go to Belair, Fla., where they will be employed during the winter.

The only bid for the razing of the building, 11 Atlantic street, owned by the estate of Bartholomew Daly, which property was recently condemned by the city, was received today by Purchasing Agent John W. Sheedy. The bid was from Robillo and Polito, Waterford contractors and the price was $450. The building is one of six which the city has ordered razed. The matter will be decided at a meeting of the city council next Monday.

Thomas McBroome and George H. Prior, Jewett City, were in New London yesterday where they renewed acquaintanceship with Sol Mugovero, Railroad avenue restaurant proprietor formerly of Jewett City. Messrs. McBroome and Prior are on their way to Washington, D. C., for two weeks' stay.

Alton T. Miner was elected delegate to the fall electoral conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, in Fall River, Mass., next April, at a meeting of the voting members of the New London church last night. Mrs. Stephen H. Prentis was elected alternate.

Frost Greene, colored, proprietor of a rooming house, 87 Green street, and his utility man, Emmett Johnson, also colored, were arrested on suspicion today of having robbed James W. Thomson, also colored, of Boston, of the latter's wallet containing $21 and driver's license. While the police are satisfied that either Greene or Johnson stole the money they could not secure sufficient evidence to hold the pair and they were released after having been locked up at police headquarters three hours. Thomson, who is a chauffeur employed by J. G. Stiles, 283 Summit avenue, Boston, drove Mr. and Mrs. Stiles to New London yesterday. After placing the car in a garage Thomson went to the Green street rooming house and was provided with sleeping accommodations for the night. When Thomson retired he placed the wallet containing the money and license beneath his pillow. About 9 o'clock this morning Thomson was called from his room because of a telephone call from his employer. Leaving the room he went to the floor below where he remained but two or three minutes. When he returned and thought of his wallet Thomson looked beneath the pillow but it was missing. Thomson let it be known to Greene that he had been robbed and the latter was the only other person on the floor where Thomson's room was located. Greene, who was preparing beds for occupancy, denied all knowledge of the theft of the wallet, as did Johnson, who had been on the same floor when Thomson received the telephone call. Thomson reported his loss to the police and Greene and Johnson were arrested. Before Greene was locked up he offered to reimburse Thomson for his loss, although denying that he or anyone else in the house had stolen the wallet.

Edward Connors, drivers of the Allen Hook and Ladder fire apparatus and Patrick Gallivan, Fishers Island, left here today by automobile for Chicago. They will witness the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight title battle next Thursday. John Shea and John Foley, New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad employes, will leave New London at 11.06 o'clock tomorrow morning for Chicago and will also witness the fight.

NOT FOUND GUILTY OF PERJURY CHARGE

Henry Vincent of Plainfield was not found guilty of perjury and fined $25 and costs in the city court of New London, Wednesday, as was reported. The facts of the case are stated as follows:

Mr. Vincent is one of a family of seven boys, which family has had most of its experience by employment in cotton mills. He obtained his first motor vehicle driver's license seven years ago, when there were no examinations such as are made now, and since that time has secured his renewal each year by mailing in his application, so he was entirely unacquainted with today's methods of examining the eyes, etc. He has a brother Felix who is a World War veteran and has suffered from shell shock, and who was the innocent cause of this unfortunate matter, as will appear from this narrative.

Felix has resided in New York state, and has had an operator's license there. He recently decided to come to Plainfield and live with his relatives and asked his brother Henry to aid him in securing a driver's license in Connecticut. Henry took him to the New London motor vehicle office, made out his application and Felix signed it. Henry told Felix to go up to the window with it and get his license. Felix was very nervous and said, "I don't want to go up to the window; I wish you would go up for me." Henry took the application up to the window, and the young lady in attendance told him to hold up his hand, which he did. Henry said she mumbled something to him, and he really did not understand what it was, and she told him to sign the application on the second page, and he signed Felix' name there. She then turned him over to State Policeman Johnson for examination. Officer Johnson said "We shall have to examine your eyes" Henry says that he did not realize what it was all about, for he had never had any experience with the eye tests and did not understand them. He took the eye test and passed it successfully, and the state policeman then said "Now come out and show me how you can drive." Henry then waked up to fact that his brother should be the one who was examined, and said "This license is not for myself, it is for my brother, and you should examine him as to his ability to drive"; and the state policeman immediately arrested Henry for perjury. The officer then examined the brother Felix who passed the eye test and the examination for driving.

State Policeman Johnson insisted that Henry was trying to put something over and got faint hearted, but Henry claims that he could drive with facility, and had driven seven years, and he had gotten by the hard work if he really meant to deceive, and had he gone out and taken the driving test, the license would undoubtedly have been issued and no one ever would have known anything about it; but as soon as the officer mentioned driving, and he realized why the examination was being made, he frankly told the policeman that it was for his brother, and gave the information which led to his own arrest. He was not detected in any way by the state policeman, but was arrested as a result of his attempt to do right and to go right as far as he knew.

When Henry appeared in court at New London, Wednesday, Judge Prince, after investigation, said he did not feel that Henry had any criminal intent or intended to deceive, that he believed if Henry had intended to deceive he would have gone through with it to the end. He said that the blunder had cost the city of New London probably about $25 in costs, and he asked Henry if he was willing to pay that. The court was told that Henry would pay the $25 and then the judge asked the prosecuting attorney to nolle the case. The nolle was made at the suggestion and under the direction of the court. Mr. Vincent did not pay a fine of $25 and costs, and was not found guilty of perjury.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

United States marines helped Tom Mix make scenes aboard the battleship California for "The Broncho Twister," Fox Films latest release starring Mix, which will show at the Breed theatre today and Saturday. The California is flagship of the Pacific fleet and Mix and his company were guests of Admiral Richard H. Jackson, commander-in-chief.

Lieutenant Colonel R. B. Sullivan, Marine corps officer on the admiral's staff, ordered Captain R. Griffin and 60 marines in overseas uniforms to report to O. O. Dull, director in charge of "The Broncho Twister" and they worked through all the battleship scenes with Mix.

The appearance of Mix on the California is his first on a warship. The scenes picture marines returning from France at the end of the war.

Helen Costello has the featured feminine role. Others in the cast are Paul Nicholson, Doris Lloyd, Otto Fries, Dorothy Kitchen, Malcolm Waite and George Irving.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

A new type of an outdoor picture, one you will thoroughly enjoy, commences today for a two day run.

Those who thrilled at the Chinese intrigue in Lon Chaney's Mr. Wu, are to have another glimpse into the cunning of the Orient.

This time it will be Tim McCoy, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer historical star, in Foreign Devils, who will reveal the intrigue of the Manchu rulers a little more than a quarter of a century ago when a concerted effort was made to murder every white man, woman and child in northern China.

The Boxer uprising has been written into a clever screen story by Peter B. Kyne, one of America's foremost writers. McCoy is seen in the role of the American military attache at the Peking legation.

Claire Windsor, who played opposite McCoy in The Frontiersman, is seen in the featured feminine role of a lovely young English noblewoman.

Commencing sunday night for four days, the much heralded screen sensation Beau Geste, will be offered Norwich patrons, the first time at popular prices. The most pretentious, glorious, mysterious photoplay ever presented on any screen.

Has Opened New Veterinary Office.

Dr. Robert Globus has announced that he will from now on have an office at 198 Palmer street, this city, for the practice of veterinary medicine and surgery. Dr. Globus is a graduate of the New York state veterinary college at Cornell and was formerly of Attleboro, Mass.

He is an accredited veterinarian and is licensed in this state to do tuberculosis work throughout the locality.

All calls may be received at his office and hospital, 198 Palmer street by telephoning 2816. The hospital is equipped with appliances for the work in the profession and dogs and cats may be boarded there if desired.

The course at the New York state college at Cornell university is one of four years during which all diseases of domestic animals and poultry is thoroughly studied. In fact this course of today in this profession is entirely different from what it has been in past years. Every type of disease, known to the profession is taken up thereby giving to the student the knowledge of its origin and cause in most instances.

Palace Theater

The reviewer was afforded a real treat when witnessing the show at the Palace last night. Five very good acts of vaudeville were presented and each one was just full of entertainment. Muriel Kay and company. Three men and a woman did some very clever dancing and the routine was very well done. Dobbs, Clark and Ray three comedians had the audience roaring with laughter. Their imitation of the old style of vaudeville was well received. Dewey and Rogers in a skit on the movies went over big. Farrel and Chadwick two fast dancers in Make It Hot, sure lived up to their billing Ernest Arnold doing all his stuff, up side down won a lot of applause during his all but too short act. Very neat show and will be liked by all who see it.

A beautiful mosaic of the north, Back to God's Country, starring Renee Adoree, is at the Palace theater.

Every scene of this spectacular outdoor picture is a cameo-like unit in this splendid example of the motion picture art. And here is a cue where motion pictures do rise to a fine pictorial and dramatic art.

Renee Adoree again proves that she is one of filmdom's leading stars. She is a remarkable actress and possesses a pert and fascinating French personality which fits in well with her French-Canadian role in this Universal production.

Robert Frazer is equally deserving of praise for his successful efforts in a difficult part. Mitchell Lewis, whom we have long known as a deep-dyed villain, plays a sympathetic role in this picture and does astoundingly well, proving that a good actor can essay any type of characterization. Walter Long glowers and plots well as the unscrupulous ship captain.

The production as a whole is a triumph of direction with credit for this going to Irvin Willat, the man who has made more big productions in his career than possibly any other director.

James Oliver Curwood has served up a story which is an intensely dramatic tale of the snow country, whirlwind in action and arousing in emotional power.

The height of the correctly-proportioned human figure is six times the length of the right foot.

EUROPE HONORS MEMORY OF GERMAN CRITIC

BERLIN, Sept. 15. (AP)—Rarely has a more international tribute been paid than that to Dr. Julius Elias, litterateur and art critic who died here.

A joint tribute to his merits was signed among others, by Gerhart Hauptmann, Arthur Schnitzler, Max Liebermann, Max Slevogt, the two Renoirs, Pissarro, Tristan Bernard, Lugne-Poe, Sigurd Ibsen and Bjorn Bjornson.

Elias was one of the foremost authorities on French impressionism and Scandinavian literature.

POOR STUDENTS GIVE FOR FLOOD RELIEF

BERLIN, Sept. (AP)—Self-supporting students from 20 countries attending German universities set an example of international cooperation after the flood of Saxony.

The students heard of the disaster while in convention in Dresden. They dispatched a telegram of sympathy to the Saxon government at once and followed it up by taking up a collection among themselves. Though all are working their way through college, they managed to scrape together 250 marks. This contribution represented their last cash.

Chamberlain Receives Honorary Degree

HENRY MILLER, WASH. D.C.

Clarence Chamberlain, trans-Atlantic flier, who created a sensation by flying in knickers, which he wore most of the time until he returned to this country, discarded them to don robes to receive an honorary degree in engineering from the Iowa State College, from which he graduated before taking up flying.

Cattle: Steady to strong.
Hogs: Lower.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—Violent bidding for the shares of the General Motors and United States Steel Corporations, all of which reached record high prices, overshadowed all other developments in today's irregular stock market. Transactions in General Motors old and new stocks comprised about one-fifth of the day's total sales of nearly two and three-quarter million shares. More than a score other issues attained new peak prices on extreme gains ranging from 1 to 9 points, but these were interspersed with a number of declines running from 1 to 8 points.

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in the drastic break of $7.50 a bale in cotton futures, part of which was later recovered, on publication of an alleged government forecast of lower prices. Cotton futures closed at a net loss of $3.30 to $6 a bale.

Heavy accumulation of the General Motors issues was in anticipation of the August report, showing record-breaking dealer sales of 158,819 cars, as compared with 122,805 in 1926 and 78,638 in 1925. The old stock touched a new ton at 270 and then slid back to 267 3-4, up 4 7-8 net, while the new shares closed 1 3-4 points net higher at 133 12 after having touched 135.

Bullish enthusiasm in the stock market was created by the distribution of about $200,000,000 in dividends and the reduction in the call money rate from 3 3-4 to 3 1-2 per cent. Fresh buying came into the steel shares on announcement that the New Haven and Pennsylvania railroads would be in the market for an unusually large quantity of rails in 1928. U. S. Steel common touched a new top at 160 1/4, closing within a fraction of the high.

Among the many other industrial issues to break through to new high prices were Allied Chemical, American Radiator, American Smelting, American Tobacco, Dupont, International Harvester, Liggett and Myers, National Lead, Porto Rican Tobacco A and B, Reynolds, J. R. Thompson and Westinghouse Air Brake.

Resumption of the advance in northwestern railroad shares, based on heavy freight traffic through that territory, was interrupted by profit-taking. Chicago and Northwestern and some of the St. Paul issues succeeded, however, in reaching new high ground.

Lower call money rates signalized the passing of the temporary credit stringency incidental to mid-month tax and dividend payments. There was no change in time money or commercial paper rates.

An early gain of 1 cent a bushel in wheat prices was converted into a similar loss on selling by professional traders. Coffee and sugar prices were firm.

Heavy buying of sterling exchange, which carried cables on London to a new high for the year, $4.86 3-8, or within 1-4 per cent of parity, was the only incident of importance in the foreign exchange market.

STATE LIBRARY GETS VALUABLE OLD MANUSCRIPT

A copy of General George Washington's address to the citizens of the United States declining a third presidential term has been received by the state library at Hartford, from Arthur T. Grosvenor of Abington, together with other papers which have been preserved in the family in a leather case which closely resembles a pocket book. This was also presented to the library. A photostatic copy of the address has been made.

The address which was printed in Hartford by Hudson and Goodwin, is dated September 17, 1796, which is Constitution Day, the birthday of the Federal Constitution which will be observed Saturday, the 140th anniversary of the completion and signing of this document.

This week is being observed as Constitution week by the Constitution Anniversary association. Clarence E. Whitney of Hartford, Mrs. Clarance H. Wickham of Manchester and Richard W. Edmonds of South Norwalk being members of the advisory committee.

Washington in his "Farewell Address" expressed the hope "that the Constitution may be sacredly maintained—that its administration in every department may be stamped with wisdom and virtue—that the happiness of the people of these states may be made complete by so careful a preservation, and so prudent use of this blessing, as will acquire them the glory of recommending it to the applause, the affection and adoption by every nation."

Washington's Warning.

He also expressed a solemn warning that we should "resist with care the spirit of innovation upon its principles, however specious the pretext. One method of assault may be to effect, in the forms of the Constitution, alterations which will impair the energy of the system; and thus to undermine what can not be directly overthrown."

This is the fifth year that the Constitution Anniversary association has carried on the work of urging a worthy observance of Constituiton week and of helping to bring about a better understanding of the meaning, value and importance of the Constitution of the United States.

WITHDRAWAL IN $5,000 SUIT OVER AUTO CRASH

Withdrawal without costs from the docket of the superior court has been filed with Clerk George E. Parsons in the $5,000 damage suit brought by Laura Muzrol against Jacob Goldberg both of New London.

The action arose as the result of an automobile collision between the defendant and one in which the plaintiff was riding.

PLANS ACCEPTED FOR NEW $420,000 BUILDING AT STORRS COLLEGE

Plans for two new buildings at state institutions in this part of the state, one at Storrs and the other at Mystic, were accepted by the executive committee of the state board of control at a meeting at the capitol at Hartford on Thursday.

The building at Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs is to be the new administration building for which the legislature appropriated $420,000. Recitation rooms and laboratories will be included in the building besides the facilities for the adminstration department. The plans accepted were by New Britain architects. For the building itself the sum of $350,000 will be spent and the rest of the apropriation will be for equipment.

The plans accepted for the Mystic Oral school are for the superintendent's new cottage and are by New London architects. It is expected that bids for these two structures will be put out within a week.

The trustees of the state hospital for the insane at Middletown were authorized to sign contracts for the new $125,000 bathroom section at that institution. The general contract was awarded to a Wallingford concern, the lowest of eleven bidders at $89,476; the plumbing contract to a Middletown firm, lowest of eight bidders, at $17,326.25, and the heating contract another Middletown firm, lowest of six bidders.

The board also gave its O. K. to the recent appointment of Major Richard J. Hughes of Hartford, as commandant of the soldiers' home at Noroton, and of Major Arthur C. Bennett of Bridgeport as executive officer at the home.

The board received a check for $767.53 from the Canadian government and turned it over to the state aid fund. This sum had been advanced from the state aid fund to J. C. McBirnay, a World war veteran of Canada, who was hospitalized here.

REBUILDING "OLD IRONSIDES", CHAMPION OF THE NAVY

Lumber enough to build 47 six-room houses will be purchased for the reconditioning of the old U. S. frigate, Constitution, well known under the name of "Old Ironsides", which is to be rebuilt at the Boston navy yard, and for which a considerable sum was contributed in Norwich during the nation-wide campaign that was conducted.

Requisitions for the work approved by the bureau of construction and repair call for approximately 710,000 board feet of lumber which includes white oak, long-leaf yellow pine, Douglas fir and a considerable quantity of live oak which has been submerged in the Pensacola navy yard for the last 49 years. The Constitution will be completely rebuilt, all of the original lumber being replaced.

"Old Ironsides" (Constitution) received her nickname during the battle with the British ship "Guerriere" in 1812, when the cannon balls of the British rolled off the sturdy oak sides of the frigate, leaving her undamaged.

The Constitution took, during the war of 1812, 11,000 prisoners. The U. S. did not lose during the entire war, 11,000 officers, sailors and marines prisoners.

The United States possesses in the Constitution, the greatest man-of-war that ever sailed the seven seas. She did five unprecedented things:—

(1) She knocked down the stone forts of Tripoli.

(2) She escaped from the Admiral Brakes squadron of seven ships, after a four day chase without losing a gun, a boat or an anchor.

(3) She defeated the Guerriere, a crack British frigate, in 17 minutes after firing the first broadside, wrecking the Guerriere, which lost 179 men.

(4) She lost every spar out of the "Java" frigate in a running fight, without taking in her royals, that is to say, she licked her enemy without taking off her coat.

(5) She captured the "Cyane" and "Lavant" at the same time without being raked once, while every broadside she fired was a raking broadside. In addition she ran the blockade of British ships seven times. She never lost her commanding officer, she never went aground, and the largest number of men she ever lost in fight was eight. She was in commission more than 80 years.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING TO TAKE PLACE AT POMFRET

Dr. and Mrs. Frederic Grosvenor Goodridge, now at Mashomoquet Meadows, their country place in Pomfret Centre, have announced to their friends in New York and elsewhere the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel Gouverneur Goodridge, to Thomas H. Barber, only son of Mrs. Thomas H. Barber of Claverack House, Southampton, and of the late General Barber.

Miss Goodrige, who was introduced to society in New York several years ago, is a member of the Junior league. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Goodridge of Springfield and Riverdale-on-Hudson, whose town house at Fifth avenue and Twenty-eighth street many years ago was noted for its hospitality. Her mother, the former Miss Ethel Iselin, is a sister of John H. Iselin, who married Dr. Goodridge's sister, the former Miss Caroline Goodridge.

Mr. Barber for the greater part of the year lives at Claverack House with his mother. He is a nephew of Howard Townsend of Springfield and of Mrs. Alexander L. Morton of Southampton and New York. During the World war he was an officer in the Twelfth Regiment, which afterward became the First Pioneer Infantry. Later he was a member of the general staff. Mr. Barber is the brother of Mrs. Roger F. Hooper, the former Miss Justine Van Rensselaer Barber, now living in Boston. He was graduated from Harvard university in 1911 and is a member of the Knickerbocker and Union clubs.

The wedding will take place in Pomfret on Oct. 8.

PARENT-TEACHERS ELECT OFFICERS IN POQUETANUCK

The annual meeting of the Poquetanuck Parent-Teachers association was held at the school house Wednesday evening. The meeting was opened by the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, after which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Appleton Main; vice president, Mrs. John Taylor; secretary, Mrs. Harry Beckwith; treasurer, Rev. T. H. M. Ockford; auditor, Appleton Main.

The committee on the revision of the by-laws recommended some changes which were adopted. Mr. Connolly, Mr. Ockford, Mrs. Harry Beckwith, Mrs. Naomi Gallup and Mrs. George Mansfield were appointed a committee to plan work for the year.

Mrs. Charles Harkness and J. Guy Ayer were appointed publicity committee; Mrs. Harry Beckwith, Mrs. Raymond Beckwith and J. Guy Ayer entertainment committee for the October meeting.

Miss Marguerite Miller rendered the song "A Dream Garden" very pleasingly, Mrs. F. D. Miller presided at the piano. Mr. Connolly gave an interesting talk on the old and new methods of teaching. The association is in a very good condition financially, having over $100 in the treasury.

SPRINGFIELD MAN TO BE SPEAKER AT CONGRESS

Abner Schwartz, chairman of the one day congress committee of the Norwich chamber of commerce, has called a meeting of the committee for 4 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon at the chamber of commerce rooms.

Edwin S. Niles, former secretary of the Retail Merchant's bureau of the Springfield chamber of commerce, and now general manager of the Springfield Shopping News, has consented to be one of the speakers at the one day congress of the chamber, Monday, Sept. 26th.

Mr. Niles will address the members of the retail credit bureau at 11:00 a. m. on that day, according to a letter signed by E. L. Latimer, president of the local credit bureau, which is being mailed to all members of the organization. Mr. Niles has also agreed to conduct a women's mass meeting at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

For the last 10 years, Mr. Niles has devoted a great deal of time and study to shopping conditions. He was responsible for the adoption of standard sizes for delivery boxes by a group of Springfield merchants which were purchased in large quantities and used generally by all the stores. He organized and developed the Springfield Credit bureau and the majority of grocers, meat markets, doctors, lawyers and merchandising houses in Springfield are members of this bureau which employs over 16 people and requires the services of four telephone operators to handle calls.

In recognition of the unusual development of the retail merchant's bureau in Springfield, as a result of his untiring efforts, the National Association of Retail Secretaries made Mr. Niles the national secretary in 1925. Merchants who hear Mr. Niles at the morning meeting and the ladies who attend the afternoon meeting at the hotel can be assured of an unusual treat.

GROTON CHILDREN GAVE BIBLE SCHOOL DEMONSTRATION

Re-election of the entire board of officers of the Stonington Union Baptist Bible school convention featured the business session of that body, at the Third Baptist church, North Stonington, Wednesday afternoon.

The officers are as follows:

President, Charles P. Zabriskie, of Preston City; vice president, I. Spicer, Noank; secretary and treasurer, Rev. George R. Atha, Groton; auditor, E. F. Wilcox, Mystic.

The election followed devotional services led by the Rev. F. S. Robbins.

A prominent part of the afternoon program was a demonstration of a Bible school which was conducted in the Groton Heights Baptist church last summer. Forty children who attended the school were taken to the North Stonington church. Miss Norma George and Miss Harriet Lund assisted the Rev. Atha, pastor of the church, in the demonstration. These girls were teachers in the Bible school. Rev. Mr. Atha told of the work of the school. The afternoon program closed with an address, Advancement of Education in the Bible school, by Rev. E. F. Wiese.

In the evening a devotional service was led by Thomas Haggerty and Lewis Cromwell of Poquonoc Bridge. The Rev. George Nisbet McCloskey of the Connecticut Religious Education association addressed the gathering, taking as his subject Religious Education and Evangelism.

TUGS PULL COAL BARGE FROM RIVER SAND BAR

The Coast Guard tug Chautuqua aided by two tugs of the Thames Tow Boat Co., Thursday at 11 o'clock succeeded in floating the barge Barnstable laden with a cargo of soft coal from the mud flats opposite Red Top, where the barge went ashore Monday morning.

Swung around onto the mudflats by the current racing through the narrow channel at that point, the barge, loaded with 3,000 tons of soft coal consigned to the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., plant at Montville, became so firmly beached that the combined efforts of four tugs failed Tuesday to release her. The efforts were then abandoned pending removal of part of her cargo.

Wednesday a lighter was loaded with about 300 tons of the cargo and the barge, considerably lightened, was pulled off the mud with little difficulty Thursday morning.

She was then towed to the power company plant to discharge the balance of the cargo.

CURTISS CATCHES RECORD TROUT IN MAINE LAKE

F. M. Curtiss of 2 Stetson street won newspaper notice in the Lewiston, Me., Daily Sun this week when he caught an 11 3-4 pound brown trout in Lake Auburn which is believed to be the largest trout ever taken on a fly at the lake. The fish measured 31 inches in length and 22 inches in circumference.

Mr. Curtiss hooked the trout on his second cast using a four ounce rod and a Queen of the Waters fly. He is well acquainted with the lake as he has fished its waters for 20 or 25 years. He is having the fish mounted and will have it at his home in this city early in October.

MONTVILLE CHURCH TO HAVE OLD HOME DAY

Old Home day will be observed by the Congregational church at Montville Center with appropriate exercises on Sunday, Sept. 18, which marks the 206th anniversary of the founding of this church, about which some of the finest old traditions cling. The program will open at 11 a. m. with the extending of communion and a sermon. At 12:30 o'clock the assemblage, which is expected to include many former members of the parish who have long since moved away from Montville Center, will be seated to enjoy a luncheon that will be prepared and served by the members of the Ladies' union.

At 2:30 p. m., an historical meeting will be held in the church, at which several speakers will make addresses on subjects appropriate to the occasion and the Rural Male quartet will render several vocal numbers. The program will come to an end with a pilgrimage at 4:30 o'clock to various historic places about the town.

The first Congregational meeting place in the North Parish of New London (now Montville) was erected in 1722 on land given to the parish by John Merrit and Mrs. Mary Raymond. The structure was 35 x 25 x 20 and cost one hundred and forty pounds (approximately $700) to build. When built the only finishing the meeting place had was an outside covering and floors. A few year later the interior was plastered. This building was located on the site of the present cemetery. It remained on the original site until 1772 when it was abandoned and a new site at the east corner of the lot of Joshua Raymond, at a place known by the name of the White Oak Stick, was selected as the site of a new building, and since that time a meeting house has occupied this location.

The present house of worship was built in 1847 at a cost of $2,000.

Invitations have been extended to all of the old members of the congregation who have left Montville to come home to meet old friends and acquaintances in the old church which has withstood all of the assaults of the elements for so long a period and which at the present time is enjoying new inspiration and prosperity under the leadership of the Rev. William D. Barnes, ably assisted by Malcolm B. Dana.

SPOKE TO LIONS ON NATIONAL TAX REDUCTION

With President William R. Frisbie in the chair the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held at the Wauregan hotel Thursday noon. There was the usual large attendance and there were a number of visitors present. Dr. Kopland K. Markoff was the song leader, and Lionel Ethier presided at the piano.

Judge Nelson J. Ayling spoke on the question of taxes with relation to reduction of the national debt. William A. Anderson, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced that the Royal Welsh Ladies choir is to give a concert here next month under the auspices of the Lions club. Louis M. Do You Work Under Artificial Light?

In office or factory, many workers constantly put a strain on their eyes in this way.

We can't all look for new jobs but we can all help our eyes. The right glasses will relieve the strain and prevent consequent "Dimmed" sight.

FAILED IN ATTEMPT AT NON-STOP FLIGHT FROM DUBLIN, IRE., TO NEW YORK

Faced With Head Winds Sweeping at 40 Miles an Hour, Capt. Mackintosh and Commandant Fitzmaurice Were Forced to Turn the Monoplane "Princess Xenia" Back, When Already Over the Atlantic Ocean—Safe Landing Was Made at Ballybunion, County Kerry—Landed 4½ Hours After Hop-Off.

DUBLIN, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Faced with head winds sweeping at forty miles an hour, Captain Robert H. MacIntosh and Commandant James C. Fitzmaurice in the monoplane Princess Xenia when already over the Atlantic on their projected non-stop flight to New York were forced to turn back to Ireland and made a safe landing six miles south of Ballybunnion, County Kerry, at six o'clock tonight.

The airmen, who hoped off from Baldonnel airfield, Dublin, at 1:26 p. m., braving the tragic fate of recent trans-Atlantic fliers in an attempt to be the first to make the westward passage by air, were uninjured and went to a local hotel.

Ballybunnion is a seaside resort on the south side of the mouth of the River Shannon.

The landing of the aviators at the little seaside resort 4 1-2 hours after they had hopped off with high hopes and cheery farewells, meant failure for another east-west Trans-Atlantic flight, but it was failure without loss of life.

The reluctant decision of the airmen to turn back to land and safety came after they had encountered adverse winds and a binding fog over the sea which obstructed their course and made impossible their plan to fly to New York by way of Newfoundland without stopping in about 26 hours.

"We and the machine are O. K.," Comandant Fitzmaurice said in an interview after making the landing at Beale Strand, Ballybunnion. "The engine ran perfectly and we returned only because in the circumstances it was impossible to steer a true compass course."

The commandant said that after crossing the Aran islands in Galway Bay, the "Princess Xenia" encountered very rough weather and poor visibility. At 4:58 p. m., he and Captain MacIntosh decided that it would be suicidal to proceed and swung back for the Irish coast.

The airmen emptied one gasoline tank in order to lighten their machine and reached County Clare about 6 o'clock. For more than half an hour they flew about 30 feet above the sea skiting the coast in search of a suitable place to land and finally came to the Beale Strand, where they landed safely.

ELECTION RETURNS FROM THE IRISH FREE STATE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 16—(AP)—Count of the votes cast in yesterday's parliamentary elections at 9 o'clock tonight gave the government three seats, the Fianna Fail party of Eamon De Valera three, and the independents five, with scattered seats for the other parties.

The election is carried on by the preferential system and it probably will be next week before the full results can be tabulated.

Although reports received in Dublin were that the ballotting, which was unusually heavy, was carried out without disturbances for the most part, two deaths have been reported in election clashes.

The following three candidates were declared elected on the first count in Dublin, North: General Mulcahy, government, 14597; Alfred Byrne, independent 11,874 and James Larkin, independent labor, 7,490. There were 65,202 valid votes cast in this constituency and the necessary quota was declared to be 7,245. S. T. Kelly, republican, got only 6,958 first preferences, but probably will be elected on the further distribution of preferences.

In Dublin City, South, three candidates were declared elected, being S. Lemass, republican, chief party agent for De Valera, who polled 11,240 votes, Dr. Heneasy, government, who polled 9,400 and J. W. Beckett, government, 7,362. Robert Briscoe, republican, failed of election on the first preferences, but probably will be elected on the distribution of votes.

Ernest Blythe, government, Free State vice-president, headed the poll in Monaghan but was 142 short of the necessary quota.

Captain Redmond, the National leader, was elected for Waterford.

President Cosgrave headed the poll in Cork City in receiving 17,395 votes against the 11,608 of former Lord Mayor French who stood second.

LEGAL TANGLE OVER PARENTAGE OF INFANT

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 16.—(AP)—While a heart-broken mother lay in a hospital here tonight praying for the return of her "son" as she nursed a baby girl, Judge Carl V. Weygandt looked forward to a conference Monday with masters of the medical profession who might aid him in solving the tangle that would test the wisdom of a Solomon.

The tangle was brought to the bar of justice in Judge Weygandt's court Saturday, when Sam Smith, father of the child instituted habeas corpus proceedings demanding that Fairview Park hospital officials be forced to return his child "George Smith."

Mrs. Smith nursed a baby girl tonight which hospital officials claim is the child born to her August 22. They also claim that the tangle resulted from a "clerical error" made at the hospital. But the doubt of a mother is not dispelled by their explaination, and the childs father vowed today that he "would spend every penny I have to straighten out this tangle."

Meantime, the possibility that the grand jury may be called upon to investigate the case was seen today when County Prosecutor Stanton assured Charles F. McConnell, attorney for Mrs. Smith, that "the grand jury will make an exhaustive probe without delay if there is the least bit of evidence of perjury or hint of criminality in the case."

TO ASSIST IN SEARCH FOR MISSING PASTOR

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 16—(AP)—With Bishop Goen, of the Methodist Episcopal church, north, en route to assist authorities in their search for the Rev. Willis J. Jordan, missing pastor, officers today continued their questioning of the Rev. A. V. Noble, charged with kidnapping Jordan.

Noble preceded Jordan as pastor at the Second Avenue church here and was dismissed by the congregation September 6. He refused to give up the parsonage when Jordan arrived and was removed through a dispossessory warrant.

Mrs. Jordan claims two unidentified men spirited her husband away, after calling him to the door on pretense of talking over the church affairs. She says she has not seen her husband since and knows of no motive for the kidnapping. She told newspapermen today she could not identify the alleged abducters.

FIVE INDICTMENTS FOR FLOGGING IN ALABAMA

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 16—(AP)—Five men were held under bonds totalling $100,000 here tonight, following their arrest on indictments charging them with participating in recent floggings in Jefferson county. Another, indicted at Onenta recently in connection with the whipping of Jeff Calloway, was held under bond of $10,000.

W. J. Worthington was arrested this morning on one kidnaping and two bribery charges, shortly after Louis C. Albright, his attorney, had been taken into custody. Both men were indicted for alleged participation in the whipping of Arthur Hitt, negro, who was said to have been frightened into disposing of a 60-acre farm for a sum said to be far below its value. County records show that Worthington was the purchaser.

Albright was held in $25,000 bail on one charge of kidnaping, while Worthington was under $25,000 bond for kidnaping and $5,000 for two charges of bribery in connection with testimony of witnesses before the grand jury.

Charles J. Seale, Eugene Doss and Clyde Copeland were arrested today after being indicted for the whipping of John Bolton, who was flogged twice within recent weeks. Bonds for Seale was set at $25,000 while the other two men were released on $10,000.

Additional arrests are expected, authorities said. Eighteen indictments were returned by the grand jury, which reported late yesterday.

EXPLORER FURLONG WEDS ELEANOR MAY GUTHRIE

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—Lieut. Col Charles Wellington Furlong, artist, explorer and author, and Eleanor May Guthrie, a Christian Science practitioner, obtained a marriage license at the Municipal building and announced they would be married here today.

Col. Furlong, who lives at 333 Beacon street, Boston, Mass., discovered in Tripoli harbor in 1904, the wreck of the frigate Philadelphia sunk by Decatur a century before. He has led exploring expeditions through South America and Africa and is the author of several books and magazine articles. He is 52 years old and formerly lived at Pendleton, Ore., where he was divorced in 1921 from Eva E. Furlong. He served with the expeditionary forces during the war and was awarded the Greek croix de guerre.

Miss Guthrie, 39 years old, of Newtonville, Mass., was divorced from Louis H. Moody at Hartford, Conn., five years ago when she again took her maiden name.

ROOSEVELT AND TRUMBULL PRINCIPAL SPEAKERS

NEW BRITAIN, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Governor John H. Trumbull are slated as the principal speakers at the annual republican barbecue to be held tomorrow at Lake Compounce under the auspices of the Third Ward Republican club, of New Britain. The address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Gardner C. Weld, of New Britain, and Chairman Donald A. Bartlett, of the club will preside.

Present indications point to a gathering of about 500 men and women when the activities of the day get under way at 1.30 with a sheep bake. Arrangements have been made to use two floors of the pavilion simultaneously, with an orchestra and the American Legion band dividing the diners' attention.

A number of distinguished republicans, including Senator Hiram Bingham, and Chairman J. Henry Roraback of the republican state central committe have signified their intentions of being present for the occasion.

900 JAPANESE WORKINGMEN WENT DOWN WITH STEAMER

VLADIVOSTOK, Siberia, Sept. 16—(AP)—Reports received here today say that 900 Japanese workingmen aboard the large Japanese steamer Wusung, belonging to the Kawasaki Steamship company, perished in the sinking of the vessel.

The reports stated that the ship(which was bound from Kamchatka, Siberia, for Japan, was wrecked while passing th Kurile islands.

(There is no Steamship "Wusung" listed in Lloyd's register, but a vessel named "Woosung Maku" is listed as belonging to the Kawasaki Steamship company.)

Actor Forsyth Has Committed Suicide

Inhaled Illuminating Gas—M[illegible] Forsyth Has Been [illegible]ying With Friends in Westerly.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A lifelong fight against recurring attacks of nervous depression was lost by Bertram Forsyth, actor and playwright, today when he committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas.

He was found dead on the kitchen floor of his artistically furnished upper West Side apartment by police. Gas fumes from the range had crowded nearly all the air from the room.

Among his papers police found a letter from the Provincetown players notifying him that his revue, "Powder and Patches" had been accepted for production.

Another letter, laying among a stack of corrospondence from persons prominent in the theatrical world, was addressed to his wife. It told of his losing fight against depression and bade her good-bye.

"I don't think anyone can realize what I have suffered the last year through nerves and depression," he wrote.

Mrs. Forsyth has been staying with friends at Westerly, R. I., with her son Peter. She left for this city upon being informed of his death.

A Favorite Kipling Story.

It is recorded of this well known British author that he once remonstrated with a friend for having sent him a publication from which the advertising pages had been cut. "Why, you have thrown away the most interesting section," Mr. Kipling said.

Advertisements are more interesting today than at any time since the invention of movable type. Merchants and manufacturers realize that their announcements must compete for interest with the work of the high priced authors and illustrators.

QUESTIONED ABOUT THE DEATH OF HER HUSBAND

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 16—(AP)—State police and county authorities today questioned Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, whose husband, Dr. William Lilliendahl, a retired physician, was slain yesterday on a lonely road in the woods near here, for two hours.

Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle, of Atlantic county, declared that he would have nothing to say until he had conferred with Prosecutor Repetti.

Mrs. Lilliendahl was still at the state police barracks tonight. Captain William Carter, of the state police, said she was not under arrest, but was remaining there of her "own free will." She told the authorities her husband was shot by two Negroes when he attempted to defend her from attack and that the Negroes had grabbed some of her jewelry and disappeared.

State police who visited the scene of the killing said the prints of a woman's shoes alone were discernible in the soft earth. Today they found a ruby ring, which Mrs. Lilliendahl said, was taken by the Negroes, near the spot where her husband was slain and a few feet from where the woman's wrist watch was discovered last night. Captain Carter called in posses of men who had been searching for the two Negroes giving rise to the report that this theory had been abandoned.

The Lilliendahls lived on the outskirts of Vineland. Mrs. Lilliendahl was the physician's second wife. He was 65 years old and she is 41. They had one child, a boy nine years old.

AIR MAIL SERVICE IS INAUGURATED IN CANADA

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 16—(AP)—Canada successfully inaugurated its air mail service today with the transportation of 500 pounds of letter mail from the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia at Rimouski, Que., to this city, a distance of 342 rail miles.

It was the second attempt of the dominion to include itself among the nations which employ airplanes to facilitate the speed of mail delivery.

A previous attempt failed when Major Tudhope, the carrier-pilot, crashed his plane against a wharf in taking off but escaped uninjured.

In today's enterprise, the mail was brought in a tender to the wharf where the plane had been moored and placed in a Royal Canadian air force hydroplane, piloted by Major C. G. Quigley.

It took off at 9.25 a. m., and arrived in this city six hours and five minutes later.

One stop was made en route by Major Quigley, at Three Rivers, for refueling.

GIRL ABANDONED THE ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

BOULOGNE, France, Sept. 17—(AP)—Miss Millie Hudson, young English swimmer, who started on a channel attempt from Cape Gris Nez at 11.06 o'clock yesterday morning, abandoned her swim after being in the water about 13 hours.

Miss Hudson was forced to quit shortly after midnight when a strong current carried her off her course.

Gov't to Safeguard Agricultural Reports

To Protect Public From Persons Who Might Use the Information For Unfair Purposes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. —(AP)—Precipitating the longest cabinet session since President Coolidge took office, the south's protest against the government report, which yesterday sent the cotton market tumbling $6.50 a bale, resulted today in an order from Secretary Jardine prohibiting future predictions of price trends by department of agriculture officials.

The cabinet session, which lasted more than two hours, was followed by announcement that Mr. Coolidge regards as hazardous predictions by government departments on the possible trend of prices.

However, it was said, the chief executive will leave the handling of the cotton situation to the department of agriculture.

In announcing the restriction placed upon the bureau of economics, secretary Jardine conformed to demands from cotton producers, expressed through Senators Caraway, Arkansas; Shepard, of Texas; and Harris, of Georgia, and others. All three insisted that the bureau confine itself to actual statisics and under no circumstances make conjectures as to the future trend of prices.

Senator Harris also demanded immediate discharge of the employe responsible for the cotton price statement but it was declared at Mr. Jardine's office that no such action would be taken.

"The statement," Mr. Jardine said, "was based upon statistics representing production, world stocks, consumption and the usual relation of the prospective supply to price, it was not a special price forecast. Similar statements on the price situation for the major farm commodities have been prepared monthly for two years by the department for the aid of farmers in planning their marketing and production programs."

Simultanedusly with Mr. Jardine's decision an order was broadcast forbidding future release of department news except through the Agricultural Press Service.

Heads of the economics bureau, called before the secretary prior to the cabinet meeting bureau, declared the cotton statement was not intended for the press, but rather for "cotton cooperatives and other persons who would understand its meaning."

Frank discussion of indicated price trends, the department held, is of immeasurable benefit to producers, but it now is apparent it was added, the general public is not prepared to protect itself against "persons who use the information for unfair advantage."

THREE ESCAPED GIRLS CAPTURED IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Three Hartford men and three escaped girls inmates of the Florence Crittenden home in New Haven, were arrested late this afternoon on information supplied by one of the girls who had returned voluntarily to the institution to escape the life which liberty had brought her and her companions.

The men are Fred Sabotta, 23, of 691 Maple avenue; Harry Hornberger, 25, of 34 South Whitney street; and his brother, Frank Hornberger, 23, also of 34 South Whitney street.

All are charged with misconduct. An additional charge of harboring an escaped inmate of a penal or corrective institution was made against Sabotta.

COTTON MARKET WAS UNSETTLED YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The cotton market was unsettled today, evidently as the result of yesterday's government predictions of lower prices under certain conditions, and price changes were decidedly erratic.

A steady tone had developed early in the day in sympathy with Liverpool cables and December contracts sold at 21.85 cents a pound, but the price dropped later to 21.05 cents, a loss of about $4 a bale, or about $1.50 under the lowest level of yesterday.

There were numerous rallies and breaks, a private crop estimate indicating a loss of about 500,000 bales in the expected yield, has little effect on values.

AUTO TRUCK PLUNGED OFF THE PALISADES

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Sept. 16—(AP)—Three of the 13 injured today when an automobile truck plunged 50 feet off the Palisades were reported in serious condition at the Englewood hospital. Twelve still remain at the hospital.

The accident occurred when the steering gear of a truck operated by the interstate park commission broke. The truck with its human cargo crashed through the protecting wall beside the cliffs and plunged 50 feet over the steep embankment. Four escaped injuries.

FRENCH CHEER ARRIVAL OF DOUGHBOYS AT CHERBOURG

French Cheered the Americans and the Americans Cheered the French as the Legionnaires Entered the Port, Led by General Pershing—French and American Bands Played Wartime Tunes—The Whole Country Looks Forward to a Holiday Monday, When American Legionnaires Will Parade Thorough Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 16—(AP)—General Pershing and his doughboys are back in France again. Tonight the Paris air was filled with wartime tunes, "Madelon" and "Over There," and thoughts of French people have turned back to remembrances of those days of 1917 when Europe made the acquaintance of the Yank in uniform.

This time Yanks—30,000 of them—are in "cits" and there isn't a man in all Europe to prevent them as they go about the job of seeing France as civilians.

All Paris has caught the carnival spirit that this second A. E. F. has brought and the whole country looks forward to taking a holiday Monday when American legionnaires parade through the capital before opening their convention on soil they helped save ten short years ago.

General Pershing and 1500 of the men he commanded in the war arrived this morning at Cherbourg aboard the Leviathan, greatest of wartime transports. Other thousands landed at French ports during the night and today on other ships, and still more thousands had reached Paris before them.

Those who had known Paris in wartime when it was gay but not bright, came back to find more lights than they had any idea the city could produce. Not only were the street lights burning brightly tonight but thousands of others were strung to make a Fraco-American holiday. Many of them were so arranged that they spelled the word "welcome" and everywhere in the city buildings and poles displayed the stars and stripes.

Before dawn French officials at Cherbourg boarded a tender fittingly named "Welcome" and went out into the bay to greet the returning doughboys on the Leviathan. They found eGneral Pershing in a dressing gown and other legionnaires in pajamas.

The French cheered the Americans and the Americans cheered the French. As the legionnaires entered the port led by General Pershing and Howard P. Savage, national commander of the American legion, French Navy bands played Madelon and The Star Spangled Banner and American bands sent over by Legion posts made the air merry with "Over There" and the Marseillaise. Through flag-draped streets and lanes of cheering people the legionnaires went to the city hall where French officials welcomed them back to the soil they helped defend. Pershing and Savage expressed their joy in being back in a land they loved.

Then they entrained for the capital, the commander of the original A. E. F. and the commander of the American legion of today with several hundred others in a special train while the remainder of the expedition occupied two boat trains.

Arriving at Paris General Pershing was greeted in the name of the government by Paul Painleve, minister of war, who ten years ago performed the same function when the American commander first reached France to make ready for the great army that was to follow him.

The war minister recalled this former meeting which took place June 13, 1927. "You will find everywhere brothers in arms with whom you fought side by side as kind hearted and loving now as they were when chance made our people your hosts. You will realize that all along the front numberless towns and villages which you saw tumbled down have been rebuilt and in witnessing such revival you will think, I hope, that the courage and stubbornness of France in peace is not inferior to her courage and stubbornness in war."

General Pershing feelingly replied: "I well remember", he said, "ten years ago when my staff and I were greeted in Paris. We came then answering a call of humanity and love. We came to aid France, with whom we had been friends for 150 years. This welcome today is just as touching as that of ten years ago when we came to fight."

When the reception at the station was over Pershing and Savage accompanied by French officials, military and civil alike, drove to the Arc do Triomphe, there to stand in silent homage before the tomb of unknown Poilu.

Tomorrow their first thoughts will be for the graves of American soldiers left behind when Pershing's victorious armies went back home from the war. At Suresnes cemetery on a hill overlooking the capital, Pershing, Savage and other legion leaders will stand tomorrow morning before rows of crosses marking the graves of 1,500 American soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice in France.

TRUCK DRIVERS' STRIKE IN NEW YORK SETTLED

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Settlement of the truck drivers' strike that had paralyzed New York's wholesale fruit and produce market for a day was announced tonight by representatives of the commission merchants and boss truckmen.

The 2,000 striking truckmen had asked for an increase of $7 weekly, but after a three hour conference between commission merchant representatives and union leaders a compromise granting a $5 wage increase was accepted by both groups.

Under the new scale of wages the truckmen will receive a weekly salary of $45.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED BY RACING AUTOMOBILE

ALTAMONT, N. Y., Sept. 16—(AP)—Four persons were injured here today, two seriously, when a racing automobile on the track at the Albany-Schenectady counties fair grounds, in taking a turn into the home stretch at nearly 60 miles an hour, plunged into the fence and demolished a concessionary's tent. Mayor John Boyd Thacher of Albany and his party were less than 30 feet from the point where the car crashed through the fence.

MOB STORMING JAIL IN ATTEMPT TO GET NEGRO

FT. MYERS, Fla., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The entire police force was called out tonight to quell a disturbance growing out of the unsuccessful efforts of a mob to storm the Lee County jail in search of a negro who today attacked a 50 year old white woman in her home on the outskirts of the city.

PLANE ROYAL WINDSOR HAS RETURNED TO WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 16—(AP)—The monoplane Royal Windsor, carrying C. A. "Duke" Schiller and Phil Wood arrived here tonight from Old Orchard, Maine.

The fliers had stopped at Old Orchard from Harbor Grace, N. F., after abandoning plans for their proposed flight to Windsor, England.

YOUTHS SENTENCED FOR BREAKS IN WILLIMANTIC

PUTNAM, Sept. 16—(AP)—Stanley Budnicky, 19, and William Kuminski, 21, were sent to state prison today after pleading guilty to two counts of breaking and entering in Willimantic. On each count they were sentenced to two to four years by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin.

DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSSES AWARDED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur today announced the award of distinguished flying crosses to Lieutenants Ben H. Wyatt and Delbert S. Cornwell for distinguished aviation achievements in line of duty.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Dodge

ALLENDALE, N. J., Sept. 16—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Ann (Day) Dodge, widow of Arthur Pillsbury Dodge, died here today at the home of her son, Richard Paul Dodge. She is survived by two other sons, William Copeland Dodge, New York city magistrate, and Wendell Phillips Dodge.

Mrs. Dodge was a native of Boston, descendant of two old Massachusetts families.

WOMEN VICTIMS OF BANDITS SAW THEM SHOOT PATROLMAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—Released from a mausoleum in Bethlehem cemetery, Queens, in which they had been imprisoned today, two women, victims of two hold-up men, saw their captors shoot and fatally wound a patrolman who had rescued them.

Before he died tonight, Henry Meyers, the patrolman, identified Benjamin Rader, 24, as one of the bandits. Rader was arrested near the cemetery. The two women, who had been robbed of $266 in cash and jewels and locked in a vault near a grave they had visited, also were said to have recognized Rader. Rader's alleged companion was being sought tonight.

Rader, according to police records, was convicted in 1924 of burglary, in 1925 of the same offense, and in August of this year of carrying concealed weapons. He was at liberty on parole.

Meyers, who had been a member of the police force for thirteen years, was riding with his wife in an automobile when he heard the screams of the women in the cemetery. He hurried to their aid and released them from the vault where the robbers had locked them after taking money and jewelry.

Meyers pursued and arrested two men he saw running through the cemetery.

When he brought them before the women one of the bandits drew a gun and fired five bullets into the policeman's body before Meyers had time to draw his revolver and defend himself.

U. S. WILL REPLY TO THE FRENCH NOTE NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—(AP)—The American reply to the French tariff note probably will be forwarded early next week to Paris and although no word was forthcoming from the state department today, it was a foregone conclusion that it would reject definitely French desires to negotiate a give-and-take tariff agreement. The French note still was withheld from publication as it has not as yet been made public by the French government itself.

Available figures on the commercial business interchanged with France last year show that the American export to France amounted to 5 1-2 per cent by the value of the total American foreign commerce, while the French export to the United States amounted to between 6 and 7 per cent of the total French export trade.

The total value of American exportations to France for the year reached a figure of approximately $363,000,000 while the corresponding French figure was $152,000,000. A very substantial portion of the American sales to France was in cotton, copper and oil while the French export to the United States was almost wholly in manufactured goods.

FOUR STAMFORD YOUTHS ARE SENTENCED TO JAIL

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 16—(AP)—Four Stamford youths were sentenced in superior court in Bridgeport after pleading guilty to charges against them. John Graf, 19, pleaded guilty to a statutory charge for the assault on May 7 of a 13 year old Stamford girl and was given a six months suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for a year. John Galasi, 18, and Felix Iovanni, 16, were sentenced to the Connecticut reformatory and James Puzzuto, 24, to jail for one year when they pleaded guilty to a charge of assault upon Tony Candelia of Stamford on April 24.

J. B. EDGARTON APPOINTED DEPUTY GRAND EXALTED RULER

(Special to The Bulletin).

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 16—John B. Edgarton, past exalted ruler of Willimantic lodge 1311, B. P. O. Elks received formal notice of his appointment as district deputy grand exalted ruler of Connecticut East, this morning from John F. Malley of Springfield, Mass., grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Mr. Edgarton is to be installed in this honor office at a conference of grand lodge officers, district deputies and committee chairmen in the Gold Room of the Congress Hotel, Chicago, Ills., at noon Saturday, September 24. At this time he will receive his commission and be given information of the policies and plans of the present national administration.

In his appointment, Mr. Edgarton receives the distinction of being the first local Elk to attain that office. He was exalted ruler of Willimantic lodge, of which he also is one of the charter members, during the year 1920-21. His interest in lodge activities has been pronounced and he has maintained an intimate association with the progress of Elkdom both locally and nationally. His appointment is a reward for deserving service to the organization.

The communication announcing Mr. Edgarton's appointment contains the assurance of Grand Exalted Ruler Malley of support in all efforts aiming for the good of the order and expresses confidence that the new district deputy bears all the qualifications to carry on through a year of notable accomplishments.

In the event that a decision from the attorney-general should be given before Monday night as confirming the belief that the action of the town electors in approving the project for biennial elections cannot be rescinded, the meeting will not be cancelled it was said today by subscribers to a petition for another special meeting. Some of those who affixed their signatures to the petition asking that another town meeting be held to reconsider the adoption of biennial elections are not backward in voicing their opinion that politics figure prominently in the controversy. They want the matter aired out in the presence of all who chose to attend the Monday night meeting. It was rumored today that there would possibly be accusations that biennial elections as a project was "put over." In this event political incumbents are prepared to answer that the meeting was legally advertised and that it could not be postponed because of small attendance due to the approaching caucuses when the tenure of office of the various nominees must be determined.

There is local interest here in the announcement that John H. Yeomans, son of Superior Court Judge Edward M. Yeomans of Andover, has entered the law firm of Spellacy, Berman & Wholean of Hartford. Judge Yeomans and Mr. Spellacy were law partners for 20 years before the former's appointment to the superior court bench. Attorney John H. Yeomans is a graduate of Windham high school, Trinity college, class of 1924 and Harvard Law school, class of 1927. He was admitted to the bar last June.

A Dodge touring car owned by a Manchester resident collided with the boarded side of the railroad span at Phelps' crossing on the North Windham road shortly before eight o'clock Thursday night, damaging both the car and the bridge but not causing injuries to the driver or passengers. The driver, whose name was not ascertained at the time, said that in rounding the sharp curve onto the narrow bridge he was blinded by the headlights of a machine coming from the opposite direction. He pulled too far to the right and crashed against the wooden guard wall of the structure which spans the New Haven railroad tracks. The right front wheel and fender were demolished and the frame bent. Part of the guard wall was ripped off. The machine was hauled to the Walnut street garage here for repairs. The bridge in question has been the scene of a number of accidents, some of them severe in nature, and plans are now underway to have it replaced by a new and larger span with safer approaches.

On file with the secretary of state is a certificate of incorporation by the Elmer Automobile company of Willimantic, Inc., with place of business at 1003 Main street. The authorized capital is $10,000, to start with $2,000 paid in. The incorporators are Lucius H. Elmer of Hartford, Ernest P. Chesebro, Jr., of Willimantic and Anna J. Connell of Poquonock.

Defective and loose planks in the flooring of the footbridge are being replaced, much to the satisfaction of the hundreds of daily users of the long span which provides a cross-over for pedestrians from Main to Pleasant streets over the railroad terminal and Willimantic river.

DANIELSON

TWO MAIL TRAINS MAY BE DISCONTINUED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 16—Once more a battle looms to preserve an adequate railway mail service for Danielson, and the other communities served through the local office. Postmaster E. H. Keach said this morning that he has information from department service that the railroad contemplates removing trains 705 and 708 when the new fall schedule becomes effective, which will be on September 25, with the end of the daylight saving period for this year.

These trains carry a mail car and supply a railway postal service. One of them is now due here week days at 9:23 a. m., standard time, this a south-bound train, the other, north-bound, being scheduled to arrive in Danielson at 1:50 p. m., standard time. Mr. Keach also is informed that there is a possibility of a change in running schedule for the morning and evening boat trains, which also bring mail, the evening train arriving after the postoffice is closed for the day.

It will be recalled that these trains were taken off last spring with the introduction of daylight saving and were only restored after business men's organizations up and down the line filed protests and appeals for better mail service. It now is forecasted that all of this will have to be gone through again.

Train 705, south-bound in the morning brings mail and newspapers from Boston and mail from north of Worcester and west of Putnam. Train 708, in the afternoon brings mail from New York and western points and Boston mail sent via Providence and New London. Removal of these trains and the consequent loss of the mail service they supply is a matter of lively interest to all manufacturing, business and banking concerns in Danielson and to other towns up and down the line between Norwich and Putnam. Without them, Danielson will have only one incoming mail a day, that arriving on the morning boat train, for the evening boat train mail is not delivered here until after the postoffice is closed for the day.

The coming week will be marked by the rapid organization of a drive that it is hoped may dissuade the railroad company from what is reported as its intent to take these trains off their runs. Substitute services, such as were talked of in the spring, have never been shown to be sufficiently adequate to prevent business and manufacturing interests of all kinds from suffering various handicaps through insufficient mail service.

It was regarded as probable here today that big interests in other communities between Norwich and Danielson will join with those of this town in seeking retention of the mail service. It is appreciated, too, that the pressure to be brought upon the railroad company must be impressive. Banks here will be particularly handicapped in doing business if the mail service now available is curtailed. These institutions made this very clear when an effort was being made last spring to secure the return of the mail trains that were taken off, but put back on their runs after a time.

Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., at the first meeting of the season at the home of Miss Marion D. Cholar, Broad street, yesterday afternoon, held a business session and heard an address by Mrs Frederick P. Lattimer of Hartford, state chairman of the Ellis Island committee of the D. A. R. The regent, Lena C. Tripp, presided.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Lattimer addressed the members of the chapter and their guests on D. A. R. Work at Ellis Island, and displayed fine embroideries and various samples of other hand work done by immigrants while in the detention quarters at Ellis Island, the materials for all of these articles supplied by the D. A. R.

A reception for the retiring regent, Mrs. E. H. Keech and the new regent was a feature of the meeting. Ice cream and cake were served by Miss Cholar, Miss Adah Danielson, Mrs. W. F. Bidwell, Mrs. W. H. Polhemus, Mrs. Frank T. Preston and Miss Ethel A. Tillinghast.

Two full weeks remain before the annual town meeting on October 3. At this time a matter that will come before the business meeting is getting full as much, if not more attention, than the chances of any of the candidates of election—the proposal of having the town adopt the use of voting machines in all elections. This proposal met defeat at a recent special town meeting, but such a small percentage of the voters of the town were in that meeting that proponents of the plan to use the machines feel that it may be reversed at a more largely attended meeting. In the campaign in favor of having the town use machines their accuracy, the economy of using them instead of having so many minor election officials and the speed in getting complete returns once the election is over is being stressed. It is being pointed out, too, that approximately 70 per cent of the vote of Connecticut is now being registered on voting machines instead of by ballot. A campaign of explanation relative to the machines and the simplicity of operating them is now underway in town, with a view to obtaining strong support for their adoption at the annual town meeting.

Danielson's boxing fans are not going to flock to Chicago for the Tunney-Dempsey bout next Thursday night, but their enthusiasm has mounted high and they'll be found gathered about radio sets by the hundred when the big go starts, which, it is now announced, will be about 10:45 p. m., here in the east, though an hour earlier out in Chicago.

Nathan Blumenthal said this afternoon that he will broadcast the radio returns for the public at the town hall building, and this announcement was received with glee by those who have no radio nor a friendly retreat where they might listen to one. If the night should prove cold or stormy the lobby of the town hall may be used for the comfort of the fans who are going to stay up to hear all about it as fast as it happens.

It develops that Harold Blumenthal, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Blumenthal, sustained a fracture of the leg, near the hip, when the car in which he was riding with his mother was in an accident at Wauregan one evening this week.

Ira A. McDaniel, assistant treasurer for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company at his Cedartown, Ga., plant and formerly in the same capacity for the big corporation at Goodyear in this town, is visiting here. About 1,000 are employed in the new mill at Cedartown.

About everyone is doing Christmas shopping at Dowe's this week, the prices being 1-3 to 1-2 off regular. Saturday is the last day in the old store. Make sure of your share of the bargains.—adv.

Miss Irene Laura LaBonte has returned to the Academy of Our Lady of Angels at St. Laurent, P. Q., after spending the summer here with her father, Joseph LaBonte.

Rev. Marion J. Greeger of Hazardville will come here Friday evening of next week to be the speaker at the evening at a Quinebaug Circuit league Rally meeting in the Methodist Episcopal church. A special program of music has been arranged, and it is anticipated that this first of the early fall meetings will bring out a large attendance.

Rev. Selestin Crozet, M. S., superior general of the Missionary Order of La Salette and with his headquarters in Italy, is at St. James rectory. Father Crozet was for a period of years pastor of St. James parish here. At present he is on a tour of a number of countries visiting houses and parishes of the order or under their direction.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carl Witter were visitors in Providence today.

Remember there is dancing every Saturday night, with good music, at Kum-Along-Inn.—adv.

Joseph Henry LaBonte, son of Joseph LaBonte of Danielson and a student for the priesthood at Altamount, N. Y., in the Missionary Order of La Salette, will be one of a group leaving New York the coming week for a special course of study in Belgium.

Following a major surgical operation, Byron Martin, for years a resident here, is reported as seriously ill at St. Luke's hospital in New Bedford.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Card are leaving Danielson to make their home in Athol, Mass.

Rising to a height of nearly 100 feet, a standpipe of 30,000 gallons capacity is in course of erection this week at the plant of the Acme Products company at East Killingly.

Of interest to many Killingly people is the announcement of the recent marriage of Marcus Elliott of Dayville and Miss Gladys M. Rumrill at Webster by Rev. Mason W. Sharpe on the evening of September 6.

A frost with something of a tang to it nipped flowering plants and other tender growths in this section early this morning, for the first time this season.

A recent marriage at the home of her parents in the Valley district was that of Miss Helen Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heath, and Robert A. Cameron of Somerville, Mass. The marriage was performed by Rev. C. J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church. Mr. Cameron is an attorney with the Twin Mutual Insurance company of Boston. Until recently Mrs. Cameron was a member of the office force of the Eastern Connecticut Power company at their Danielson office.

Danielson's men have obeyed the unwritten law about wearing straw hats after September 15th very well. Few of this variety of hat was to be seen about town today.

The road-hog driving a horse—the fellow who persistently and cussedly retains the center of the highway just to give the motorist what is known as a "run-around"—is not numerous, but present and as much of a nuisance as the road-hog who sits back of a steering wheel.

Again, when the time has come for a long distance weather report, remember to keep the forecast, make one of your own just the opposite, day for day, and learn that you can be just as near right guessing as the other fellow. It's really and amusing game to try out.

PUTNAM

FORMER PUTNAM COUPLE CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 16—Mr. and Mrs. John B. Coderre of New Bedford Mass., former residents of Putnam recently celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home at New Bedford. They were in Putnam in 1877 but moved to New Bedford about twenty-five years ago. They have ten surviving children; John B. Coderre Jr., Elmire Coderre, Mrs. Denise Carroll, all of New Bedford; Mrs. Anna Spriet of Woonsocket; Mrs. Emilia Meunier of Worcester; Elzear Coderre and Mrs. Armand Ouilette of White Plains, N. Y., and Alfred Coderre of New Bedford. There are also ten grandchildren and one great grandchild.

They renewed their marriage vows at St. Anne's church with a solemn high mass celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Fr. J. T. Giguere, assisted by the Rev. Frs. Dion and Bonneau. They received many gifts in gold.

After completing a short period of training in the marine corps, at Paris Island, S. C., Henry E. Bugbee of this city has been assigned to duty in the West Indies. His name is listed with a group of marines who left here recently for the republic of Haiti, where he will probably remain for several months.

He is 22 years old and was born in Putnam and lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cert H. Bugbee on Arch street before he joined the marine corps in Boston last June and will now be located at Port au Prince, the capital of Haiti. Small groups of U. S. marines have been on duty in Haiti since 1915, when a force landed there to restore order during a revolution there. Peaceful conditions prevail there now and only a small force remains in that country. Young Bugbee writes that athletic sports, moving pictures and entertainments help to vary the regular military routine.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Walter John Bartlett to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Ruth Delyle Bartlett to Iver Samuel Nelson on Thursday October sixth at six o'clock at the Second Congregational church of this city. Miss Bartlett has lived all of her life in Putnam and is a popular member of the younger set of the city. She is a graduate of the Putnam high school and a talented musician and singer, having studied both in Hartford and Boston. Mr. Nelson was born in Pomfret, is a graduate of the Putnam high school and has been teller at the Citizens National bank of Putnam ever since its organization three years ago.

The Girl Scouts of Thompson met with Miss Marian Stanton at the home of Mrs. John Bernklow and planned to take up some of the Four H club work under her direction and will meet once a month with her. Harriet Reed joined the Scouts as a tenderfoot and Mr. and Mrs. Volney Reed have invited the group to a hot dog roast at their home on September 24th.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church served refreshments at the Woodstock fair this week. They did it in a substantial and practical way and the result was very satisfactory both to their patrons and themselves.

Rev. Everett S. Lyon has accepted a call to become the pastor of the Congregational church at Thompson, which has been without a regular minister in charge for several months. Mr. Lyon comes from the Hadwen Park Congregational church at Worcester and will assume the duties of his new charge on October 15. Mr. Lyon is a graduate of Dartmouth college and is a graduate of the Bangor Theological seminary and also has taken a post graduate course in psychology and educational theory at Clark university at Worcester.

Professor and Mrs. Charles Wagner and daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, who have been in Europe for the past year have been the guests of Mrs. Wagner's mother, Mrs. Mary Kenyon of Grove street. Professor Wagner left the first of the week for Michigan and Mrs. Wagner and her daughter left today for home. Professor Wagner has been a member of the faculty of the University of Michigan for a number of years.

There will be a meeting at the Thompson Hill church on Thursday, September 22 in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding and dedication of the public library at Thompson. The principal speaker will be State Librarian Godard of Hartford, who knew Miss Ellen D. Larned, whose memorial the library stands for.

Miss Larned did not give to it from an abundance of means, but her diligent efforts secured the funds and accomplished the task of securing the library. The building is a very beautiful and fitting one and on its shelves are found many and varied gifts for the use of all.

The work at the library has been efficiently kept up by the librarians, Miss Harriet A. Lewis, Miss Sarah Munyon and Miss Edith Sheldon backed by the incorporate society. It is a great benefit to the town and is a growing and useful institution.

Lady Millicent Hawes (Millicent, dowager duchess of Sutherland) has been spending this week in Pomfret as the house guest of Mrs. Joseph Clark Hoppin at Courtlands. Lady Millicent Hawes has been a frequent visitor to America where she has many friends. She is the author of a play which is shortly to be produced in New York. She is also well known by Americans as the model for Sargent's famous painting "The Lady in Green" which now hangs in a Philadelphia museum.

Dowe's, Danielson, after 67 years in the same location, is selling entire stock at 1-3 to 1-2 off. Saturday is the last day in the old location. See you in our new building on the old site during the Xmas holidays.—adv.

Miss Nellie Bloxham, matron at the Day Kimball hospital is spending the day in Providence.

Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock and her daughter, Mrs. A. Allen Averill and baby are spending several weeks at the Wheelock cottage at Pleasant View.

Miss Blanche Green of Walnut street is to enter Fisk college, Nashville, Tenn. She was graduated from the Putnam high school last June.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice McIntyre who have been visiting Mr. McIntyre's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McIntyre of Grove street have returned to their home in Mobile, Alabama, stopping at several places on their way. They made the trip by automobile, having traveled over 1,500 miles.

Levi Lapiere has returned from a visit with friends at Providence.

William Maertens of Oxford, a former resident of Putnam is spending the week end William J. F. Rafferty at his home on Grove street.

Mrs. R. G. Armstrong of Buffalo, N. Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fay at Abington. She will sail from New York for Buenos Aires, South America on October 15 where she will make an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. J. V. Hoffay.

Mrs. Sarah A. Horne of Boston is the guest of her sisters, Miss Wealthy Slade and George C. Williams of Woodstock avenue.

Mrs. Jessie H. Gilpatric who has been spending the summer with her son Walter Gilpatric and family at Mt. Desert, Maine, is expected home today.

JEWETT CITY

MRS. CHAS. B. RAY DIES AT THE MASONIC HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 16—News of the death of Mrs. Charles H. Ray, 80, at the Masonic home, Wallingford, was received this evening, both Mr. and Mrs. Ray have been in the hospital there for some time, Mrs. Ray having heart trouble. She was born in Jewett City, the daughter of Henry and Lucretia Pellett Hiscox. She was a member of the Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Ray went to Wallingford to reside in October a year ago. Mr. Ray is in a very serious condition. Mrs. Ray is survived by a half-brother, Everett H. Hiscox. Burial will be in Jewett City.

TRAVELERS' AID DEPUTY ASSISTS A STRANGER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 16—Thursday Miss Catherine Barnett, representing the local Travelers' Aid received a telegram from the Manhattan Travelers' Aid society in New York, that a girl had arrived from Poland. The girl, Helen Deptula, who could speak no English, was bound for Jewett City, where she has relatives.

Miss Barnett was notified of the time of leaving New York, and was able to meet the girl here, and direct her to her destination without delay.

Finn's today, mat. and eve. Tom Mix in Canyon of Light. Movies of Ashland Water Carnival and Norwich Labor day Indian celebration, today and Sunday.—Adv.

Tomatoes are more abundant here than for several seasons, yet, dating from the time they were scarce one season and were retailed by the pound, that is the way they are offered today.

A trout fisherman acquainted with every brook in all this section, said Friday that not in 25 years, has such a volume of water been in the local streams on the middle of September. Four years ago several of the brooks were dry, with what fish that survived living in holes washed by the current under the over-hanging banks.

Mrs. Clark W. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Bromley and Mrs. Hurst of Merident attended the Pachaug Grange fair Thursday. Mrs. Hurst was the judge on antiques.

The Jewett City Trust Co. will be open Saturday evening 6:30 to 8:30, instead of 7 to 9.—Adv.

Hearty rounds of applause at the Finn theatre. Thursday evening, followed the singing by George LaFleur, a local tenor, of In the Prison of My Heart. The song was the composition of Miss Rose Fink, of Jewett City. An excellent vaudeville program met with much favor.

Sister Anne Elizabeth and Sister Camella of Louisville, Ky. are guests at the home of Dennis Griffin, on Soule street. Mr. Griffin is the brother of Sister Anne Elizabeth.

Mrs. W. A. Richardson and Mrs. F. E. Robinson accompanied Miss Clara Richardson to the University of Maine at Orono, Maine, last week. They also visited Mrs. Robinson's former home in Kenduskeag.

Rev. G. F. Goodenough was in Hartford Monday and Tuesday to attend the lectures at the ministerial conference.

Mrs. Fred Maynard has greatly beautified the grounds around her home by transforming them into flower gardens. In the rear of the house is a playyard for the children. The three swings at the heights to suit the size of the children suggest the story of the Three Bears.

NOANK

AGAIN ISLE OF QUIRK MAY BE COTTAGE SITE

It is reported that Dr. T. E. Kirkland, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who spends his summers at Watch Hill, is to build a cottage on Quirk Island this fall. A number of years ago the writer, Arthur Henry from New York, leased this island and built a Colonial cabin on it. He occupied it each summer for a number of years. He moved later to the western coast and the cabin was unoccupied for about four years. It became infested with rats and the owner of the island, the late Charles H. Osgood of Norwich, had it torn down and had poisoned meat scattered about to exterminate the rats. While Mr. Henry resided on the island he wrote the novel entitled "My Island Cabin," in which many Noank characters play a prominent part. This book can be found in many homes in the village. Quirk Island is located in Fishers Island sound, within a few hundred feet of Mystic Island.

Herbert Bohling of Noank road was painfully injured Thursday evening by a fall from his bicycle as he was returning from his work in Mystic. The wheel struck a stone, and threw the rider to the ground. Mr. Bohling injured his knee and side. Friday morning he was able to walk a little.

Mrs. Roswell Palmer is collecting money for the maintenance of street lights for the village, a matter in which all public spirited residents are interested.

The engagement of Miss Aida S. Elde to Charles A. Eccleston, of Front street, is announced. No date has been set for the wedding.

The Boy Scouts resumed their monthly over-night hikes after a recess during the summer. This week they will go to Gungywamp this (Saturday) afternoon.

C. S. Weston has closed his cottage at Groton Long Point for the season and has returned to his home in Scranton, Pa.

Samuel Main of Elm street was at Kingston fair Thursday acting as judge of prize cattle.

Mrs. Daniel Condon, of New Haven was a social caller in the village Thursday.

Elwyn Tryon has returned from a visit to Glens Falls, N. Y.

Frank Coleman of Ledyard a former resident was a recent caller here, renewing acquaintances.

William Plumstead has returned, after a business trip to Philadelphia.

MYSTIC

Mystic grange met Thursday evening with Worthy Master Leslie Haley in the chair. Three applications for membership were received. Mrs. Lucy Burdick, lecturer, invited Ledyard grange to furnish the program for the lecturer's hour and all but the orchestra and Miss Loretta Tinker's solo was provided by Ledyard members. The program included: Election, Old Mystic orchestra; reading, Mrs. Madden's Golden Wedding, Miss Perry; solo, Miss Loretta Tinker, with Mrs. Ines Tinker, accompanist; recitation, Alonzo Schaffer; group of songs, Miss Rosa Schaffer, with guitar accompaniment; selections by orchestra. Dancing followed the program. Doughnuts and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Main, Miss Hazel Main and Mrs. W. A. Phillips were callers in Norwich Friday.

The funeral of Rev. Lucius Wilson Shey, B. D., former rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, Mystic, was held in St. John's Episcopal church, Bridgeport, Thursday afternoon and conducted by Bishop E. Campion Acheson, and Rev. Stephen Fish Stewart, rector of the church. Burial was in Mountain Grove cemetery. The bearers were from St. Mark's church, Mystic, and were John H. Goodspan, Edward G. Cameron, Roscoe K. Burrows and Carroll H. Bliven. The floral tributes were beautiful. Rev. Mr. Shey was a Mason and that order met at the home of his brother, 140 Edna avenue, Wednesday evening and carried out their ritual.

The quarterly conference was held in the Methodist church Tuesday by Rev. Myron E. Genter of Norwich, district superintendent. A board of election was created to obtain the vote of church for a delegate and alternate to the lay electoral conference at Fall River next spring at which time general delegates will be elected to the general conference to be hel din Kansas City next May. Ira Noyes was chosen judge of the election and George Wallace and John Tedford were chosen alternates. Reports submitted showed the church in a prosperous condition.

The ordination of the pastor of Columbia church, Duane V. Wain, was held at the church Wednesday. In the afternoon the council, composed of delegates from the churches of Tolland county met and voted unanimously to ordain Mr. Wain. Supper was served at the town hall to the visiting delegates by the Ladies' Aid society. At 6:30 the public ordination service was held in the church which was beautifully decorated with gladioli, donated by Madison Woodward. Dr. Brookes of Rockville preached the ordination sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Perley Hyde of New Jersey returned home Wednesday after spending the summer in one of the Hillcrest cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnold of New York spent the last week end at Hillcrest. On their return to New York they were accompanied by Mrs. J. A. Isham, who will make them a visit.

LISBON

The Ladies' Aid society met at Miss Lucy Baldwin's Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance of members and several visitors. In the evening a social was held.

Arthur Edmunds of Westminster called at R. R. Barber's Wednesday morning, on his way to New Haven by motorcycle.

Mrs. P. E. Hyde and Miss Clara Hyde attended the reunion of the Sunday school class of which Mrs. Hyde was formerly a member, at Mrs. C. S. Goodwin's in Lebanon, Saturday afternoon.

Alfred Kennedy and a friend, Mr. Keenan, of Arctic, R. I., were at G. A. Kennedy's for the week end.

Thursday morning at 5:15 when there was a heavy shower through the central part of the town, there was only a sprinkle for a moment in the southern section.

Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Reynolds attended the Horticultural show in New London last Friday and had flowers from their Pilgrim gardens on exhibition.

CANTERBURY PLAINS

A teacher's meeting was held at the Green school, Tuesday afternoon. All the teachers were present.

Fred A. Hicks who was injured five weeks ago is out, although not able to work yet.

Mrs. Edward Eastlund and Mrs. Olaf Hanson, who have been visiting friends in New York, returned home Wednesday evening.

The republican caucus was held in town hall Friday evening and the following were nominated: Assessor, Arthur Tracy; selectman, Christian Kerr; tax collector, William Wright; school board, Howard Rix.

Arthur and Philip Hanson are ill.

The boarders at Mrs. John Romanoff's returned home Saturday last.

Miss Grace Dawley and Mrs. Lillian Frank were in Central Village Monday night to attend a rehearsal of the Rebekahs.

Brooklyn fair is to be held next week. Members of the schools are planning to attend.

EAGLEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, Mrs. Sarah Marsh, Mrs. Richard Hamer and Master Alton Taylor motored to North Woodstock last Friday. Mrs. Marsh remained to visit relatives.

Mrs. Myra Medbury and son Lewis visited Mrs. Medbery's sister in Rhode Island recently.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Converse have purchased the house, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Morrison and have taken up their residence there. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson will occupy the house vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Converse.

F. M. Chadwick and Clifford Mason of Storrs were callers at Mr. and Mrs. James W. Green's Sunday.

Preaching services were resumed Sunday after the summer vacation. After October 1st, the preaching services and Sunday school will be held together.

Mrs. Edward Warren accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Warren, of Storrs to Clark's Point, R. I., for the week end.

Raymond Warren accompanied Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Thompson and son of Mansfield Depot, on a motor trip of several days to Canada recently.

Mrs. Beatrice Slater is a patient at the Hartford hospital.

William Richmond who has been ill at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, has returned to the home of his sister, Mrs. Hattie Marchand.

Why-the Whippet leads all light cars!

Motor—Develops more power than any other of equal size.

Economy—Whippet holds the Coast-to-Coast economy record.

4-Wheel Brakes—Whippet is the first light car to use them.

More Leg Room—and greater comfort than in any other light car on the market.

Low Center of Gravity—adds greatly to riding comfort and safety on the road.

Clear Vision—Narrow front body posts eliminate the "blind spot" hazard.

Own and drive the car that embodies all the modern features you will demand in a light car in 1928. The Whippet is over a year ahead in design, efficiency and style. More than 125,000 owners have proved its superiority in over 400,000,000 miles of driving.

NO FLIGHT PROHIBITIONS

While there has been widespread recognition of the desirability of preventing any more of the transoceanic flights that have resulted in so many needless deaths, the federal aeronautics committee has come to the conclusion that the government should not prohibit such flights by civilian aviators. That means that the government is not going to interfere beyond the point of possibly offering advice, inasmuch as those who get out do so of their own will and are not forced into it there is no reason why the government should undertake to prohibit such flights, for while there are those who have lost their lives there are also those who have succeeded, and there is no real assurance of success even if government permission should be obtained under an attempt at regulation.

There are unquestionably many of the projected flights which ought not to be undertaken. It would appear to be only the part of wisdom for all such fliers to use seaplanes so that in case they are forced down at sea there will be some measure of protection not afforded by an airplane and it might be entirely possible to overcome any trouble that developed and again take off for their destination.

It is perfectly evident that in all pioneering undertakings there have been losses of life. That naturally can be anticipated in connection with aviation, but there should be a careful distinction between the foolhardy flights and those which are surrounded by all possible safeguards. Even in the latter case there can be no positive assurance that there will be no accidents or fatal endings, but satisfaction comes in knowing that no stops have been left untaken to insure safety.

When it comes to prohibiting over-sea flights because of ten or more deaths which have occurred, it must be realized that in behalf of safety there might be even a greater interest manifested in providing more safety in the highways in this country, where so many are being killed and injured every day through the same failure to observe vital precautions as has been displayed in some of the ocean flights.

TACKLING THE MISSISSIPPI

What the task is before the army engineers who are at work upon a report concerning the safeguarding of the Mississippi river against recurrences of the flood of this year is indicated by the statement of Secretary of War Davis when he declares the five boards engaged are endeavoring to turn out a "two years' job in six months." That is necessitated by the desire to have such reports ready for submission to congress when it opens.

It is not only a big job that lies ahead for congress in determining what shall be done but it is equally big from the standpoint of those who must work out the reports dealing with the conditions that exist, those that have existed and at the same time make recommendations that it is believed will effectively deal with the situation in such a manner and necessarily over a period of years, so that there will be no repetition.

How well the situation has been handled in the administering of relief and getting the flood victims back to their farms is revealed by the report of Secretary Hoover who declares that 92 per cent. of the sufferers are now able to take care of themselves. What this means is indicated by the fact that those eight per cent., still dependent and being rationed at homes, numbered 46,000.

Despite such efforts as have been put forth in behalf of flood control heretofore, it is evident that they must be undertaken on a greater scale than ever in view of the tremendous losses sustained this year. It is going to take much money and much time. It cannot be accomplished in a minute. There are steps which must be undertaken first and carried out promptly in the way of reconstructing the flood defenses that were destroyed. Beyond that such steps as congress decides upon may be tackled at various points at the same time, but they must of necessity be spread over more time and be of such a character as to bring about a restoration of confidence, security and credit which were swept away by the flood.

TRADE WITH FRANCE

France has increased its tariff upon American goods in such a way that it means much to importers of American goods and when such action is taken it invariably means that there is a definite object back of it. This seems to be partially disclosed, when in response to a request from this country for the negotiation of a commercial treaty, it is declared by France that such a treaty could be established only upon a reciprocity basis.

It might be possible to negotiate such a treaty but that doesn't mean that it would be a treaty which congress would approve and congressional approval is necessary. Thus the rejection by this country of the reciprocity idea leaves the way open for further suggestions.

The French tariff increase came as a surprise, even to those interested in its effects in France. It followed soon after the move made by France in making a most favored trade agreement with Germany. The inference is that France hopes to get sufficient goods from Germany for those which may be halted from this country and thus put this country in the position of being required to lower its tariff rates in order to retain a field for exports which are now being sold in France and which business it doesn't want to lose.

If it is a case of putting a squeeze upon this country with the expectation that we are helpless in the situation, it is likely to be found that the scheme will not work, for if American goods can be kept out of France because of tariff restrictions it is entirely possible for the United States to so raise its tariff that French goods will lose a market and France cannot afford to compete with Uncle Sam when it comes to resorting to a policy of retaliation, if such is the purpose. When the matter comes to a full showdown it is not improbable that there will be sufficient light thrown upon the situation to bring about a fair and complete understanding.

WHERE ELIMINATION APPLIES

Frequently there are cases where there has been a loss of life because of a failure to observe simple precautions for safety. This is too often the case at railroad crossings where, in spite of warnings, highway users give little or no heed to the danger and plunge ahead directly in front of a locomotive and if they escape it is by sheer good fortune.

There are instances where it is apparent that crossing fatalities are not the result of carelessness on the part of highway users. This appears to have been the case in New Jersey this week when a freight train struck a trolley car causing injuries to 31 persons. This was at a guarded crossing where the gates had been lowered to permit a train to pass. As they were raised to let the traffic pass, another freight train approached and the attempt to again lower the gates proved a failure with the result that the trolley car was struck and completely demolished.

Following crossing accidents there is invariably a cry for elimination of such danger spots, when there is as great if not greater need for the exercise of greater care. At points where there is much traffic, where highway users are guided by the crossing tenders, as they were in the New Jersey instance even though the guide was at fault, there is unquestionably need for overcoming a situation which seriously endangers and handicaps traffic. It is on such points that the work of elimination should be concentrated, especially if mechanical devices to insure safety cannot be relied upon.

A WAR PREDICTION

Just at the present time the former emperor of Germany isn't being generally consulted in regard to world developments or the safeguards for the future. His views are not accorded the attention that they were some years ago and the interviews obtained from him are few and far between, but he has gotten into print recently because of a statement which he made to the effect that there will be a frightful war, lasting but a brief time, in another decade.

This shows that he hasn't broken himself of the idea of wars and the preparations for them and evidently hasn't much confidence in the ability of the nations to so live in the confidence and respect of each other that there will be no more war.

He doesn't think that there is much security furnished by the league of nations, or that there is much sincerity on the part of nations which are talking disarmament. Rather is he disposed, with his former inclination to be suspicious, to regard such efforts as a cloak for war plans.

In view of the past, it is probable that there will be less weight attached to what he has had to say than might otherwise have been the case. It is bound to be charged that he is endeavoring to justify his own conduct in days that are gone and which it has been the hope of leaders will never be repeated.

Possibly it is the purpose of the former kaiser to so stir up interest in his willingness and ability to present a world peace plan that he will be called upon to take hold of the reins of the league of nations and drive it away from impending war, but if that is the case he reckons on memories being too short. As a prophet of war he may get some passing attention, but his service has been entirely rendered in putting forth the warning.

EDITORIAL NOTES

From now on something besides straw hats will have to be thrown into the political ring.

Some don't think a vacation is a success unless it starts them making plans for the next one.

The man on the corner says: Some of those able to get home from the beach are still on the rocks.

The weatherman understands what the midwest needs to make sure of the corn crop.

Don't fail to make the most of daylight saving during the few remaining days. The long evenings are near at hand.

The democrats are said to be looking for a cool place for their next convention. From some reports they might find it a bit cool down south.

What are those aviators, who are obliged to come down because of weather conditions on land, going to do if they encounter similar storms crossing the Atlantic? Send for searching parties and then disappear?

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Dean Brown in his suggestive book, These Twelve, makes much of what Andrew said to Jesus at the time the multitude of 5,000 were fed. When Jesus looked at the great crowd and plainly saw that they were hungry, he said to Philip—probably for the purpose of testing his faith—"whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?" After Philip had told him that they did not have enough to feed so many, Andrew said, "There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves and two small fishes: but what are they among so many?" Dean Brown puts it in this striking way: "There is a lad here with five biscuits and two sardines—just a boy's lunch." And then he goes on to put splendid emphasis on the words, "there is a lad here." He then goes on to make some practical remarks on the fact that "a lad is here" right among us. He is here in the home and what are we going to do with him? The future of human society depends on what we do with the lad in the home.

It seems to me that the rich thought of Dean Brown's as to the positions in life in which the lad is found has a wider application than he has space to devote to it in his book. He is certainly right in the importance which he attaches to the boy being under right home training and church influences. But the lad "is here" in many other places just where he ought to be, and what attention is he going to receive. As the doors of our schoolhouse are now opened for the fall term we realize that the "lads are here," and God bless them, they are here in great numbers. They are here for work, and to work to the best advantage they must be trained. Nothing is more important than patience on the part of the teacher. The average lad is willing to be taught, but if his sensitive nature is wounded the result may be disastrous. Ruined fruit may date back to a blighted blossom!

The baseball season is about over and soon football is to take its place on the school campus and the public park. But the "lad is here" in both places and may God bless him for he has a right to be here simply because a kind Creator has put the play instinct into his little soul and designed that it should find proper expression. If he was not intended for the ballfield the love of it would not have been so deeply implanted in his nature. Let him run and shout, for aught we know it is in nature's preparation for his running for congress in the future and his shouting on the stump. The intellectual nature is not made any worse by keeping the physical in good shape. One hardly need to warn the boys to drop square root when they are running the bases, but they need to be cautioned about letting up on base running when they are trying to score in compound fractions. Simply do your best in both places.

The fall of the year marks for many the beginning of a new career. Many have been compelled to say "good bye" when they graduated from the grammar school. To some it brought smiles, but to others tears. There is a certain number whose student life ends with the secondary grade of high school or academy; a still smaller push on to the college and university. But "the lad is still here" even if he is in the shape of the college graduate, and there is no time when he needs more kindness of friends and the goodness of God than when he starts out in life to take care of himself. Yes, the lad is here" going for the first time into the workshop, on the farm, in business, into the offices of the various professions. The burning question is—it always has been—what is he going to do about it. His is the main voice that is going to decide.

It is very hard to say just what the "lad" gets out of the man simply because it is downright tragedy if he always goes by the example set before him by his elders. The use of profanity is not inherent in the "lad." It is something that would never develop in his own heart, but it is gather something that comes from his external environment. Profanity is something that does not produce the least pleasure. It is however something that weakens the moral stamina of those who use it. Lads are clever imitators, and are quick to imitate their elders and especially in those things that are unusual and striking. We who are older are under a great obligation to be very careful of our example before others and especially the young. If we in any way are responsible for leading the young astray we shall not get away with it with impunity.

"A lad is here". Yes, he is on the streets in great numbers. The conditions of modern life are such that the lad has to be on the street, and it ought to be possible for a people generally credited with superior intelligence to make their streets morally safe for the lad. Of course the moral fiber of the lad has something to do with the problem. During his recent vacation, the writer of these messages spent some time taking long walks on the streets of Hartford. His faculties were alive to impressions along the line of sociology. In the less desirable locations where the poorer people dwelt he observed that the lads were there in abundance; great, strong, lusty lads. Physically they made one think of "the law of the survival of the fittest." He also walked through the more fashionable quarters, and he saw comparatively few children, and the serious question came to his mind who are to be the future rulers of America? Numbers mean something.

Yes, the lad is here" and, God bless him, he is everywhere. His eyes and hair are black and his skin is swathy. He is of foreign extraction and gives evidence of abundant virility. "The lad is here" and by divine right proposes to stay here. There is an important niche in the political and moral field of our great country for that lad to fill, and we must make it possible for him to fill it. But that lad must be made to understand very clearly that he will not be allowed to climb up to that niche by trampling on any other lad. One of the fundamental principles of democracy is equal privileges for all. Let the character and the ability of the "lad who is here" be untrammeled in the upward progress by any racial nightmares. Let what is best in Americanism blend with what is "fittest to survive" in his foreignism. No foreigner has ever sent any of its average lads to this country who could not give something worth knowing to the average of American boys. "The lad is here," and may God bless Him!

There is no question as to the future of the lad if he is in our minds and on our hearts. That is the main thing. The "lad is here" and we must take care of him whether he was born in Boston or Bombay. It does not take an individual of extraordinary insight to see that the high level of American life is not maintained by the descendants of the Mayflower alone, in fact there are very few living today who are pure descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers. Good stock sometimes runs out in the human family just as it does in domestic animals. Stagnation works the same kind of havoc in the body politic as it does in the individual body. Trying to keep the blood of a nation pure by the exclusion of the foreigner has the same effect as preserving the health and strength of a family by intermarriage. We are an outstanding nation partly because the lad has come from abroad.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

A Canadian, Egra Brooke Dakin, is claiming the throne of Sarawak, the eastern kingdom which is ruled over by the descendants of the famous "Rajah" Brooke. Mr. Dakin does not want the throne, but some pecuniary recognition. His suggested right to the throne is based on the claim that he was the eldest son of the late Sir Charles Brooke, Rajah of Sarawak, by his first wife, Tia, ruling Princess of Summingong, who, he says, died in childbirth. Sir Charles Brooke died in 1917, when near 90 years of age. He was the second Rajah of Sarawak, having succeeded his uncle, the famous Sir James Brooke, who set up the kingdom of Sarawak in the early '40s. Sarawak occupies a part of the island of Borneo and is larger than England in extent. The Rajah's subjects number about half a million. He has his own flag and his own army and navy.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT ACTIVITY IN CONNECTICUT.

Connecticut Junior Achievement, Inc., was organized last December as a regional department in connection with the national organization, which has its headquarters at Springfield, for the purpose of promoting junior achievement club work in the state of Connecticut.

The Connecticut Junior achievement organization hopes this year to get into many cities and towns for the purpose of setting up the work for the boys and girls.

This regional body, with office in Middletown, has already attained a membership of more than 5,000, and is working in 44 communities, of which 26 are new to the movement this year, and co-operating with 17 types of organizations dealing with boys and girls.

Regular clubs carrying on the full achievement program were formed in 23 communities, with an enrollment of 1387. At the playgrounds of 10 cities more than 1,500 boys and girls were enrolled in clubs this season, more than 900 were carrying on club work in five summer camps, and about 800 were enrolled for club work from 33 vacation church schools. The effect of this summer work will be the organizing of all-the-year-round clubs in numerous communities not having such clubs previously.

Two district and four community leadership training conferences have been conducted in the last few months by Connecticut Junior Achievement, Inc., with a total attendance of 310.

Hartford, New Britain, Rockville Middletown, Waterbury and New London are among the places having regular clubs. Achievement work has been instituted at playgrounds in Derby, Meriden, Middletown, New Britain, New Haven, Norwich, Shelton, Stamford, Torrington and Waterbury. The five summer camps at which such work was conducted in the state include Camp Hazen, maintained at Chester by the state Young Men's Christian Association; Camp Woodstock, run at Woodstock by the Y. M. C. A. organizations of Hartford, Windham and Tolland counties; Camp Mohawk at Litchfield, a "Y" camp, used at different periods, for boys and girls of New Haven, Fairfields and Litchfield counties; Camp Jewell, conducted by the Hartford Y. M. C. A. at Swanzey, N. H., and camp Wohela, Girl Scout camp for New London county, at Niantic.

Two clubs formed last February at the Watkinson Farm School for Boys in Hartford, serve as an excellent example of what the quantity production type of clubs may do. The Handicraft and Trojan clubs were started through the interest of E. B. Willkston, school superintendent, and both engaged in toymaking enterprises, under the leadership of Ralph Winchepaw, school principal. They were organized on a business basis, buying ownership shares sufficient to cover the cost of equipment and tools, and started work Feb. 1. By June 1 they had paid the cost of tools, equipment and materials used and declared a 60 per cent dividend with substantial cash balances and unsold articles equivalent to an additional 40 per cent.

As a result of this success at the Watkinson Farm school, club work was undertaken at the Wakeman Memorial Community center in Southport. The Pequot club of 18 boys was organized by Milton B. Hunt, superintendent, for toy making and has made good profits and took several prizes at the meeting of the Federated Boys' Clubs of America.

A number of local posts of American Legion in Connecticut have become interested in Junior Achievement work and have aided in organizing the work in their communities. Of the 101 local posts in the state, 46 have elected some form of boy and girl activity as their type of community service, and in New Haven four of the six posts have chosen Junior Achievement work.

By the regional plan, each regional body stands on its own feet and functions as a unit, though having the aid and counsel of the central organization in Springfield. James L. McConaughy, president of Wesleyan university, is acting president of Connecticut Junior Achievement, Inc.

In a recent letter Mr. McConaughy said: "My interest in Junior Achievement grew out of my appreciation of what it did for Middletown boys and girls. It is my belief that we are offering young people today many splendid recreational and educational opportunities. Junior Achievement, however, fills a real lack in providing, in the child's free time, opportunities for hand training and financial experience. To make and sell worthwhile products, under competent supervision, is the distinctive field for Junior Achievement. These activities have value, I believe, practically, vocationally and in character formation."

Frank W. Barber is state director of Junior Achievement clubs in Connecticut, with headquarters in the Central National Park Building in Middletown. He is assisted by Laura H. Sprague, homecraft specialist; William L. Hagen, industrial arts specialist, and Mildred H. Bostrom, secretary.

YOUR HEALTH

WATCH THE SCHOOL CHILD'S HEALTH

By J. C. Irons, M. D., Dartmoor, W. Va., Member Gorgas Memorial

Now that schools are beginning and the time for expected changes in temperature is at hand, it is most important that parents and teachers be watchful for earliest symptoms of defects or diseases so prevalent in the young. That we may aid in directing attention to a few of the most prevalent defects that occur in children, we will briefly call attention to them and what may be easily detected as the early symptoms.

First, defects of vision. The child may be noticed to be rubbing the eye; on examination some redness may be seen; nervousness is evident; constant change of position; child may have frequent and persistent frontal headaches; complaint of a blurring of the letters; and an inability to fix the eye on the printed page for any length of time. These symptoms clearly indicate some defect in vision which should be corrected promptly to avoid other and more serious conditions. Turn the child over to the family physician for advice or see an able oculist and have applied proper corrective measures.

Second, diseased tonsils. Statistics prove that a very large per cent of the young have diseased tonsils, which if not corrected by treatment or removed, cause a multitude of ailments. Diseases of other glands, blood disorders, rheumatic diseases and often other serious conditions may be found and should be attended to promptly.

The first evidences of a diseased condition of these organs are frequent complaint of sore throat, huskiness of voice, labored or mouth breathing when asleep, enlargement of the tonsils, etc. When these symptoms appear, consult your family physician promptly, that early remedies may be applied to prevent other serious afflictions.

Third, diseased teeth. Often these little-regarded addendas are neglected, not appreciating the bad effect of decayed teeth or suppurating gums upon the general health. These foci of possible infection are so liable to cause serious or painful ailments that they should have careful and constant attention.

In many sections, the school nurse is a most valued aid in detecting these defects and in advising as to the means of correcting these conditions.

Frequently children have been censured and punished for not preparing tasks efficiently when the real cause was the inability to study or acquire by reason of these defects. Give the boys and girls a fair chance in the race and usually they will make good.

For the failure of those responsible to give attention to these conditions and have proper relief, whether it be from ignorance or indifference, there should be some means to penalize and enforce relief measures.

HON. WILLIS R. AUSTIN

(From Norwich Bulletin, March 5, 1896)

The Hon. Willis R. Austin died at his home, 265 North Washington street, at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, after an illness of four days. The direct cause of death was pneumonia.

Willis Rogers Austin was born in Norwich, January 31, 1819. His father, John P. Austin, was a native of New Haven and removed to this city in middle life. He was a graduate of Yale college and a very cultural man. After coming to this city he spent his time in teaching. He died while on a visit to Brazoria, Texas, June 24, 1834.

Willis R. Austin's mother was Susan Rogers, daughter of Dr. David R. Rogers of Greenfield, Conn.

He was sixth in direct descent from Capt. Myles Standish of Mayflower fame. His great-grandfather, Stephen Austin, settled in Texas, and the capital of that state was named after him. His uncle, the Rev. David Austin, was a well known divine and was settled over the First Presbyterian church at Elizabeth, N. J.

Willis was the second of ten children and was graduated at the Yale Law school in 1849.

He removed to Texas, where his brother, John, was engaged in making a settlement on the Brazos river. After the settlement had been established, John Austin embarked in navigation, sailing between Texas and New Orleans. He was twice taken by pirates, the last time only escaping by swimming. He was elected governor of the colony and general of the army. He died in 1833 from cholera, his two children dying the same day.

Two other brothers, William T. and Alfred J. Austin, settled in Texas and died there.

The Austins originally came from Sandwich, Eng., settling in various parts of Connecticut.

After making considerable money, in cotton speculation in Texas and in banking in Philadelphia, Mr. Austin retired from active business life and spent several years in travel abroad. Upon returning to this country he settled in his native town, which has since been his residence.

Although caring little for public life he was elected a member of the legislature in 1874, his colleague being Col. Allen Tenny. In 1875 Mr. Austin was re-elected by the largest majority that had ever been given up to that time to a representative to the legislature from Norwich.

In 1876 he was chosen state senator from the Eight district, his colleagues including Gen. S. E. Merwin of New Haven, Judge Edward W. Seymour of Litchfield, ex-Congressman Washington F. Willcox, ex-Comptroller Charles C. Hubbard of Middletown, and ex-Lieut. Gov. Ephraim H. Hyde of Stafford. Mr. Austin also served on the republican state central committee and on the state board of charities.

From 1877 to 1880 he was president of the New London County Agricultural society. At the time of his death he was president of the Norwich club, in whose welfare he took a deep interest; a vice president of the Dime Savings bank, a director of the Second National bank, a prominent member of the Norwich board of trade, a member of the Arcanum club and of the Connecticut society of Sons of the American Revolution.

He was a Mason, being a member of a lodge in Philadelphia. In religion he was an Episcopalian, being a member of Christ church.

The last years of Mr. Austin's life were spent quietly in this city with occasional trips abroad. Relieved of the cares of business life, he thoroughly enjoyed his home and his family. His tastes were refined and, as has been said, he was "one of the most cultivated men in the state." He filled all the offices of trust to which he was elected with fidelity and ability and was one of Norwich's best known and esteemed citizens.

He was very fond of outdoor exercises and spent much of his time in pleasant weather in riding and driving. His sudden death came as a great shock to his friends and acquaintances throughout the city.

In 1851 he married Miss Louisa Hughes, daughter of E. B. M. Hughes of New Haven. She died in Philadelphia in 1854, leaving a daughter who has died since.

In 1864 he married Mary, daughter of John McComb of New York. She died two years ago, leaving one son, Willis, aged 18 years. Mr. Austin leaves one brother, Samuel, a well-known lawyer in Philadelphia; another brother, the Rev. David Austin, was for many years pastor of the Congregational church at Norwalk.

Sunday Morning Talk

OUR WORK

"If a man loves me, he will keep my words, and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him." The man who professes and calls himself a Christian is called to realize in this life the life and character of Jesus Christ. He is called to be as Christ was in the world, the living revelation of the life of God. The apostle says, "Ye are the body of Christ and members in particular." Christ is not here now. He is not seen in our streets; we no longer see His eyes of love, feel His hand of healing, hear His voice of comfort and warning. Christ no longer here? Christ has no eyes, no lips, no feet in the world today? Ah, what a mistake is this! His people are His body. His eyes. His hands. His feet. We are His eyes searching for the lost and seeking the outcast; we are His lips speaking words of love and counsel; we are to be His hands to lift up the fallen and leading in the paths of right. We are to be His feet running His errands and fulfilling His will, asking ourselves the question, "What would Jesus do" and striving to follow Him in all our life's journey, striving to do His will, winning souls from the ways of sin was His great aim so it becomes us if we are true followers of the Lord and master whom we are to follow, may we be more earnest, more faithful, that we may hear the welcome, "Well done, enter into the joys of my Lord.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

MYSORE: INDIA'S "BUFFALO"

"Mysore City, recently modernized capital of the south Indian state name, is one of the most up-to-date provincial capitals presided over by a native ruling prince," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "The word Mysore is derived from Sanskrit roots which signify 'Buffalo town,' and the Indian city after two decades of systematic public improvement bids fair to equal Buffalo, New York, in breadth of boulevard and length of water main.

"Lying approximately 12 degrees north of the equator Mysore is saved from tropical heat by its situation in the plateau country which stretches between the two great mountain ranges of the Deccan peninsula. It is the dynastic seat of one of the most important of the native states of India: the Maharaja of Mysore, along with the rulers of Hyderabad, Baroda, Gwalior, and Kashmir, being entitled to a salute of 21 guns.

"This powerful and progressive prince rules supreme in his own state subject only to the watchful eye and tactful 'advice' of the British resident agent. The Maharaja is not a university graduate and it is said that he has never been outside India, but he has raised Mysore to front rank among the divisions of the Indian empire.

Residents claim that in the matter of sanitation and good government Mysore equals any city British India has produced.

"The ruling prince has with the help of foreign engineering skill, some of it American, built an extensive irrigation system, operated a blast furnaces, and erected cotton and woolen mills. The famous Kolar gold mines are worked by electric power brought from a distance of 92 miles.

"At the beginning of the present century a scheme was evolved by the ministry of public works for the systematic improvement of the capital. Mysore, though it contained a few notable buildings, was at that time a city of narrow lanes and crowded, unsanitary tenements, without light or air, filling several square miles of a narrow valley running north and south between two hills. Wide avenues were driven through this section, residential suburbs laid out to the east and west and handsome government buildings erected.

"The old fort dating from the 16th century is at the south of the town. Within its walls, surrounded by houses of feudal retainers, rises the elaborate palace of the Maharaja, rebuilt after a recent fire, in the ornate Hindu style. Stone carvings after the manner of ancient temples, together with handsome porphyries and other ornamental stones from neighboring hills, produce an effect of true oriental gorgeousness.

"On high ground to the west of the city government offices raise their stately domes above the wooded grounds of Gordon park. Over the site of a once noisome sewer runs a fine paved road flanked on either side by picturesque two-storied shops of the Lansdowne bazaars.

"Houses of European residents lie to the east of the city. One of the most interesting was erected for the use of Colonel Arthur Wellesley, later Duke of Wellington, in course of the long drawn out Mysore wars of the 18th century, fought between the British and that Mohammedan adventurer on the throne of Mysore, Haider Ali and his son, Tippoo Sultan. Lord Cornwallis, of Yorktown fame, was also a general in the same wars.

"Government house, home of the British resident agent, is a stately mansion over a 100 years old. In its high ceilinged rooms and secluded gardens much of the behind-the-scenes history of the state has been written. For the present dynasty owes its throne to British support at the close of the Mysore wars. In return the Maharaja has shown unwavering loyalty to the empire throughout the political unrest of late years."

An organization formed to help promote aeronautics, similar to the Guggenheim fund in America, has recently been established in London under the title of The National Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics.

The bride who has always lived in Norwich is the daughter of Adolph and Bertha Zeralski Friese.

FUNERALS

William A. Card

Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock the funeral of William A. Card of Canterbury turnpike was held from the funeral parlors of Undertaker C. A. Gager, No. 70 Franklin street with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church, conducted the service and burial took place in the Plainfield cemetery. Rev. Mr. Dunbar conducted a committal service at the grave. The bearers, all of the A. C. Swan Co., were Joseph H. Higgins, Edward W. Jewett, George Adams and Edward Karkutt.

The many beautiful floral tributes included a basket from the A. C. Swan Co., a pillow from the Modern Woodmen of the World, a spray from the Lee and Osgood Co., and other forms.

Herman Alofsin

The burial of Herman Alofsin, who died in New York, took place Tuesday in the family plot in the Norwich Hebrew Benevolent association cemetery, at Brewster's Neck. Rev. Max Stamm conducted the service. The bearers were Charles Rubin, Moses Jennes, Samuel Taylor and Abe Ableman.

CLAIMS SECOND PLACE FOR WETHERSFIELD TREE

"Where is the biggest tree in Connecticut", has been the subject of conversation for a number of weeks and this fact was made known this week by the state forestry department, which has been conducting a large tree contest throughout the state. According to the department, the prize winning tree is located on the property of Arpad Moriez in West Ashford and is a red oak, while the second largest tree in the state is on land owned by Dr. Charles B. Graves of New London in the town of Ledyard.

A prominent doctor of Norwich calls the attention of the Bulletin office to the fact that an elm tree located in Wethersfield is larger than the oak in Ledyard. On the Wethersfield tree is a placard with the dimensions, which are, he reports, 28 feet in circumference, horizontal branch spread of 197 feet and is about 150 years old.

Taking in comparison the two trees, these measurements show the Wethersfield elm is larger by two feet in circumference and has a considerably greater horizontal spread than either the Ledyard oak or the West Ashford oak. Whether the Wethersfield was measured under the same conditions as the other two trees or whether it was entered in the state contest is not known.

BALTIC MAN INJURED TAKEN TO WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 16.—Henry Cardin, 77, of Baltic, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital this morning to be treated for a severely injured hand and possible internal injuries sustained on Railroad street, Baltic, about 11 o'clock when he was struck and knocked against a fence by a Chevrolet truck owned by George Lacroix of Baltic and driven by the latter's son, Gilbert Lacroix. Friends of Cardin who accompanied him to the hospital said that the truck was coming up the incline on the street when it evidently became stalled and rolled backward down the hill and into Mr. Cardin. It is feared that one of the fingers of the injured hand may have to be amputated.

CHURCH ST. BECOMES ONE-WAY THOROUGHFARE

Church street became a one-way street for automobiles Friday afternoon when the police department put up the necessary signs at either end of the street to show that motor travel through it must be only from west to east, that is, from Washington square to Union square, according to the recent ordinance passed by the common council. Parking will be allowed on both sides of the street but parked cars must be headed in the right direction.

Now that the signs are up, the police department proposes to enforce the one-way regulation. Several automobiles that entered the street from the Union square end Friday afternoon were observed backing out again when the drivers discovered the sign on the pole at the Otis library corner.

ROADWORK SIGN IS OVERSTAYING USEFULNESS

It is about time that the state highway authorities or the contractor in charge of the work should have the big sign removed from Washington square that warns motorists to use the road on the Groton side of the river rather than the Montville side between here and New London.

The concrete roadway on the Montville side is now completed for the entire distance and all work is done except for a few clean-up details which offer no bar to the use of this fine Montville speedway now.

HISPANIC SOCIETY OF AMERICA MAKES GIFT TO SLATER MUESEUM

The slater museum has received a gift from the Hispanic society of America which will challenge the interest of all travellers in Spain and of students of Spanish art and architecture.

It is a collection of some of their recent publications. Most notable is a large portfolio of plates of decorated wooden ceilings in Spain. There is also a collection of plates of the carpets and tapestries in the palace of the Pardo, a volume on Spanish ironwork, and two volumes of essays on Sorolla by modern critics, fully illustrated. There is a discussion of the sources of Spanish architecture popularly written, and interlarded with description and incidents of travel by the professor of art at Bryn Mawr, and several series of small volumes and monographs on buildings and artists.

The books have been placed on exhibition near the desk at the entrance of the museum where they can be looked over during the next week. After that time they will be in Peck library.

During the summer the Slater museum has been closed to visitors on Sunday, but the trustees have set Sunday, September 18, as the date for reopening the museum on Sunday afternoons. The visiting hours are from 2 to 4 o'clock.

CONNECTICUT THE STATE OF DIVERSIFIED AGRICULTURE

"Connecticut The State of Diversified Agriculture" is the title of a folder issued by the state department of agriculture, which will make arrangements to have these folders distributed at the Connecticut exhibit at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, or through application to the state office.

This folder gives the following information:

General and Special Inducements

The nearness to markets makes dairying and especially the production of fluid milk one of the leading industries of the state, and the adaptability of Connecticut's soil and climate to fruit raising, makes this a profitable and growing occupation.

The opportunity for those desiring to engage in dairying, poultry raising, fruit culture or vegetable production is as good in Connecticut as in any other state in the Union; yet here, as elsewhere, a little capital, push and energy are needed to insure success. Although apiculture and sheep and swine husbandry are not mentioned in the above list, the farmer entering into such occupation will receive a valuable return.

Connecticut's public schools as well as her colleges, are noteworthy, and are well distributed through the rural districts.

Climatic conditions for dairying in Connecticut are more favorable than in most any other section of the United States.

Under modern methods it is possible to keep more than one cow per acre.

It is possible to grow 35 tons or more of ensilage corn, five tons or more of clover or alfalfa, five tons or more of market hay, 25 tons of Japanese millet or 30 tons of mangel beets per acre.

It is possible to grow one hundred bushels of shelled corn, 65 bushels of oats, 50 bushels of wheat, 40 bushels of rye per acre.

It is possible to produce 100 pounds of milk per day or 23,000 pounds of milk a year from a single cow.

With the splendid markets on every hand Connecticut stands without a comparison with any other state in the Union.

Considering the expense of installation, there is no more interesting or profitable business than beekeeping. Connecticut's bee crop is estimated to return the owners approximately $225,000 annually. The prospects for the development of this profitable industry in Connecticut are very good.

Poultry raising in Connecticut is a fast growing agricultural industry. Connecticut imports millions of dozens of eggs annually. Farm land adapted to poultry raising is relatively cheap in any Connecticut town, depending of course upon the location.

Sheep farmers in the East are comparatively scarce. The handling of sheep has become a lost art to the average farmer making this a good business opportunity for the man with foresight. Sheep are excellent in reclaiming our neglected pastures, can be handled with comparatively small amount of labor and at normal prices return a reasonable profit. Any man with determination to succeed with sheep, can with care in the selection of his stock, intelligence in feeding, handling and marketing, make a good return on his investment.

Connecticut is known the world over for the production of the best cigar wrappers. Tobacco is one of our leading industries and favorable returns per acre are netted where the grower is specially trained for the poduction and care of this valuable product.

No farm or garden is complete without a liberal supply of fruit and vegetables. The temperate climate of Connecticut makes it possible to grow a large proportion of the fruits and vegetables common to North America.

Connecticut is the very center of the best markets in the world. With the opportunity to secure at very low figures fertile farms that have state roads, rural delivery, auto truck and telephone facilities, the problem of success of the energetic young farmer is solved.

Do You Know

That Connecticut farmers are thrifty? No section of the country has such a large percentage of farms operated by the owners as New England. Connecticut farmers own 86.8 per cent of the 32,655 farms which is 25.9 per cent above the average for the whole country.

That Connecticut farm crops produce a higher average value per acre than any other state in the Union and that Connecticut's average value for all farm crops is exceeded by only one New England state?

That the average value of land and buildings is higher in Connecticut than in any other New England state? However, real bargains are to be found in farm property in nearly every county.

That Connecticut produces twice as many grapes as any other New England state?

That Connecticut has the largest pear orchard in New England?

That Connecticut is growing magnificent orchard fruits and that they can be marketed to better advantage than anywhere else in the Union?

That Connecticut's annual fruit crop is valued at nearly five million dollars?

That Connecticut grows more tobacco per acre than any other state in the Union excepting Massachusetts which is credited with one pound per acre more?

Teaching in Durham School

Miss Mary E. Bentley, a recent graduate of the Willimantic state normal school, has begun her teaching in the grammar and high school in Durham. Miss Bentley's musical ability has already won for her the public approval of the people of the town. Friday evening she played before a most appreciative audience. She acted as accompanist for the mandolin club and then played four solo numbers. Her playing has made possible many interesting musical programs during the coming year.

CHRISTOPHER THURBER DOES GREAT NEAR EAST WORK

Two letters from Christopher C. Thurber, formerly of this city, who is acting manager director of the American Near East relief with headquarters in Athens, Greece, describe the wonderful work he has done in that field.

The following was received by Miss Mary G. Osgood of 1 Rockwell terrace:

"I have been very busy since my return to Greece last June. For nearly eight months I have carried on, in addition to my own work, most of the work done by two of our personnel absent in America.

"I think I wrote you that I got really well in France, and left Mrs. Huntington and the children in Chamonix for the summer, and came on here expecting to spend only a short time, but now it looks like my being here for some two years more. I would like to stay until the work is finished, as I am in splendid health and could not be happier. My own work among the ex-orphan boys who have gone out to self-support is thrilling. I have four Working Boys' homes, and hope soon to open a large Working Girls' home. Many of these orphans I see are the same we picked up in Turkey five or six years ago.

"Perhaps your Junior auxiliary or some of the Sunday School children would like to send their old magazines or picture papers, or old used Christmas cards, in small lots by mail, addressed to me at our New York office (151 Fifth avenue, New York) to avoid paying duty. Many of our children have learned English and devour everything they find to read. Christmas cards would be a great addition to the little handful of candy they have as a Christmas gift. We dare not ask for gifts for our thousands of children, as it is difficult to secure enough money to give them their daily bread.

"I often think of you all, and never forget how much I owe to my old friends in Norwich. Somehow, the most tender spot in my heart and memory is filled with thoughts of the old Christ church, and I hope when my life's work is over I can be brought back there."

Another letter received a few days ago from Athens says:

Athens, Greece.

Dear Friends:—

At last I am back in the work that has meant so much to me. I have just opened here a large Armenian refuge camp where 300 ex-orphans are living. These boys are all at work in Athens but earn only from 12c to 30c per day. Boys of 14, 15, 16, (even 13 years) of age have been living in mud huts, holes in the ground, ravaged by malaria or tuberculosis and hunger and filth;—and (all because we at home did not care enough to make a few real sacrifices)—many of our former orphans have died—alone and uncared for, abandoned by their one hope, the great "Mother America." The tourists on the Christian Herald cruise saw with their own eyes this condition and gave $4,000,000 to start a working boy's home.

No boy now need die in an alley or field anywhere in the Near East. My next job is to start similar homes in other camps near here and then up in Macedonia. These homes will only be needed for a year or two until these boys are really able to stand on their own feet.

Your reward will be great! Daily I shall pray God's richest blessing upon you. For all that you have done I could literally fall down and kiss your feet. After three operations the past year and hopeless verdicts from doctor after doctor until I got well in France, I am now a new man. I can only do what you folks back home enable me to do. Once more I shall try to be a faithful servant and hope the time will come when I may again give an account of my stewardship. Decisions are made here daily that decide the whole future of these children. We all need wisdom and guidance and strength. You will, I know, keep on until the task is finished. You will not, dare not fail us! My love and deepest gratitude to all.

Yours faithfully,
CHRISTOPHER C. THURBER.

RUMORS OF IMPORTANT LEASE NEGOTIATIONS

Rumors that were current in the city Friday of the leasing of three stores in the center of the city to a big national chain store system which deals in a variety of small merchandise could not be confirmed Friday night except that a representative of the building in which the stores are located admitted that "there was something in the wind."

The lease discussed would involve a corner store with two adjoining stores which would be connected to make a large area in one of the most desired business locations in the city. The present occupant of one of the stores in question, who has a lease with about six years to run, stated that he had not been approached with a view disposing of his leasehold.

ACCEPTS REFEREE REPORT ON FRANKLIN FARM VALUATION

In the superior court short calendar session at New London Friday morning, Judge Allyn L. Brown accepted the state referee's report on the matter of re-assessment for value of farm land taken from Charles H. Davis of Franklin by the state in the construction of the Norwich-Willimantic highway improvement. The state referee allowed Mr. Davis $4,200.

Judge Brown ruled that a claim of the state of New York for $11.50 should be paid by the receiver of the Davis-Warner Arms Corp., of Norwich.

Permission to add a new party plaintiff, Maida A. Maine of Boston was granted in the case of Maine against Wilkinson.

In the case of Smith against Gordon and others, motions for approval of deed of committee and supplemental judgment were granted.

The court ordered the filing of a more specific statement within two weeks the defendants in the case of the Old Lyme Realty Co., against Powell and others. The suit involves practically all the land at Rogers lake.

Many Cases Continued

The following cases were continued: Michelin Tire Co., against Peterson and others; disclosure of defense or judgment. Inez M. Robinson against Percy W. Robinson; that case be placed on uncontested list to comply with order of court. Isabel Yeomans Brown against Arthur Chester Brown; leave to amend complaint. Melvin against Tillitson and wife; judgment. Caracausa against Martini; judgment. Murphy against Beneway; motion for default. Griswold against Yering and others; disclosure of defense or judgment. Schorer Store Fixture Co., against Levine; disclosure of defense or judgment.

Some Cases Go off List

The following cases went off:

Smith and wife, against Vergason; bond for costs. McCann, administrator, against McCann; default for failure to plead. Mckay, trustee, against Washburn, and others; default for failure to plead. Card, administratrix, and others, against Town of Stonington; motion for default. Johnson, Jr., vs. Wheeler; motion for default. Marie T. Busch against Charles P. Busch; motion for more particular statement. LaBonte and wife, against Murphy; motion for default. Ashe against Thebault and others; motion for default. Barnish against Menghi; motion for default. 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY BY MR. AND MRS. BONVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Bonville observed their silver wedding anniversary Thursday evening at their home, No. 65 Union street, which was attractively decorated. With the wedding anniversary there was also celebrated the third birthday of their grandchild, Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clendennin. An anniversary cake with twenty-five candles and a birthday cake with three were prominently displayed in the dining room and among the beautiful flowers received was a beautiful basket of gladioli from a sister of Mrs. Bonville, Miss Aldea Lusignan, who was unable to be present because of illness.

A great number of beautiful gifts of silverware were received and there were many cards from friends who were unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonville were married in Canada, Sept. 15, 1902, and a week following their marriage came to Norwich, where they have resided ever since. They are the parents of four children, two boys, Theodore and Homer, two daughters, both married, Mrs. George Clendennin and Mrs. Frank Stanley and two grandchildren.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lusignan, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hill, Medas Lusignan, Mr. and Mrs. David Gero, Mr. and Mrs. George Clendennin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stanley, Walter Blair and Ernest, Alfred and Donald Gero, Miss Annie Clendennin, Miss May Clendennin.

LESLIE CONKLIN TO BE ASSISTANT SECRETARY AT Y

The office of assistant secretary at the local Y. M. C. A. which has been vacant for several months, has been filled by the employment of Leslie Conklin, son of Rev. and Mrs. Harvey H. Conklin of Baltic. Mr. Conklin has been greatly interested in "Y" work for several years and will probably make it his life calling. He will begin his duties before October 1.

He succeeds the late Lewis R. Church.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

General Secretary Edwin Hill who has been away for his annual vacation returned to his duties at the local association Thursday morning.

Emery H. Davis, the "Y" boys secretary, with several older boys left for the "Hi" conference at Camp Hazen Friday afternoon. The conference continues until Sunday afternoon.

Indications point to a very busy and successful season at the association. Several new members have already joined with the intention of getting into the gym classes. Very shortly the programme for the season will be arranged.

Invited to Conduct Russian Service

At the ruling of Rt. Rev. E. Campion Acheson, bishop coadjutor of Connecticut, an invitation has been extended to Rev. Peter Perove of this city to conduct a Russian service at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, Sept. 18, in the parish room of Christ Episcopal church.

Float for Norwich Fair

Construction of the float which will represent the Groton Chamber of Commerce in the parade, which will be a feature of the County Agricultural society's fair at Norwich, is rapidly going forward. The float will be a replica of Groton monument.

Mrs. Victoria Jacques Plante of this city was among those attending the big convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Providence last week, motoring there with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. Rodmen.

New Railroad Timetables

The New Haven railroad is preparing to issue new timetables which will give the changes in train time when standard time is resumed next Sunday morning.

New England Industries

(Note: The information on which this article, issued by the research department of the New England council, is based, was obtained by the domestic commerce division, United States department of commerce, through an industrial survey of New England conducted in co-operation with the New England council. The department of commerce is now preparing for publication a full report of this industry which will contain additional information of practical value to all New England business men.)

WINDOW AND DOOR SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS

The principal products of this industry are window screens, door screens and weather strips, irrespective of materials. Secondary products include woodware, ironing boards, medicine cabinets, door, sash, and iron grill work.

The survey conducted by the United States department of commerce and the New England council shows that the majority of New England plants in this group were established between 40 and 50 years ago, and all but one have made a change in management within the last 30 years. Labor conditions were the predominant reason for locating in New England. Other reasons are raw materials, transportation, banking facilities and water power. No branch plants have been established by any company.

Lumber, wire or wire cloth, and steel are the chief raw materials, their source, according to nearly every manufacturer, being both within and without New England.

Incentive or piece work wage methods are in use by 60 per cent of the manufacturers, the percentage of workers thus paid ranging from 20 per cent to 50 per cent among the various plants. Seasonal fluctuations are of great importance, recorded variations in 1923 and 1925 showing the apex in July and the time of minimum employment in January. Several companies have added metal weather strips to their products to fill in during the winter months, while another company handles timber lots and yet another special job work.

In 1923 there were 145 such establishments in the United States and 12 per cent of them were in New England (14 in Massachusetts, two in Connecticut, and one each in New Hampshire, Vermont, and Rhode Island.) There were 3,687 wage earners, 4 per cent of which were in Massachusetts.

Accident prevention and production are the items in which there has been improvement in the largest number of plants. Improvement also has been made in organization and executive control, balancing productive capacity and demand, standardization of product and relation between management and workers. One manufacturer reported that such improvements had increased profits 50 per cent or more.

The trend of combined sales of these industries has been upward since 1921; increases of 14 per cent and 30 per cent in 1922 and 1923 were followed in 1924 by a 7 per cent decrease, and by a 2 per cent increase in 1925. New sales methods, extension of territories, new products and lower production costs have accounted for the increases. From 90 per cent to 100 per cent of total sales are made in New England. One maker increases his sales 50 per cent since 1921 by "push." A brand or trademark is used by half the companies reporting. The distribution method is most often direct sale to the consumer, but several sell through wholesalers or jobbers.

Sales and marketing and management are the factors to be emphasized during 1927 by the largest number of

LA COSTE BEATS JOHNSTON TO MEET TILDEN IN NATIONAL FINALS TODAY

By Fred G. Vosburgh
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 16—(AP)—Fighting a furious but futile battle against a relentless machine man of tennis, America's famous "Little Bill" Johnston went down in glorious defeat today before the great Rene Lacoste of France.

The gallant Californian fell in the semi-final round of the national turf court championship tournament, leaving only William T. Tilden, 2nd, to block Lacoste's path to his second United States title in two years.

Tilden today defeated Francis T. Hunter, his doubles partner, at 14-12, 6-1, 4-6, 9-7, with only about half speed required. Lacoste's victory in the other semi-final was achieved at 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

In carrying the battle constantly to an opponent ten years his junior, Little Bill, placed chief reliance on the famous forehand drive that burned the grass and beat the world in other days.

The little San Francisco bond salesman made a much better showing than at Germantown in the Davis cup matches last week when Lacoste downed him in straight sets. In the second set today the Johnston drive lacked little of its old time power and he won it at 6-2, before the strain began to tell.

It was only the second set Lacoste had lost in the tournament. Manuel Alonso took one from him yesterday.

Lacoste opened the match with a rush, sweeping three games before Johnston could stop him.

The fourth game and the sixth Johnston managed to win on service, storming the net for killing placements in the wake of his savage drives. But the pace already was telling on him, and Lacoste swept the last two games with loss of but a single point.

The Johnston rally in the second set was aided by a run of errors by the Frenchman. Johnston gained confidence and smashed his way through the last five games while a throng of 10,000 cheered him on.

In the third game of the third set the climax of the match was reached. There Johnston found his own strength failing while the Frenchman with the aid of priceless youth seemed even stronger. In that third game Johnston came all the way from love to win on a break through service and take the game. Then Lacoste cracked the Californian's delivery and took his own. Another brave stand for two games and then the Freshman bowled through the last three games with only two points scored against him.

It was all Lacoste in the fourth set, although Johnston braced to take the fourth game.

Throughout most of the match Lacoste, who at present rides the crest of the world's tennis, was on his toes in back court, bounding about like a boxer after Johnston's humming drives.

One of the longest sets ever played in a championship here kept Tilden and Hunter deadlocked more than an hour at the beginning of their match. After 63 minutes in which he was within a point of winning the set no less than ten times, Tilden ended it on a break through Hunter's service.

Tilden played a driving game in the first and second sets but obviously used little of his power and skill against the man with whom he won the English and American championships and the Davis cup match in doubles earlier in the season.

With Lacoste and Tilden in the final, a dramatic battle was assured for 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Lacoste has beaten Tilden abroad and at home this year and last season won the national title on which Tilden had had a monopoly.

CLOSE BATTLE FOR FLAG IN EASTERN LEAGUE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 16—(AP)—The Eastern league race today narrowed to a first place battle between the league-leading Albany team and the close-following Springfield contestants. Pittsfield's double victory over Hartford just failed of giving that team a mathematical chance at the pennant, while Bridgeport's loss of the first game of a double-header to Providence left the Bears out of the running.

The day's games left Springfield trailing Albany by a single contest, with the two teams scheduled to meet tomorrow in the Massachusetts city. If Springfield defeats Albany and both teams win their remaining games, the standing will be:

Springfield	88	66	.571
Albany	87	66	.569

If Springfield loses to Albany, and both teams win the remainder of their games, the standing will be:

Albany	88	65	.575
Springfield	87	67	.563

Even if Albany loses both its remaining games, Springfield must win at least two of its three in order to secure a lead. The standing then would be:

Springfield	87	67	.565
Albany	86	67	.562

Bridgeport and Pittsfield have clinched their right to places in the first division, although their relative positions will depend upon the outcome of the coming contests.

If New Haven loses two of its three remaining games, Hartford can lead the second division by winning three. Whether Providence or Waterbury will end the season in the cellar remains in doubt.

The season ends Sunday. For tomorrow, besides the clash between the race-makers, Providence will meet Bridgeport twice and Waterbury will play New Haven in a double-header, while Hartford and Pittsfield will close their season.

For Sunday two double-headers are on the bill, Waterbury at Hartford, and Springfield at Providence. For the other contests Pittsfield will play New Haven and Albany will play Bridgeport.

NORWICH ALL-STARS CLASH WITH RIVERVIEW TODAY

At the State hospital diamond this afternoon the Norwich All-Stars, a team composed largely of the 1927 Academy players and stars of former days, will clash with the Riverview club. The Stars have a big task before them but they also have unbounded confidence that they can upset the dope and trim the semi-pro club. Mace Goldblatt who is managing the Stars reports that while his first choice for the pitching duties is Lloyd Jarvis he has an ace in the hole in a lad that comes to the Academy this year with an enviable reputation. It seems that the dark horse has beaten the House of David team which is one of the fastest semi-pro clubs in the country.

Besides the three mentioned the rest of the lineup will include Gerry Burke at first base, Red Smith at second, Pheno Tombari at short, Roy Yerrington or Court Whitney at third, Hymie Sadinsky in left field, Johnny Greene in center and Al Mish or Bill Ringland in right.

Riverview will use the same lineup as usual with Tony West doing the pitching for the hospital team.

GIANTS BEAT CARDS FOR SECOND PLACE POSITION

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 16—(AP)—The New York Giants took sole possession of second place in the national today by whacking out a 6 to 3 victory over the Cardinals in the seventh and final game of the series, pushing the world champions into the third position, five and one-half contests away from the leading Pirates. As the Corsairs won from the Braves the Giants remained four and a half games out of first place.

Burleigh Grimes outpitched Sherdel and Sylvester Johnson yielding only eight hits while New York collected about a dozen, including home runs by Lindstrom and Harper. Lindstrom connected for the round trip in the first inning and Terry's triple and Jackson's single in the next stanza brought the Giants another run. Doubles by Lindstrom and Hornsby gave the McGrawmen their third run in the third. Bell's muff of Lindstrom's pop fly, Roush's single and a double steal produced a run for New York in the seventh. The other two runs came in the eighth on Harper's homer following Jackson's single.

A double by Hafey and Bottomley's base drive put over a run for the Cards in the opening frame. St. Louis scored again in the sixth on Frisch's double and Bottomley's single. In the succeeding inning, Bell singled and scored on pinch hitter Clark's triple.

It was Grimes' second triumph in the series, his eighth straight victory and his 17th of the year. The Giants took the season's series from the Cardinals, 12 out of 22.

PIRATES BEAT BRAVES FOR THE SIXTH TIME

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16—(AP)—Pittsburgh continued its march toward the National league championship today with a 4 to 3 victory over Boston for a clean sweep of the six game series. It was the Pirates' ninth straight win and the Braves' 13th consecutive setback.

Lee Meadows on the mound for the Pirates was well supported and the Braves were held to eight hits. The Pirates fell on Wertz in the one and two thirds innings he pitched to score their four runs before Guy Morrison entered the box and held the league leaders in check.

The first inning pounding Wertz suffered yielded five hits. The often repeated "Waner act" brought in the first run when Lloyd Waner led off with a single and scored on "brother Paul's" hit. Comorosky, who also had singled, crossed the plate when Traynor sacrificed. Paul Waner scored after Grantham and Harris had touched Wertz.

Boston scored two runs in the second inning. Brown walked. Farrell singled and Grantham's error allowed Brown to score. Farrell then scored on an out.

The Pirates came back in their half of the second to score what proved the winning run. Singled by Lloyd and Paul Waner were followed by two walks, bringing in the tally. Wertz was lifted and Morrison thereafter stayed the Pirates.

The Braves added their third run in the sixth inning on Welsh's double and Fournier's single. Score:

HEILMAN'S HITTING GIVES TIGERS CLOSE GAME

BOSTON, Sept. 16—(AP)—Heilmann's hitting was mainly responsible for Detroit's 4 to 3 victory over Boston in the first game of the series today. In the first inning the American league pacemaker made a home run off Russell with Gehringer on bases and after his double in the fourth, he scored on Fothergill's single. Collins weakened in the ninth after pitching a fine game. Score:

CRITICS DISAPPOINTED IN SHOWING OF DEMPSEY

LINCOLN FIELDS, Crete, Ills., Sept. 16—(AP)—Boxing critics who watched Jack Dempsey workout under floodlights last night, and expressed some disappointment with his showing, were invited back tonight to watch the former champion whale away at his sparring partners.

After a week of secret training Manager Leo P. Flynn laughed today at some of the gloomy expressions of newspaper men as related in their sports pages. He cited especially the comment that Big Boy Peterson of New Orleans outscored the former champion in their round.

"When I told the boys they could come and watch Jack at his night boxing, I did not say they could watch him fight," said Flynn. "They will see him fight next Thursday night, not before. He is getting ready in the right way and boxing just enough."

Dempsey did not work at all today. Last night's showers failed to cool off the race course so Dempsey eliminated his morning road work and afternoon bag punching.

TUNNEY HAS STIFF DRILL WITH WIGGINS

By Edward J. Neil
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

TUNNEY'S TRAINING CAMP, Lake Villa, Sept. 16—(AP)—Rough two fisted maulers piled into Gene Tunney today and turned the pre-final workout of the champion into something akin to a free for all brawl. For the first time since Tunney entered serious training, for the title bout in Soldier field next Thursday night, he was forced to fight against the type of milling Jack Dempsey will offer and the result was thrilling to the crowd.

No hint of what was ahead came to the 1,500 fans grouped about the arena, when Gene opened the day's work with two fast rounds at the light bag and another lackadaisical pair on the heavy sack.

Jack Williams, an ambitious youngster from Chicago, lulled Tunney into security with a feeble attack in the first of three two-round boxing sessions. Tunney was keen, smiling, confident, in complete command of the situation every moment.

Then came Chuck Wiggins, of Indianapolis, the slugging heavyweight, who opened an inch cut over Tunney's right eye, several days ago. Primed to give Gene the type of battle he must expect against Dempsey, Chuck sailed straight into the champion, held nothing back, and the battle of the day was on.

Sweeping left hooks and overhand rights crashed into Gene's head and body. Just as fast as the champion and equally smart in taking advantage of every opening, Wiggins took Tunney by surprise and nettled him into fierce exchanges with the suddenness of the attack. Despite the swab of tape Gene still wears above his right eye, Wiggins slapped left jabs and hooks to the injured optic.

One solid right bounced off the champion's chin and Chuck slipped many solid punches into Tunney's body despite Gene's careful defense. But the champion was not to stand for such actions without a struggle. In the second session he bore down upon Wiggins, lips drawn in a snarl, ripping solid left hooks to the body that forced the bounding blonde to clinch and hold on. Gene found the range, too, with his right, and dropped short, clubbing smashes on Wiggins' chin.

AGGIE PLAYERS SUFFER MINOR INJURIES IN PRACTICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 16—Numerous minor injuries received in live tackling practice by members of the Connecticut Aggie varsity squad are forcing Coaches Alexander and Bitgood to reduce the amount of time allotted to this work in the daily practice sessions.

No serious injuries have been suffered as yet, but the Aggie coaches wish to take no unnecessary chances this early in the season. They are well aware that after the opening game with the Coast Guard Cadets here on Sept. 24, Connecticut must face four strong opponents in Wesleyan, Maine, Springfield and New Hampshire on successive Saturdays. The real grind for the Aggies this year comes in the first half of the schedule, and every precaution is being taken to prevent loss from injuries.

Today's drill was lighter than usual and a 20 minute scrimmage planned for tomorrow will be cut to 10 minutes of actual combat. The tackling dummy received a drubbing from the squad this afternoon with the coaches laying particular emphasis on both tackling and interfering.

TAFTVILLE TO PLAY MANTON TOWNERS SUNDAY

Sunday's attraction at the J. B. Martin diamond will be Dan Costigan's Manton Town team, rated as the fast road club in Rhode Island. Last Sunday this game was scheduled between the Towners and the Martafts and was postponed because of rain. Costigan is bringing a fast club to Norwich in an effort to stop the Martafts in what is the final game for the greater part of the club. Next Saturday and Sunday will see the start of the Taftville-Riverview series and an almost entirely new club will represent the village.

Russ Fisher will be on the mound for Taftville while the remainder of the Taftville lineup will be: Eccleston c; Murphy 1b; Gauthier 2b; Yerrington 3b; Krauss ss; Gley lf; Jarvis cf; Kendricks rf.

The lineup for the Manton team will be: Potter ss; Pearce 3b; Doyle 2b; Agnew rf; Enright lf; Rylander cf; Davis 1b; Lalley c; Anatol p. Many in this lineup are well known in New England baseball circles several having played in the Greater Boston Twilight league.

ATHLETIC EVENTS, COMEDY, DANCING AT TAFTVILLE FIELD DAY THIS AFTERNOON

Starting with a parade at 1 o'clock followed by athletic events, comedy stunts, a gymnastic exhibition and closing with a dance in the evening the annual field day of the Taftville Athletic association will be held today at the Providence street grounds. General Chairman James H. Troland, who has worked untiringly to make this a feature of the season's outdoor activities, stated that with good weather he expected that the field day this year would exceed all other similar events in Eastern Conn. Chairman Jim with his corps of workers has everything in readiness for the opening of the banner event this afternoon.

Starting at 1 o'clock sharp there will be a parade through the principal streets of the village the parade being headed by the St. John's band of Baltic. The parade is an additional feature and will take the form of the old-fashioned horrible parade. Everybody in Taftville is expected to take part and the costumes are, according to advance reports, many and varied.

At 2 o'clock at the Providence street grounds the athletic events will take place which include a program of 22 events, both open and closed, for men and women. The athletics include sprints, novelty races, distance running, and a tug of war. Many local runners including Carlie Krauss, Jimmy Murphy and Joe Snow are entered in the century and other of the sprints while there will be a large field in all the open events many from out of town competing.

Much local interest centers on the tug of war which is to be between Minneau Beauregard's Lumbermen and Fontaine's Truckers. In fact the spirit has run so high that substantial wagers are being made by the supporters of the two factions. This event alone is well worth seeing.

One of the outstanding features of the day will be the pie-eating contest for which several dozens huckleberry pies have been procured and ready for the contestants. Always a feature this pie-eating contest bids fair to be one of the high lights of the day's program.

For those who like action with their comedy there will be a battle royal between six local boys. Those who have seen a real battle royal will not miss this event and those who have never seen one will get a great laugh.

As an additional feature there is to be three clowns at the grounds who will put on a novelty act. The leader of the trio was a former clown with Forepaugh and Sells circus for a number of years.

Another outstanding event will be the gymnastic exhibition by the Maennerchor Turner section. These athletic performers have planned a special program of stunts for the local people, many of the stunts being shown to the public for the first time. This athletic organization is one of the leading turning sections in the state and has competed successfully against the best similar organizations in New England for many years.

In the evening there will be dancing at the Ponemah hall. The stores in the village will close today from 12:30 until 6 o'clock to allow their employes to attend the activities.

The officials for the field day will be John D. Nolan, veteran runner who will act as starter for the races; Erastus Terrington, A. E. Pinegree, Hanlon and William Bailey, judges; timer, George Young; clerk of the course, Archie Molleur; ticket sellers, Miss Elsie Heap, Miss Flossie Meyer, Mrs. Stella Linderson, Mrs. May Fromander and Miss Agnes Dougherty.

GETTING BLEACHERS READY FOR ACADEMY GRID GAMES

The first steps at putting the field into shape for a busy year and especially at this time for football were taken Friday at the Academy when a good part of the afternoon was spent by members of athletic teams at the work.

All of the "new" bleachers, nine sections in all, that is, all seating accommodations except the Pasnik Memorial bleachers were moved and lined up on third base or north side of the gridiron.

The Pasnik seats remain on the south side but within a few days work on nine more sections of bleachers of the newer type will be started and when completed they will be placed on the first base or home team side.

When all are ready, the Academy will have seats for close to 2,000 and can present stronger than ever their claim of the best equipped high school athletic plant in this section and perhaps in the state.

SUIT FILED TO STOP DEMPSEY-TUNNEY BOUT

CHICAGO, Sept. 16—(AP)—Suit to stop the Dempsey-Tunney fight of September 22, by means of a federal court injunction, was filed in United States district court today by the Rev. Elmer L. Williams, formerly director of the "Better Government association." The action was filed by Charles S. Wharton, a former assistant state's attorney, and named Tex Rickard, Dempsey and Tunney as defendants.

The petition for the injunction was expected to go before a federal judge tomorrow morning. It was filed on behalf of the Rev. Williams as a taxpayer. He has long been prominent here as a reform worker.

BILL JOHNSTON TO GIVE UP DAVIS CUP COMPETITION

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—William M. Johnston, known to the thousands of the tennis world as "Little Bill," tonight announced that he is through with Davis cup competition. Increasing demands by his brokerage interests in California, together with the severe physical strain attendant on the international matches were given by Johnston as reasons for his withdrawal, which was announced at a dinner given the American Davis cup team by the victorious French players aboard the steamer France, tonight.

TAFTVILLE TOWNERS TO PLAY AT WILLIMANTIC ON SUNDAY

"Red" Burelle's Taftville Town team will play the Willimantic All Stars at the Thread City on Sunday afternoon. This game was scheduled for a week ago but rain intervened. Manager Burelle will send either Pete Finn or Thomas to the mound while Pete Tombari, home run hitter of the Industrial league will do the catching. The rest of the lineup will be the same as in previous games. The players will go to Willimantic by bus leaving Taftville at 1 o'clock.

RIVERVIEW-MOOSUP GAME AT MOOSUP ON SUNDAY

The third and what is expected to be the final game of the series between the Moosup Town team and the Riverview club will be played at Moosup Sunday. Moosup has strengthened considerably with the addition of several players from the New England league. Riverview will not change its lineup to any great extent other than using Andy Rush, Bridgeport ironman, in the box. Rush has been able to hold the Moosup club twice and should have no difficulty in Sunday's encounter.

BROOKLYN MAKES CLEAN SWEEP OF CUBS SERIES

CHICAGO, Sept. 16—(AP)—Brooklyn made a clean sweep of the three game series with Chicago by bunching hits behind some ragged playing by the Cubs to take the final by 4 to 3 today. McWeeney was driven off the hill in the eighth, Elliott checking a rally. Root started in the box for the Bruins but was found for all the Robins' runs, Partridge's triple after Herman had doubled in the seventh deciding the tussle. Score:

YANKEES WIN 100TH GAME; RUTH GETS HOMER

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—The New York Yankees won their 100th victory of the season here today by defeating the White Sox, 7 to 2, Babe Ruth turning in his 53rd homer in the third with none on base. Wilcy Moore, usually used as a relief pitcher by New York, went the route. Moore had made only three hits all season and today he broke out with a home run. Meusel also slammed for the circuit bringing the New York total to 148. Score:

MEHLHORN LEADS METRO P. G. A. QUALIFYING ROUND

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—With a score of 144, "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn led the metropolitan district qualifiers for the Professional Golfers association championship today over the Salisbury course. Mehlhorn was one over par on the par 72 course for the first 18 but turned in a fine 71 on the second round.

In a tie for second place were Willie Klein of Wheatley Hills and Tom Harmon of the Hudson River club. Both had 145. Bobby Cruickshank, Joe Turnes and Mike Brady were in a three-cornered tie in third place with 146, Johnny Golden came next with 147, and two strokes behind him was Tony Manero of Fairview.

Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen barely managed to squeeze into the qualifying list with scores of 150.

BRUSIE HAS GOOD DAY AT KINGSTON OVAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

MISS STUART COTTRELL TO WED RIDLEY WATTS, Jr.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 16—The engagement of Mary Stuart Cottrell of Westerly to Ridley Watts, Jr., has been announced by Miss Cottrell's mother, Mrs. C. Byron Cottrell. Miss Cottrell is a graduate of Miss Marater's school, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. The family spends the seasons at the Cottrell cottage, The Arches, Watch Hill. Mr. Watts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ridley Watts of Morristown, N. J., and Watch Hill who occupy Bowanniu cottage. He is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1923 and a member of the A. D., D. K. E., Hasty Pudding, and Harvard club of New York.

Judge Oliver H. Williams in the third district court Friday morning disposed of the business before him in record time. As usual at Kingston fair time especially on Governor's day, bench and bar appear anxious to gather at the fair grounds with the departmental heads of the state. In the absence of the regular court officer, Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, who has charge of police regulations at the fair grounds, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown of Westerly acted as court officer. Corporal James E. Norman of the department of Rhode Island state police was also present in court but had no criminal matter ready to be brought before the court. There was no trial of cases and the session was over in less than ten minutes.

The following disposition was made of other court matters:

Criminal docket, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly vs. Gaetano Bianchi. Continued one month.

Civil docket, Square Deal Miller company, Inc., vs. the A. L. Castritius company. Continued two weeks.

Luippold Mineral Water Co., Inc. vs. Beppo Boumenot. Continued two weeks.

Michael Terranova vs. Dorothy L. R. Terranova. By agreement in court between Attorneys Dunn and Roche, decision was given to the plaintiff to recover in the replevin case and costs. A jury trial was claimed.

Gavitt Furniture company vs. Agnes C. Fraser. Continued two weeks.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk:

Sept. 15. Samuel H. Davis to Samuel and Mary A. E. Hartridge, lot No. 82 on the west side of Elmwood avenue, revised plan of Misquamicut park.

James D. Docking returned Thursday evening from Providence.

Angelo Faze, a section man on the New Haven railroad has been a patient at Westerly hospital for some time, as a result of injuries received July 15th when struck by the work train at Wequetequock. He was able with the use of a cane to be on the freight yard the past week for the first time, but has not returned to work.

Capt. Amos E. Broadmeadow of the Watch Hill Coast Guard station, and family attended Kingston fair.

Following leave of absence for treatment in Philadelphia, Towerman William D. Cross of Westerly returned to his duties Friday.

Mrs. C. Byron Cottrell and daughters left Friday for ten days' visit in New York.

Miss Lucinda Barber of Westerly was at Mt. Willard and Crawford Notch, N. H., Wednesday.

Irving Chester is spending the week end with relatives in West Kingston.

Merton B. Lewis of Pawcatuck, section foreman on the New Haven railroad injured at Wequetequock July 15th when struck by the work train and a patient at the Westerly hospital for some time returned to work Friday morning.

George G. Stillman is recovering at the Westerly hospital following an operation performed Thursday.

A two-day session of the Women's Baptist Mission society of Rhode Island is to be held at the Wigwam hotel, Pleasant View, next Wednesday and Thursday, Mrs. Leslie E. Swain, the president presiding.

The World Wide guild of Rhode Island will hold its fifth house party also at the Wigwam on the following Friday and Saturday, Miss Sallie E. Coy of Westerly, state secretary of the Rhode Island World Wide guild will preside at the meetings.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR ATTENDS FAIR AT WEST KINGSTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 16—Governor's Day at Kingston fair proved all that the Washington County Agricultural Society management could desire, for with an ideal day and the presence of Rhode Island's lieutenant governor the grounds were crowded as never before.

Although Gov. Pothier was not able to be present at the fair, Lieut.-Gov. Roswell Burchard was in attendance, to represent the state, being presented by President Baily, of the Agricultural society.

The speaking part of the day's program was followed by the cavalcade of exceptionally fine prize-winning cattle around the race track and past the grandstand. After the noon hour hundreds of automobiles in endless procession found parking space in and about the grounds and their occupants visited the exposition halls and the midway attractions.

Notable among prize winners in agricultural products was the showing of the Loges family, of Danielson, Conn. To add to political appearance of Governor's day, United States Democratic Senator and Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry were among those strolling about the grounds. On the other hand Republican State Central Committeeman Pelkey, of Providence, and lesser lights were conspicuous on the midway.

Previous to the running of the 3-year-old pace, purse, $600; 2-year-old trot, purse, $600; and the 3-year-old Division Yankee Stake, an obstacle jump with horse and rider, both men and women, was run off. The start of the track races was with the grandstand filled and throngs on the concourse.

Between races vaudeville acts culminated with Van Norman's bicycle ride down the chute and his plunge into a pool. The fair concludes Saturday.

POETRY

Sparrows

Little birds sit on the telegraph wires,
And chitter and flitter and fold their wings,
Maybe they think that for them and their sires
Stretched always on purpose, those wonderful strings;
And perhaps the thought that the world inspires
Did plan for the birds among other things.

Little birds sit on the slender lines,
And the news of the world runs under their feet;
How value rises and now declines,
How kings with their armies in battle meet;
And all the while, 'mid the soundless signs,
They chirp their small gossipings, foolish and sweet.

Little things light on the lines of our lives—
Hopes and joys and the acts of today;
And we think that for these the Lord contrives,
Nor catch what the hidden lightnings say;
Yet from end to end His meaning arrives,
And His word runs underneath all the way.

Is life only wires and lightning then,
Apart from that which about it clings?
Are the thoughts and the works and the prayers of men
Only sparrows that light on God's telegraph strings—
Holding a moment and gone again?
Nay; He planned for the birds with the larger things!

By Adeline D. T. Whitney.

The Fire Lullaby

O hear him sing, the Fiery King!
Hear him, laddie—hear the fellow!
There he goes and there he blows
All in robes of red and yellow,
O my dearie, learn to fear him—
Be you wise and don't go near him.

While you're sleeping; he shall wake;
He shall fright the bears and cheat 'em;
He shall warm you, he shall bake
Sweetest cakes and you shall eat 'em.
Hush, my baby, don't you weep now!
Hush, my darling, go to sleep now!

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Teacher—Name a very popular general.

Bright Boy—General holiday.—Montreal Family Herald.

Landlady—I don't allow any games of chance here.

Student—This isn't that sort of a game. My friend here hasn't a chance. —Washington Star.

So your wife didn't think much of you, eh?

No. When she got her divorce she hired a criminal lawyer.—Detroit News.

History Teacher—And what did Nero say to Leander after he swam the Hellespont?

The Kid—You're all wet!—Los Angeles Times.

Rug peddler (to very plain housewife)—And beleve me when I tells you, mum, the usual market price of a rug like this in Persia is three beautiful women like yourself. — Boston Transcript.

"I dremp last night that I seed another feller running off with you," remarked Tobe Sagg of Sandy Much.

"What did you say to him?" asked Mrs. Sagg, with interest.

"Aw, I just axed him what was his —yaw-w-wn!—hurry"—Life.

"What!" cried the Mormon's wife, "you say my husband is dying?"

"I'm afraid so," replied the doctor.

Then my place is at his bedside until the end.

Yes, but I'd advise you to hurry, as all the best places are being taken rapidly.—Tit-Bits.

Ten-year-old Jean came in hot and tired one June day and said: "Oh mother, let me have a bath, I'm all hot and sweaty."

"Don't say sweaty, Jean, I've been perspiring is proper."

After a long pause, Jean asked thoughtfully: "Mother do sweat people say cry and perspire people say weep?"—Stray Stories.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Indigo producing plants are grown throughout China to make dye for the blue clothing worn by Chinese lower classes.

The puncture vine, which has harassed western motorists with its sharp spines, has now spread as far east as Illinois.

A bulletin of information on the purchase of garden hose has been issued for home owners by the United States bureau of standards.

The gambusia, an American fish is being used to destroy the larvae of mosquitoes in lakes and ponds in Spain, Italy, Germany, Russia and Jugoslavia.

Even a former plainsman may find a task right to his liking on the Chicago police force. When a steer ran away from the stockyards down a business thoroughfare, Sergeant Anthony Huber, former cowboy, bulldogged it and held it down until attendants arrived in pursuit.

Three men in a boat have left Moscow for a 2,000-mile voyage to the Caspian sea. They are artists from the Moscow Art theater. Their route will be the Moscow and Oka rivers to Nijni-Novgorod, thence down the Volga to Astrakan. They expect to complete the trip in a month.

Now comes another collector of 1 cent pieces Arthur Kelly, of Danvers, who states that he has a collection that runs unbroken for 104 years—1824 to 1928. In the period that runs from 1800 to 1823, 24 years, inclusive, he has cents for 13 of the years, and from 1800 to 1810 his collection is only minus the coins for 1804 to 1810 only minus the coins for 1804, 1806 and 1809.—Boston Globe.

Anita May Andrews's idea of a perfect summer vacation is to travel with a circus as a acrobatic clown—and she is having the idea fulfilled this summer. Mlle. Anita, of New London, Conn., is 8 years old. While Anita comes naturally by her talent, since her father has been a circus clown for years, it is not intended that she shall spend her life in the sawdust ring. Her father believes acrobatic "work" is beneficial for a child.

Four Willimington (Del.) men, out on a cruise in a motorboat, are thanking William H. Foulk, a fifth member of the party, for saving them from drowning. The four men left the motorboat in a dory to buy supplies on shore, but the dory upset with their weight. Struggling in the water near the motorboat, they were nearly exhausted when Foulk appeared on deck and told them to stand up. They were in four feet of water.

Manganese deficiency, a disease afflicting plants that grow in certain types of soils, can be cured by hypodermic injections with a solution of this necessary mineral, as well as by the more usual method of supplying fertilizers containing it. Dr. Forman T. McLean, of the Rhode Island agricultural experiment station, recently told a Science service representative of his experiments. He raised a number of plants on soil with all the natural manganese removed, and when they began to show the characteristic symptoms of manganese starvation he injected into their leaves a very weak solution of salt containing it. The sick plants very promptly recovered.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the Greeneville Reform club elected as its president, W. H. Bell. G. D. Fillmore was elected secretary and C. E. Blumley was the club's choice for treasurer. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of September, 1877, are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 10, 1877—The Rev. Mr. Palmer has returned from his vacation and officiated at his church. In the afternoon the venerable Dr. Bond, took part in the sacramental service. He spoke with all the force and fervor of his earlier years and words of signal preciousness.

A school of bony-fish came up the river as far as the wharf bridge yesterday afternoon and a good many people were attracted by the sight which was seldom ever seen before so far up the river.

A large number from Somerset and St. James lodges, F. and A. M., attended the funeral of their late brother, William S. Cooley, at Norwich Town, yesterday. He was buried with Masonic honors.

The teachers of the Central school district made an excursion to Watch Hill Saturday.

Tuesday, Sept. 11, 1877—The Otis library kettle drum comes off tomorrow. Contributions of eatables of any kind are solicited.

Mrs. J. B. Shannon's horse Grey Jim has been entered in the free for all race at Grove park, New London, Wednesday.

Dr. T. A. Conant was found in an insensible condition on Little Water street about nine o'clock last evening. He was removed soon after to the police headquarters at the City hall. He was found to be suffering from an apoplectic fit, from which it is doubtful if he recovers.

Ryan's pistol shop was entered by burglars Sunday night and seven or eight pistols taken. The burglars evidently entered through the door by means of a false key.

The Ella made her last trip to Block Island for the season yesterday.

Wednesday, Sept. 12, 1877—The death of Miss Diana L. Greene, although not unexpected, will bring sadness to the hearts of many of our citizens. She was a woman of modest worth, the best appreciated where the best known.

Burglars attempted to enter the house of Mr. Lafayette Griswold in the south eastern part of Ledyard one night last week, but were heard and one of them received a charge from Mr. Griswold's shot gun when they disappeared. It was inferred that the wounded man must have been severely hurt.

Quite a number of petty burglaries are reported in Ledyard lately. The premises of Mr. N. S. Gallup and Mrs. Col. Wood have thus far been depredated.

A reception was given to the Rev. John Davies at the Central Baptist church last evening by the people of his congregation.

Thursday, Sept. 13, 1877—The United Workers, the recently organized society for benevolent work in this city, have just leased a house, containing 14 rooms on the West Side, for a hospital, soup house, sewing school and other like purposes. The establishment will soon be in readiness for occupancy and some three or four inmates will be removed thither shortly.

The steamer Ella makes her last excusion to Fisher's Island on Saturday next, leaving here at 9 o'clock and returning at 6 p. m. This popular place should draw a crowd and Capt. Smith's last trip should be made his best.

The Shannon horse, Grey Jim, won the race at Oak Grove, New London, yesterday, in three straight heats.

Friday, Sept. 14, 1877—The annual fall parade of the fire department of New London took place yesterday and presented a very handsome appearance.

At a regular meeting of the Greeneville Reform club held on Wednesday evening, in Owanaco hall, the following officers were elected: President, W. H. Bell; vice presidents, J. McWilliams, J. F. Hewlett and J. H. Scott; secretary, G. D. Fillmore; treasurer, C. E. Blumley; usher, Alexander Martin; steward, H. N. Kinne; chaplain, the Rev. W. Kirkby.

The Free academy has now about 150 pupils, an unusually large number.

Mr. Welcome Smith is building a house on Huntington place.

The water in the city reservoir is now seven and one-half feet below high water mark.

Saturday, Sept. 15, 1877—Several Norwich firemen were present at the firemen's parade in New London, Thursday, and speak in high terms of the display both of the firemen and of the ladies of our sister city.

Three barns in North Stonington, belonging respectively to William R. Hall, Edwin Hewitt and Dudley R. Wheeler, were burned by incendiary fire yesterday afternoon.

There are now 568 pupils in the Greeneville schools.

The reform club in this city numbers about 800, some 300 or 400 having joined the present week.

Courting in Kentucky

When Mary Ann Dollinger got the skule dawn thar on Injun bay
I was glad, fer I like to see a gal
makin' her honest way,
I heerd some talk in the village abaout
her flyin' high,
Tew high for busy farmer folks
with chores ter dew ter fly;
But I paid no sorter attention ter all the talk ontell
She came in her reg-lar boardin' round ter visit with us a spell
My Jake an' her had been cronies ever since they could walk,
An' it tuck me aback ter hear her kerrectin' him in his talk.

Jake ain't no hand at grammar, though he haint his beat for work;
But I see ter myself, "Look out, my gal, yer a-foolin' with a Turk!"
Jake bore it wonderful patient, an'
said in a mournful way,
He psumed he was behindhand with the doin's at Injun bay.
I remember once he was askin' for some o' my Injun buns,
An' she said he should allus say
"them air" stid o' "them is" the ones.
Wal, Mary Ann kep' at him stiddy
mornin' and evenin' long,
Till he dassent open his mouth for fear o' talkin' wrong.

One day I was pickin' currants daown
by the old quince tree,
When I heered Jake's voice a-sayin'
"Be ye willin' ter marry me?"
An' Mary Ann kerrectin' "Air ye willin' yeou sh'd say."
Our Jake he put his foot daown in a plum decided way,
No wimmen-folks is a-goin' ter be re-
arrangin' me.
Hereafter I says "craps" "them is"
"I calk'late" an' "I be."
Ef folks don't like my talk they needn't hark ter what I say;
But I ain't a-goin' to take no sass from folks from Injun Bay.
I ask you free an' final: "Be ye goin' ter marry me?"
An' Mary Ann sez, trembin', yet anxious-like, "I be."

A Recipe for a Day

Take a little dash of water cold,
And a little leaven of prayer,
And a little bit of morning gold,
Dissolved in the morning air.

Add to your meal some merriment,
And a thought of kith and kin,
And then as your prime ingredient,
A plenty of work thrown in.

But spice it all with the essence of love,
And a little whiff of play.
Let a wise old book and a glance above,
Complete a well-made day.

Keep on Hopin'

Keep on lookin' for the bright, bright skies,
Keep on hopin' that the sun'll rise;
Keep on singing' when the whole world sighs.—
And you'll get there in the mornin'.

Keep on sowin' when you've missed
the crops,
Keep on dancin' when the fiddle stops,
Keep on faithful till the curtain drops,
And you'll get there in the mornin'.

Keep on trustin' in the cause of Right,
Keep on lookin' to the dawn of Light,
Keep on fightin' till you've won the fight,—
And you'll get there in the mornin'.

The Maple on the Hill

Near a quiet country village
Stands a maple on a hill,
There I sat with my dear Jennie long ago.
When the stars were shining brightly
And the birds had gone to rest,
And we vowed to love each other evermore.

We would sing love songs together
When the moon was shining bright,
And we'd listen to the murmur of the
rill,
Then I'd put my arms around her,
Lay my head upon her breast,
As we sat beneath the maple on the hill.

We are growing old and feeble,
Yet the stars are shining bright,
And I listen to the murmur of the
rill;
Will you always love me, darling,
As you did those starry nights,
As we sat beneath the maple on the hill?

Don't forget me, little darling,
When you lay me down to rest.
'Tis a little wish, oh, darling, grant I pray,
When you linger there in sadness,
Thinking, darling, of the past,
Let your tears kiss the flowers on my grave.

I will soon be with the angels
On that bright and golden shore
Even now I hear them coming o'er the
rill,
So goodbye, my little darling for my time has come to go.
I must leave you and the maple on the hill.

PICNIC AT TUNY ANNE'S SEPT. 21

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I have been to a meeting today and have had a good time. Some of the sisters would like me to have a picnic and as it is getting late in the season and we will soon go in the hall for our winter meetings, I thought I would have one next Wednesday, Sept. 21, rain or shine and would like sisters from all the clubs to come.

I live in North Windham. Get off at the store and follow the yellow bows. There's one pine tree in front of the house. Bring dishes and something good to eat as usual. Hope to have a good big crowd.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Friends of Social Corner: Have not written before but when I read what Moses wife said about three women getting off the bus and getting into her car I had to laugh as I was one and only an invited guest at that, but I had a splendid time and enjoyed every minute even if it did rain.

I would like, if I may, to become a member and will take for my name

HOUSEHOLD PETS NEED INTELLIGENT CARE

Dear Social Corner Members and Editor: I saw this topic in Better Home and Gardens, by Edna Knowles King and I thought how true this letter sounds, and it is true. The more you talk to animals and make of them the more intelligent they are.

Of course I was mostly interested in cats. They need plenty of air and sunshine, also good food if they are to be healthy. Contrary to what most people think a well fed cat is a better mouser than a half starved one. A thin cat is too listless to hunt well.

Tabby should be fed twice a day. Fine, sharp broken bones should never be given to cats for they are likely to lodge in the animal's throat. Meat should be fed in limited quantities. Milk should be fed daily.

We feed tabby milk every day but she will only drink hot milk and I feed her meat twice a week. She loves cod fish and shrimps with cornbread, but she doesn't like her food to stand very long, so as to get stale at all.

We also have gold fish. Our last one I had five years. We have two fish now. Edna Knowles King says, they add a spot of color to what ever corner they are put. Of course they add a beauty spot of gold color. She say soap should never be used to wash the container and to use little nets when removing them from the container. I use a ladle and transfer them to another dish. I have sand in the bottom of the tank and change the water once in two weeks. I feed them just a little every morning and they seem lively. Have had them almost one year. In fact I see to my dumb animals and feed them first, cat, fish and hens.

I haven't a canary but I read, always move the cage carefully. I have noticed people sometimes will grab the little birds' house so it would frighten the little feathery mite.

GOSSIP

Dear Sisters: I have read and read letter after letter concerning gossip, but in all my years have I never read a letter concerning gossip as Frank Swinnerton states it. He states a person who is not interested in gossip is dead to the world, that they are not interested in anything that is going on in the world. That a person who gossips can "talk," better than others that they are more witty or they are more jovial. They have a great deal to say that fascinates everybody. They do not care to be interrupted when they are in full conversational flight, they tell not but they spin an endless fabric which is considered good "talk," and "good talk" it appears is one of the finest arts of civilization.

Whenever I read one of these essays I try as is only natural to think of those among my friends who could be regarded as good talkers in this special sense and I always come to the conclusion that perhaps, after all, the best talkers are those who say nothing whatever. For how many of us care really for talk as an art? Not many. Most of us would not travel 20 yards except from morbid curiosity, in order to hear the best so called "talker" in the world. We feel that they must be twigs from that hideous branch of mankind known to all as an excellent after dinner speaker, and as after dinner speakers have inflicted their wares upon companies, helpers companies—in which from time to time we have found ourselves, we shall be forgiven nowadays, at the mention of the sinister phase, we all fly hastily from the spot.

A person whose talk crackles is quite frankly a dislikable person; he is not sociable. He sits at a table like a hungry lion in an arena where one or two minor cats, two or three parrots and a lamb have been gathered together by an anxious circus proprietor.

Gossip is what delights us all. In gossip we deal with everything that is personal to ourselves and personal to those with whom we have some authentic acquaintance. We, if the purist will have it so, chatter. But in chattering we are at ease.

The principles of good government good behavior and good health have no place in gossip. Unfortunately the word "gossip" is sometimes given a sinister meaning. Tartuffe will purse his lips as he repeats an unsavory tale and say, "Gossip, I suppose," as if he were saying, "How I hate the vile thing; or how I should hate it if it did not give me such satisfaction; or again in the daily or weekly press we find the term applied in all sorts of inaccurate and disagreeable information regarding well known people whose affairs do not concern ourselves, but about whom we are supposed to hunger for private news. The supply prepossesses the hunger; and I remember that a celebrated person was once horrified to read of himself in popular print.

Blue spats are coming into fashion I saw Thomas last week at Deauville and he was wearing a pair. Thomas was overwhelmed with protests from his credulous friends who begged him to abandon so grotesque a fashion in the wearing of blue spats; and by the intervention of one of these friends, who learned the truth, the offending author of the paragraph was ultimately traced. "What do you mean by writing such paragraphs? she was asked. "Thomas has never been to Deauville and her never in his life wore blue spats?"

"Oh, I don't know," answered the gossiper, shrugging. "His name just came into my head."

There is a difference between gossiping and downright lying and the above is lying.

Malice, also, has a part in true gossip

I see Mrs. Jones has a green hat. She got it at the Bon Marche for 20 and six pence and I've seen as good at Little's for eight and nine. And its sure to fade. She says her husband likes it and her husband, I saw him myself, you know, is quite unsteady. And I'm afraid the boy takes after him. Now that to my mind is not gossip, it is tattle.

It is not gossip because it isn't interesting. Also it is ill natured. Finally it is not gossip because there has been no thought in it. Gossip is not a dull thing but a lively exercise for lively minds. It is a conversation into the common stock of which the participants throw their choicest impression. Open hearts, fun, mutual understanding, a dash of irony and all those invaluable little glances of the mind which belong only to ourselves are needed for good gossip.

Properly indulged and properly appreciated, gossip is a lovely activity of the human spirit. It is the poetry of social intercourse. When we gossip we are alive; and when we cease to gossip it is a sign that interest in ourselves and our fellow creatures is beginning to wane, beginning to perish. Not to gossip, in fact is a very clear admission that we are dead to the world.

THE GARRET

Dear Sisters: The garret usually is the last part of the house to receive the finishing touch from the builder. In fully one third of the houses the top floor is left unfinished, with exposed rafters. Sometimes it is because the money gives out by the time the top floor is reached, at others, is because the room is not really needed, and it seems a waste of money to spend more on them for complete finishing.

"Someday" we say we will have those rooms finished off for extra bedrooms, But time rolls on, the attic is left untouched, and meanwhile becomes the general store room for the whole family. Everything not wanted is carried there to be left until needed, and often entirely forgotten and the things wasated. If little study and work are given to the garret, it can be made much more useful, and in a sense one of the most attractive parts of the house. The cost of improving is merely nominal. It makes an ideal playroom for the children. Ask them. The exposed rafter, the bare floors, the nooks and corners under the sloping roof, and the strange assortment of old things exercise a fascination over the childish mind which is quite irresistible. On stormy days the drip, drip of the rain on the out side makes music for them.

To convert the garret into a playroom for the children it must be cleaned and put in an orderly condition. A little sorting of the goods would show you much of the truck is worthless. Give it away or burn it. The rest can be stored away in trunks and packing boxes which may be shoved under the lower part of the rafters.

A painted floor in the attic is O. K. unless they can't stand the noise of the little folks, otherwise cover with matting. Usually two coats of good paint will suffice. Oil cloth or linoleum make a good floor covering if there is a probability of spilling water that may leak through and stain the ceiling of the room beneath.

In the middle of the attic, where the rafters come together, select two of the stoutest, heaviest beams for a swing. Fasten a stout piece of wook to two rafters and bore holes through this for the swing rope. If the children are small a swing made in this way will not weaken the roof beams.

At another point a horizontal bar can be put up the same way. For small children a stout curtain pole will be strong enough. Place this about four feet from the floor under it put an old mattress. The children will not hurt themselves then, if they should fall.

In a corner nearest the window have a shallow box, four by five, six or seven feet, made of ordinary boards. Get a barrel full of sea sand or any other kind of sand and fill the box. The children will have a chance to play in on cold stormy winter days, in part of the house seldom seen by visitors.

To increase the pleasing effect of the garret, so the children will like it as a playroom, tack up pictures cut out of magazines and papers. A portion of the garret can be finished by tacking birch bark across from the rafters, inclosing a space in rustic fashion. Another way, use pieces of odd wall paper that can be obtained cheaply at any decorators. Fasten the strips froms rafter to rafter, tacking them on with brass headed nails, overlapping and gluing every other strip so that the nails underneath are invisible.

There are white composition boards that can be used to furnish an attic more completely. These boards can be tacked on by anyone and give the appearance of white plaster. No more skill is required in putting them up than in cutting cardboard, and tacking it to the beams and rafters.

A sister of the Corner asked for a recipe for soap. I don't know as mine is the one she referred to. I have sent in several recipes but there is one for toilet and another for scrub soap. If there are others sent and they aren't the one asked for I will send in mine.

SAVING SEEDS; MAKING JELLY

Dear Editor and Corner Folks: Want you to know that friendes drove way from Providence out here Wednesday to take Zany and me to Club 4's picnic at the home of Moses' Wife. But it rained so hard, decided not to go, and now we are very sorry.

Yes, Primrose, I believe that was the first meeting of Club 4, I ever missed and I intend it shall be the last if nothing but rain prevents.

Moses Wife: We extend hearty greetings to you and think our club owes you and husband a vote of thanks for opening your home to us before you became one of the happy family. That is something no other member of Club 4 has done. Enjoyed your letter very much and hope to meet you at some of the meetings.

A nice way to have a Social Corner flower garden is for the sisters who have a garden to save seeds in this way. Gather only those of perfect and beautiful flowers. When a flower, the seeds of which you have decided to save, begins to fade, tie a little cheese cloth bag over it to catch the seeds and attach a slip of paper to it on which is written its color. When the seeds are ripe put them in small envelopes neatly marked about planting and cultivating. A nice way to remember sisters at Christmas time, also to help them start a memory garden.

In making blackberry, elderberry or cherry jelly have found that by using one quarter as much apple or green grapes as there are berries, and cooking all together, I have nice jelly with the berry flavor. The same rule applies to any kind of fruit that will not jell of itself. Have tried Primrose's little canning trick many times and found it all right.

Sympathy to all who are in trouble and hope they will soon overcome it.

RECIPES AND HELPS

Dear Cornerites: I am sending a few recipes and helps.

An excellent paste for cleaning discolored dishes, sinks, etc. Take equal parts of whiting, soft soap, white sand and soda. Place the ingredients in a sauce pan, adding enough water to form a paste. Boil until dissolved, turn into jars for future use.

Cake with Coffee Jelly: 2 cups pastry flour, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons creamtartar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons melted butter.

Break one egg in your measuring cup fill up with milk, add this to flour, sugar, cream tartar, soda and salt. Mix well, then add the melted butter. Bake 20 minutes in two tins.

Filling—Two cups made coffee, (rather strong) 2-3 cups of sugar, 2 teaspoons each of cocoa and corn starch, blended with a little coffee. Cook until thick, add 2 teaspoons of butter, and when cool flavor with a teaspoon of vanilla. Spread between cakes.

GREETINGS FROM NONESOPRETTY

Dear Editor and Friends: Well, we did have some fine weather and it seemed so nice. I saw the page was not full last week so I will put in a short letter this time. I am going to get up a party and visit an old ruined village. They say it is haunted. One woman tried to drive into it and landed down in the river. She got her car drawn out and it was in perfect condition.

Well, I will walk into the place and see if I go into the river. After I go I will tell you what happened to me.

Kochia: I wish you were to be one of the party, but poor child I don't know what would happen to you.

Peggy Alder: Don't worry over the salad. They all lived to tell all about it. I did not write last week, I was too sick to think of writing, but am feeling some better now.

Kochia: You tell Peggy Alder that fellow that sat in that chair of stone was chained there a thousand years and I guess he got tired so he has not had time to sit there since. But his imps are still there, the rattlers, to protect it. We will go and see it when the rattlers are shut in by frost.

Kansas Lilly: Come tell us of your trip.

Providence Rose: You are in your new home. Now write.

Peter Prose: Hope your poor tummy is all right now.

Hope the sick ones are better. Where, oh where is Rural Delivery? Do send in one of your letters.

Rural Auntie: Where are you?

Dece. Caro, Harry E. 1492: We don't hear from any of you. Fall in line like going to the circus.

Aries: I will try and send those slips as soon as I can.

LAUGH CARE AWAY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: What a vast difference there is in faces! Watch the various expressions in a crowd as you pass to and fro, and you can read a great many unwritten histories there. Those who carry heavy burdens look tired and old; youth has been banished before his time and care has set his seal on cheek and brow and mouth. Even the eyes have a careworn look and your heart aches that such things must be. O weighed down humanity. It is the lot of all to bear, burdens but why can we not learn to laugh care away, and go on our way singing instead of sighing? May this be your resolve,—to give into God's keeping the burdens that are too heavy for you and not allow yourself to be troubled or cast down.

Now our wants and burdens leaving,
To His care who cares for all,
Cease we fearing cease we grieving,
At His touch our burdens fall.

You make a hard life for yourself when you allow your tongue to get the better of you. Not only this but you make it unpleasant for others as well. He who learns to curb his spirit and to keep back the quick words that wound and hurt others has gained a noble victory—the victory over self. Learn for life to avoid contentions. They only make hard feelings. Sharp words spoken in the morning will mar the happiness of a whole day! Don't say them, they always leave a regret behind them. It is noble to keep silent when the utterance of words would create a discord. To be monarch of self is far more desirable than to rule a kingdom. It is the gentle word that wins; it is the "soft answer" that "turneth away wrath." Speak gently, 'tis a little thing
Dropped in the heart's deep well,
The good the joy which it may bring
Eternity, shall tell.
Kind words can never die
Cherished and blest;
God knows how they lie.
Lodged in the breast.
May you still be given strength
For each day in house and home
To practice forbearance sweetly,
To scatter kind words and loving deeds.
Trusting in God completely.

I want to thank the sisters of Club No. 5 for giving me a nice time at the meeting which I enjoyed very much. When you are in a crowd you've got to enjoy it and be happy and gay as a crowd of Social Corner sisters always is.

PAULA.

GREETINGS FROM VIOLET

Dear Social Corner Friends: Greetings and good wishes to you all. It has been a long time since I wrote to the Corner, but have been rather busy housecleaning and canning. Have been doing up crab apple jelly and have also done up a lot of peaches in the last week or so. Hubby took me and the children for an auto ride to some of Rhode Island's beaches. We went about 100 miles and enjoyed the trip very much as it was the first time I had been there in over 20 years and he and the children were never there before.

Joan: Am sorry to hear you have been sick. Hope you are all O. K. by now. Will write you a letter soon.

Was so pleand to see Calla Lily at the fair grounds Labor day.

Cecil Bruner: Yes, your advice worked out all O. K. Nice day and had a fine time.

L. T. H.: How are you after your trip? Fine day, you had. Still have the bouquet of asters you gave me to admire.

Doctor: I saw you go by my home a short time ago with your team. Wish you had stopped for a social chat.

J. E. T.: Where art thou? Haven't seen any letter from you in some time. Hope you and hubby are well. We are all fine just now. Suppose you are busy canning, etc. I have nearly 50 quarts of different things done up so far this year.

Am sending in a little poem I found in a magazine to be used some time. The name of it is Neglected Mother. Best wishes to all the sick and shut ins.

DEATH TO GOSSIP

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: We are having a spell of lovely weather for a while. Do let us hope we have no more rain. The summer rains we have had have spoiled the gardens and crops, potatoes are rotting and our beans all have a rusty rot on them. It surely has been a bad year.

I have just been reading an article in a magazine, I believe its the New England Homestead, entitled Death to Gossip. I believe I never read or heard such true words. There is no more or meaner mischief ever made then by gossip. We all tell more or less things we have heard. That is human nature, but why can't we have a little more humanity about it. Am giving a few sketches of the article.

"Gossip seems to be a natural product of country and small town life. If we are honest we must admit that it is our own fault if we take part in gossip and unkind criticism. Gossip is both unpleasant and unlovely. It spreads unhappiness and discouragement and even dispair. We can refrain from repeating what we hear. Lets' despise gossip.

"How insidious is the story that implies some thing without actually asserting any fact and how safe for the perpetrator and circulator of the same. Some people became adepts at this sort of thing. How many priceless reputation they ruin and heartaches they cause. Gossip always hurts the gossiper more than it does the gossipee in the final analysis; it never pays in the long run."

Aren't those true words? Gossip pushes so many innocent people into the mire and then just keeps pushing and pushing until the innocent one is in too deep to ever extract himself in the public eye. I say, Death to Gossip.

Here's hoping this letter doesn't find the waste basket.

GREETINGS AND REQUESTS FROM BY JINGO

Dear Social Cornerites: Thought I had better get busy and do my share before I'm not counted as a member any more.

Wish I could have gone to one of the picnics held this summer, but it was impossible.

We have just gone into our own home and find I have quite a little to do. Have to make new curtains for my bedrooms and I think the ruffled curtains the best. Wish Green Hill would tell me what place she got hers from. Her daughter H. was telling me about them.

Fuller Phun: Just had some more bad luck. Mr. Jingo went into a business where he peddled by truck and the 27th of August we lost the truck by fire. Almost burned our home as the truck was right side of the house. You are right, I have three boys. Won't you write me a letter and tell me who you are? I don't like mysteries. I can only think of the lady in Zegler's but didn't think she was married.

Will some sister tell how to wash pictures without using bon ami? Would like to have some unique suggestions for Christmas presents, something original.

Melksham: Just one letter from you so far? You have a lot of good ideas tucked away. Why not pass some along. Don't be stingy.

Have just made a new kind of powder to use on my baby. It is 3-4 of a pound of cornstarch and one-half pound of boric acid powder sifted together. A trained nurse gave this to my mother and it is very good.

Must ring off for this time.

BY JINGO.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

Dear Corner Friends: These recipes may be helpful at this time of year.

Dill Pickles: Wash cucumbers, let stand in clear water over night. Fill a 2 quart fruit jar with pickles. Add 2 tablespoons of coarse salt and 1 cup of vinegar. Fill up jar with water. Place white blossom of dill in the bottom of the jar, and one on the top. Seal with rubber. In six weeks they are ready for the table.

Green Tomato Pickle: 1 peck green tomatoes, 4 green peppers, 1 cup salt, 1 tablespoon ground mustard, 1-2 teaspoon each of ground cloves, and ground mace, 1 small stick of cinnamon, 3 pounds of brown sugar, vinegar to cover.

Slice onions and t omatoes, sprinkle with salt, let stand over night. Drain and place in a kettle with the peppers from which the seeds have been removed. Then add the spices, sugar mustard, and vinegar, cook one hour and seal.

Noodles: 1 package of noodles, 1-2 teaspoon Worcester salt.

Cook the above 10 minutes, drain. Put this into a pan with just enough good brown sauce to cover. Stew with the lid off the pan till the noodles cook dry.

I sometimes use tomato sauce with the noodles same as the brown gravy but it takes a greater amount. And keep the lid on the pan so it will not evaporate.

Blackberry Jam: For every pound of washed barries use 3-4 pound of sugar. Mix berries and sugar together and let stand over night. Bring to a boiling point and let cook until jam is thick. Pack in sterilized jars, cool, seal with parafin, label and stoce in a cool dark place. I make my strawberry and raspberry jam by this recipe.

Bordeaux Sauce: 2 quarts chopped tomatoes, 6 large onions chopped, 5 red peppers, chopped, 4 quarts of cabbage, after chopped, 2 ounces each mustard and celery seed, 1 teaspoon of tumeric.

Stir all together and add 2 pounds of sugar and 2 quarts of vinegar. Boil slowly one hour, put in jars and seal.

GUESS WHO?

A FLOWER GARDEN

Dear Sisters:
Dawn of tomorrow,
Take every sorrow,
Bring back the sunshine
I love to see,
I'm tired of waiting,
Lonely without you,
Dawn of tomorrow,
Bring you back to me.

And when the dawn does appear, I stroll out to a dear, old fashioned garden, and along a line fence, that was nothing but hard-scrabble. There I have cut the turf and gathered the stones from an area of about 70 feet long by 6 feet wide. I first placed hardy yellow lilies at about four feet apart, then golden glow between and tiny lilac shrubs at regular intervals, and when I call on my dear friends they often present me with a few roots of hardy roses. When I take a walk I am always watching for chances to get slips of plants.

Phlox is now spreading a mass of purple bloom, and I have utilized an otherwise worthless patch of ground. When I rest there each plant recalls loving memories.

I see old fashioned misses getting old fashioned kisses in an old fashioned garden.

From an old-fashioned rose.

CINDERELLA JOINS CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I have wanted long before now to join this Corner but somehow I have put off writing.

I surely have had some very pleasant times at the meeting of club No. 2.

The letters written by the different sisters are very interesting and every Saturday I look forward to my paper and turn first thing to the Social Corner page.

Divinity Fudge: Two and one-half cups of sugar, whites of two eggs, one-half cup of corn syrup, one-half cup of cold water, 1 cup of broken walnuts. Mix sugar, syrup and water and boil until when droped in water mixture will form a ball. Beat the eggs stiff; pour half the mixture over eggs, beating constantly. Returning other half of mixture to stove, cook 15 or 20 minutes. Pour into first mixture, beating constantly. Add walnuts and vanilla; pour into buttered pans.

I will choose as my pen name

CINDERELLA.

FINE PICNIC AT TOO LATE'S

Social Corner Folks: Last week was so nice let's all hope we have the same for a long, long time. I attended Too Late's picnic, she did more then her part to make it a success. Had a fine time and such a dinner! You who were absent missed something good.

Hope the frost holds off as I have so many gladiolus yet to blossom, also tomatoes to ripen. Ours rather rot while green. Have only six red ones so far from about 50 plants.

Hope all are well.

PROSPECTS FOR NEW EGG LAYING RECORD

With a total of 2,399 eggs to their credit in 45 weeks, the leading pen of Hollywood White Leghorns in the Storrs egg laying contest seem to be well on the way to establish a new yearly pen record. The present Storrs record for any one pen, set up by C. T. Darby's White Leghorns from North Branch, N. J., in 1924, is 2,531 eggs. Hollywood must lay 132 eggs to equal the present high score, and all above that figure will constitute a new record. The Hollywood pen is laying almost 74 per cent at the present time, and with six weeks to go in the present competition, should set up a record that will stand for a long time. During the 44th week, the Hollywood birds passed the 2,361-egg mark made by the winning Toivonen Farm White Leghorns from Girard, Pa., in the 1926 competition.

Production droppe delightly during the past week, the contest flock laying 4,707 eggs or at at rate of 48.2 per cent. This is 87 eggs less than the the score for the previous week, but 753 eggs more than the total for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Sunday night the contest birds had laid a grand total of 233,290 eggs. This gives an average of 1,666 eggs for each of the 140 competing pens, or 166 eggs per bird.

White Leghorns entered by Broadview Farm from Winsted, Conn., made the best score for the week with a lay of 54 eggs. The Hollywood Poultry Farm entry of the same breed placed a close second with 53 eggs, and another Leghorn entry owned by the Steelman Poultry Farm from Lansdale, Pa., finished third with a score of 50 eggs. Rhode Island Reds entered by Donald L Goodenough of Burrville, Conn., and White Leghorns owned by the Roselawn Poultry Farm of Joplin, Mo., tied for fourth place with a lay of 49 eggs each.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

Farmer Brown's Boy Is Awakened

You'll never know how great is care
Till you misplace a little Bear.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Where was Cubby, the mischievous little Bear? Farmer Brown wished that he knew. Mother Brown wished that she knew, and most of all Farmer Brown's Boy wished that he knew. He had disappeared just as completely as if he had vanished in thin air. They had heard him racing around upstairs, and by the time they got up there no Bear was to be found; nor could they find any place for a Bear to escape. It was unbelieveable, but it was so.

And such a mess as there was in that always neat house of Mother Brown's! Everywhere he had walked he had touched was stiky. The bed he had touched was sticy. The bedclothes in two rooms were a sight. There was stickiness all over the carpets, and down in the cellar was such a mess as Mother Brown could not think of without quite losing her temper. And it was all because of one little Bear. Do you wonder that they wanted to find Cubby?

Until a late hour that night all three were busy with soap and water, cleaning up, so far as they could; though, as Mother Brown said, she would probably find stickiness for months to come. And all the time they worked they tried to think of where that little Bear had gone. It seemed to them that he must have gotten out of the house somehow, but how they hadn't the slightest idea.

"I won't sleep a wink," declared Mother Brown. "Of course he must have gotten out of the house; but if he did, how did he do it? If he didn't, where is he? I have a feeling right down in my bones that that imp of mischief is somewhere in this house this very minute, and I don't dare think of what he may do or get into next. Son, I wish you'd left him in the Green Forest where he belongs. A house is no place for a Bear."

Farmer Brown suddenly put down his pail of water and began to laugh. He laughed and he laughed and he laughed. Farmer Brown's Boy joined him. And by and by even Mother Brown smiled somewhat ruefully. You see it really was funny that one small animal could get into so much mischief in so short a time and then manage to escape punishment.

He sat up in bed with a start

It was late when they went to bed. Farmer Brown's Boy dropped off to sleep almost as soon as his head touched the pillow. It was very still there in the farmhouse. How long he had slept Farmer Brown's Boy didn't know, but he had a feeling that he had been asleep some time, when his eyes flew wide open and he sat up in bed with a start. He had heard a noise and he was certain that that noise was under his bed. He held his breath and listened. There it was again. Could there be a burglar under his bed?

Farmer Brown's Boy jumped out of bed and lighted the lamp. Then he peered under the bed. He was just in time to see a black foot disappear. It was drawn up between the slats of his bed. Farmer Brown's Boy put the lamp down on the floor and crawled under the bed where he could look up. A pair of small eyes twinkled down at him somewhat anxiously. Cubby was up on the slats of that bed, in between the spring, the last place in the world that any one would naturally think to look for him. This accounted for the mysterious way in which he had disappeared.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Waterman School's Fifth Season

With 38 enthusiastic students from June to September, a record for hot weather attendance, the Waterman School of Music, Earle L. Sparks, director enters this month upon its fifth successful season. Cooperating with the home school in Los Angeles through his national advertising in music magazines, Mr. Sparks induced teachers to open Waterman studios in Pittsburg, Atlantic City and other places within the past year. Many of last seasons pupils are returning for lessons and these, together with the summer pupils and new students making applications for enrollment presage the display of an S. R. O. sign in the near future. The Waterman method is for piano only and will adapt itself to any type or style of composition, classical or popular. Edgar J. Caron continues with the Waterman violin studio at 182 Central avenue, featuring the Leopold Auer graded violin course. Mr. Sparks is manager of the New England territory for the Waterman school and has sole teaching rights for New London and Windham counties. He employs no assistants or under-teachers in Norwich and gives instruction to adult beginners or the most advanced students at the exclusive Waterman studio, 24 Fairmount street.

Palace Theatre

Your last opportunity, if you wish to make use of it, to see that very wonderful show at the Palace. Five all star acts of vaudeville are presented, featuring Muriel Kay and company, a very prettily set revue with piano, violin and dances up-to date. The feature screen attraction Renee Adoree in Back to God's Country is the story of a girl's courageous battle against terrible circumstances, seething passion and the angry elements. A gorgeous, dramatic panorama of frozen wastelands of the snow country.

For Sunday night only two big pictures will be shown. May Robson in The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary with Phillis Haver, Harrison Ford and Francis Parnborn. This is a laughing farce of a jolly old lady who when she got rid of the undertaker and tomb stone maker, began to live. She will keep you in laughs all the way through six reels of genuine fun. The second feature Viola Dana in The Lure of the Night Club, a fascinating glimpse of back stage life in a metropolitan night club will be your pleasure in this picture. There are many touching spots, for she was torn between two loves, one man the manager of the night club, and the other her girlhood sweetheart. We promise a thoroughly enjoyable show. Commencing Monday for three days Norwich public will get the thrill of their lives. Metropolis, the wonder picture of the year will be shown in connection with vaudeville. Metropolis pictures a city a thousand years from now. It's the most mystifying picture of the time and will thrill you to the core. Don't miss this one as it positively will not be shown in Norwich again.

Broadway Theater

By far the most thrilling picture of Col. Tim McCoy has ever made!

That is a terse description of Foreign Devils, the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer historical film drama which opened yesterday at the Broadway theater and finishes its run today.

The story runs the length of the Boxer siege of the allied compounds during the uprising of little more than a quarter of a century ago, and even shows the organization of the relief expedition which finally arrived at the Chinese capital and literally blasted the mobs of Boxers from in front of the barricades where the Americans and Europeans had fought them back for many weeks.

You may tell a legionnaire many things and possibly "get away with it." But call him a poor soldier and one takes his life in his hands.

Members of the French foreign legion pride themselves on being the finest soldiers in the world.

An intimate view of the Legion and its brave men—some rogues, some gentlemen who wish to lose their identity, nearly all enlisted under assumed names—is given in Beau Geste, which comes to the Broadway theater Sunday for four days.

This tremendously popular novel was written by Major Percival Christopher Wren of the British army and transferred to the screen by Paramount, the undertaking being one of the greatest of its kind. For the filming of the Sahara desert scenes, Director Herbert Brenon and 2,000 men spent three months on the Arizona desert 30 miles from the nearest habitation.

The featured players in Beau Geste include Ronald Colman, Alice Joyce, Noah Berry, Mary Brian, Neil Hamilton, William Powell, Norman Trevor, Ralph Forbes and Victor McLaglen.

Opening

The Callahan Oil company, which is owned by Norwich people, is to open a new filling station at 73 Thames street. It is to be known as the Thames Filling station. At this station, in line with their other stations, is to be handled a full line of Socony products.

This station is well appointed. It has four pumps, rest room, a frontage of 150 feet. Battery and tire work will be conducted by Messrs. Caulfield and Crowe.

The Callahan Oil company is now in its third year and has shown a remarkable growth. It now has up-to-date stations in the various neighborhoods o fthe city. These stations are always laid out, so that the motorist will have every convenience.

In order that the motor car owners and drivers may get better acquainted with The Callahan Oil company, one gallon of motor oil will be given away with 5 gallons of gasoline, Saturday, Sept. 17, 1927, at The Thames Filling station.

Strand Theater

In the Down Grade with William Fairbanks, Alice Calhoun, Jimmy Aubrey and Big Boy Williams, you will see a great movie thriller, on the ground and in the air thrills come faster than you can count them. An airplane racing a train, a runaway freight car making 50 miles an hour and ending in a crash.

William Fairbanks' sensational leap from a galloping horse to a speeding locomotive, a plane swooping down to drop a dying man to the top of an express train. The most daring feat ever shown on the screen.

In the Ridin' Rowdy with Buffalo Bill Jr., you will get plenty of chuckles and thrills in a speedy western. A laughing, rollicking devil may care rowdy is Buffalo Bill, Jr., in this picture.

Though born to hate sheep he fell in love with a sheepman's daughter, finally married her and became boss of her flock of woolies.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Capitol Theater, Willimantic

Manager George A. Bartlett of the Capitol theater, the popular showhouse for Willimantic and vicinity has just returned from New York city where he has spent several busy days booking stage and screen attractions that bid well to prove the biggest lobby magnets in eastern Connecticut during the coming fall and winter seasons. "No effort was spared in securing for the public just what the public wants," said Manager Bartlett on his return here last night.

Several of the vaudeville acts already booked are recognized as the greatest headliners on the circuits today. A number of these individual acts include the performance of as many as six clever artists. These acts, shown in week-end programs along with leading screen productions will give the Capitol great prominence in this section as an amusement house where the best can be seen at popular prices.

In his message to patrons Manager Bartlett closes with these words. "You can be assured of the best entertainment available at this theater."

Breed Theater

Colorful South Sea Island scenes; a replica of London's famous Beaux Arts ball; one of the greatest screen battles in history between Milton Sills and Noah Beery—a coronation scene in which Milton Sills and Betty Bronson are crowned king and queen of a tropical island, and a bitter struggle between a stolid, wealthy man and the ne'er-do-well son of an English nobleman.

Those are a few of the highlights of First National's latest Milton Sills starring photoplay, which opens at the Breed theater tomorrow night.

An unusual cast has been assembled for this picture. Betty Bronson has the featured feminine lead, with Noah Beery, Lloyd Whitlock, Claude King and Ashley Cooper in support. The adaptation of Cosmo Hamilton's great novel, Paradise, was produced by Ray Rockett.

MAN WHOSE BLOW KILLED VORVES NOT TO BE ARRESTED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 16—Earl Bullock, United States Coast Guard, who delivered the blow that resulted in the death yesterday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital of George Vorves, another coast guarder, when the pair engaged in a fight at the academy gymnasium Tuesday last, will not be arrested by the civil authorities, it has become known. Because of the fact that the fatal blow was given on a government reservation. However, Coroner J. J. Desmond, of Norwich, will make an investigation, as will the coast guard officers. Vorves' body has been removed to an undertaking establishment, where it is being held pending instructions from relatives of the dead man. Bullock and Vorves engaged in a fight in the prize ring of the academy and by arrangement. Vorves received a blow on the jaw in the eighth round, which knocked him down. His head struck the canvas with such force as to fracture his skull and he expired without regaining consciousness. At the time of the fight coast guard officials stated that the bout was not a grudge affair, but enlisted men there declare that the bout was arranged to settle a feeling of enmity that had existed some time between the mess hall sailors. Fistic bouts have always been approved by the coast guard officials and it is frequent that ring bouts are held, but such bouts have always been limited to four rounds. The bout that resulted in Vorves' death was scheduled for eight rounds.

Last week The Bulletin published the notice of the death of the aunt of Rev. T. L. Riggs, a former resident of Ocean avenue. Washington, D. C., papers state that funeral services for Miss Alice Lawrason Riggs, 86, member of the Riggs family, prominent in the early history of Washington, who died at her residence there, were held at St. Matthew's church with a solemn mass of requiem. Rev. T. Lawrason Riggs, chaplain of Catholic activities at Yale university, a nephew of the deceased, was celebrant; Rev. Edward L. Buckey, pastor of St. Matthew's, deacon, and Rev. John J. Callahan, also of St. Matthew's, sub-deacon. Born in Washington, Miss Riggs was the daughter of the late George Washington Riggs, who in 1854 founded Riggs & Co., which afterward became the Riggs National bank. Mr. Riggs first entered the banking business in 1840, as head of the firm of Corcoran and Riggs, the first named, W. W. Corcoran, having been one of the most widely known philanthropists of the District. For a number of years the Riggs home was on the present Soldiers' Home property, which was subsequently sold to the Government. A sister, Miss Cecilia Riggs, married the late Sir Henry Howard, the first Ambassador to the Vatican since the Reformation, while another sister, Miss Katherine Riggs, married the first French minister to China, the late M. De Geofroy. Miss Riggs is survived by but one sister, Miss Jane Riggs of Washington. Always prominently identified with Catholic activities, at various times, Miss Riggs had been a member of several boards of charity. She also carried on much private charity work.

William McGuire, aged laborer, was in the police court this morning charged with intoxication, but the circumstances attending his arrest were such that judgment was suspended.

Powell Parcheski, laborer of 161 North Bank street, was in court on a charge of intoxication and because of the frequency that he has been presented in court, he was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended and Parcheski was placed in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Parcheski returned from work at 11:30 o'clock last night and his condition showed plainly that he had been drinking. He engaged in a quarrel with his wife. Mrs. Parcheski stood her husband's conduct as long as she could and then went to police headquarters and made complaint against him. Patrolmen William Riordan and Dennis Murphy went to the Parcheski house and arrested him.

William G. Clark, of Hartford, was arrested on State street charged with violation of the city's parking laws. He did not appear in court so his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

Francis B. Foley, United States Coast Guard, state pier, was arrested last night on Main street by Patrolman Frank Philopena charged with intoxication. He was not in court today for he was turned over to a shore patrol and was taken back to the state pier for discipline.

Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky, whose beat is at Ocean beach, and against whom charges have been preferred by Jack Whiteside, will be given a hearing next week, if present plans of City Manager William A. Holt are carried out, for that official said this afternoon that he would assign a date for the hearing within a few days. City Manager Holt said that he had sent a communication to Whiteside, proprietor of a concession at Ocean beach, requesting him to make it known when it will be convenient for him and his witnesses to attend the hearing. As soon as this is done the date of the hearing will be fixed. It has always been contended by Whiteside that Selesnitsky was not strict in the enforcement of the law with parkers of automobiles on Stuart avenue, except those motorists who desired to park long enough to make a purchase at the store of the concessionist. This accusation Selesnitsky denies. Whiteside has several witnesses who will give their version of the tilt between the officer and Whiteside.

Miss Ruth Goldberg, 55 Connecticut avenue; Dolores Menghi, 7 Smith street; Mrs. Meyer Bokoff, 123 West Main street, Norwich, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

STRUCK BY MOTORCYCLE, MRS. W. B. HART KNOCKED DOWN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 16—Mrs. W. Bertis Hart, 85 Riverview avenue, was struck by a motorcycle driven by Ernest J. Robinson, of Waterford this afternoon and is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Her injuries, however, are not of a nature that will compel her detention there longer than over night, for they consist of a laceration of the right leg and ankle. She will return home tomorrow. Smith was arrested on a technical charge of reckless driving. Mrs. Hart was on Main street, near Masonic street and started to cross from the west to the east side. She stepped from the curb and walking between two motionless automobiles, walked directly in front of the motorcycle. Smith did not have an opportunity to reduce the speed of the cycle before hitting Mrs. Smith, who was knocked down. She was placed in an automobile and taken to the hospital. Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy investigated the accident and arrested Robinson.

Harry Weinstein, 187 Shaw street, made complaint to the police last night that two boys had taken his automobile without his permission and requested that they be arrested. His request, however, was not granted. The boys went to the yard of the Weinstein home and drove the car away, telling Mrs. Weinstein that they had permission to do so. After they concluded their ride they drove the auto to the front of the Weinstein residence.

Mrs. Charles Lindholm, 33 Grand street, complained to the police this morning that an automobile carrying Connecticut registration, N-7383, had destroyed the hedge in front of her residence. Ten minutes later Merton Tiffany informed the police that his automobile had been stolen and it developed that it was Tiffany's car that had plunged through the hedge. Five minutes after Tiffany left police headquarters he telephoned the information that he had recovered his machine.

Mrs. Bernard Hendel, of 53 Prest street; Mrs. William Carberry, 118 Squire street; Mrs. Eugene Jones, 74 Thames street, Groton and Miss Jane McBride, 121 Lincoln avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Mortimer H. Cadwell, about 50, of New London, died last night at a sanitarium at Sunmount, N. Y., where he had been receiving treatment several months for tuberculosis. He was a Spanish war veteran and had had impaired health for several years, having been treated in several hospitals.

Samuel Shifreen, 88 Riverview avenue, proprietor of the Troy Laundry, Hempstead street, was arrested today by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy when the officer detected Shifreen driving an automobile equipped with defective brakes. He will be in the police court tomorrow.

Rose Katz has sold a house and lot on Crystal avenue to Nora C. Smith.

The registrars and deputy registrars of voters have filed complaint with City Manager Holt because of the practice, especially at the city election a week ago, of workers of candidates occupying space in the voting quarters, which is a violation of the statute referring to municipal elections. City Manager Holt anounced today that he would see to it that the laws were strictly enforced at the election to be held on the 26th inst.

The work of making alterations to and equipping the former Groton Iron Works plant, leased several months ago by the Atlantic Coast Fisheries corporation, are nearly completion. By Nov. 1st the plant will be in full operation and employing between 175 and 200 hands. All of the employes, so far as it is possible to do so, will be residents of New London and Groton.

The continued case of Elwood R. Foster, 245 Jefferson avenue, charged with evading responsibility was ended in the police court today when it was judged that Foster was not guilty, as charged. A nolle was entered. Foster was arrested several weeks ago when it was claimed that his auto struck a woman on Bank street and that the car was driven away without Foster stopping to ascertain the extent of the woman's supposed injuries. There were several witnesses in court to testify that the woman was not struck by the auto, but fell. The state had no evidence to warrant proceeding with the prosecution of Foster and the case was thrown out of court.

A Bank street motion picture house, which has been thronged mostly with children since it opened with a 10 cent admission, several days ago, brought about what had been expected, a disturbance tonight when a gang of boys made life miserable for the special officer on duty there, former Patrolman Timothy Sullivan. A telephone message was sent to police headquarters indicating that a riot was in progress and the speaker requested that three officers be rushed to the theater. Patrolmen William Riordan, Michael Dorsey, Walter O'Neill and Arthur Feeley were dispatched there and instead of finding a fight in progress they were confronted by the special officer, who had seven boys, the oldest 17, gathered in a corner and accused of performing a series of pranks and creating a disturbance. The special officer wanted the boys arrested and they were taken to police headquarters, but were not held. Their names and addresses were obtained and the boys turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

JAMES L. CASE, NORWICH, CHOICE OF Y. M. C. A. DELEGATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 16—Attorney Alfred Coit, president of the Union Bank and Trust company was unanimously elected president of the Young Men's Christian association at a meeting of the board of directors held at Chasanba lodge, Fort Hill, last night. Other officers elected were A. B. Lambdin, business manager of Connecticut college, vice president; John McCraw, recording secretary and C. F. Washburn, treasurer. The election of officers followed the regular business session of the board and the meeting was concluded with an address by George Goss, associate state secretary Y. M. C. A. New Haven.

For several years it has been the custom of the Y. M. C. A. board to hold a dinner-meeting following the annual meeting of the association. At this time the officers of the board who are also the officers of the association, are elected. Retiring President Albert C. Woodruff presided at the meeting last evening. Prayer was offered by Chaplain M. M. Leonard of the submarine base. Following the dinner, Mr. Woodruff introduced several guests and welcomed Prof. William B. Doyle as a new member of the board of directors. Prof. Doyle is a member of the faculty of Connecticut college and was elected to the Y. M. C. A. board at the annual meeting last July. The routine business of the meeting included the roll call and reading of the minutes of previous meeting by Recording Secretary John McCraw and the treasurer's report.

The report of General Secretary Clyde Williamson showed that the association had been active during the summer months. Reference was made in this report to the fourth industrial conference, which brought together over 125 industrial men of this area; the boys' camp, conducted for four weeks in July most successfully, and other active ties.

It was voted to leave the appointment of delegates to the electoral district convention in Hartford September 22 to the president and general secretary. It was pointed out that the district representative on the national council of the Y. M. C. A. is elected at this convention. The New London delegates will be instructed to vote for James L. Case of Norwich.

It was also mentioned that the town and country branch was entitled to five additional voting delegates, and announced that they planned to have their five present.

In nominating Alfred Coit for president, A. B. Lambdin referred to him as eminently fitted for the position.

Following the election, George Goss, associate state secretary spoke on "The Trail Ahead."

Others present at the meeting were Alton T. Miner, Edwin Cruise, Chas. E. White, George Whittlesy, F. S. Hitchcock, member of the Y. M. C. A. state committee, Dr. L. M. Allyn, of Mystic, member board of managers of town and country branch, J. A. Dalton, A. B. Dawson, H. W. Hicks, Harry Rafferty and Clyde Williamson.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the drivers licenses of Tony Cristino, 66 Jefferson avenue and Thomas Cassara, 194 Hempstead street. The licenses were suspended three weeks ago.

Mrs. Morey, 20 Starr street, went to police headquarters tonight and requested aid in finding Irvin Vallee, 15, who has resided with Mrs. Morey thirteen years and who ran away from home yesterday. The boy left to go to his studies at Saltonstall school and that was the last seen of him for he did not return home at night. Mrs. Morey had received information from companions of the boy that he and a friend were going to Florida. A half hour after Mrs. Morey left police headquarters the boy returned to his home voluntarily.

Former Councilor Waldo E. Clark, who is spending the summer and fall in Waterford, was the only violator of the city's parking ordinances today. Mr. Clark parked his car in restricted area near the post office and was arrested by Patrolman John Sullivan. He gave a bond of $2 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow.

This afternoon three imbibers of strong drink were arrested and will be in the police court tomorrow. One drunk was arrested on Montauk avenue by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman George Laboue. Another was arrested by Sergeant Cavanaugh and Patrolman Laboue upon complaint of his wife and the third was arrested by Patrolmen Laboue and Harry Watterson. He was found on Main street, corner of Douglass street and had lacerations which were dressed by City Physician George P. Cheney. How the man sustained the injury is not known.

Peter McLean, 24 Stanners street, made complaint to the police this afternoon that his son's bicycle was stolen earlier in the day, while the boy was at his studies at Nathan Hale grammar school.

Bids were received at the office of City Purchasing Agent John W. Sheedy today for painting the interior and exterior of the municipal building. There were 15 bidders, the lowest, M. J. Sabagh, $1,462. An alternate bid was received from the New London Wall Paper & Paint company for $1,350 if the work is deferred until after December 15. An award was not made, but probably will be when City Manager Holt makes a recommendation to the council at its meeting Monday night next.

Frank Feeley, 45, former resident of Waterford, died yesterday at his home in Hardwick, Vt., after a brief illness with influenza. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Margaret and a son, Albert; his brother, Patrick Feeley, of Waterford; three sisters, Misses Elizabeth and Nellie Feeley, of this city and Miss Sadie Feeley, of Hardwick. Mr. Feeley leaves several nephews and nieces, among the former being Patrolman Arthur Feeley. Mr. Feeley was born in Waterford and was a stonecutter. He was employed at Booth Brothers Hurricane Island Granite works several years. Of late years he has been proprietor of a granite business in Hardwick.

FRENCH DRINK LESS SINCE WINE IS COSTLY

PARIS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Greedy winegrowers seem to be the most effective temperance workers in France.

Statistics show that high prices have markedly reduced wine drinking. Ordinary wine has doubled in price in a year and consumption now is less than two-thirds what is was a year ago.

Wine dealers recognize quite frankly that many persons who drank wine have changed to water as a matter of economy. Many others water their wine.

France consumes about 40 gallons a year for every person, babies included.

MARKET WAS STRONG.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Violent advances in the high priced industrials continued to monopolize speculative interest in today's irregular stock market. General Motors issues again contributed about one-fifth of the day's total sales of more than 2,500,000 shares the old stock advancing more than 5 points to 274 and the new stock climbing 3 1-2 to 137, both record highs. Final quotations elsewhere disclosed a rather long list of 3 to 13 point gains, interspersed with a number of 1 to 5 point declines.

The day's business news had a bearish tinge. Some selling came into the market as a result of the increase of nearly $12,000,000 in brokers' loans, bringing the federal reserve total to the record-breaking figure of nearly 3 1-2 billion dollars, but this was offset by the general ease of the money market and the plentiful supply of call funds available at 3 1-2 per cent. Directors of the Barnsdall corporation decided to pay stock instead of cash dividends, and payment of the quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on Southern Baking preferred was deferred.

The weekly mercantile reviews, while reporting further irregularities in business, noted an upturn in wholesale trade and industrial activity. The cotton market was still unsettled as a result of the publication of the bureau of agricultural economics statement on price trends, final quotations being unchanged to $1.25 a bale lower. Wheat futures advanced about a cent a bushel but the other commodity markets showed little change.

Heavy bidding for sterling cables in the late afternoon carried the rate on London to a new high for the year at $4.86 1-2, or within 1-8 of a cent of parity.

The fact that General Motors issues changed hands frequently in blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares lent color to the belief that buying probably was one for the account of Fisher, DuPont and other interests allied with the motors corporation. The market generally disclosed frequent shifts of speculative sentiment.

International Silver, directors of which recently decided to retire the debentures of the company, soared 13 points to 184 5-8, or nearly 50 points above the year's low. British activities also were quite pronounced in American Type Founders, Calumet & Arizona, Commercial Solvents, Consolidated Gas, Diamond Match, DuPont, Gimbel Bros., Green Cananea Copper, Montgomery-Ward, National Biscuit, and Texas Gulf Sulphur, all of which touched new 1927 peak prices.

Philip Morris sank to a new low for the year, and marked heaviness also was shown by Porto Rican Tobacco, Union Bag & Paper, White Motors, the Pacific coast issues and Baldwin.

Trading in the rails was enlivened by a sudden outburst of activity and strength of rumors that the New Haven was going to dispose of its holdings in that stock to the New York Central. Other rails fluctuated within rather narrow limits.

There was no change in money rates.

Renewed heaviness of Japanese yen, which were again quoted below 47 cents, and a jump of 7 1-2 points in Spanish pesetas to just below 17 cents shared interest in the foreign exchange market with the strength of sterling.

TAFTVILLE

Carpenters employed by the Poneman company, while shingling the house at 4 Providence street occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Fournier Friday morning came upon a swarm of bees which had been making their home under the shingles on the roof. As the shingles were ripped off, the bees rose to the attack and drove the men from the roof. After a consultation it was decided to send to Norwich Town for Allen B. Latham, the honey be expert. When Mr. Latham arrived he removed about 10 pounds of honey in the comb and succeeded in capturing the bees. He estimated that there were about 30,000 bees in the swarm. Crowds watched Mr. Latham while he worked on the roof removing the honey and taking the bees.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sharples of North Second avenue have left town in their car for a motor trip to New Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Airey and children, Albert, Jr., Herbert, Phyllis and Elsie, of North Second avenue are leaving in their car to spend the coming week in the Province of Quebec.

A letter for Armand Brule, unknown to the postmaster is being held at the local post office.

When Mr. and Mrs. Esdras Caron of upper Merchants avenue returned from a Canadian trip this week they covered 1,893 miles in their car with no trouble of any kind. Among the places visited were Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke and St. Ann de Beaupre.

Miss Nellie Butterworth of North A street has resigned her position with the cloth department of the local mills and has accompanied her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Hartley who have moved out of town.

Raymond Yerrington of South Second avenue, who was graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in June, is to enter the Y. M. C. A. college at Springfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Young and Miss Gertrude M. Young of North Third avenue have returned from a stay of several days at Chatham, Cape Cod, Mass.

The pastors' conference of this year at Hartford under the auspices of the Hartford Seminary Foundation was led by Dr. Rufus M. Jones of Haverford, Pa., a world authority on the problems of the inner life. Among the Norwich ministers present were noted Rev. C. H. Ricketts, Rev. J. Harlow Graham, Rev. E. C. Dunbar, Rev. Dr. D. A. Pitt and Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis. Rev. Mr. Crowdis is a graduate of Hartford Theological seminary.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Alice Frasier, of Mt. Sinai hospital, Hartford, is visiting at the home of her sister on Church street.

Danny Haigh has returned to New York after spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Haigh on Curtis avenue.

Miss Matilda McCulloch is visiting Salem, Ohio, friends.

Attilo Tonon of Boston was a recent visitor at the home of his mother Mrs. Catherine Tonon.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Reed have returned to their home on Highland terrace, after spending the summer in Westford.

Miss Mary Howard is visiting relatives in Highgate Center, Vt.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE ON ROAD NEAR LEFFINGWELL SCHOOL

Knocked down by a Ford coupe driven by E. Tyler Rogers near the parsonage of the Leffingwell Baptist church, on the Gardiner Lake road about 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, Violet Isabel Lewis, 6, daughter of Mrs. Violet Lewis Duca, died shortly afterwards. She received a fracture at the base of the skull. Mr. Rogers who resides at No. 56 Pratt street, this city, was accompanied by Frank T. Maples, secretary of the New London County Agricultural society. They were on their way to Salem on business connected with the agricultural society.

The Lewis child with four other girls were walking towards a nearby store evidently for the purpose of buying some candy before the afternoon school session. Three of the little girls were walking on the right hand side of the road. Mr. Rogers stated that he saw the children several hundred feet ahead of him and kept sounding his horn. He was traveling at not more than 20 miles an hour. Mr. Maples stated that he and Mr. Rogers were not conversing and kept looking up the road.

Mr. Rogers stated that the Lewis girl stepped out into the highway to cross the road in front of him. She stepped back and then suddenly darted out again. When Mr. Rogers saw the little girl step back he swung to the left in order to clear the children and as he did so the Lewis girl stepped in front of the machine and was hit by the right mudguard.

Mr. Rogers stated that he stopped his coupe about 50 feet from where the machine hit the child. He could have stopped the car quicker he said, but was nervous after the mishap. He picked the child up. She was bleeding profusely and died several minutes later.

Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner, and Coroner J. J. Desmond conducted investigations of the accident and Undertakers Church and Allen were given permission to remove the body to their rooms. The child's mother, notified of the accident, went to the scene and became hysterical requiring medical attention from Dr. Gildersleeve. The child's father is dead. She is survived by her mother and stepfather. The family reside at what is known as the Browning place, about a half mile from the scene of the accident. Mr. Rogers was not held. Coroner Desmond will further investigate the accident before rendering his finding.

COMPLETES SWIMMING SEASON AT MOHEGAN PARK LAKE

William J. Browne of Cliff Place, a graduate of Rochester university, has completed his second summer as life guard and swimming instructor and supervisor at the lake in Mohegan park.

While there has been considerable rainy weather this summer yet an unusually large number, both male and female, have enjoyed the swimming priveleges and no accidents have occurred. Mr. Browne has taught some to swim but found that nearly all who came to the swimming place had already learned to swim.

For several seasons the board of park commissioners have provided the services of a life guard and swimming supervisor as they have wished to have as large a number as possible enjoy the privileges of the park under safe conditions.

DIVISIONS ARE SECURING ENLISTMENT OF CAPTAINS

Two divisions are now 100 per cent on captains, according to latest reports from chamber of commerce headquarters for the budget plan and sustaining fund. They are: Admiral H. B. Carey of the sea fleet who has secured the following: Captains J. J. O'Rourke, Earl Taggart, Edwin Hill, Colonel E. O. Rodier of the air squadron; Captains H. D. Johnson, F. R. Smith, L. M. Crandall, Major Harris of the land regiment division, Captain H. E. Robbins.

This makes a total of seven out of nine signed up.

The organization meeting of team heads will be held at the Wauregan hotel, Monday noon at 12.15. All captains, lieutenants, commodores and division heads should be present at this meeting as the names of the prospective workers will be drawn.

RELEASED AFTER SERVING TEN DAYS OF SENTENCE

Having served ten days of a six months jail sentence as a second offender for driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor, Joseph P. Gadie, Jr., of Hickory street, was released from the county jail in this city Friday morning. He was sentenced September 7th by Judge John R. Booth in the superior court in session in this city.

Gadie's release was directed by a court order signed by Judge Booth and approved by State Attorney Arthur M. Brown.

WILL BE IN CHARGE OF SALVATION ARMY MEETING

Major and Mrs. La Cocq of New London are to be in charge of the Salvation Army meeting Sunday evening at 8 o'lock at the citadel on Cliff street, making an unusual event for the Salvation Army workers and attendants in this city.

They have been heard in Norwich meetings before and have had a varied experience in the Army work, having been pioneers during the gold rush in Alaska and missionaries in the West Indies.

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR THE ONE DAY CONGRESS

Abner Schwartz, chairman of the one day congress committee, called a meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms at 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon and appointed several committees. It was stated that high grade talent from all over the country had already consented to be on hand on Monday, Sept. 26.

The first item on the program was the matter of the sales breakfast, for the salespeople of the community at the Wauregan hotel at 7.45 a. m. J. B. Caron is in charge of this important meeting. Frank Stockdale will address the meeting on "How to build sales and grow with your store."

The round table conference in charge of Ernest L. Latimer will be held at 11 o'clock with Edwin S Niles of Springfield addressing them on "Retail Credit Bureau Activities."

The merchants' luncheon in charge of Abner Schwartz, Herbert B. Cary, John M. Lee, N. Eugene Smith and Alexander Sharp will hold their meeting at 12.15. Everyone is looking forward with great expectation to Frank Stockdale's talk on "Today's competition and how to meet it." Mr. Stockdale is a high grade man and one who will hold the interest and attention of everyone present.

At three o'clock an open forum is planned, the responsibility for this part of the program is in charge of Walter E. Pilcher, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

At four o'clock the associated women's clubs and organizations of the community will meet at the Wauregan hotel to hear a talk by Edwin S. Niles, general manager of the Springfield Shopping News, on Retail Shopping Conditions. Earl Taggart and Max Hanover are in charge of this meeting.

At this same hour, four o'clock the young men of the community will meet at the Y. M. C. A. to hear the national secretary of chambers of commerce talk on matters of interest to them, Arthur L. Peale, assisted by Emery H. Davis, Fred E. Bielefield, Jr., Earl Brigham and Louis M. Crandall are in charge of this program.

The chamber dinner in the evening at 6.30 at the Wauregan hotel will be addressed by Campbell Scott, president of the Technical Advisory Corporation of New York on "The development of trade and industry." He is a very prominent man in America today and recently addressed the national convention of the state chamber in Hartford. He talks on a subject which should be of interest to every man and woman in Norwich who has ever thought of getting more factories for industrial expansion. Dr. Hugh B. Campbell assisted by W. H. Cruickshank, C. J. Twist, N. J. Ayling and H. S. Lyon are in charge of this meeting.

After some discussion of the matter on placing the posters for the one day congress, Max Hanover agreed to do this work assisted by the Boy Scouts.

As one of the members left the meeting he seemed to voice the sentiment of most of those present, that the amount of enthusiasm being generated at the present time exceeded that noticed on any similar occasion. Everyone seemed determined to have a bigger and better chamber than before.

EAST LYME BAPTIST CHURCH 175 YEARS OLD

As the concluding part of the annual meeting of the New London Baptist association, which was held Wednesday at the East Lyme Baptist church, the 175th anniversary of this church was observed.

The evening program was given over to the ending of a four weeks celebration of the 175th anniversary of this church. This celebration began Saturday evening, Aug. 20, the date of its founding by Elder Ebenezer Mack in 1752, with a roll-call and consecration service followed by a sunrise meeting, near the spot where the old church stood on Sunday morning at 7 a. m. under the leadership of the Rev. S. Duane Ogden of Waterford, who has been acting as supply pastor. Mr. Ogden was assisted by Rev. A. E. Darby of Niantic. The Rev. Mr. Ogden has given a series of historical sermons at each Sunday since. The association gave over the entire evening to the program which was arranged by Mrs. Benjamin F. Bump, clerk of the church. A sunset service at 6:30 p. m., led by Henry W. Mack of Monterey, Cal., a direct descendant of the first pastor, who was present for this event, was followed by a praise service at 7 p. m. in charge of the Rev. Chester H. Howe. Mr. Mack had the first historical sketch which was on the genealogy of the Mack family written by the father of Mr. Mack, who is a lawyer and U. S. Commissioner of Monterey, Cal. The second sketch was on the spiritual life of the church under the leadership of Elder Jason Lee, second pastor, 1774 to 1810, a 36 years pastorate, and the Rev. Charles M. Reed of later date a pastorate of 18 years, read by Mrs. Edwin R. Garlick, Flanders, and prepared by Miss Celeste E. Bush of Niantic. The third sketch was on the work of the third pastor, Elder Asa Wilcox, and gave a history of the admonishings of the church members of that date, 1810 to 1818. This sketch was linked with that of his grandson, the Rev. Asa J. Wilcox, who was pastor on two different occasions, and was delivered by his grandson, Frederick Hyde of Waterford, a student of Bulkeley school. After an anthem by the choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Clarence T. Wilcox, a splendid historical address was given by the Rev. E. E. Gates, general secretary of the Baptist convention of Hartford.

The covenant of 175 years ago, which had been printed and given out as a souvenir of the occasion was then read in unison. The Lord's supper followed when the old pewter plates of the old church on Meeting House Hill were used. The Rev. Chester H. Howe administered communion, assisted by Deacons Fred A. Beckwith of the Niantic Baptist church; William A. Ames of the Huntington Street Baptist; Wilfred Scott and Frederic Martin of the local church. Mr. Martin served in place of Deacon Benjamin Bump who was unable to be present.

At the New London association meeting Richard W. Mansfield of New London was elected moderator to serve as such during the coming year and at the next annual meeting of the association.

Other officers elected were as follows:

Vice moderator—Rev. H. B. Hutchins, Quaker Hill.

Secretary and Treasurer — Mrs. Charles L. Mosier, Waterford.

The Niantic Baptist church was selected as the place where next year's meeting will be held.

At the same time officers were elected the following committees were appointed: Program—Rev. R. W. Ferguson, New London; Rev. A. E. Darby, Miss Alice M. Dean, Norwich. Resolutions—Rev. Chester H. Howe, New London; F. F. Richards, New London; Mrs. Maude Wheeler, Norwich. Ordinations—(for three years) Rev. J. F. Speerli, Edwin Garlick, Rev. E. L. Nield; (for two years) Rev. D. A. Pitt, D. D.; Rev. E. C. Dunbar, Norwich; Rev. George W. Borde, Leffingwell; (for one year) Rev. Chester H. Howe, New London; Rev. A. G. Littlefield, Rev. H. B. Hutchins. Obituaries—Rev. H. B. Hutchins, Rev. A. G. Littlefield, Rev. E. E. Knapp, Waterford. Nominations—Rev. D. A. Pitt, Norwich; F. A. Beckwith, Niantic; Mrs. F. M. Green, New London. Enrollment—Rev. George W. Borden, Leffingwell; Rev. A. F. Wagner, New London; Miss Ruth Sellew, New London. Social Service and Anti Saloon League—F. F. Richards, Herbert Rogers, Montville; Herbert L. Avery, New London.

The annual meeting was largely attended. In fact, so great was the attendance that the women of the entertaining church were unable to serve all persons at one time during the meal times between the sessions.

PREPARING TO ESTABLISH ALLYN MUSEUM, PARK

Further steps toward consummation of plans outlined in the will of Harriet U. Allyn, late of New London, for the creation of a museum of natural history and public park in memory of her father, Lyman Allyn, were noted this week in the transfer of title of the Harriet U. Allyn homestead and adjacent tract to the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, trustees under the will of Mrs. Allyn. The deeds recorded at the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran, of New London, indicate that the trustees acquired title to the old homestead, subject to reservation of a life use of it by Lucretia Latimer Allyn, sister of the testatrix, and to whom it was devised by Harriet U. Allyn.

Some months ago the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company began negotiations with Connecticut college for a tract of land north of the homestead, upon which the museum buildings will undoubtedly be located. At that time it was necessary to go to the superior court at Hartford and obtain authority to purchase the property in order to carry out the wishes of Mrs. Allyn. It developed that after drafting the will creating the trust and specifying the land upon which the museum was to be located, Mrs. Allyn had subsequently sold that tract to Connecticut college. The trustees were therefore unable to carry out her wishes unless that, or other suitable land could be purchased.

A survey of the situation disclosed that the land specified by the testatrix would be less suitable for the proposed museum than the tract immediately north of the Allyn homestead, also owned by the college, so negotiations were begun for acquirement of the latter tract. While no definite announcement has been made, it is understood to be the belief of the trustees that the museum should be located on the tract referred to and arrangements for its acquirement have been practically completed.

The tracts acquired by the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company included a small 60-foot lot sold on Feb. 9, 1927, by Mrs. Lucretia L. Allyn to George H. Bailey of Groton, the deed for which had never been recorded. It was purchased from him by the trustees and a warranty deed was executed by Mr. Bailey.

The other tract, including the land between Mohegan avenue and Williams street, and extending northward to the Connecticut college property, with the Allyn homestead and other buildings thereon, was acquired subject to reservation of a life use of it by Mrs. Lucretia L. Allyn, who had acquired it by executory devise from Harriet U. Allyn.

The deed passing title in addition to reserving a life use of it, specifies that it shall "forever be used for charitable purposes and uses as specified in clause 21 of the will of Harriet U. Allyn."

NORWICH TOWN

Under the general supervision of the president Mrs. William Weaver, Dorcas Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church, held its second successful food sale for this season, Friday afternoon from two to five, on Huntington Green, opposite the church grounds. Everything was sold out, netting the society over $20. The assortment of home cooked food comprised biscuits, buns, cookies, bread, cakes and pies. A new feature introduced at this time, was the sale of clam chowder by the quart, which had such ready patronage, that it was disposed of right at the home of Mrs. Weaver, by whom it was made. Her assistants were Mrs. George Manning, treasurer of the society, Mrs. Albert Miner, vice president, Mrs. Wellington Miner and Mrs. Arthur Fulton.

Miss Margaret Mahoney is returning from Old Lyme, to pass the week end at her home on Scotland road, having completed the first two weeks of the fall term at Old Lyme school where she has been engaged as teacher. Miss Mahoney who is a graduate of Norwich Free Aademy, was graduated from Willimantic normal school in the 1927 class. This is her first appointment. During the week she resides at Old Lyme inn, returning each week end to her home in Norwich Town.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb are in receipt of cards from Dr. Lamb's Mystic relatives who are on an automobile trip to Atlantic City, Washington, D. C., Alexandria, Va., and Gettysburg, Penn. The party is returning to Connecticut this week end.

TWO SPECIAL SERVICES AT CENTRAL BAPTIST

At the Central Baptist church on Sunday morning a consecration service similar to the one used at the Northfield conference on religious education will be employed. This includes not only the teachers but also the parents and church members. It embraces not only the work of the church school and the church but the community, our country and the whole world. The service will be led by the pastor, Dr. Pitt. The theme of the morning will be "The Christian Goal and the Christian Allies."

In the evening a farewell service for those of the young people from the church who will be attending school or college this year will be held, a number of the church young people participating in the service. Those who will be away include; Bernice Church, Brown university; Charles Hagberg, C. A. C.; Edna Holmberg, Backus hospital; Elizabeth McCord, Willimantic normal; Clara Palmer, Wellesley; Ralph Parker, Pratt institute; Courtnay Pitt, Princeton university; Charles Raymond, Dartmouth; Constance Raymond, Mt. Holyoke; Sarah Schelin, Bellevue hospital, N. Y.; Dorothy Spencer, Smith; Robert Storms, Trinity; Russell Storms, Amherst; and William Storms, Harvard medical. Those entering the Academy will also be honored; Ethel Brown, Lawrence Clegg, Eldred Coles, Henry Fenton, Norman Geer, Edna Hastings, Wilbert Perkins, Doris Racine, Lloyd Russell and Earl Swan.

EVENING OF WHIST BY ST. JAMES' GUILD

The Woman's Guild of St. James' church, Poquetanuck, gave a whist at the home of Miss Olive McKelvy Thursday evening. Three tables of bridge and five of whist were played, the prizes for whist being won by Mrs. George Murphy and Mrs. Rose Whitmarsh and bridge by Mrs. Fred Nicolai, and Mrs. William Mitchell.

Refreshments were served during the evening and were in charge of Mrs. Alanson Fuller, Mrs. Mary Harris, Mrs. Henry Sauer and Mrs. Bert Williams. The cards and prizes were in charge of Mrs. C. V. Weeks, Mrs. Charles Harkness and Mrs. Lillian Lucas.

Try-outs for International Rifle Team

Try-outs for the international rifle team, to compete in 1928, will be held under the auspices of the National Rifle association at selected army posts throughout the country during the month of October.

For the First Corps area, which comprises the New England states, the tryouts will be held at Fort Adams, Newport, R. I., the week of October 17 and not at Camp Devens, Mass., as previously announced. Competitors should not arrive at Fort Adams prior to October 16th.

DEMAND FOR ARTIFICIAL SILK EXCEEDS SUPPLY

Heavy Fall Business and Good Profits Are Believed in Store For the Makers and Dealers in Rayon Fabrics—Agricultural Lines and Retail Trade Has Been Hampered by Unseasonable Weather Conditions—Business Toward the Autumn Peak Was Continued Last Week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP) — The gradual acceleration of American business toward the autumn peak was continued last week, with fewer evidences of irregularity. Spottiness, however, was not entirely absent, particularly in agricultural lines and retail trade, which were affected by unseasonable weather conditions.

The steel trade failed to make any remarkable strides during the week, but the expectation of a sharp turn for the better within a short time continued to manifest itself. Prospects of larger buying by railroads and makers of agricultural implements gave strength to hope that the industry would move forward much more briskly a little later in the fall.

The trend of car loadings continued upward, a new record for the year being established in the first week of September. The figure, however, fell below the corresponding week of last year for the seventeenth consecutive week. Total loadings for the first eight months are considerably under shipments for the same period of 1926, and little hope is held out that quickening business in the remaining weeks will be heavy enough to close the gap.

The petroleum trade was relatively quiet. The Seminole field is less frequently cited as a menace to the trade, and the potential hazard in west Texas appears to have been brought under control before it actually became a serious problem. Prices remained practically the same as the week before.

The automotive business likewise followed an even trend, although slight decrease in the Detroit employment figures indicated a small falling off in operations. That the figure is far below that of last year is largely attributable to the idleness in the Ford plants, which are being made ready for the manufacture of the new model. The motor interest continued to believe that demand for cars would pick up materially after the uncertainty surrounding new models forthcoming had been eliminated.

Rayon continued to be the strong factor in the textile industry. A recent survey of the field indicated that the demand for artificial silk is running well ahead of the supply, with the inevitable result that heavy fall business and good profits are believed in store for the makers of and dealers in rayon fabrics. Cotton cloths, finished and unfinished were rather quiet during the week, with prices holding steady, but a more spirited inquiry for woolens and worsteds was reported.

In the crops division, cotton was very unsteady, affected largely by conditions only indirectly related to the yield. A government report intimating a lower price trend caused a sharp break in several of the prominent cotton markets, despite the fact that cotton consumption promises to be very large and the yield below normal.

Corn and winter wheat harvests have been estimated by the government reports slightly more than previously expected. Wheat prices, however, sagged in consequence of expectations of a large yield in Canada. Hot weather in the middle western wheat and corn belts was reported as extremely beneficial to the growing grains.

Bank clearings again showed a material gain over both preceding weeks and the corresponding period of last year. Credit conditions were little changed, despite temporary stiffening around the middle of the week, due to the payment of income taxes and the consequent momentary demand for funds.

TO ENDEAVOR DETERMINE PARENTAGE OF BABY GIRL

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Scientific and legal talent will join forces here tomorrow in an effort to determine the parentage of a baby girl born in the Fairview Park hospital three weeks ago.

The attending nurse reported to Mrs. Sam Smith, shortly after her baby came less than a month ago, that her child was an eight-pound boy, but a few days later when an infant was placed in her hands by hospital officials she discovered that she had been given a girl.

The woman was dissatisfied and her husband entered the case in court with a demand that the hospital deliver to his wife the male infant which its official had told her was her own.

Investigation on the part of officials brought out the fact that there had been three Smith babies born at the hospital on the same day. Two were boys and one was a girl. In tagging the babies the nurse, she told officials, may have confused the babies, although she cannot remember what the sex of this particular Smith child was.

Leading surgeons tomorrow will confer with legal talent here on the advisability of making blood tests to identify the parentage of the child, a girl, which Mrs. Smith continues to nurse at the hospital although she declares that the child is not her own.

Doctors and judges will also visit the mother and study the facial likenesses of the woman and the child.

"Of course I love this baby," said Mrs. Smith yesterday, "but how can I ever be happy when there will always be that doubt that the child is really my own? My other children have been large and healthy while this one is very small."

Mrs. Smith has five children, three girls, a boy and the baby which was born to her three weeks ago.

TO DRAFT UNIFORM LAW TO PENALIZE THE "FENCE"

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—To reduce criminal activities, the "fence" or receiver of stolen goods must be abolished, Richard Washburn Child, chairman of the National Crime commission, said today.

With this idea in mind, the commission will submit to a general conference to be held in Washington the last week in October, a uniform law, to be presented to the legislatures of all states, which is designed to place a heavy penalty upon receivers of stolen goods.

Maxwell S. Mattuck, general counsel of the national association of credit men, a member of the commission, placed the actual loss to the country through the activities of the "fence" at five hundred million dollars.

GERMANY NOW WARY ABOUT FOREIGN LOANS

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—It is being asked in responsible financial quarters whether the time has not arrived to put the brake on Germany's borrowing abroad before the New York market evinces signs of satiety. Apprehension is voiced lest continuance of borrowing may in its effect so stimulate German buying propensities as to react unfavorably upon the reich's trade balance, and consequently upon reparation payments through the growing excess of imports over exports.

It is realized that the fluidity of money has a dangerous side and the general feeling among financiers is that it would be better to wait and see how the Dillon, Read loan to the Deutsche bank fares under the novel conditions the loan imposes.

SHOOTING FOLLOWED A DRINKING PARTY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18—(AP)—H. C. Mitchell, real estate man of Inglewood, a suburb, was in a critical condition in a hospital there today with three bullet wounds in the breast. Officers this afternoon took into custody for questioning two men who attended an early morning drinking party which ended with the shooting.

CROSS COUNTRY AIR DERBY WILL START THIS MORNING

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 18—(AP)—The largest assembly of airplanes in two years was concentrated here today in preparation for the start early tomorrow of the first of three cross-country races to Felts field, at Spokane, Wash., in connection with national air races there.

Prizes totaling $43,000 will be awarded the winners of the three races, in which pilots from all sections of the country are ready to compete, light and heavy commercial planes are to be flown.

The arrival of three more contestants overnight brought the total number of derby planes up to 42. Aviation officials said this was the largest number of planes grouped here since national air races at Mitchel Feld, N. Y., in 1925.

The latest arrivals were S. Dacius, of Chicago; M. H. McMechan, of Yakima, Wash., both of whom are entered in class B, for planes capable of carrying passenger as well as the pilot, and L. T. Royal, of Flint, Mich., class A, for planes capable of carrying two passengers and pilot.

TRAINED MEN WILL MAKE FARMING PROFITABIE

STORRS, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Farming, the first and still basic industry of mankind, offers a future for the intelligent, technically trained young men commensurate with the opportunities in other fields, said President Charles Lewis Beach, of Connecticut Agricultural college prior to the opening of the 47the academic year at the college.

"The successful farmers of the future will, in increasing numbers, be recruited from the ranks of college trained men," continued President Beach. "Boys who have an inherent love of the soil may be assured that in successful farming they will find the returns on invested brains and capital as certain and as full as if applied to other industries."

TO ESTABLISH AERIAL MAIL IN CENTRAL AMERICA

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Captains J. M. Clarke and Lieut. Roy Hall, southern California commercial aviators, today announced they would leave here within a few days for Central America, where they have contracted to establish an aerial mail, freight and passenger line between San Salvador, Salvador and the city of Gautemala, Guatemala.

The airmen will fly the first two airplanes to be placed in service to New Orleans and the craft will be shipped from there to Central America by steamer.

MRS. LILLIENDAHL TO BE HELD IN "SUBSTANTIAL BAIL"

HAMONTON, N. J., Sept. 18.—(AP)—(AP)—Prosecutor Louis Repetto of Atlantic county, announced today that Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl would be held in "substantial bail" as a material witness tomorrow in the slaying of her 65-year old husband, Dr. A. William Lilliendahl last Thursday.

Mr. Repetto said that the amount of bail which he would ask for would be determined after he conferred with his associates tonight or tomorrow morning.

AVIATOR KOENNECKE HAS POSTPONED HIS HOP-OFF

COLOGNE, Germany, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Because he believed weather conditions unfavorable for a heavily loaded plane, Otto Koennecke today postponed his hop-off for his proposed distance flight eastward.

The plane, Germania, was stocked with fuel and provisions for the venture and a large crowd had assembled at the airdrome. After consulting with his backers Koennecke announced that the start would be postponed and that he would take off tomorrow if the weather is favorable.

N. H. Road to Issue $49,036,700 Stock

A New Underwriting Agreement Has Been Concluded With J. P. Morgan & Co.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—(AP)—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad has concluded a new underwriting agreement with J. P. Morgan and Company and will proceed with the proposed issue of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock intended to be used in refunding the road's debts to the federal government, it was announced today.

The previous agreement with the Morgan interests, calling for payment of about $1,000,000 as fees for underwriting the $49,036,700 issue, was disapproved last Tuesday by the interstate commerce commission, which otherwise commended the proposal. The commission directed that the securities be sold direct to present stockholders.

Under the new plan, each stockholder of record August 29, 1927, may subscribe at par for one share of preferred stock for every four shares of common stock held, and holders of the company's 6 per cent convertible debentures may subscribe similarly, but in the proportion of one share of preferred stock for each $400 face value of debenture. Subscription rights expire October 31, 1927.

The road seeks through the issue to discharge its indebtedness to the federal government resulting from wartime loans. One note for $43,000,000 is held by the secretary of the treasury, who has been negotiating its sale, but for the benefit of the road consented to hold it until October 15. The road plans to take up this note before that date with the proceeds from the sale of the new issue, and to use the balance to discharge other obligations to the government.

President E. J. Pearson, in announcing plans for the issue to stockholders and holders of the 6 per cent convertible debentures, said:

"The company is now in a position to proceed with its proposed issue of 7 per cent preferred stock which was voted by the stockholders on August 17 last. The interstate commerce commission in its decision and order dated September 9, 1927, has authorized this issue, and its validity has been approved by counsel.

"The commission did not approve the underwriting agreement which you authorized, and which was recommended by the board of directors to insure the success of the issue. The company has concluded a new underwriting agreement with J. P. Morgan and Company, which, in the judgment of officers of the company, will result in the successful subscription of the entire amount of the issue."

SIX PERSONS INJURED ON MERIDEN-MIDDLETOWN PIKE

MERIDEN, Sept. 18—(AP)—Six persons were injured, one critically, in a head-on automobile accident on the Meriden-Middletown highway here at 12:15 o'clock this morning.

The injured, five of whom are at the Meriden hospital, are: Leo Renkiewicz, 25, of 102 Willow street, Meriden, fractured skull and lacerations of the head and face; Mr. and Mrs. George LePoint, 94 Lenox avenue, East Orange, both fractured clavicles and lacerations of the face; L. T. Herring, 94 Lenox avenue, East Orange, minor bruises; Mrs. L. T. Herring, severe shock; and Robert Baldwin, 21, of Reservoir avenue, Meriden, lacerations of the face.

The police stated today that charges of reckless driving would be preferred against Baldwin, one of the drivers, after he is discharged from the hospital. LePoint was the driver of the other car.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR GREENWICH

GREENWICH, Sept. 18—(AP)—One man was dead, one seriously injured, and two were being held by police following two accidents early today just over the state line in New York.

Lester Greenwood, 25, of Woodland avenue, Larchmont, was fatally injured when his automobile crashe dinto a parked truck shortly after midnight. Flying glass, from the windshield severed his jugular vein, and he died about two hours later. The operator of the truck, Joseph Taylor, of North Tarrytown, N. Y., was held by the police pending an inquest.

An unidentified man was struck on North Main street, Portchester, by an automobile operated by Rodney Farson, 17, and up to tonight had not regained consciousness at United hospital, Portchester. Farson was held pending the outcome of the man's injuries. This accident also took place shortly after midnight.

WOMAN DIED FROM SHOCK FOLLOWING AN ACCIDENT

MILFORD, Sept. 18—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Irene French, 58, died early today from shock following an accident in which she was struck by the motorcycle on which Officer Arthur Harris was pursuing a drunken driver. The officer was still confined to his bed today as a result of the fall he received.

An investigation by local police disclosed that as Officer was going about about 40 miles an hour in pursuit of his quarry, Mrs. French stepped into the street near her home in Devon, hesitated, and becoming confused by another automobile stepped into the path of the motorcycle. She sustained fractures of the arm and leg.

FLY CAUSE OF FATAL AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

BEUTHEN, Germany, Sept. 18—(AP)—A singular parallel of the accident which caused the death of Isadora Duncan, befell Burgomaster Ellendt of Ratibor today while motoring home from a political meeting at Neustadt. The chauffeur lost control of the steering wheel when a small fly got into his eye and the automobile was ditched.

Burgomaster Ellendt was thrown out and in some manner his long gold chain became tightly twisted around his neck and strangled him to death. The chauffeur was only slightly hurt.

DIED IN TAXI AS IT DREW UP TO CHURCH

GREENFIELD, Mass., Sept. 18—(AP)—George W. Thacher, retired banker, died this morning in a taxicab just as it drew up in front of All Souls' Unitarian church, where he and Mrs. Thacher were to attend services. The couple observed their golden wedding anniversary last October.

Airman Missing With Lion As Passenger

Martin Jensen Took Off From San Diego Last Friday For New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Martin Jensen, pilot of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer airplane which took off from San Diego, Calif., Friday for New York with a lion as a passenger, was still unheard from late today. The plane was scheduled to arrive yesterday before noon.

At the New York offices of the motion picture producers it was said that no word had been received from Jensen and that the company was without advices regarding his whereabouts.

PLANES OUT SEARCHING FOR THE MISSING FLIER

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18—(AP)—Martin Jensen's monoplane, carrying Leo, a lion owned by a motion picture concern, in a steel cage, was seen last on its San Diego-New York flight at Dixieland, Cal., at 11:20 a. m., Friday. Jensen left San Diego at 10 a. m., Friday expecting to reach New York Saturday noon.

Officials of the motion picture company said late today that a rancher living at Dixieland, on the western edge of the Colorado desert an dat the eastern foot of the San Mernardino or coastal mountain range, had reported seeing the white monoplane pass over about 1:30 o'clock. Another report was received today of Jensen having passed over Jucumba on the heights of the San Bernardino range about 15 minutes earlier.

Five Ryan and four army planes were sent out from San Diego early today to search for the missing flier, who is believed by the sponsors of his flight to have been forced down in the deserts or mountains of either southern California or northern Arizona.

GOVERNMENT WON IRISH FREE STATE ELECTION

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 18—(AP)—With the results from 48 constituencies not yet known in the recent general election, the returns thus far tabulated give the government a total strength of 58, against 51 for the opposition parties. The composition of the government combination is: Government party 44, farmers 4, independents 10. The opposition is composed of De Valerites (Fianna Fail) 38, labor 10, Irish league 2, Workers union 1.

The republicans have put up a good fight and are running the government very close, the most President Cosgrave's party can now hope for is to lead by half a dozen seats.

It is believed that all the members of the cabinet will be re-elected, and as possibly a dozen independents and eight or ten farmers will support Mr. Cosgrave's re-election as chief executive, there is likely to be no change in the ministry.

Among the successful De Valera candidates is Frank Kerlin, who was arrested in connection with the murder of Kevin O'Higgins, but was liberated in the absence of evidence. The defeat of Tom Johnson, who was leader of the opposition since the Dail was established, removes Cosgrave's most skillful opponent and most likely successor, Eamon De Valera will probably be obliged to figure as leader of the opposition.

County Clare remains under De Valera spell, returning only one government candidate, as against three republicans and one laborite. The defeat of Mrs. Clarke in Dublin North robs the republican party of its only woman member.

AUTO WAS DRIVEN INTO A GROUP OF FIVE MEN

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 18.—(AP)—One man was killed and another is in St. Vincent's hospital here after an automobile was driven into a group of five men walking along Kings highway, Fairfield, early this morning. Striking two of the men, the car kept on for some distance and grazed two other men who were also walking along the road ahead of the first group. The accident occurred while Constable William T. Burr of the Fairfield town police was looking on as he was standing nearby.

The driver of the car was Edward B. Sturges, 20, of Sasco Hill, Southport. The dead man is Julius Kulbay, 196 Kings highway, ex-service man and father of two children. Steven Swock, a middle aged man, the father of two children was taken to the hospital here, suffering from a broken neck. He was reported as resting comfortably tonight.

Sturges was arrested at once by Constable Burr on a charge of reckless driving and on a technical charge of manslaughter, pending the inquest to be held by Coroner John J. Phelan, on Tuesday.

CHARGED WITH THE MURDER OF HIS BROTHER

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 18—(AP)—Napoleon Pelletier, 30 year old city employe, out of work since last June, was arrested today charged with the murder of his 46 year old brother, Ernest, on the night of August 27. Ernest was shot through the back as he sat on the piazza of his home, and although the street was filled with homebound shoppers, few heard the shot and no one was seen leaving the house.

The bullet taken from Pelletier's body, a Spanish automatic discovered at the bottom of a pond four days later by a group of boys and the records of a mail order firearms concern were the links that led to the arrest of Napoleon. Police claim to have learned that Ernest was a victim of alcoholism and that his life was heavily insured for a man of his class.

TO LIMIT HEARING ON TAX REVISION TO TEN DAYS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Hearings on tax revision will be limitited to a ten days period by the house ways and means committee which is to assemble here on October 31 to take up this major problem of legislation.

The first two days of the hearings will be devoted to general statements. The income taxes of corporations will be considered on November 2 and individual income taxes on November 3. The two ensuing days will be allotted to discussion of administrative features.

Excise and stamp taxes will be the subjects for November 7. While November 8 and 9 will be given over to hearings on the long-controverted estate tax question. Miscellaneous subjects will be taken up on the last day, November 10.

26,000 AMERICAN WAR VETS GIVEN WELCOME IN PARIS

About 16,000, Including General Pershing, Commander Savage and Mayor Walker of New York, Were Present at Notre Dame Cathedral When the Carillon Sounded a Solemn Te Deum—General Pershing and Commander Savage Later Called on Premier Poincare—The Convention Opens Today.

PARIS, Sept 18—(AP)—The American Legion is here. That great peacetime van of 26,000 American veterans was complete in Paris today with the mobilization of the last man.

General Pershing, leading his countrymen in 1927 as he did in 1917, Commander Howard P. Savage and other legion leaders have made their official calls on Premier Poincare, War Ministers Painleve and the presidents of the senate and chamber, while Paris has opened its arms to the entire delegation.

The Legionnaires spent much of their time today in the churches, visiting cafes, strolling boulevards and renewing old acquaintances. The convention opens tomorrow, and for many tonight was like a night before the battle.

The day began at 11 this morning with a solemn Te Deum at Notre Dame cathedral. Cardinal Dubois presided, surrounded by many of the most prominent ecclesiastics of France. Fifteen theusand swere present, among them Marshal Foch, General Pershing, Commander Savage and Mayor Walker of New York. The Rev. Father Wolfe preached the sermon in English, and Cardinal Dubois welcomed the Legionnaires, saying—

"The ideal of justice and liberty of the American people caused you to come to the assistance of France in her hours of danger in a most tragic war. You are as welcome today as you were then."

"It is a splendid sight to see Europe at peace," said the legion commander. "We first saw the land bristling with bayonets, and roaring guns, now we see the people busy at peaceful occupation. During the time we spend here we hope to give the nations of Europe a truer conception of the people of America."

Presentation to General Pershing and Commander Savage of the national flag for the American legion, the gift of the French war blind soldiers, was made at 5 o'clock this evening by Marshal Foch, General Gouaud and J. J. Jusserand, former French ambassador at Washington. General Pershing affixed a marble plaque, the gift of the legion to the French war blind, to a wall in their headquarters. This, exception for an official dinner of welcome by the French government at the Quai D'Orsay, ended the official functions for the day.

A drum corps from Buffalo played before the Trocadero late this afternoon, their gray uniforms and shining white trench helmets making a striking picture against the sombre walls of the old Trocadero building.

The visitors headquarters has added to its souvenirs postcards of Corporal Sellier, who sounded "Cease Firing" at the Armistice hour in 1918.

Keenest disappointment is expressed among many of the returning veterans because their strenuously and expensively acquired war French of nine years ago is proving entirely inadequate to pilot them through Paris in peace time. The much vaunted linguistic ability of which the Legionnaires boasted aboard ship on their way to Paris received a great setback when they tried it today.

The legion auxiliary leaders insist that lunchs during the coming week must be served to the women delegates right in the convention hall.

"If we once let them out of our sight," said Mrs. Adalin Wright MacAuley, national president, "we will never see them again. They will go shopping."

The much heralded activities of communists and "Reds" have been entirely unnoticed thus far, although the "reds," while not acting, are doing a lot of hectic talking, writing and holding up the American Legionnaires to sworn as "the emissaries of American capitalists."

L'Humanite, the leading communist organ, the two foremost editors of which are now serving terms in La Sante prison for inciting a military revolt, prints a front page cartoon of Commander Savage, depicting him in an extremely ugly mood. "The Yankee fiscist Savage, one of these responsible for the Sacco-Vanzetti assassinations," is the caption.

Boat trains from Cherbourg, Havre and Antwerp, bringing the last of the Leggionnaires to Paris arrived throughout today, until late in the afternoon, and the city took on an American aspect.

General Pershing and Commander Savage, accompanied by American Charge d'Affaires Sheldon Whitehouse, called on Premier Poincare at noon. They had a long chat, later visiting M. Painleve, war minister. Commander Savage broadcast from Eiffel Tower at 1 o'clock a message, which was intended to reach all Eurpean countries, including former enemies, in case they desired to listin in.

POINCARE WELCOMED THE AMERICAN LEGION

PARIS, Sept. 18—(AP)—That the expedition over seas of the American forces in the World war to fight with the allies will never be forgotten by Frenchmen, was emphasized by Premier Poincare at a banquet welcoming the American Legion to Paris for its annual convention. Speaking in the name of the French government, the premier said:

"Faithful to the memory of the population and your brothers in arms who witnessed your heroism, even more abiding than the most substantial monument, no Frenchman, indeed, will ever forget that you crossed the sea to come and fight shoulder to shoulder with the allies."

The premier recalled America's "generosity to the wounded and to the widows and orphans of France" during the three years before the United States entered the war" and "the private sympathy which outdid official cooperation" In the name of the government he welcomed the Legionnaires "to this country of ours to which you so valiantly contributed to free the invader and which thousands of your comrades drenched with their blood." He assured the Americans they would find in France "neither forgetful minds nor hearts grown cold."

M. Poincare told of the series of insults, strikes and disasters and Germany's repeated defiance that stirred America to war and recalled how he saw, with General Pershing, the first American units addressed by their officers in Meuse, and followed their development into an army of two million men.

Premier Poincare said he did not wish to keep war hatreds alive, but was determined to keep history straight when detailing German actions that brought American soldiers to France.

"In the noble part you played," said the premier, "you derived your inspiration not only from your sense of patriotism, but from your feelings of honor and your devotion to mankind. Neither you nor we ourselves will allow that part to be travestied."

Recalling a talk with President Wilson when the latter said "the war has awakened mankind to the moral necessity of completing that unity required among men in order that never shall such an evil occur again," the premier concluded: "Let us work together with a single heart for this unity."

6,000 AMERICAN WOMEN IN PARIS WITH LEGION

PARIS, Sept. 18—(AP)—Six thousand women folks who stayed behind and tended the home fires when Pershing's army came to France, are right in the thick of the second invasion. The sock-knitters will open their offensive at the Continental hotel tomorrow at 9 o'clock and their program leaves Paris small opportunity of forgetting that one-quarter of the second American army is feminine.

The wives, mothers and sweethearts who had to listen for years to descriptions of "Gay Paree," spent today getting first-hand inforgmation.

All day long they strayed over Paris. They went on foot, by taxicab and sight-seeing buses, sometimes with men folks, but often alone. Six hundred women officially delegated to the auxiliary convention registered early and will be on hand tomorrow when Mrs. John Kipling, president of the Paris Post auxiliary, welcomes them in the name of the women of Paris.

In the afternoon the women will participate in the legion parade and their costumes will supply much of its color. Each delegation has a parade costume, the basi of which is a cape and tam of blue with the name of the state worked in gold. Different groups have added touches of their own.

MISS ELDER PLANS TO START PARIS FLIGHT TUESDAY

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 18—(AP)—Miss Ruth Elder, pretty 23-year-old Florida aviatrix who hopes to be the first woman to fly from New York to Paris, passed her physical examination at Mitchel field today and announced shortly afterwards that she expected to take-off for Europe on Tuesday or any time thereafter that weather conditions permit.

However, there is one obstacle in the way. Miss Elder as yet has no pilot's license. The required test before department of commerce officials, scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed. After the physical examination, a test flight, and an interview with reporters completely filled the later hours of the day.

Miss Elder's plane, the American Girl, will be equipped with a rubber life raft, two rubber swimming suits capable of being almost instantly inflated, and a small wireless set, it was announced. The plane will carry 510 gallons of gasoline, 190 gallons in the wing tanks and the balance in the fuselage.

Miss Elder reiterated that she and her co-pilot, George Haldeman, are fully determined to undertake the trans-Atlantic hop.

SHOT DEAD WHILE HE WAS TALKING WITH HIS WIFE

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The fatal shooting last night of Carl Schultz, 33, while he was holding a tryst with his wife, from whom he had been separated several years, was still shrouded in mystery tonight.

Mrs. Schultz, 28, is being held as a material witness. She told the police she had met her husband shortly after 8 o'clock last night. As they were sitting in their automobile fifty feet of the road in an undeveloped section of the city, she said, she noticed a man walking northward on the little used road, and later was startled to see him crawling through the grass toward the automobile. The intruder, she declared, addressed some remark to her husband which she did not understand, after which he opened fire. Three shots were fired, she said, but only one took effect. No attempt was made to harm her and the assassin then fled the way he came.

THREE SAFE BREAKERS ARRESTED IN PAWTUCKET

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 18—(AP)—Three men arrested in the act of forcing the safe of Mitchell's restaurant here early this morning were said by the police to be members of the gang responsible for a series of similar breaks through the state.

Chris Gouras of Pawtucket, who threatened the officers with a loaded revolver, was held in $3,000 for the grand jury, while for Fred Amponelli and John J. Ryan, both of Providence, was set at $1,000.

WALKED FROM PROVIDENCE TO BOSTON IN 8 HOURS, 40 MIN.

BOSTON, Sept. 18—(AP)—Maurice D. Evans, of Pawtucket, R. I., claimed to have set a new record today when he walked from City hall, Providence, to Boston common in eight hours, 40 minutes. The previous mark for the 44 miles was 8 hours, 57 minutes.

QUESTION CAUSE OF DEATH OF THEO. LAVALLEE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 18.—Theodore LaVallee, 69, died quite suddenly at his home, 38 Maple avenue, at 6:45 oclock Saturday evening. Death came while he rested on a couch on the veranda of his home. Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason was summoned and after viewing the remains and examining a bottle of alleged liquor found in the man's clothing gave the cause of death as alcoholic poisoning either from wood or denatured alcohol. The deceased had been forced to give up his work as a laborer last Thursday. Dr. Charles H. Girard attended him at the time and found that he suffered from a cold. Members of the family claim that Dr. Girard had found his patient suffering from a weak heart and claim that death was due to this ailment. It is expected that the matter will be taken up with Dr. Mason. Permission to prepare the remains for burial was given the Hurteau-Bosse Corp. He had been alone on the veranda for a little over one hour when found dead.

The deceased had resided here for the past 30 years and he was esteemed by all who knew him. He was born in Sorel, Canada, P. Q., the son of Louis and Valeria Robert LaVallee. Surviving him besides his wife, Cordelia Cote LaVallee, are eight children, Mrs. Walter Hovey and Mrs. James Kearns of this city; Arthur LaVallee of Montreal, John of New York, Louis of New York, Leo of this city, Edward of Hartford and Adelard LaVallee of Providence; also one sister, Mrs. Joseph Sanville of Central Falls, R. I., and seven grandchildren. Two of his sons, Arthur and John are vaudeville artists.

MEETING SET FOR THIS EVENING WILL BE HELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 18.—There will be a special town meeting Monday night despite the announced opinion of Ernest L. Averill deputy attorney general that Windham has not the authority to rescind its previous action in approving a special act passed by the legislature and providing for biennial town elections. Valentine L. Murphy who with a score of others signed the petition for the special meeting to reconsider the action taken September 7 said today that the petitioners were desirous of having the meeting in any event, leading to the belief that the controversy will be aired out. First Selectman Chesbro states that inasmuch as the meeting has been duly advertised it must legally be held if only to convene it read the warning and then adjourn without action. In his opinion Deputy Attorney General Averill said: "Special laws passed by the general assembly and approved by the governor become effective upon his signature. There are a few instances where the law provides that an act shall become effective upon the happening of some future event such as in this case. When the event takes place the law becomes effective. In this particular case as soon as the meeting of September 7 was warned and held and a majority of those present voted affirmatively the act became effective. "As soon as the town of Windham hed its meeting and approved the act its authority so far as the act is concerned ceased." The opinion goes on to advise against holding another special meeting.

JUDGE AND MRS. LYMAN WED 62 YEARS TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 18.—In the seclusion of their home at Columbia, Judge and Mrs. Dwight A. Lyman will observe the 62nd anniversary of their marriage Monday. Having made no preparations for formal reception in noting the event, Judge and Mrs. Lyman will simply receive neighbors who will call to extend their congratulations.

Judge and Mrs. Lyman were united in marriage at Chestnut Hill September 19, 1865, by Rev. Frederick D. Avery. Mrs. Lyman was formerly Abbie Margaret Hunt. Their residence in Columbia continued until the spring of 1871 when they removed to Versailles. They came to this city in 1873 and 14 years ago again returned to Columbia, where Mrs. Lyman is a native of the town. She was the daughter of Anson and Betsey Amy Manley Hunt and was born April 16, 1847. Judge Lyman was born in Barrie, Orleans county, N. Y., on November 11, 1843, the son of Samuel Edson Lyman, lineal descendant of Richard Lyman who emigrated from the parish of Angar, Essex, England in August 1631. Judge Lyman represents the eighth generation since the original Richard. His mother was Fanny Charlotte Clark Lyman. Both his parents and ancestors were natives of Columbia for several generations.

Four children were born to Judge and Mrs. Lyman; Mrs. Lizzie Doten Lyman Tharp of Porterville, California; Miss Lillian Lyman of Columbia; Hollis Hunt Lyman of this city and Samuel Edson Lyman of Philadelphia. Judge Lyman has had an interesting career. He came from New York state with his parents in the spring of 1830 to reside on a farm near the present Lyman home. While helping on the farm Judge Lyman attended the Center district school. In 1864 he went to work for the Colt's willow ware factory in Hartford. Upon marrying he returned to the farm. In 1871 he engaged in the railroad business serving as station agent at Versailles and freight clerk at Willimantic for the old Boston, Providence and Fishkill railroad. After the winter of 1873-74 he became engaged as traveling salesman for the American Basket company of New Britain and the Williams Manufacturing company of Northampton, Mass. He went to Baltimore in 1877 and became instructor in basketmaking at the Maryland Penitentiary, returning to Willimantic one year later to take charge of the Windham almshouse. He retained that position for 12 years. He was appointed national census taker for Willimantic in 1890 and took the statistical manufacturing census of Tolland and Windham counties. He engaged in the fire insurance business in 1891 and was one of the organizers of the Willimantic Building and Loan association, being the first secretary and collector. He retained that office for 25 years when he was succeeded by James P. Mustary, his business partner. Judge Lyman has been a member of the Masonic fraternity for 59 years and both himself and his wife have sixth been degree members of the grange for 37 years.

Judge Lyman received his title by virtue of being judge of the Willimantic police court. He was elected deputy judge at the 1897 session of the general assembly and four years later was elected judge. He was Willimantic correspondent of the Hartford Courant for several years after 1891 and recalls many interesting events which he reported. Among these were the, East Thompson wreck, the Mansfield barn burnings, the Ide-Hibbard affair of Woodstock and the celebrated Bertha Mellish case. In 1906 he accepted the editorship of the old Willimantic Journal. He was republican registrar of voters for many years and otherwise active in Windham politics. He still retains an interest in the fire insurance firm of D. A. Lyman & company. Since his return to Columbia, Judge Lyman, has served as first selectman, assessor and secretary of the town school committee. Both Judge and Mrs. Lyman are enjoying good health.

Leonard Cline, serving a one year sentence at the Tolland county jail as the result of his plea of guilty to manslaughter in the death by gunshot wound of Wilfred Irwin, last May, continues to receive the congratulations of a host of sympathizers on his escape from a first degree murder trial. Among recent telegrams received at the jail was one from Willard Mack, playwright. In his characteristic manner, Mr. Mack, who is a summer resident of Mansfield, writes: "All Broadway delighted that you wrote a happy ending to the unfortunate drama. If you should wish to read scripts of the new plays of the year, I will dig them up and send you. The time decided will not be long in passing and after all it looks like a rotten season anyway. Good luck." Mack is an intimate friend of his literary contemporary.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Sullivan Hodge were held with a high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church at ten o'clock Saturday morning. Rev. Paul J. Bartlewski was celebrant. Solos were rendered by Miss L. Monica McKeon, accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Portelance, organist. There was a large attendance and many floral tributes in evidence. The bearers were, Daniel J. Killourey, John J. Killourey, George Timmins and Jeremiah J. Sullivan. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal prayer was read by Rev. Father Bartlewski. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

A petition of the Clerks' Protective association to continue the weekly Thursday afternoon holiday throughout the year with the exception of the month of December met with unfavorable action at a meeting of the Willimantic Business Men's association. In answer to a committee of clerks attending the meeting the business men signified that the half- holidays for five months of the year was sufficient.

A number appeared at a session of the board of selectmen and Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton held in the town building Saturday afternoon to take the oath administered to new voters whose names appeared on the list presented by the registrars. Michael E. Sullivan acted as clerk.

Windham republicans who attended the annual barbecue of the Third Ward Republican club of New Britain at Lake Compounce, Bristol, Saturday afternoon included: Sheriff Charles A. Gates, Attorney John H. King, Deputy Sheriff Lester N. Blish, Charles E. Leonard, Oliver L. Willard, Edgar W. Jacobs, Attorney John B. Harvey, William Lutton, William V. Palmer, Raymond F. Gates and Ralph B. Gates.

Traveling conditions over the section of Ashford roads being torn up for the new highway from Mansfield Four Corners to Pheonixville are none to inviting. Powerful steam shovels, traveling over the routes of old country roads and turning in places to take a more direct path through the woods have left a trail that might have been made by a ruthless giant. For some miles beyond Warrenville the grinding of shovels and snorting of big motor trucks can be heard. A similar scene although on a smaller scale, is found just outside of Mansfield Center on the Wormwood Hill road where work is underway in laying out the approaches for a new bridge which will replace the dangerous little twin bridges which span the Fenton river. And while the big metal machines work for progress in transportation, a friendly Ashford resident in another section of the town devotes much of his time standing by a rickety little bridge on the West Ashford-Storrs back road, directing motorists safely over the rotted span. Its timbers weakened by rot the tiny bridge has tired from its centuury of service and is shrinking from the road at either end as it faithfully gives warning of the coming collapse. Access to the bridge has to be made over planks laid from the road to the bridge flooring. Asked when a new bridge would be built the "native" affably replied that, "they seem to be waiting until this one gets bad enough."

The finding of a Ford coupe in the rear of the Kimball block on Main street Saturday noon by Traffic Officer Bombria led to the belief at first that the machine had been abandoned by thieves as it had remained in the same position for about a week. It was found that it was owned by Joseph R. Kolv of Johnson avenue, Seymour, and the machine was taken to a garage to await claim of ownership. Later in the day Kolv came to police headquarters. He told Chief Grady that he was employed on the construction job for the building of the new Windham street school. He was without funds and had left the machine in the rear of the block while awaiting his pay envelope when he had to have some repairs made on the car.

Mrs. Louis R. Gergler of Merrow suffered injury to her nose about three o'clock Saturday afternoon when she hurried out of the Spellman meat market on Church street, stumbled and fell to the sidewalk. Her face landed against the running board of a car parked in front of the market. Mrs. Gergler, who had hastened out in the hope of catching a bus for her home, was treated at a physician's office.

Gilbert Storrs of North Coventry received treatment at St. Joseph's hospital for a severe eye injury sustained while engaged in carpentry work at his home Friday afternoon. A splinter struck his right eye and cut the eyeball in two.

Nine local employes of a chair store attended a state outing of officials and employes at Lake Compounce, Bristol, today, the program including a barbecue, baseball game and athletic events.

Mary Eitleman, formerly of this city, has been released from the state hospital in Middletown after several years confinement by an order of the Middlesex county superior court on the recommendation of Superintendent Leek of the institution. The Eitleman woman was arrested here six years ago on a charge of infanticide. Before the case came to court she was found to be mentally defective. She will live with relatives in this city.

Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock of this city will speak at the quarterly meeting of the Windham County Congregational Ministers' union at the Congregational church, Putnam, Tuesday afternoon. Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center will be moderator.

Harry Wells has returned to his home in Kenyonville from St. Joseph's hospital where he has been ill for eight weeks with typhold fever.

Mrs. Joseph Bernet and infant daughter left St. Joseph's hospital Saturday for their home at Riverside park.

Local people who attended the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Burr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Burr of New Britain to Wendall Burbank of Auburn, Mass., at New Britain Saturday night included: Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Case, Miss Elizabeth Case, Christopher C. Case, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George H. Spencer, the Misses Muriel Skidmore, Irma Lord and Lema Fullerton, Kendall Fullerton and George S. Elliott.

Mrs. William D. Talcott and Miss Myrtle Jordan were week-end guests of Mrs. William Kavaney, Mrs. Talcott's mother, in Waterbury.

Mrs. Alexander Bradley of Danbury, Conn., says: "After 14 long years trying different remedies I have at last found a good medicine,

Dr. True's Elixir

I was nearly discouraged. I was giving my oldest girl something nearly every night, but now I keep a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir handy, and only give it occasionally. I have tried so many things, but now as soon as I see signs of worms I give Dr. True's Elixir,

The True Family Laxative and worm expeller for quick relief." Made of strictly pure-quality herbs. Family size $1.20; other sizes 60c and 40c.

WESTERLY

KINGSTON FAIR CLOSED IN BLAZE OF GLORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 18.—Kingston fair, with a very satisfactory patronage both by exhibitors and attendants, came to a close Saturday night, after a four-day and evening exhibition. The fair literally closed in a blaze of glory, for the fire works which has featured each evening, lighted up with brilliant fires the surrounding countryside with deafening detonation of aerial bombs.

Saturday was children's day, when there was free admission to all under 12 years of age. Vaudeville programmes, morning and afternoon, with racing at 2 p. m., closed the afternoon's program. In the evening there was vaudeville again and a presentation of the historical pageant in front of the grandstand. In the afternoon the card of afternoon racing was preceded by a parade of 36 new model automobiles which had been on display in the newly constructed automobile exhibition hall. A double circuit of the track was made.

Mary B, the Hartford racing horse, which was held up in Westerly on Monday night when a drunken driver of the transporting van was taken into custody, won in straight heats the Yankee State trotting event in 2:16 1-2 and 2:20 3-4.

In the early evening during the fair it seemed that fully as large an attendance was present as during the day, it being especially noticeable on the midway. Saturday night's crowd came early and stayed late, while many of the exhibitors departed with their displays. A feature of the afternoon was the visit to the grounds and stunt flying of the Charlestown field aeroplane, "The Spirit of Wakefield."

Members of the Westerly town council and other officers to come up for possible re-election in the town election of officers on Tuesday, November 8th next, have received letters from the Westerly republican town's committee, asking them if they were candidates for re-election. The letter requested an early reply and was signed by Charles D. Maxson, secretary.

There was a rumor current in Westerly Saturday night that a bomb had been set off near the residence of Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, at his home, 88 High street. Officer Robert M. Kessel was detailed to investigate and learned that about 9:30 a 12 year old boy, having placed a gre cracker on the piazza ran away. The resulting explosion came as a shock to nearby residents.

Narragansett lodge No. 7, I. O. O. F., on Saturday evening held its regular meeting in Odd Fellows hall, when besides regular business transacted there was the election of officers for the year 1927-1928. The election resulted as follows:

Noble grand, Archibald M. Sanders; vice grand, Charles Girouard; recording secretary, William D. Cross; financial secretary, F. Earl James; treasurer, Lafayette L. Foster; trustees were named first, J. Edwin Gardiner; second, W. Sinclair Barker; third, Floyd K. Young; hall committee, first, Clarence Maxwell; second, Everett C. Lawton, Jr.; third, Herbert C. Brown. These officers will be installed on Saturday night, October 1st.

A Paige touring car owned by Antonio Flore of Westerly and driven by George McKinley of Pawcatuck was in collision Saturday morning about 8 o'clock, near Railroad square in Hope Valley with a Ford car owned and operated by Seth Saunders. The seven passenger Paige was bound for Westerly while the Saunders car crossed the highway at the left. Deputy Chief of Police of Hopkinton William L. Kay investigated the accident, gaving McKinley a summons to appear in third district court, Westerly, on Friday next.

Saunders was bruised and shaken up and attended by Dr. Edwin J. Knern, McKinley and a passenger being uninjured.

A report is current in Westerly that George J. Smith has purchased the Watch Hill cottage, "Westwater", on Misquamicut road and bordering Foster's cove on Little Narragansett bay at the mouth of the Pawcatuck river, the property of Mrs. George X. McLanahan of Washington, D. C., and which was occupied the past summer season by Mr. and Mrs. Milo M. Belding of New York city.

The September session of Washington county superior court will open Monday morning at the county court house at West Kingston, R. I. Grand jurors under summons are to report at 9:30 o'clock. There will be no grand jury case from Westerly and but two appeals will be heard from the third district court of Westerly in the criminal docket.

A mistaking of each others signals was given as the cause for an automobile truck and touring car coming together this morning at 1:15 o'clock in front of the New Park hotel on High street. An Overland touring car, of John T. Holland of the North Stonington road, R. F. D. No. 2, and driven by his son Norbert, was near the west curbline and ready to proceed down the street as the two-ton cab ice cream truck of Tate Brothers, operated by Earl Gilman, 483 Broad street, New London, backed across the street to turn around, as he thought Holland's sign indicated there was sufficient room. The rear of the truck crumpled the left rear mudguard of the touring car, dented the body and damaged the tire. There was no police investigation and the drivers agreeing on damage settlement proceeded. Norbert Holland's left arm was slightly injured when caught by the backing truck. Observers reported each driver equally responsible.

George Sherman of Wakefield, R. I., while driving his coupe towards Westerly on the Boston Post road this morning about 7 o'clock sustained minor bruises when his auto ran off the highway and turned over. The auto had proceeded to a short distance east of the Mulberry Glen gas station when a forward tire blew out and control of the machine was lost. Patrolman Leroy H. Norman went to the scene to investigate.

Joe Humphreys says: "Holbrook Blinn is right—Luckies are certainly good"

Noted sports announcer, talking to his son, George Cohan Humphreys, at their home in Fairhaven, New Jersey, recommends Lucky Strikes.

Holbrook Blinn,
Noted Stage Star,
writes:

"Each performance brings with it its attendant nervousness and I relish the opportunity for a soothing smoke while playing. During the course of 'The Play's the Thing' I am called on to smoke at frequent intervals. It is always a Lucky Strike. I know from many years' use of this cigarette that my throat is constantly protected and that it will give me the greatest enjoyment."

Holbrook Blinn

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation - No Cough.

DANIELSON

ROSS-LINDNER NUPTIALS WERE CELEBRATED SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 18.—This morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Lindner, Broad street, the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorcas Lindner, and Norman J. Ross took place, Rev. Chester J. Armstrong, pastor of the Baptist church, being the officiating clergyman. The attending couple were Miss Beatrice Lindner, sister of the bride, and Maurice Boswell of Danielson. Only immediate relatives of the contracting couple witnessed the ceremonies. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion. Following the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Ross left for their honeymoon trip, going by motor. They will be away a week and thereafter will make their home here.

On an early train this morning the body of Daniel Danielson arrived here from the Soldiers' home at Noroton, where he died on Saturday. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood. Mr. Danielson had been at Noroton for a number of weeks, and notwithstanding his advanced years his death came as a surprise to those who had known him during his long period of residence in Danielson.

Mr. Danielson was of the family from which this community derives its name, a son of Hezekiah and Laura Weaver Danielson. He was in his 86th year. During the Civil war Mr. Danielson served as a member of the 18th Connecticut Volunteer Infantry.

According to local comment Governor "Al" Smith of New York, pet of the great city's democratic newspapers for the nomination for president next summer, has passed entirely out of the picture insofar as possible support of the rank and file of democrats in this section of New England is concerned. It isn't Al's fault, they says. The party papers that are supporting him are not doing him so much good. Imagine advocacy of repeal of the protective duties on cotton textiles as essential by papers that support him—a policy that spells ruin to New England's cotton industry—and the assumption that New England, with its mill towns is bound to vote for "Al" anyway, because he is wet. "Al" is unfortunate in his newspaper support. New England eats before it drinks. "New England eats before it drinks" may mean more a year from now—to the democratic organization in the east than it means today.

The contractor has said that given good weather, the Dowe building, a land mark in Danielson for nearly 100 years, will have disappeared by Wednesday night, and that only three weeks will be required, the foundations completed, to do the tile and brick work for the new structure that is to take its place in the heart of Danielson's business section. The Dowe store stock was being moved today to the location where the firm is to do business until the new building is ready for occupancy. This morning, for the last time, buyers of newspapers and other commodities, entered through a door where generations of people have preceded them to buy for the last time such things as they desired to buy.

Press despatches have made mention of the fact that the Globe mills in Fall River are to be sold at auction within a few days. This announcement is of more than ordinary interest to the people of Danielson and vicinity, for the Globe mills are part and parcel of the holdings of the Connecticut Mills company.

In the years that have come and gone since a few looms were started here to make the beginning of the wonderful industrial record of the big corporation much water has flowed over the dams of the nation. Connecticut mills expanded amazingly here, ventured into Canada and developed a big plant at Sherbrooke, P. Q., acquired plants at East Taunton, Mass., and at Fall River. Came the end of the war, the post-war boom, which collapsed in a sickening manner in 1920, and the long period of depression out of which only a few New England textile concerns have successfully emerged.

Meanwhile, seeking salvation, the Connecticut Mills company has been engaged in developing a plant at Albany-Decatur, Ala. That plant is now in operation, on the lower-cost southern basis of production. Starting to do business in the south to save the concern the Globe mills at Fall River were abandoned as a manufacturing unit. Much of the machinery in the Fall River mills was taken out and shipped to Alabama, to be set up and put into operation again. Much of it is now working as smoothly as it did in the north. What the purchasers in prospect of the Globe mills will have left to buy is a mill, of stone and brick, a good structure those who know it will tell you, but of uncertain value to buyers in view of the prices that New England mill properties have brought under forced sale or auction sales during the past six years. There are many stockholders of the Connecticut Mills company in this territory. They have a lively, personal interest in how much money the Globe mills at Fall River are to bring.

This dizzy season, weatherwise, is not without its compensations. Having been told that nothing would grow during the summer season of 1927, because of astral relations that were all out of kilter, people lived to see that foolish forecast proved a myth. There came unprecendented rains, threatening to ruin all growing things. Particularly, back in June and early July, was the corn crop rated as prospectively a total loss. Now one hears that the corn corp is to be a bumper one. And one knows that sweet corn was being hawked about the borough ath the week end for 10 cents a dozen, in excellent quality, this being the lowest price heard of for this commodity in recent years.

The "Ask Me Another" series, the equivalent of "What Do You Know?", now running daily in The Bulletin, lets everyone in on a chance to learn something of the history and the lore of this section of eastern Connecticut. For instance, "Where is Squaw Rocks?" The answer to that happens to be Killingly. Down in the southeastern section of this town these rocky canyons and caves are much the same as they must have been centuries ago. Ages ago, in all probability, some great upheaval of nature occurred there. Rocks weighing many tons are piled about as if thrown about in some tumultuous happening of nature. Underneath them are winding, underground lanes, and, in places, more spacious caverns. In this welter of rock heaved about by some force of nature, squaws are said to have found sanctuary during tribal wars among the Indians. It is pleasant to believe that this was a safety zone, and it is peculiar that such a wonderful place should be so little known in this modern age.

Squaw Rocks are at the Alvah Pierce farm. They are not over three and a half miles distant from Danielson, yet many of the younger people have never seen them.

Lowry weather today in no way operated to suppress the enthusiasm of those who are of the Danielson Twilight league and of the Wauregan Twilight league, or closely associated with the organizations, in making the most of the outing arranged at Wildwood park. This event started with field events at 10 a. m. and reached more or less of a climax in the early afternoon when "King" George Jacques of East Killingly served one of his famous clam dinners to as a capable an aggregation of caters as he has ventured preparing a meal for in many moons. A specialist in diseases or disturbances of the stomach would have given the entire outfit up as a total loss, insofar as getting any revenue out of them for pills of pumps was concerned. It would appear that the entire gathering was abnormally healthy. The boys of the twilight leagues and those who have handled the business end of the arrangements during all of the long playing season, and their guests, were having their little outing on a gray September day. To this, and much more, they were entitled. They have played for fun and glory only, entertaining in the aggregate many thousands of people, and all of those who had pleasure from their efforts on the diamond likely would add their best wishes for such a good time as the athletes enjoyed this afternoon—afternoon being mentioned as the time when the dinner was done, though there was plenty of pleasure throughout the day.

To break a tie for the league championship, the Kilowatts and the Buddies will have it out as representatives of the Danielson Twilight league on Sunday next, September 25.

One hears so much clamor for additional band concerts, that one wonders just what might be done about it.

This is the last week of the daylight saving season for 1927. Clocks and watches go back to standard time next Saturday night or next Sunday, just as one happens to elect.

Frederick C. Laurent of Attleboro spent the week end with friends in Danielson.

"Jimmy" Walsh and his WEAN artists played for the dancing at Wildwood park Saturday evening, when the attendance was representing of communities for miles around.

There is, it appears, a chance for another serial circus in Danielson before the late fall season sets in.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Webster was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week end.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM CHILD KILLED WHEN CLOTHES POLE FELL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 18—A post in the yard of Henry Golie's home on Woodstock avenue to which a swing was attached broke at its base Saturday noon and his two year old son Robert who was on the swing was crushed under it, causing his death soon afterwards.

The child was being swung by his older sister. One of the supports of the rope swing was fastened to the pole and the other end to a clothes line that was stretched from the post to th eside of the house.

The boy was being swung gently by his sister and there was no thought of danger as the little fellow's weight was not enough to cause much of a strain. The post, however had partly decayed where it entered the ground and the vibration from the motion of the swing resulted in a sudden break.

Robert was rushed to the Day Kimball hospital but he did not recover consciousness and died shortly after reaching the hospital. His parents and the little sister are prostrated over the happening.

The senior class of the Putnam high school met Friday evening and elected their officers for the coming year. The officers for the class are as follows: President, Edwin Mann of Pomfret; vice president, Miss Madelyn Houghton of Putnam; secretary, Miss Evlyn Kaminsky of Putnam; treasurer, Walter Davis of Putnam. The junior class of the high school also elected their officers as follows: William Shann, the foot ball star, president; Miss Eva Jane Covell, vice president; treasurer, Russell Sherman; Miss Annie Macdonald, secretary.

At a meeting of the Putnam High School Athletic association, Milton Nelson of Pomfret, a member of the senior class, was chosen treasurer of the association to replace Donald Child, who has resigned.

The Pasnik store which has been located on Front street in this city has vacated the room which it has occupied for the past five years, the company having decided to discontinue the store in Putnam.

POSTAL DEPARTMENT SEEKS NEW LOCATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 18—L. H. Blanton, site inspector of the United States Post Office department was in the city on Frdiay and Saturday looking for possible sites for the new federal building in Putnam. The lot at the corner of South Main and Grove streets owned by the government and which has been held for a number of years for Putnam's new postoffice, for which it was originally purchased, has been condemned by the postmaster general for the new federal building as not being suited for the use that the postoffice department requires.

There remains $85,500 on hand to be spent for a new post office building in Putnam. To meet the requirements the building must not be over 1,380 feet in a direct travelling line from the baggage room of the local railroad station. The government is now seeking to dispose of its present holdings and is looking for a new site. It is possible for the government to take, by condemnation, any site it may select. The amount of available funds would however enter into such a proceedure and it is hoped that condemnation may be averted. Several sites in the center of town are under consideration, but before a new building could be erected, the present buildings would have to be removed.

The announcement of the change of location will be pleasing to many of Putnam's citizens, for the Grove and South Main street location has not met with anything like unanimous approval, as it is not at the center of population of the city nor the center of business. The matter of location of the new post office building has been much discussed for several years past. At any rate it now seems to be definitely decided that the new federal building will not be at the lot owned by the government located at Grove and South Main street.

Funeral services for Mrs. Victoria Brissette, age 58, wife of Zetique Brissette were held Saturday morning at St. Mary's church with burial in St. Mary's cemetery. Mrs. Brissette died at her home on Main street on Wednesday afternoon. She has been somewhat an invalid for several years, but the direct cause of her death was a shock which she sustained several weeks ago. She is survived by her husband, three sons and one daughter.

Having successfully passed the examinations at Hartford, Second Lieutenant Charles G. Woodward of Headquarters company, Forty-third Division, has been promoted to the first lieutenancy of the local company. On the same day First Sergeant Francis Murphy passed the examination as a second lieutenant and now holds that rank with the Putnam company. The vacancy in the post of second lieutenant was caused by the resignation of Lieut. O. J. White, who resigned just before the company went to Camp Trumbull at Niantic for its annual 15 days of field training. There is now a vacancy in the post of first sergeant, through promotion of one of the lower which Captain J. J. McGarry will fill non-commissioned officers of the company.

The three private schools in this section are to be opened this week for the school year. Pomfret school at Pomfret begins its sessions on Tuesday, September 20. The Rectory school at Pomfret will open on Friday, September 23 and the Howe-Marot School for Girls will be in session in Thompson on Tuesday, September 27.

Miss Marie White of Norwich is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. John Whalen, Bellevue street.

Miss Irene Labonte has gone to Springfield, Mass., where she will enter Bay Path Institute.

Mrs. Mary Marsh and her son Herbert Marsh have returned to their home on Grove street after spending several weeks at their summer cottage at Black Pond, Niantic.

Harold Wilcox of Chapman street has returned from Norwalk, Conn., where he attended the wedding of his brother Byron F. Wilcox and Miss Elizabeth Jackson, both formerly of Putnam.

Mrs. Earle Spencer and little son of Boston have been the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Fisher of School street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Morse have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Freeman of Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson are the guests of Mr. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eric H. Johnson of South Main street. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson leave this week for East Providence where he will resume his teaching at the Day school.

Thomas Moore and his sister, Miss Mary Moore have been the guests of friends in the city for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmanska and little son Paul of Walnut street have returned from a visit with relatives in Vermont.

JEWETT CITY

YOUTHS CAUGHT BREAKING INTO BUILDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 18—Deputy Sheriff J .T. Dolan was notified this afternoon that there was a disturbance going on at the Grange fair grounds. The officer drove there in his machine and found that the fair restaurant building had been broken into by boys. A "weenie" battle had ensued and hot dogs were thrown the whole length of the building.

The left over sugar supply was also thrown all over the place. The boys made their escape to the nearby wooded lots, but Officer Dolan caught one of them, who gave him the name of a dozen others concerned in the mischief. The case will be given over to Prosecuting Attorney Dudkowski for action in the courts. Report says that a part of the marauders came from Glasgo.

KIND WORDS PROVED BETTER THAN LASHING

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 18—At the Pachaug fair Saturday afternoon, many of the attendants were interested in a new phase of the tests for heavy draft horses. The novel and altogether pleasing feature was seen in the quiet and efficient manner in which Mason Gray of Moosup handled his heavy team.

When the great stone boat was piled with rough rocks, with four 200 pound men clinging to the small mountain of granite, the span of great draft horses, weighing over 2,800 pounds were driven up by their master.

New whiffle trees were put in position, and the great animals were hitched on. Mr. Gray softly patted both horses' heads, and some say the big bay got a lump of sugar. Speaking a few words to them, so low and quiet that only those standing near could hear—then he said, as he raised the reins gentley from their broad backs, "Now boys."

Among all the crowd but few had ever witnessed such a feat of animal strength. But the test was yet to come, for what did Mr. Gray do? He took off one horse and hooked on the big bay, weighing over 1,400 pounds. At the same quiet word from his master the great horse straightened in his harness, his belly was not above a foot from the grass, but he did it, and snaked the tons of stone along the sod for more than 20 feet.

Regular K. of C. meeting tonight. Election of officers. Members please take notice.—Adv.

It is reported on good authority that the south bound mail trains at 11 a. m. and the north bound at 2 p. m. are to be discontinued on the new schedule becoming operative next Sunday morning. This being the case the only mail to arrive will be at 6:30 a. m. There will be an outgoing dispatch on the boat train at night, but the mail arriving on that train is not distributed until the following morning. Local trade interests are likely to combine in an effort to secure adequate service, which is an absolute necessity for the maintenance of the daily banking and mercantile business. At the time previous when call mail service was held up by the curtailment of the train schedules Postmaster William T. Crumb presented the matter to the Boston officials of the railway mail service, with the result that plans were being considered, when the trains were reinstated. R. E. Bridgett, chief clerk of the R. M. S. to whom this district is assigned, will doubtless give the matter his immediate attention. It is possible that a railway route, may be established between Putnam and New London, operated by bus, over the state road. With the new time card in operation a letter to Norwich would only be possible on the night boat train, and if one would write to friends or on business to Danielson or Putnam, he may prepare his epistle in the night season, for it will go on the only north bound mail, the a. m. boat-train.

Monday morning in the town court, before Judge John T. Barry, two more of the pay roll padders will have a hearing. Three are already bound over to superior court. Dorlen Roubillar of Arctic, R. I., and Emil Breneck of Jewett City, are the two who were apprehended by Police Officer "Cap" Maynard, and later allowed to go under $500 bonds.

MYSTIC

GOLDEN ROD TOURISTS WIN A WAGER OF FIFTY DOLLARS

Three members of the Golden Rod club left in a touring car Monday night at 5 o'clock with Jake MacMahon at the wheel and Flash McDonald and Stretch Moran for a few days trip through the White Mountains and to Vermont, New York state. President Edward Ellis put up $50 that they could not cover 800 miles without a flat tire and they were not to take a spare tire on the back of the car. They must get a banner in each state so he could tell where they had been. In the little town of Oxford, Mass., where the car stopped while the members gave a short entertainment, a crowd of 100 soon gathered to see the fall show. Jake McMahon had his violin in shape and gave a solo, and Flash MacDonald picked on his banjo for several pieces while Stretch Moran gave a solo on his saxophone. Then the trio played and Jake sang "Lucky Lindy," while Stretch gave the people a thrill with the latest dance, the Lindbergh hop. The crowd gave the trio a big hand for their fine show. Flash did a few tricks with a pack of cards, as he did several years ago on the stage on the B. F. Keith circuit. Then the green car went on its way bound for the White Mountains. They stayed in Webster, Mass., that night, getting an early start Tuesday morning for the fine views of New Hampshire. Around 1 o'clock in the afternoon they went to see the Lost River. That afternoon 500 people went all over it going up the hill. The change of weather stopped the engine so that McDonald had to crank it, staying in Plymouth, N. H., Tuesday night so as to get off for Vermont next day. They made good time on the old Vermont roads, reaching Rutland, Vt., late Wednesday night, putting up in a hut at Red Top camp with just room for three. The next day, Thursday, Driver MacMahon kept going toward New York state and the service was good and when they reached Bridgeport at midnight the green car had 57 miles to make for the 800. They started on the home stretch, making the fishing village at noon Friday, winning the bet by making 825 miles and no flat tires. The Golden Rod band gave a short parade for the members that won the bet in the green car. President Ellis paid up with a smile.

The Abate block on East Main street is having a coat of paint put on by a company from out of town.

Coast Guard boat No. 236 came into the shipyard Friday morning and will be hauled out on the north ways for repairs to the machinery, scraping and painting. It will take about ten days before the boat will be ready to go for seat duty off the Long Island coast.

DIRTY STREETS

Dirty and untidy streets are a black eye to any community. They indicate a wrong tendency on the part of the public and if they are long tolerated they represent inefficiency on the part of the street cleaning department.

Critics of dirty streets in New York city, where it would appear utter neglect prevails, in some instances, are making public protests against the conditions which they are obliged to face and they point to such things as dead animals, streets flooded with tar, papers and even garbage left in the gutters and in one instance a bureau of sewers wagon has been parked "for months" opposite one house.

Perhaps there are many communities where similar complaint can be and are being made, but it is to be realized that while street cleaning methods may be at fault and even lax, there is much which can and should be done by the individual for more tidy streets. Much of such dirt and litter can be kept out of the street. It is no place for it, but many people seem to regard the gutter as the common dumping ground and fill it with all kinds of refuse without stopping to realize how they are helping to create an eyesore and make needless work for the street cleaners. Worst of all their gutter contributions must lie there until the cleaners go to work and then once the streets are clean the distributors of rubbish begin their work again.

Not only does this littering consist of discarded papers, bags, boxes and tins, but there are those store keepers who pour their store dirt onto the sidewalks and then sweep it from the walks into the gutter. The street takes everything, and when the day is done it is quite as likely to be in front of the property of those who are particular to keep the streets clean as in front of the real offender.

There is much which can always be said against the street cleaners but it is too seldom that enough is said about the street disfigurers. They can prevent much of that which furnishes a bad advertisement for a community and which ought not to exist.

"OLD MAN OF THE MOUNTAIN"

If you have ever driven up through New Hampshire, as thousands have, you have probably taken in the impressive scenery in the various notches, including Franconia notch, and been thrilled by its grandeur. That mountain region with the celebrated "old man of the mountain" will never cease to be the objective point of tourists from far and near, and those who can get the chance will view it as often as possible with equally compensating pleasure each time.

For those who have seen and marveled, there will be no surprise that there is a movement afoot to prevent that particular region from falling into the hands of those who would shut their eyes to the natural beauties and turn it over for profit to the saw mill owner who would quickly strip the hills of their wooded finery.

The "old man of the mountain" is only one of the many attractions in that particular corner of New Hampshire and well may the state, organizations and individuals back their interest in their preservation by liberal contributions. It is obvious that the time for such work is before the woodmen get busy with their axes. Treating those hillsides as a cold, commercial proposition would be no more than what has happened elsewhere to the great distress of natural conditions. Not only would there be those who would think nothing of laying the hills bare, but others would be quite as inclined to send into the valley that peculiar formation of rocks which forms the conspicuous profile.

The many attractions of New England are serving to make it the vacation ground of hundreds of thousands every year, almost from the time that the weather conditions are favorable in the spring until late in the fall. There is a charm in the natural scenery which cannot be duplicated and more than the people of any particular locality, or of New Hampshire in this instance, should be eager to aid in its preservation. State park commissions are rendering a highly valuable service in this direction

UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Whenever the use of American ships by American exporters is urged it cannot fail to be regarded as one method of giving the proper stimulation to American shipping. The same is true when it is advocated for importers. This attitude may well be stressed when it is realized that so much of the American goods sent to and those brought here from other countries is really carried in vessels of foreign registry.

Unquestionably there would be more effort made to insist upon American vessels for transportation purposes if it were possible to get as favorable rates, for it has been persistently set forth that American shipping struggles under a serious handicap of American laws which make it impossible for them to furnish transportation at corresponding rates with those shipping interests of other countries which are not obliged to shoulder such burdens, or which operate under a government subsidy.

The desirability of an American merchant marine that would be sufficient to meet the requirements of the nation has been persistently put forth. Americans can build ships and operate them quite as well as those of other nations. Perhaps they are prepared to accept a slight handicap and then feel confident of coming out ahead, but when they are obliged to labor under burdens which drive business to competing lines, because they can get better rates, it comes down to a business proposition which forces the use of other transportation lines than might otherwise be the case. Shippers are not always able to do what they might prefer if all things were equal.

The plea for bolstering up the American merchant marine is nevertheless deserved. The country should have the benefit of such ships under all circumstances. Just now we have them at no little expense to the nation and demands can be anticipated that the government make even greater outlays. Between the opponents of the government in the shipping business and those of the laws handicapping American ships the merchant marine is laboring under difficulties.

CRISSINGER'S RESIGNATION

Even though it is claimed that Governor Crissinger of the federal reserve board has been considering resignation for some time and that the actual step had nothing to do with the decision by the board this month concerning the discount rate in the Chicago district, it will be impossible for most people to disassociate them. They came too close to be unrelated even though resignation may have been contemplated for a considerable period.

In connection with the recent vote by the board, it is claimed that Governor Crissinger voted with the majority, that his vote in fact made the majority, and the resignation coming at this time opens the possibility of a new member reversing the action taken.

The authority of the board to act in the situation that it did has been the subject of much discussion. It is maintained by those who advocated and supported the legislation creating the board that such was the authority intended and conferred, so that the board did only what it had a right to do provided it believed it had exercised its best judgment. It is significant that Senator Glass maintains that the board has the authority to act as it did in case of emergency but he insists that there was no emergency to require it at this time. This makes it appear that there is a conflict of opinion in regard to the judgment exercised by the board in compliance with majority vote and while it might be possible to set forth more definitely by legislation just what the board could do it would not be possible to legislate the judgment of the board.

THE OLD STRAW HAT

The straw hat season never goes without the figurative shedding of tears on the part of many. It means the end of the summer season and the approach of different conditions.

Some one has asked "What becomes of battered straw hats at summer's end?" As for the battered straws there should be only one answer, but perhaps there would be more interest in the broader question, "What becomes of the straws?"

Much depends on the season, and then each has his own method of disposal. There are those which are laid away in blue paper until the 15th of next May and will then be brought forth for another season regardless of condition or style. Some will be put away with that object in view only to be discarded when the comparison is made with the last word next spring. Some have gone into the fireplace regardless of condition, while there are those which are going to do duty on the head of the garden workers for several weeks to come and well into the winter. There are those which have been doing duty since about 1492 and promise to remain indefinitely.

The past season has been a bad one for the straws, bad for the business and bad for the wearer, so that a greater number is certain to be carried over to the season of 1928. Long before the felts were called by fashion they were forced in by weather conditions and there was no chance for the straws to come back once the had gone into disuse. It even had its effect upon the end of the season battering. No one has charged this bad season for the straws to the hat cleaner, but he may realize the benefit of it next spring, for the salvage must be large.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is chiefly the plane people who are getting up in the world these days.

Something to worry about: Scientists claim that the sun will lose its heat in a billion years.

With more than a million going to Canada by auto in the last three months, our neighbor to the north might well wish for a longer season

The man on the corner says: Even the prospects of Indian summer were not sufficient to keep the straw hat in evidence.

Among those who started to fly west across the Atlantic is Captain MacIntosh. He didn't succeed, but he is alive to try it again.

Many an aviator is recognizing that discretion is the better part of valor when it comes to trying to fly a land plane over a long stretch of ocean.

The repudiation of the appeal to the league of nations by Dr. Morales of Panama shows a misrepresentation of Panama's attitude that should have been avoided.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Serve poached eggs on toast with a white sauce, to which a little grated cheese has been added.

Potato balls greased with butter, baked and sprinkled with salt and paprika, are delicious.

Heat evaporated milk in a double boiler for 20 minutes, then chill, and it will whip nicely.

Sweet peppers are good stuffed with canned corn, bread crumbs and cheese. Bake until brown.

Celery leaves, carefully dried in the oven and stored in airtight cans, make excellent flavoring for soup.

Castor oil is good for use on shoes. Rub a little into the leather until dry. The shoes may then be polished.

Mousses are molded and packed in two parts of ice to one part salt, for three or four hours.

Cover the furnace and hot-water pipes with asbestos to save heat.

Remember that ice must melt to reduce temperature and do not cover the ice with newspapers.

An onion chopper which keeps the onions covered while being used is a convenience in pickling time.

Olive oil will not become rancid if two lumps of sugar (to a quart) are added as soon as it is opened.

Oil of lavender sprinkled on book shelves will destroy the odor of mold, which sometimes rises in damp weather.

Corn on the cob is twice as tender and sweet if it is boiled in the husk, after the silks have been removed and husk tied up again.

Roughness on the top of the kitchen stove may be removed by using sandpaper.

The thrifty housewife will keep a covered box for fresh uncooked vegetables, as the air and heat wilt and toughen them.

COOL FIRST

Wait until the food is absolutely cold before putting it away in the refrigerator. It not only is better for the food, but it is a great saving on the ice bill, as the warm food naturally raises the temperature of the icebox.

MAKES WATERPROOF

To make a comfortable pair of shoes waterproof for outdoor use, melt together a dressing of two parts of beeswax to one part of mutton fat. Apply at night and in the morning wipe well with a piece of flannel.

EGG STAINS

Silver spoons or forks, used for eating eggs, should be rubbed with salt before washing, as egg stains will not come off with water.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

When applying hair tonic, by using an eye or medicine dropper, you can get the tonic or warm oil directly to the roots of the hair without getting hair mussed or oily.

There is nothing more soothing for a burn or a scald, it is said, than the white of an egg. It is contact with the air which makes a burn so painful. The albumen of the egg acts as a varnish and excludes the air completely.

A good exercise for the abdomen is to lie down on your right side. Swing top leg forward, bending knee until fully extended and bring the under leg backward with knee sharply bent and toe pointing upward. Repeat this scissors kick from six to 12 times, then turn over on your left side and repeat again the same amount.

Buttermilk contains most of the vitamins B and C, present in whole milk. Since the butterfat has been almost entirely removed, vitamine A and D, which are soluble in fat, will be limited in amount, depending on how much butterfat remains. Buttermilk is valuable as a food in spite of this lack, but when it is necessary to include larger amounts of A and D in the diet, whole milk should be used.

SEALING WITH PARAFFIN

When covering jelly with paraffin the inner rim of the glass must be absolutely free from drops of jelly and the jelly must be set. Melt the paraffin over low heat; pour in while hot over each glassful of jelly to cover the top completely. Tilt the glass so that the paraffin will run up on the sides. This will make a perfect seal around the edge. When the paraffin is cool, place tin tops on the glasses or paste paper over them. Label neatly and store in a cool, dry, dark place.

HARDWARE FLOORS

Do not let your hardwood floors get too badly marked before having them polished. A little polish on the worn places as soon as they are discovered will save them for some time and keep the floors in a permanently good condition.

TO TAKE OUT COFFEE STAIN

Boiling water, poured from a teakettle held at a height of two or three feet often will take out a fresh coffee stain, and some fruit stains.

SAVE LEFTOVER CHEESE

All the little left-over dried pieces of cheese should be grated and placed in a glass jar. They are excellent for made-over dishes, and particularly good to use with starch foods, such as potatoes, macaroni, rice.

UNDER OLD CARPET

Newspapers seem to be the best protection against moths, and if they are spread on the boards under the doubtful carpet it will help greatly in keeping away these pests.

TO LOOSEN GLASS STOPPER

To loosen a glass stopper in a bottle put one or two drops of sweet oil around the stopper and place it a little distance from the fire.

When the bottle is quite warm strike the stopper with a stick with a cloth wrapped around it first on one side and then on the other. This will loosen the most obstinate stopper.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Paris fall styles make much of flaring skirts, flaring cuffs on sleeves and flaring jabot collars on coats for formal wear.

A blonde satin crepe tea frock has a circular flounce, wide flaring cuffs and blouse jabots of matching lace to give it gracious lines.

A brown sibeline broadcloth coat has a bolero cape back that is split as far up as the yoke line and shows its beige silk lining as its wearer walks.

A black satin evening gown with tight bodice swathed hipline and front fullness caught up with jeweled ornament shows the new "moulded" silhouette.

A smart little crepe satin street dress for a young girl has an all-around bolero and a skirt with three tiers that flare on the right side.

Light colored kid slippers for afternoon have hand-embroidered inserts, straps and heels of elaborate design to match the gown they accompany.

To wear with tailored suits there are little "V" shaped vestees of crepe de chine covered with embroidery in such soft colors that they look like old church vestments.

The black-white vogue is interpreted in the zebra fur, with the black and white stripes running cross-wise for the top of the coat and horizontal for the skirt portion.

For autumn and winter wear, nothing could be more becoming to the brunette than a frock of deep wine red velvet trimmed at the neck with a touch of fine lace dyed to match.

A coat that will carry one through the end of the summer into the fall is the very fine kashmir fabric trimmed only with stitching and a shaggy flower at the neck. It comes in beige and gray.

FIGURED VELVET SMART IN VOGUE

If you are wondering whether velvet and satin will put to rout the vogue for figured materials take note of the very new figured velvet. This may be printed chiffon velvet or brocaded velvet on a chiffon or georgette background. Dark reds, browns, and light blues are the most frequent colors. It is very supple and is used for whole dresses.

BOLEROS GOOD IN FALL STYLES

If you are wondering whether the boleros of spring and summer are good for fall—keep an eye on the newest models. Several of the most popular ones have a hip-length bolero, with the tight hipline, a slightly flared skirt to make a perfect balance.

CUFFS ARE WIDE

The coat cuff this year is usually quite wide. Sometimes it finishes its top with a buttoned point. When the cuff itself is narrow it uses stitchery to give a wide effect on the sleeve. Fur helps, too, to give the wide effect, which is both graceful and luxurious. When a fur cuff is used it is usually set on a short way up the sleeve from the end of the cuff.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES

If you will thread your needle before cutting the cotton from the spool and make the knot at the freshly cut end the thread will not curl up and knot when sewing.

When cutting out a garment follow the edge of the pattern exactly, since most patterns allow for seams. Otherwise, when basted, the garment will be difficult to fit.

In cutting out a dress make the back shoulder seam 1-2-inch longer than the front and ease the extra fullness to the front. Make this allowance whether the pattern gives it or not.

How many of us have all the attachments for our sewing machines, but never use one of them? It is only a question of learning how, and a half hour at the shop where the machine was purchased would save many hours of labor.

SIMPLIFYING HOME SEWING

If you do much sewing at home for yourself or your daughters, a foundation pattern for each one will simplify the cutting and designing of simple dresses, suggests the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture. By that is meant an individually fitted pattern with the normal seam lines, neck, and armholes, which may be used as a fitting guide for checking commercial patterns and as a basis for planning decorative features. Such a permanent foundation pattern is best made in a firm cotton material. Unbleached muslin, cambric, or ginghams is satisfactory for the purpose. The commercial pattern that seems best suited to the individual type of figure should be followed. It must first be carefully tested before the cloth pattern is cut. Sometimes a pattern bought by bust measure does not fit any other part. It may, therefore, be advisable to find a pattern that fits the shoulder measurements and alter it to conform to the bust before cutting the dress. Measurements of the figure should always be taken and checked on the paper pattern. The length of the sleeve varies frequently for example, and the paper pattern must be lengthened or shortened accordingly. Neck, shoulders, and other parts may need still further fitting when the guide or cloth pattern is basted together and tried on.

A large checked gingham is suggested for the foundation pattern, because the warp and filling threads of the material are most easily seen. When the pattern has been completely fitted you can mark the straight of the material in each piece of the cloth pattern for convenience in cutting by making a slash 6 to 8 inches long, exactly following a thread.

A woman can fit her own foundation pattern, but it is better to have help. After it has been fitted it may be cut down the center front and center back, and one-half used as a pattern for simple dresses, the other as a basis for designing. Almost any style of dress and many blouses can be designed from such a foundation pattern. Stitch all seam and dart lines with contrasting thread, making the pattern reversible. Also stitch all pieces one-eighth inch from the edge to prevent stretching. If the two sides are very different, save the whole pattern, marking right and left sides plainly.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Queen Mary of England has only one maid of honor.

Los Angeles, Cal., has but one woman among its 60 judges.

Georgia's only woman legislator, Miss Bessie Kempton, has started her third successive term.

The Jacksonville Women's club with 600 members, is erecting its own building.

The Chinese government has established a military training school for women.

Nearly 3,000 women are employed in the bureau of engraving and printing in Washington.

As a result of the recent elections in Warsaw, there are 11 women on the board of aldermen.

SWEETENED VEGETABLES

All summer vegetables have a nicer taste if from one to four tablespoons of sugar is added to the boiling water.

PULVERIZED MINT

Pulverized dried mint leaves give an unusual flavor to meat sauces and salad dressings without definitely tasting like mint.

RECIPES

Honey Mousse: Four cups whipped cream, 2 cups honey, 8 eggs. Beat the yolks of the eggs thoroughly and then beat in the honey slowly. Heat gradually until thick, stirring continually. Remove and cool, then add the whites of the eggs that have been whipped to a stiff froth. Next add the whipped cream; blend together. Pack in large quantities of ice and salt and freeze without stirring.

Fruit Tapioca: Beat two egg yolks, add one-half a cup of white sugar, one cup of milk, one tablespoon of butter, salt to taste, and two tablespoons of pearl tapioca, which has been soaked in water for half an hour, or three tablespoons of the quick tapioca. Cook in a double boiler until thick. Remove from the fire and stir in one cup of crushed bananas or one cup of crushed pineapple. Pour into a baking dish and cover with the stiffly beaten egg whites. Brown slightly in a hot oven. Serve very cold. Any cooked or fresh fruit, such as raspberries or strawberries, may be used, and it may be served with whipped cream. This is a quickly prepared dessert and very nourishing.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

George W. Wickersham, who today enters upon his 70th year was attorney-general of the United States in the cabinet of President Taft. As such he made a national reputation as a prosecutor of "trusts." Previously he had been a successful and highly paid lawyer in Philadelphia and New York; and upon his retirement from the cabinet he settled in New York and resumed legal practice. He is a native of Pittsburgh and was educated at Lehigh university. While his clientage as a lawyer has been among the largest corporations in America, Mr. Wickersham has never come to stand, in the public thought, as a lawyer with the extreme capitalists point of view. He has been honored with the presidency of the American Bar association and has served as American member of the International Committee for the Codification of International Law.

Pima cotton, brought to this country from Egypt and developed here, has now been reintroduced into its native country.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Once More Cubby Escapes

Be not too sure; 'twill often lead
To where you'll be chagrined indeed.
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy didn't know just what to do. It was the middle of the night and he didn't want to waken his father and mother. Yet hiding up in the springs of his bed was that mischievous little Cub which had caused them so much trouble. He knew that if he tried to get Cubby out of there he would be sure to waken Farmer Brown and Mother Brown.

"Perhaps the rascal will stay there the rest of the night," muttered Farmer Brown's Boy. "Anyway he can't get into very much mischief here in my room, and I'll shut the door so that he can't get into any other room. In the morning I'll chain him up until after breakfast and then I'll take him over in the Green Forest and let him go. I hate to do it. I certainly do. In spite of all the mischief he's been in I've grown very fond of him; but poor Mother can't stand much more. I don't blame her for feeling as she does. My, my, my, what a mess he did get into this time!" Farmer Brown's Boy chuckled at the memory.

Then he saw to it that his door was closed and locked, put out the light and went to bed. He lay for some time listening, but heard nothing more from Cubby. Finally he dropped asleep and, being tired, slept soundly.

As usual, Farmer Brown's Boy was up early in the morning. The first thing he did was to look around the room hastily for Cubby. But he didn't see him. "He must still be up in the springs of my bed," thought Farmer Brown's Boy, and poked his head over the edge of the bed to look under. Then he got out of bed and crawled under. There was no Cubby in the springs of that bed.

I wish you might have seen the expression on the face of Farmer Brown's Boy when he came out from under that bed. He began to wonder if he had dreamed that he had found Cubby up in the springs of that bed. Yes, sir, he actually began to wonder if he had dreamed. Once more he crawled under the bed. This time he settled it. He knew now that he hadn't dreamed it. You see, when he felt of some of those bed slats he found them sticky. There was no dream about that stickiness. But this didn't help any in solving the puzzle of what had become of Cubby.

"He's up there all right," grunted Farmer Brown's Boy ruefully.

As he crawled out from under the bed Farmer Brown's Boy happened to look over at the fireplace. There was an old-fashioned fireplace in that room. Now the hearth was covered with soot and there was soot scattered out around beyond the hearth. That soot hadn't been there the night before. Farmer Brown's Boy was sure of that. Mother Brown was too good a housekeeper to allow anything of this kind.

"So that's it!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy with a grin. "That scamp has climbed up the chimney, I do believe!"

He swept aside the fallen soot, and, getting down on his hands and knees, he peered up the chimney. As he did so a little lump of soot landed squarely in his face.

"He's up there all right," grunted Farmer Brown's Boy ruefully. "It is a wonder he didn't go up there in the first place. Well, I'm glad he's outside the house, anyway. Now I'll have to catch him somehow."

"Hi, Son, have you found that Bear yet?" called a voice from downstairs.

"Yes and no," replied Farmer Brown's Boy as he hurried to dress. (Copyright, 1927, by T. W. Burgess)

IS A HEALTHIER STRONGER GIRL

Because She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America. This is possible thru the magic of the humble tin can.

In one of the canning establishments, Julia Schmidt was employed. It was complicated work because she did sealing and other parts of the work. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she forced herself to work when she was hardly able to sit at her machine. At times she would have to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition.

She tried various medicines. At last a friend of hers spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Miss Schmidt gave it a trial.

"Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes. "I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Julia Schmidt's address is 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon. For sale by all druggists.

EAGLES HOLD FIRST INITIATION OF SEASON WITH CLASS OF 20

Norwich aerie of Eagles, No. 267, opened the initiation season Saturday night at the Eagles home with a class of twenty, which will be the first of a series this fall. When the degree work had been concluded, a banquet was served by the chef and his assistants. The speaker of the evening was James Tevlin, formerly of New London, who is now connected with the organization department headquarters of the Eagles.

Mr. Tevlin spoke of the spirit of fraternity in the Eagles in obedience to which it has paid out $29,000,000 in sick benefits, $6,000,000 in funeral benefits and $10,000,000 for physicians' services to the homes of its members. By the aid of the aerie physician we are giving this nation two or three million children healthy and free from serious handicaps, he said. We are building or have just completed building this year, he continued, aerie homes costing in the aggregate seventeen million dollars. I call them homes because that is what we aim to make them. I urge upon the aerie that it provide for its members a gymnasium a good library, their own pool room, a ball room, and whatever else makes life wholesome and attractive to Eagles, especially those who are young. In this we shall be helping to keep young American manhood on steady keel. We shall be keeping boys of eighteen away from public pool rooms, bootlegging cabarets, and roadhouses where they fall in with and acquire the habits of people who prey on the community instead of helping it.

JAMES TEVLIN

New Mothers' Pensions

"Long ago the Eagles started on a public program of protection for the helpless, especially those helpless folk whose lives are or have been of advantage to the commonwealth. We supported workingmen's compensation laws from the beginning of the period in which this just legislation took form. By reason of that early and consistent support we feel a personal satisfaction and happiness in the fact that today forty-four out of the forty-eight states have these laws. It was an Eaglew ho in 1911 framed the first mothers' pension law. That law was introduced and passed in the legislature of Missouri, and it was administered in Jackson county by the Eagle who wrote the law. This man was and is a member of Kansas City aerie—Judge Edward Everett Porterfield. Recently in a public statement he said: 'You Eagles are entitled to the credit for the creation and making of this, the most constructive law on any book of statutes the world knows, for you pioneered with me in this.'

Sponsers Old Age Pensions

"In Montana, in Nevada, and in Wisconsin, old folk are being pensioned in their own humble homes instead of being shut up in poorhouses, because the Eagles framed old age pension bills, introduced them in the legislature of these states and evoked enough humane sentiment among the constituency to get the measures passed. In Kentucky we have paved the way for pensions in a law making it optional with the counties whether they shall adopt the pension system or continue to cart their poor old folk off to the poorhouse, an institution which all men abhor and condemn. In Pennsylvania, the Eagles are fighting relentlessly for an amendment to the state constitution that will permit old folk to be pensioned. The Eagles have succeeded in getting it through the legislature and on its way to the people in a referendum to be held next year. In New York, dogged work by the Eagles resulted in the creation by the legislature last session of a commission to survey the aged poor and recommend action regarding their being pensioned. By these activities we have caused our critics to list us among theorists and dreamers, but even our critics must admit that in Montana and Wisconsin and Nevada, where our old age pension is at work, it gives every evidence of being as practical as the mothers' pension has proved to be, and a preventive of undeserved suffering. The Fraternal Order of Eagles by its name and by every gesture is an intensely patriotic organization. This is the final thought I would leave with you. I address myself herein especially to the many men in this audience who are veterans of the World war. We have in our hearts a mighty warm regard and respect for you: there is none other whom we honor with so complete unanimity.

Care for Veterans' Families

"Now let me state why the Eagles feel this special affinity for the ex-service men. In 1917, when war was declared, we had only about 325,000 members. Before the draft went into effect, 17,000 of our Eagle brothers volunteered. When the last shot went whining over No Man's Land, 47,000 Eagles wore the uniform—out of a total membership of 225,000.

"Those 47,000 boys in the fighting forces of the nation were not rich men's sons, but for the most part boys from middle class homes where aging fathers and mothers and often young wives had to fear not only their loss in battle, but the loss of their support in futures years. Those boys marched away with the memory of their mothers' faces drawn by a double anxiety and wet with tears: The sons they had given their all to rear and on whom they depended for loving care in later years might not return. Profound indeed is that love which sees in its object not only joy but strength and comfort in trouble. So I say to you that these 47,000 who were given to their country by this order were given at a greater sacrifice than those from the homes that felt no fear of the future.

The Patriotic Fund

"Leaders in this fraternity sensed this situation, and the first act of the grand aerie officers in the early part of April, 1927, was to bring these homes under the protection of the fraternity for the duration of the war, by absolving the members in service from paying their dues. In August, 1917, the grand aerie went a great step further. We created the patriotic fund. We raised this fund by a per capita tax of ten cents a month, to be paid by the aeries from dues. This contribution was made regularly for three years. Upwards of one and a half million dollars was accumulated. Out of it we have paid to the nearest dependent relative of each boy killed in battle or dying of disease in cantonments or subsequently as the result of wounds or disease incurred in service, the sum of $1,000. We have 1,200 cancelled gratuity checks in our files and many letters from the soldier's loved ones, whose way was rendered less hard by this insurance. We were the first to insure the men in service, even before the government adopted this plan, and if I understand the feeling of the grand aerie in this matter, we shall be the last to quit the field.

"Last year we paid twenty-five claims to the soldier's gratuity and we shall cvontinue to perform this duty so long as there is on our rolls a veteran who was an Eagle when he entered the service and who has remained an Eagle to the end.

"Thus we keep faith with those who fought. Thus we demonstrate the genuineness of our patriotism."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE BY ILLINOIS SPEAKER

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the Church of the Good Shepherd, there was a lecture on Christian Science with a large attendance. The lecturer was Judge Frederick C. Hill, C. S., of Clinton, Ill., a member of the board of lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, whose theme was "Christian Science; the Revelation of Man's Inalienable Rights."

The lecturer spoke in substance as follows:

There are many intelligent people who have never investigated the subject of Christian Science; and at times one hears this expression: "Christian Scientists talk a great deal about a discoverer and founder. Who is that discoverer? What was discovered? What was founded?"

The answer to all of these queries is simple. An intelligent, devout, Christian woman, Mary Baker Eddy, is the discoverer and founder of Christian Science. Early in childhood she became deeply religious and was an efficient and progressive student of the Bible. Through an earnest study and research of the Scriptures she proved that perfect trust and confidence in God's laws are followed by fixed and absolute results. She furthermore proved that God governs His universe, inluding man, through infinite intelligence; and that infinite intelligence constitutes and embraces absolute law. She likewise proved that absolute law is immutable, (unchangeable), and that it can be understood and intelligently applied; and when understood and accordingly applied, absolute law sets aside and nullifies the false beliefs oft designated and termed, "natural" or "human" law.

During her investigation and research, an injury caused by an accident led her to apply these absolute, immutable laws to her then apparently helpless condition; and through her understanding and the intelligent application of these laws she was healed. Through this experience she had proved for herself that God's laws are immutable, available and operative. She discovered the "Divine laws of Life, Truth and Love", and she named that discovery Christian Science.

After her discovery and healing she wrote and published a book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", and designated this book the "Christian Science Text Book". Many people believe that Christian Scientists regard this book as the Bible, and that they substitute it for the Bible. This belief is unfounded and untrue. The Christian Science text book is not the Bible or a substitute for it. It is merely that which its name implies: A "Key", a spiritual interpretation of God's unchangeable laws set forth in the Bible.

Christian Scientists love this Christian woman and they are deeply grateful for the years of loyal devotion given by her in establishing this cause. As a testimony of their loyalty, devotion and gratitude, they are striving to preserve, protect, and make available her discovery. They are striving to apply it to the needs of humanity. And they as earnestly striving to live up to her high standard of a genuine Christian Scientist thus defined:—Christian of the land; and, following the command of the Master, they go into all the world, preaching the gospel and healing the sick.". "Moreover, they love their enemies, even those that hate them. This we all must do to be Christian Scientists in spirit and in truth."

PICNIC REUNION BY WERWANNWO IN CANTERBURY

Saturday afternoon at their hospitable summer home in Canterbury, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lathrop, former residents of this city, were hosts, with their daughter, Lydia, for a picnic reunion of the Werwannwo, a one-time active club of Norwich young women. Several members came from other cities to attend the delightful gathering and the renewal of old friendships made the day a memorable one for all present.

At the close of the enjoyable afternoon, supper was served in the big dining room, the picnic baskets providing a delicious menu to which the hosts added green corn, tomato salad and coffee.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. AshtonPersons and daughter, Margaret of Willimantic, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Monahan and son, Robert, of Pawtucket, Mrs. J. D. Haviland of Pawtucket, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Noyes of Gales Ferry, Mrs. S. W. Sevin, Charles F. Whitney, Mrs. H. B. Cary, Miss Julia H. Wood, Miss Susie C. Whittlesey, Miss Gertrude Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus H. Vaughn, Mrs. William L. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Palmer and daughter, Clara, all of this city.

POSED AS AGENT TO INSPECT DRIVERS' LICENSES

After he had posed as a special city agent, Frank Harris, 25, Fall River, Mass., drew a 15-day jail sentence in the city court Saturday morning. The charge on which he was sent up was intoxication. Harris, who came here last week with the Coleman Bros. carnival, approached Milton Green of Hallville as Mr. Green was parking his automobile near the carnival grounds and demanded to see his operator's license. Asked who he was, Harris said he was a special agent of the city appointed to inspect licenses. Mr. Green showed him the license which Harris took and kept. Then Harris is alleged to have told Mr. Green to give him $5 or he would have him "put up for six months".

Suspicious of the man, Green asked him to go to his home to get the $5 and Harris got into the car. At the Marguerite corner, Mr. Green turned Harris over to Officer Elmer Allen. In court Harris claimed he was drunk and did not remember what had happened.

TOURING CAR HOOKS CYCLE—RHODE ISLAND MEN INJURED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 18—Lloyd Winsor, 46 Lexington avenue, Providence, suffered a fractured left collarbone, contusions of the right eye and abrasions, while James Lang, 748 Park avenue, Auburn, R. I., sustained three fractured left ribs and contusions about the body, when the motorcycle on which they were riding was in collision with a Maxwell touring car owned by Clarence McLean of this city, on the Providence road near Clark's Corner, shortly before 10 o'clock tonight.

The automobile was driven by the foreman of a construction job being done in Providence by Aberthaw company. McLean, the owner of the car is the son of Capt. of Police McLean of this city. Also in the machine were Andrew and Thomas Connell and James Moran, of Willimantic, returning to work in Providence.

Winsor and Lang were with a party of motorcyclists returning to Rhode Island, after participating in a hill-climbing contest at Meriden today. Winsor, the more severely injured of the two, had been treated here about 10 o'clock this morning for a cut on the head which required three stitches to close, as the result of having been pitched headlong on the road near North Windham when the front wheel of his motorcycle collapsed, while he was going toward Meriden.

He was treated on both occasions at St. Joseph's hospital by Dr. Charles A. Jenkins. Both Winsor and Lang are being detained at the hospital.

The accident resulted when the motorcycle, equipped with a side car, was hooked with the front fender of the automobile while both were traveling in the same direction. The car rolled onto the motorcycle and was removed from this position with considerable difficulty.

SEYMOUR V. DE RUSHA GIVEN PROMOTION TO NEWARK

Seymour V. De Rusha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour A. De Rusha of 68 Church street, has received a very flattering advancement, after three years as assistant manager of the Woolworth store in Norwich. He left Sunday afternoon for Newark, where he is to be assistant manager for the same company. Especially has he been successful in window dressing in the local store.

After business hours Saturday evening, his associate workers in the Norwich store gathered to bid Mr. De Rusha good luck in his new duties, at the same time presenting him a handsome fountain pen.

The young man is a graduate of the Norwich Commercial school. He has been a popular member of the Boy Scouts of St. Patrick's parish earning the good will of all the Scouts and their supervisors during camping outings and the various other Scout activities.

447 MACHINES IN PEAK HOUR ON THAMES STREET

An idea of traffic over W. Thames street Sunday afternoon is seen by the following checkup made by a resident of that street on Sunday afternoon. It was ascertained that the peak hour of traffic was between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening, when 447 cars were counted traveling in both directions. Between 3 and 4 o'clock 417 automobiles were counted, while the count taken between 7 and 8 o'clock was somewhat lower than on the previous occasions and there were 367 cars checked. The count shows a total of 1231 cars in the three hours checked.

Promises Court to Leave State

Anthony Petrowski, 28, father of four children, who was presented in the city court Saturday morning on a charge of indecent exposure, promised to leave the state if given his freedom. Thursday night, the local police started a search for him on complaint of three or four young women in the Thamesville section. He has been before the court before on similar charges and sometime ago was sent to the Norwich state hospital for observation.

New England Industries

(Note: The information, on which this article, issued by the research department of the New England council, is based, was obtained by the domestic commerce division, United States department of commerce, through an industrial survey of New England conducted in co-operation with the New England council. The department of commerce is now preparing for publication a full report of this industry which will contain additional information of practical value to all New England business men.)

WIREWORK

The wirework industries of New England are of well-established longevity and are steadily increasing their sales in and outside of New England. Answers to a survey conducted by the United States department of commerce in cooperation with the New England council show that 10 per cent of the country's wirework output is contributed by concerns in this area. The classification as adopted includes such articles as wire fencing and gates, cloth and netting, barbed wire, fly killers and wire springs.

Fifty-one companies are making these and similar goods in New England. They employ a total average of 2,219 workers and their annual output is valued at $10,120,000, of which Massachusetts yields 67 per cent and Connecticut 30 per cent.

Twenty-three years is the average life of plants in this group, and they have been led to New England mostly by nearness to market and favorable labor conditions. The original management has been retained in 64 per cent of the companies, and the average period under present management for all firms reporting is 17 years. No branch plants have been built.

Wage payments on a piece work or other incentive basis are made by 40 per cent of the manufacturers reporting, the average ratio of workers thus paid to total personnel being 48 per cent. Including all plants in the industry, the average falls to 27 per cent. The various methods of improvement are in nearly equal favor, with perhaps a slight stress upon continuance of plant and equipment maintenance. Individual manufacturers said that "reorganization of management has turned a loss into a profit," and "producing quality products and inspection system aid greatly in maintaining quality."

The general sales trend has been steadily upward since 1921, with large increases yearly. Fifty-two per cent of the companies reported increases in the past few years, 22 per cent decreases and 25 per cent little variation. New products, the extension of territories, and new sales methods have all aided in increasing sales. Such increases in New England are reported as due especially to sales work and canvassing.

Fifteen companies said their distribution was made direct to consumer, seven through wholesaler or jobber, three through a commission agent, three direct to retailer and two direct by mail.

DUWELL CLUB STAGES LAST OUTDOOR AMATEUR BOUTS ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Norwich will bid farewell to the outdoor boxing season tomorrow night when the Duwell A. A. stages its fourth and last outdoor amateur boxing show at the Duwell field.

For two months, local fandom has been entertained every other week with a card of ten bouts, presented by simon pures of Connecticut and Rhode Island and on every occasion, the entertainment has proven clean and wholesome, so much so that hundreds of people mostly women whom had never witnessed an exhibition of the manly art up until this summer have joined the ranks of the dyed-in-the-wool fight fans.

Each show has been chuck full of action and good boxing intermingled with a dash of comedy. To say that the final card which goes on tomorrow night will be any better, would be unfair, but it is safe to predict that the last one will be equally as good and lively as any of the past three.

Plenty of new blood has been signed up for the final show, including several welter and middleweights. These new men will be pitted against the winners of the previous bouts, so that there will be no chance of the fans witnessing any rematches.

Probably the most colorful of the boxers who will appear Tuesday night, who although battered and badly beaten in his first appearance within the squared circle, has come along in a style, nothing less than spectacular.

This boy, 139 pounds of bone and muscle, is none other than Young Besade, a member of the Duwell A. A. The victor of a technical kayo on Aug. 12 when he fought Alex Touraine of Putnam, Besade was declared through, by most of the wise acres. However, this was only the beginning of a career which has been marked by hard and faithful training. Since that fateful evening, over at the Duwell field, nearly two months ago, Besade has scored a knockout over Young Couchon of Plainfield, and won decisions over Young Chappe of Westerly and Young Polanski of Colchester. The victory over the Colchester lad broke a string of 20 consecutives wins which Polanski had scored in and around Hartford.

Besade is asking for another crack at Touraine and Touraine has already sent in his entry for tomorrow night's show.

The local boy, is only one of the many favorites whom local fandom will be pulling for tomorrow night, as Koziol, Darr, Chappe, Salinski, Young Peloquin and many others are already billed.

FRANCE NOW SEEKS U. S. GOLF CROWN

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Another French athletic challenge against the United States is to be launched tomorrow, when the field of 148 contenders for the women's national golf championship gets under way at the Cherry Valley club, Garden City, N. Y.

Mlle. Simone de la Chaume, an 18-year-old French girl, whose irons play has greatly impressed American observers during her practice rounds, is regarded as one of the favorites likely to reach the final round of the tournament. Mlle. Chaume made her first bid for golfing greatness two years ago when she carried Miss Glenna Collett to the 35th hole before going down to defeat in the French women's championship. She has improved steadily since then and this year annexed the women's championship in England and France.

With Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, the defending champion, playing below her game of 1926, critics were looking toward her possible dethronement, and out of the list of possibilities they have not yet found a more promising aspirant than the French girl.

The national women's championship never has left the United States.

PERSSON GETS VERDICT OVER BUD GORMAN

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Harry Persson received the decision over Bud Gorman in the fourth round of their bout. Gorman was obliged to give up because of a sprained knee. The men are heavyweights.

Twenty thousand persons gathered in the Stockholm velodrome to watch the open air bout, included among the spectators being Princes Carl, Lennart and Wilhelm.

RIVERVIEW BEATS STARS BUT LOSES TO MOOSUP

Riverview split even in the week end games swamping the Norwich All Stars 10 to 1 on Saturday and dropping the third game of the N. E. championship series to Moosup Town team 5 to 1. In the Sunday encounter Riverview could do little with Ruggerio who let them down with four scattered hits. Andy Grey, pitching for Riverview was not in his usual form and was nicked for nine hits which together with five Riverview errors made a rather loose ball game of it.

Ruggerio fanned seven of the Riverview batters and did not walk a man. Moosup contributed three errors but they were not of the costly variety and did not help the Riverview team materially. With this victory for Moosup the series stands two and one in favor of the locals, and the fourth game will be played in two weeks.

Saturday's Game.

Although Riverview got but six hits off Lloyd Jarvis, his wildness and poor support was more than enough to give Joe Hamel's boys an easy 10 to 1 win Saturday at the hospital diamond over the Industrial league's All Star team. Seven bad errors together with four passes and two hit batsmen were turned into scores by the more experienced hospital outfit.

Riverview scored four in the second on a pass, hit batsman, error, passed ball, infield out and Christy's single and then did the same thing without a hit in the fourth on four errors a pass and hit batsman, one more in the fifth on pass, error and sacrifice. Their last came in the eighth on Cimikoski's triple, an ordinary single to left which bounded over Sadinsky's shoulders and Belaic's single. Belair was thrown out stealing and Moore's long triple to right which followed was wasted.

The Stars had plenty of chances to score but only in the fifth could they do so. In this frame a pass to Labenski, an error and Smith's single turned the trick. Two double plays and one of the triple variety helped erase the Stars from scoring.

Mace Goldblatt was ahead in the hitting, while Hymie Sadinsky furnished the fielding feature with a catch off Normandin. Leo Fisher, of Warren Warren Harding High, played for the Stars.

MANTON TOWNERS DOWN MARTAFTS ON SUNDAY

Dan Costigan's Manton Town team fell heavily on the offerings of Russ Fisher Sunday at the J. B. Martin diamond nad downed the Martafts 6 to 4. Gilmore, the Manton hurler, was largely responsible for the Taftville downfall as the Taftville hitters were unable to bunch their eight bingles effectively.

Manton opened the game by scoring in the first frame and then bunched hits in the fourth and eighth innings for two runs in each frame. Taftville missed an excellent opportunity to count in the sixth inning when with three men on and one down Taftville attempted a squeeze play which resulted in a double play retiring the side.

Carlie Krauss proved the fielding sensation of the afternoon with his stops of two hard hit balls and his spectacular catch of a foul fly far in back of third base. The score:

ESTIMATES $5,000,000 WILL CHANGE HANDS ON BOUT

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Wall street brokerage firm of Kemp and company estimates that $10,000,000 will be wagered on the outcome of next Thursday night's heavyweight championship battle between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey at Chicago.

William Kemp, head of the concern, which acts as stakeholder for many of the big bettors of the financial district, says that approximately $5,000,000 will change hands throughout the United States, based on wagers made thus far. His estimate provides for the following amounts in large eastern cities: New York, $1,500,000; Chicago, $1,000,000; Philadelphia, $250,000; Boston, $250,000, and Pittsburgh, $250,000. The balance of the United States will wager $1,750,000, Mr. Kemp figures.

He estimated that $5,000,000 will be wagered outside the United States on the outcome.

REDS AND GIANTS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Cincinnati and New York divided a double header here today 7 to 0 and 4 to 2.

In the first game Lucas put a temporary stop to the pennant aspirations of the Giants, holding them to three hits while the Reds made merry with three Giant pitchers.

In the second game New York jumped on Jakie May before he got his bearings and ran up a lead that the Reds could not overcome.

New York only got two men as far as second base in the first game. Lindstrom doubled to the left field wall in the first inning but died there and in the fifth after two were out, Harper singled and went to second on Taylor's single off Pittenger's glove. That was as far as he got.

Three singles gave the Reds a run in the second inning while four singles, a hit batsman and a double scored three more in the fourth. Dressen scored while Hornsby and Terry were making a double play in the seventh, Dressen getting on through a walk and advancing on a wild throw. A base on balls, double, then another pass, followed by a single and sacrifice Flyn scored the last two runs.

New York got an early start in the final game as they scored three in the first inning. Mann started with a single but was forced by Lindstrom. Roush grounded out and Terry singled, scoring Lindstrom. Hornsby was hit by a pitched ball. Jackson doubled, scoring Hornsby and Terry. Taylor's double and Lindstrom's single was responsible for the fourth and last run. Pittenger and Picinich both singled with one out in the seventh and Pittenger scored when Lucas, who batted for May, grounded to Hornsby. Taylor ran into the diamond and then muffed Dressen's little fly. Picinich coming all the way from second.

CARL KRAUSS WINS THREE FAST EVENTS AT TAFTVILLE FIELD DAY

Carl Krauss, star shortstop of the Martafts, shone in another role on Saturday when he proved the sensation of the Taftville A. A. field day in winning three events, the 100 yard open, 100 yard closed and the 220 yard closed. It was Carlie's debut on the cinder path and he crashed through with such brilliance that he made the spectators sit up and take notice. Without any preliminary training Carlie shed his baseball uniform and donned a track suit but stuck to the old baseball shoes. He was anything but the favorite to win any of the events as entered as against him was Jimmy Murphy, who has won these events in previous years as well as Speerdi of Fitchville, a trained sprint man of the Putnam Trade school.

In the first of the athletic events, the 100 yard dash for Taftville runners, Krauss was away with the gun, legs flying like pistons and he tore down the distance in 10 3-5 seconds, beating the favorite, Jimmy Murphy, to the tape by two strides.

His next performance was in the 100 yard open. In this race he was pitted against Speerdi of Fitchville. As in the previous race Krauss was away to a good start getting a stride on the Fitchville lad which he held to the end, flashing across the line a half stride in the fore. He clipped 2-5s of a second from his first time in this event.

In the 220 yard closed event Krauss showed that was just as good at the longer distance as he was in the century. As in the first race he was pressed by Murphy who ran on even terms with the new sensation until th elast 50 yards when Krauss drew away and finished about three strides in front of Murphy. As there was some doubt as to the exact distance in the 220 yard event the time was not given as official.

The field meet was a decided success starting with a parade and ending with the tug of war between Mineau Beauregard's Lumbermen and Fontaine's Truckers, in which the latter team outpulled the lumbermen. The novelty events which included the greased pole climb, pie-eating contest, battle royal and sack and shoe races provided no little amusement for the spectators.

One of the features of the day was the gymnastic drills by the members of the Maennerchor Turner section under the direction of Instructor Carl Kallen. The turners gave home neat drill work and also a number of pyramid figures which brought repeated applause from the crowd. At the conclusion of their exhibition James H. Troland, chairman of the field day committee presented the section with a large engraved silver loving cup.

A bit of comedy was injected into the proceedings by Julius Samery, former circus clown, in a rube make-up and Arthur Tremblay as a cowboy. The Baltic band furnished music during the afternoon.

The summaries:

GAUCHER IS FINALIST IN THREAD CITY GOLF TOURNEY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 18—Harry S. Gaucher made his unexpected debut into the semi-final class of the individual golf championships at the Willimantic Country club this morning by defeating his strong opponent, Raymond A. Parker, 3 up and 1 to go. Parker, a comparative old-timer at the ancient game, had been picked to win the match. Mr. Gaucher leads the field in the second 18 to enter the semi-final field. The first 16 is not yet represented in that class. In the third, Willis Ridgeway is to play John C. Frazier for the finals and in the fourth two matches remain to be played off between Kenneth Branch and Edwin J. Donnelly and William S. Gane and George L. Black before final honors are competed for. Attorney Gaucher will meet either G. Everett Harrington or Dr. H. Newton of Storrs for final honors, Harrington having defeated Albert B. Smith 5 up and 4 to go.

GOOD RACING FEATURES CLOSING DAY AT KINGSTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

KINGSTON, R. I., Sept. 18—In the last day's racing at the Kingston Fair grounds track the first race for three-year-old trotters was run in close heats. In the first Annie Nelson broke at the first quarter leaving the other two entries to fight it out, Mary B. of Hartford taking the pole at the quarter stretch for the first race, won by a scant margin and making the race in straight heats.

There were only four entries in the second race, Frank Childchester in the second heat made the first 1-2 mile in 1:03 1-2 but slowed down for the mile, making the time of the heat 2:14 1-2. The race track time for the fair racing was hung up in last Thursday's card at 2:11.

LACOSTE PROVES AGAIN HE IS TILDEN'S MASTER

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 18—(AP)—Rene Lacoste, an iron-nerved son of France with steel springs in his toes and the accuracy of a rifleman in his racket, swept to decisive straight set victory over America's "Big Bill" Tilden Saturday to win the tennis champpionship of the United States for the second time in as many years. The score was 11-9, 6-3, 11-9. Coming close upon the French sweep of the Davis cup, the victory drove home the claim of France to individual as well as team supremacy over all the world.

CARD'S DOUBLE WIN PUTS THEM CLOSE TO GIANTS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18—(AP)—The Phillies were polished off in both games of a twin bill by the St. Louis Cardinals here tday, 7 to 3 and 8 to 3, giving the World's champions three straight victories in the series.

In their clean sweep of today's double header the Cardinals gained a game on Pittsburgh and New York, working up to within a half game of the latter.

Bottomley, the Cardinal first baseman, swatted a homer in both games while Williams, the Philly rightfielder, shoved his home run tally up to 27 with a circuit drive in the opening game. Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran Cardinal twirler, pitched his 20th victory in the first game.

Neither team unloosened anything but ordinary ball playing, both games being described by sport scribes as "just two ball games."

MALICIOUS TAMPERING WITH CAR BRINGS A FINE TO NEW LONDON MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 18.—Samuel Williams, charged with tampering with an automobile, was fined $10 and costs in the city court Saturday. Williams went Friday night to Schoolhouse lane where he found the automobile of Paul Bishop, who was visiting relatives there. Bishop heard someone at his machine and when he investigated he discovered Williams, who having raised the hood, was tampering with the engine. Bishop made complaint to the police and Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Harry Watterson arrested Williams. Williams did not attempt to steal the auto, but tampered with engine parts, so that Bishop would have difficulty in starting the engine, his act being one of maliciousness, for some unknown reason.

ROCKY HILL WATCH-MAKER AND A SAILOR ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 18.—Charles W. Jolley, 32, of Rocky Hill, Conn., married and employed as a watchmaker, was arrested Saturday night on a serious charge, indecent assault. He is held a prisoner at police headquarters in default of bail of $500 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. G. R. Gilson, sailor, who was arrested with Jolley, is being held as a witness, although Gilson was released upon furnishing bail of $25. Gilson also made a signed confession of his relations last night with Jolley and the latter has made statements incriminating himself. Patrolman John Sullivan, off duty, was in the vicinity of Williams Memorial institute, Broad street, and there was engaged in conversation with Patrolman John Foley. The two officers observed Jolley enter the school grounds with Gilson and a few minutes afterwards Sullivan and Foley went to the rear of the school and found Jolley committing a bestial act. Both Jolley and Gilson were taken to police headquarters and locked up. Before Gilson was taken to a cell he related freely what had occurred. Jolley attempted to secure bail from a New London business woman, but was unsuccessful because she could not be located.

CAR STOLEN AT EARLY HOUR FOUND ABANDONED ON ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 18.—John D. O'Brien reported to the police at 1:30 o'clock this morning that his automobile, a Hudson sedan, registration, L-67401, had been stolen. He said that he parked the car on Hallam street about 11:30 o'clock Saturday night and when he returned for it two hours afterwards he discovered that it had been stolen. At 4 o'clock O'Brien found his car abandoned on the highway.

Police Sergeant Samuel Hick, Patrolman Braxton Hill and Ernest Opperman and Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray have concluded their vacations of two weeks. Desk Sergeant James Gaffney, Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and Traffic Officers Frank Linehan and William Corcoran, started Saturday on their recreation trips of two weeks. Officers Martin and Corcoran started by automobile for Montreal Saturday morning.

Mrs. Mary Cooney Elliott, widow of Edward Elliott, died Saturday at the residence of her son, Edward Elliott, 93 Benham road, Groton, after a lingering illness.

The body of George Vorves, United States Coast Guard sailor, who died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Thursday of a fractured skull will be buried in Arlington cemetery, Washington.

Marty Russell, 8 Cross street, and Anna Russell, who, Russell claims, is his wife, were arrested Saturday morning when their home was raided by the police. Russell was charged with conducting a disorderly house and his wife with frequenting. They were in the police court Saturday, but their cases were continued to Saturday next, Russell and his wife furnishing a surety on their respective bonds for their subsequent presentation. Acting Sergeant William Graham was standing at the corner of State and Bank streets at 1:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when he was approached by one of two sailors, both members of the crew of the submarine, S-21, submarine base. The sailor displayed a partially filled bottle of whiskey, which he told the sergeant he had purchased of Russell. He also declared that he had drank a portion of the whiskey with Mrs. Russell, whose company he enjoyed while at the Cross street house. Acting Sergeant Graham and Patrolman Edward Riordan, Harry Watterson and William Riordan then raided the house and Russell and his wife were arrested. A search of the house did not result in the finding of any liquor.

Percy Fox, on a charge of intoxication, was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested Friday by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman George Laboue upon complaint of Mrs. Fox.

Ralph W. Tinker was presented on a charge of intoxication and was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested on Main street, corner of Douglass street, Friday by Patrolmen George Laboue and Harry Watterson. He had a laceration of the head which required medical attention.

Donald Linsdan and Michael Stryzelsky were presented on charges of breach of the peace. The former was fined $5 and costs and judgment was suspended in the case of the latter. Linsdan and Stryzelsky were arrested on Bank street Friday night by Patrolman Albert Iverson.

JOSEPH D. CAMPION STRUCK ON STARTING TO CROSS ST.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 18—An automobile driven by Fred A. Strickland, 19 Woodbridge street, struck and injured Joseph D. Campion, United States Coast Guard destroyer Wilkes, tonight on Broad street, Campion receiving an injury to his leg and a laceration of the back. He was taken to the sick bay, state pier, where his injuries were dressed. Strickland was held in $50 bail on a charge of reckless driving and will be in police court tomorrow.

Strickland was driving in a southerly direction and when between Hempstead and Brainard street, Campion and a companion, Jesse Cooms, also United States Coast Guard, started to cross the street. Campion was struck and knocked down, the automobile going to the wrong side of the road and upon the sidewalk. Cooms was not struck. Strickland stated that the lights of another automobile obstructed his vision and he did not see either Campion or Cooms until the auto was close upon the men and too late to avoid hitting either of them. Patrolman Henry Sylvia arrested Strickland.

Edward G. Bump, R. D. 2, Waterford, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy and Patrolman George Labouc, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. In default of a surety on his bond of $100 he was locked up and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Bump was driving on State street and attracted the attention of the officers.

Solomon H. Johnson, U. S. S. Malone, United States Coast Guard, state pier, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer John Courtney charged with violation of the state motor vehicle laws in driving an automobile without having a driver's license or registration. He was allowed his liberty for his auto was held as security for Johnson's appearance in the police court tomororrow. Johnson did not drive as though he was any too familiar with handling a car and when he was held up at the corner of State and Bank streets, it was disclosed that Johnson was a law violator and he was arrested.

A brindle and white dog was picked up on the outskirts of the city this afternoon by a bus driver for it was apparent that the animal was lost. The driver brought the dog to New London and turned it over to Dog Warden John Sweezy. Another dog, a puppy, that was riding in a Ford touring car carrying Connecticut registration, jumped to the highway on Bank street tonight, unknown to the driver. Kenneth Dayton, 389 Bank street, observed the dog's jump and taking possession of it brought the animal to police headquarters. The dog had a harness on and a metallic tag attached to it had the inscription, "C. P. 19" The boy was allowed to take the dog to his home to await a claimant.

Patrolman Timothy C. Sullivan is acting sergeant at police headquarters, taking the place of Desk Sergeant James D. Gaffney, who is having two weeks' vacation.

John Yonkaski, 8 Hill street, informed the police Saturday night that a man was on the front steps of his home. An officer went to the house and found the man there, but Yonkaski did not want him arrested, as the man proved to be a friend of Yonkaski.

An automobile owned by John Virag, United States Coast Guard, state pier, collided with an automobile owned by a man named Shipman on Crystal avenue tonight, both automobiles being damaged. The police were notified of the accident, but when officers arrived the colliding automobile had been driven away. Shipman said that the auto was occupied by drunken sailors. Patrolman William Riordan found the auto parked near the coast guard base and while he was there Virag appeared and started to take charge of it. He was drunk and was arrested. Beside the auto was found a bottle partially filled with whiskey and an empty bottle, together with a driver's license of Massachusetts issue and in the name of J. F. Sharkey. Sharkey is being sought, for it is believed that he was the driver and not Virag.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

The show of shows will be presented for three days, commencing this afternoon at 2.15. Owing to the tremendous length of the feature picture, three great acts of vaudeville will be presented. Frances and Frank, the sensational variety gymnasts will open the stage attractions. Kaufman and Lillian a man and woman comedy team and Irene Marlin Revue is a gorgeously set song and dance offering with one man and four women. This is a specially selected vaudeville programme, done with the idea of combining a suitable show for the showing of the monster marvel picture of the year, "Metropolis," city of the future. Utopian city. City above, city below. Above, in dizzy height, the brain and glitter. Below, in endless depth, the workers. Between these two brains and hands—the center is missing. A city without a center is a city without a heart, without a soul.

Below, among the tortured, dull drudges lives an apparition, a saint —Mary. Comforter to the oppressed. Above, among the tinselled mighty, is Eric Masterman, only son of the master mind of Metropolis. Mary appears and conquers him by her mystic power. As in a dream, he follows her down to the workers' world, to be the deliverer of her people. But John Masterman hears of Mary and suspecting trouble, attempts to separate her from the workers. An artificial being in the form and face of Mary is created and told to go forth among the machinists and preach humility. Instead, she tells them to riot and destruct. They smash their machines, water inundates the city and all are in danger of drowning. While the men and women are dancing, they suddenly remember their children who have been left right in the path of the rising waters. Then —but you'll find out what happens when Paramount's latest UFA importation "Metropolis" is shown at the Palace starting today for three days. Fritz Lang directed. Channing Pollock adapted it for local use.

Incidentally, it might be said that "Metropolis" is one of those pictures which intelligent moviegoers can hardly afford to miss. The critic of the New York Evening Telegram wrote: "If you never expect to see another film, be sure to see this spectacle. Welcome to 'Metropolis.'"

BOND OFFERINGS TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—(AP)—The bond market for a time last week was permitted to shift for itself while traders turned their attention to pressing matters; such as the September 15 payment of income taxes and the like. Consequently, there was considerable liquidation to obtain needed funds, but it was significant of the the time that selling brought little recession in any of the groups under pressure. Prices continued to hover just under their peak prices for the year, with little change from the levels which have been maintained with scant fluctuations for a month or so.

The quick success of the government in obtaining subscriptions for its new financing far in excess of the amount required was regarded in bond quarters as further evidence that the current period of easy money rates is in no way nearing its end.

Meanwhile, under circumstances not at all suspicious, plans are going ahead for the flotation of a huge volume of new bonds during the remaining weeks of the year. Estimates of the amount yet to come in 1927 run as high as $1,000,000,000, and little if any doubt remains that new offerings will surpass in aggregate those of any other 12 months, except the great governmental loans of war-time.

The new issues now looking up include both foreign and domestic financing, many blocks of which will exceed $20,000,000. The long expected $60,000,000 loan to Poland, one of the leaders in point of size, is expected to reach the market before another 30-day period has passed, an advance of $25,000,000 to the state of Prussia also is expected within a short time, and reports of further German loans, as well as some new Italian offerings continue to make the rounds persistently.

Much of the domestic financing due in the coming weeks, will be in public utility bonds, several of which have been arranged and are awaiting a propitious time for marketing, while numerous others are yet in the process of negotiation.

Last week was the third since June in which the aggregate of new offerings crossed the $100,000,000 mark. The largest amount arrived on Thursday, when the market was called upon to absorb a bout $25,000,000 in fresh material.

The week's total of about $210,000,000 compared with approximately $46,000,000 in the preceding week and around $118,000,000 in the same six days of 1926.

TAFTVILLE

At the morning service at the Taftville Congregational church Sunday, the topic of the pastor, Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, was "A Valuable Asset." In the evening there was the usual meeting of the members of the Young Peoples' society of Christian Endeavor in the church vestry. The meeting was led by Miss Mary Greenhalgh, and there was an interesting discussion on the topic "What About the Movies."

Miss Elizabeth Snow who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Houston and family of South Second avenue has returned to her home in Montreal, P. Q., Canada.

Mrs. Alfred Porter Staebner of Derby is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Atkins of South Second avenue. Mr. Staebner is attending the Eastern States exposition cattle show at Springfield this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Octave Brochu and family of Plainfield are moving to the village and have taken a house on Terrace avenue.

Mrs. Eugene N. Lambert and infant son have returned to their home on North B street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Domorski and family of Taftville have moved to a farm on the Scotland road.

The annual enumeration of school children is underway in the fifth district, the work being done by Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes.

Posted in conspicuous places about the town are lists of the new voters to be made before the coming election.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lucier of South B street have returned from a stay of several weeks with relatives in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goodby of South B street have been spending the past week in Plainfield and at New Bedford.

Gaston Chancerelle of Providence street has resigned his position with the carding department of the local mills.

Local farmers have been busy for the past two weeks harvesting their field corn, which, notwithstanding the wet weather this season, is of high grade.

When local people have visited Canada this season making the trip in their automobiles, they frequently return with a wind-shield sticker furnished by the department of the interior of the Dominion of Canada. This sticker bears the words "Guest of Canada" and is of rather an elaborate design. However, some villagers have been held up by the state police and ordered to remove these stickers as it is against the law to have anything stuck to the windshield which might tend to obscure the vision of the driver.

Work on laying the new water pipe on the westerly side of Providence street has been completed as far as the North Third avenue corner.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mathew and children of South Third avenue have been enjoying a motor trip to New York state.

William Thompson of the Ponemah house spent the week end at his home in New Bedford, Mass.

Birthday Party Held

A very pleasant birthday party was held Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw in honor of Mrs. Shaw's birthday. Games were played and dancing was enjoyed by all. The feature of the evening was an exhibition waltz by Mrs. Gladys Simcox and Mr. Harold Shaw. Vocal selections were rendered by John Morgan and Eugene Prime of New London. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Eva House of New London, which consisted of sandwiches, cake, fruit punch, coffee and ginger ale. Those present were Mrs. Gertrude Shaw, Miss Rose and Frieda Dempsey, Mrs. Gladys Simcox, Mrs. Eva House, John Morgan, Eugene Prime, Nat Simcox and Harold Shaw.

FINDS CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE IN JEWETT CITY AUTO FATALITY

Criminal negligence on the part of Jerome Gareaux of 295 Ohio avenue, Providence, in fatally injuring Frederick Campbell, 76, of Bayonne, N. J., on North Main street, at the corner of Lennox avenue, Jewett City, on Labor day night is found by Coroner J. J. Desmond in a finding he made public Saturday. Gareaux has been presented before the Griswold court on the charge of manslaughter and is now out on bonds of $5,000.

Mr. Campbell was with his brother Emory at the time of the accident and both were struck by the Providence man's car.

In his finding Coroner Desmond says in part:

Emory, looking south along North Main street noticed the headlights of a north-bound car approaching on North Main street, and told his brother to stop until this car passed; and the two brothers then stopped on the westerly side of North Main street, between the curb and the tar surfaced part of the street, waiting for this northbound machine to go by them, when the car, which was the Studebaker touring car, operated by said Jerome Gareaux, was turned suddenly over to the operator's left, and propelled against the two Campbell brothers, knocking them both down upon the street, and fatally injuring Frederick Campbell, who was hurried to the William W. Backus hospital, at Norwich, Conn., where he died the same night.

North Main street is straight and level where the accident occurred; no other vehicles, or pedestrians were passing, and there was ample space for the Studebaker car to pass the two standing men, between where they stood and the easterly side of the road.

After the car struck the two pedestrians, it stopped for an instant, and then started again, continuing northwardly on North Main street.

The noise made by the impact of the car against the Campbell's, and by the shattering of its left headlight lens, attracted the attention of several men who were in the vicinity, and who hastened to the place where the two men had been struck to give any possible aid; amongst these who heard the crash was Alfred Bacon of Jewett City, a constable, who had observed the Studebaker car continuing northerly on North Main street immediately after the accident, and he stopped the car that next came along, and in it pursued the fleeing Studebaker touring car, and overtook it at Gill's filling station near the Plainfield town line; with this Studebaker car. Constable Bacon found Jerome Gareaux, and his wife; he found the left headlight lens broken, and the left front fender bent; on questioning Jerome Gareaux, Mr. Brown was told by Mr. Gareaux that he did not know that his car had struck anyone, or that his left headlight lens had been broken, or that he was running with only one headlight; he also stated that he had not heard any crash as he passed through North Main street in Jewett City; that he felt a slight jar there, and supposed this was due to a stick, or depression in the road; and that he had stopped at Gill's filling station only because he needed gasoline. Constable Bacon required Mr. Gareaux and Mrs. Gareaux to return with him to Jewett City, where Mr. Gareaux was placed under arrest, and held in custody pending further investigation.

The evidence in this case indicates such want of due care on the part of Jerome Gareaux as to amount to criminal negligence in causing the death of Frederick Campbell; and I so find and have so reported to the prosecuting attorney of the town court of Griswold, Conn., for further appropriate action in the premises.

STATE KING'S DAUGHTERS TO CONVENE AT DANBURY

The 31st convention of the Connecticut branch of the international order of the King's Daughters and Sons is to be held at the Baptist church, Danbury, Nov. 1st and 2nd. Each circle is to be represented by its leader and one delegate for every ten members. Mrs. George H. Prior of Jewett City, international president, is to address the convention on Tuesday. The convention guest this year will be Mrs. Claude E. Leber of Baltimore, branch president for Maryland, who will speak Tuesday evening, also will conduct the leaders' conference Wednesday morning. The memorial service will be held at the end of the Tuesday afternoon session. This year there is a new superintendent of junior work, Miss Ethel Fish of Manchester.

The convention call is sent out from New Haven by Mary R. Woodruff, branch president. Since last year, the date of the annual state meeting has been put forward from October to November.

Mrs. Grace H. Manning, 94 Williams street, Norwich, is New London and Windham county president.

For Driving Under Influence

James F. Chase of this city was arrested late Saturday afternoon by Officer Barney Keenan and is charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He will be presented in the city court this (Monday) morning.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Charles Raymond of Broad street will return to Dartmouth to resume his studies Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon L. Bidwell have returned from Shelter Harbor, R. I.

Miss Viola G. Engler left during the week for Boston, where she is an instructor at Simmons college.

Mr. and Mrs. Frankiyn T. Lord of Hartford, formerly of Norwich, with their children, Helena and Frankiyn, Jr., are at the Preston cottage on the sea wall at Neptune park for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Wightman and their daughter Marion have returned to their home on Elmwood avenue, having spent the season at their cottage at Groton Long Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Z. Haviland of Ridgewood, N. J., after several days' visit with the latter's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Norris S. Lippitt, are on a motor trip through the White mountains, having been guests the past week at Turner's inn, Bethlehem.

Mr. and Mrs. Traver Briscoe, whose home was at 90 Broad street, Norwich and who have been living in Italy for several years, have left Rome for this country. Mr. Briscoe has been in New London arranging for the transfer of their household effects to New York, where they plan to reside.

LIFE'S REAL BUSINESS MONSIGNOR MAY'S THEME

The epistle read in all the masses throughout the Catholic world yesterday, the fifteenth Sunday after Pentecost was Galatians 5.25-26, also 6.1-10, beginning, "Brethren, if we live in the spirit, let us walk in the spirit." The gospel was Luke 7.11-16, narrating the miracle of restoration to life of the only son of the Widow of Naim. Preaching to the usual large congregation at the 7:30 mass in St. Patrick's church, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, put the query to his hearers, "What is the one thing necessary?"

If he were to inquire of each, "What is your business?" the preacher said, he would be certain to receive many varying responses, as persons in different callings made reply. All would be found "careful and troubled about many things," solicitous as was Martha; yet as was said to her by the Saviour, there is but one necessary business, one thing necessary. While it is logical and reasonable to be concerned about the success of one's calling in life, the real business of each man is the saving of his immortal soul. And this is entirely personal work; something which even God Himself cannot do for man—which man must do for himself, through co-operating with God. Who has given man the gift of faith, the power of prayer, the grace of receiving the sacraments, the solace of absolution, the gifts of the Holy Ghost, has made us members of His own church.

St. Paul admonished the Philippians, "Work out your salvation," through co-operation with Jesus Christ. The preacher declared that an opportunity was to be given the parish members to make the effort to accomplish this vital business of saving their souls during the novena, or nine days' devotion in honor of St. Therese, which begins Thursday evening. For some it may be the last call, the last opportunity of doing this personal work which God requires. A number who assisted during the last novena, or had part in the previous parish mission, are now gone from their accustomed places. "Will you be here next year?" he inquired. "Only God knows how many more opportunities will be afforded you."

The novena is to be preached by a missionary Father of the Order of the Passion, or suffering of Our Lord, who receives no compensation for himself, all offerings going to the community fund toward educating young men who are to be missionary priests, at home or in foreign lands.

Following the sermon, Rev. John J. Reilly assisted Monsignor May in giving communion to a large number who had been to confession the previous afternoon or evening, including the members of the Rosary society, of which Mrs. Jeremiah Lynch is president.

It was announced that the Rosary society would have a reception of new members Oct. 2nd, also that working children, Academy pupils and adults preparing for confirmation Oct. 16th are to meet this (Monday) evening in the lower church, for instruction.

The coming Sunday will be holy communion Sunday for the Holy Name society and all the other men of the parish, during the novena. Attention was directed to the example of St. Therese, whose sanctity has won for her the affectionate title of "The Little Flower of Jesus".

NAMED CHIEF EXAMINER IN INSURANCE DEPARTMENT

Frederick A. Norton, for ten years an examiner in the Connecticut insurance department, has been appointed chief examiner of fire and casualty companies, Commissioner Howard P. Dunham has announced. Examination of life companies will continue to be under the direct charge of Actuary William M. Corcoran. Examination of fraternal societies will be under the direct charge of Assistant Actuary Hartwell L. Hall.

Commissioner Dunham also announced that the following have recently been added to the department's examining force: Louis M. Hastings, Morris W. Cannon, Samuel C. Pickett, Emil Jurgensen and Joseph T. Geoghegan.

Mr. Norton came to the insurance department in August 1917, during the administration of Commissioner Burton Mansfield. He was born in Deep River, August 11, 1886, the son of John B. and Mary Williams Norton. He was graduated from the Deep River grammar and high schools and attended the Worcester academy at Worcester, Mass. For two years he was with the Deep River Era and later was employed for ten years in different capacities by the Deep River National bank.

ART SCHOOL STUDENTS TAKING ADVANCED COURSES

At the Norwich Art school which opens its 38th year today (Monday), Mrs. Charlotte Fuller Eastman will have an outdoor sketch class on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Watrous' afternoon classes in jewelry and pottery will be held on Mondays and Thursdays. Miss Mallett's sketch class from the model is scheduled for Monday afternoon and Miss Leavens' classes in the history of art and art appreciation will meet Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

The children's class will not open until Saturday, Sept. 24.

Miss Eleanor Paynter of Hartford, a student at the Norwich Art school, is entering Pratt institute.

Miss Anna Cuprak left town Thursday to enter the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. Miss Cuprak won the scholarship offered by the museum school to a student in the Norwich Art school.

Miss Helen Tirrell enters the New England School of Design, Boston. Miss Tirrell's work in composition and outdoor sketch is pleasingly remembered.

TO HAVE CHARGE OF PARADE AT FAIR GROUNDS

The management of the New London County Agricultural society announces the selection of the following officials under whose direction the parades at the fair grounds on the days of the fair will be carried out: Marshal, Capt. Charles Coit, F. A., C. N. G., Battery B, 192d F. A., C. N. G. Aides: Maj. F. Russell Smith, and Lieuts. Lee. House, Jewett and Wilbur, the latter all of the local units of the Connecticut National guard.

There are a number of organizations which have already signified their intention of participating in the parades on the different days of the fair, but there may still be some organizations which plan to take part which have not as yet so advised those in charge of the program; it is urgently requested by Capt. Coit, the marshal, that any organization desiring to be included in the line of march on any of the three days, Sept. 22, 23 or 24, communicate at the earliest possible moment with him (phone 643) so that arrangements may be made to include them in the proper division.

HELD DISTRICT CONFERENCE FOR CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

About seventy-five attended the district meeting of the New London and Norwich Christian Endeavor unions, which was held at the Norwich Town Congregational church, Saturday afternoon and evening.

The afternoon session opened with a praise service led by Harold Muttart, chairman of the Southeast district and president of the Norwich union. Rev. Charles Reeves of Norwich Town led the devotional service.

An informal conference was opened by Mrs. Madeline Kruse, state intermediate superintendent and a former field secretary of Kansas; also Clarence Hamilton, the business manager of the Christian Endeavor World; and Alvin J. Shartle, treasurer and field secretary of the International Society of Christian Endeavor.

After this general conference a social hour was enjoyed during which time Christian Endeavor literature was on sale by Mrs. Edith B. Murray, of New Haven.

At six o'clock a most appetizing banquet, consisting of cold meat, baked beans, rolls, pickles, cake and ice cream and coffee was served by the entertaining society. During the banquet rousing cheers were given Mr. Shartle, Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Kean, Mrs. Kruse, Miss Hyde and Mr. Bailey.

Songs were led by Clarence Hamilton, accompanied by the orchestra which played during the banquet hour.

Reginald Avery, president of the Norwich Town Congregational Christian Endeavor society, took charge of the speaking at this time. Those called upon were A. J. Shartle, Mr. Kean, the state president, of Bridgeport, Rev. Dwight C. Stone of Hanover, and Ralph Krout, pastor of Ledyard Congregational church.

The evening service opened with a devotional service led by Rev. G. F. Bailey, pastor of the entertaining church. He took for his scripture the First Psalm.

State President Andrew J. Kean, was then introduced. He spoke about the state convention, which is to be held next May 18, 19 and 20 in New Haven and asked for a good representation from the southeast district. He also asked that Endeavorers take for their life motto the underlying thought of the Cleveland convention, "In all things that He may have preeminence."

Mr. Shartle brought greetings from the International society.

The speaker of the evenng Clarence Hamilton then gave his address on "The End of Christian Endeavor." The greatest thing that Christian Endeavor can do is promote fellowship and make lives more useful to the church, he said.

Endeavorers were present from the First Baptist, Third Baptist, Hanover, Ledyard, Lebanon Congregational, Bozrah, Norwich Town Methodist, Norwichtown Congregational, Preston City and Goshen churches

FIVE UNDER ARREST ON DISORDERLY HOUSE CHARGE

In a raid after midnight Saturday the police arrested four Norwich men and one woman in the basement tenement at 197 West Main street. Ephraim Dorous is charged with keeping a disorderly house and the others with frequenting. They are Robert Frost, Horace Simonds, Sarah Dorous and Edmund Robinson. The police squad was headed by Sergeant John T. Casey with Officers Perry, Perry, Gwizdowski, Dewire, Shahan and Davis.

Machines in Collision

Two Ford coupes driven by their owners, Louis Pastor, of 69½ Main street and William Confrey of 59 Palmer street, were in collision late Sunday morning at the intersection of Main street and Hamilton avenue. Both machines sustained damages.

Dog Killed by Automobile.

A small dog was killed in Main street near the post office Sunday night by an automobile driven by George Falconer. The registration number on the dog's tag was 57574 Norwich.

LEGION PARADE VIEWED BY 1,000,000 PARISIANS

Hundreds of Thousands Cheered the 14,000 Americans as They Marched Along—Silent Tribute Paid to the Unknown French Soldier at the Arc De Triomphe—An Abortive Anti-American Demonstration by Communists at Clichy, a Suburb of Paris, Was Promptly Squelched by the Police.

PARIS, Sept. 19—(AP)—The American Legion marched into the hearts of the French today. The men who fought for France "came back home," and hundreds of thousands, their eyes dim as they thought of the war times, cheered the Americans as they marched along. Overcome with emotion, many women along the route of the parade wept.

Each of the fourteen thousand men of the legion and several thousand of their mothers, sisters and wives passed under the Arc de Triomphe. In silent tribute to the French unknown soldier buried there, the Legionnaires passed with their hats off and their colors dipped in salute. As each passed they dropped some red, white and blue flowers around his grave.

There was a guard for every Legionnaire in the line of march, but none were needed. Fourteen thousand men were in the parade and 14,000 soldiers and policemen were grouped along its route or waiting in reserve. It was estimated that 1,000,000 Parisians were packed along the line of march.

The convention opened this morning in the Palais du Trocardero. At its session, which lasted two hours, President Doumergue of France, surrounded by most of his cabinet, welcomed the American soldiers back to France. Wartime friendships and good-will were voiced again in the message of President Coolidge and in the addresses of General John J. Pershing, National Commander Howaid P. Savage of the legion, Julian M. Thomas, legion department commander of France and Sheldon Whitehouse, American charge d'affairs, who took the place of Ambassador Herrick, who is ill in America.

The reviewing stand where Marshal Foch, General Pershing and General Gourand and those others who led the allies to victory stood for almost three hours watching the procession, was situated squarely in the center in the east side of Place de La Concorde. In front of its Champs Elysees stretched for a mile toward the Arc de Triomphe.

At the head of the parade rode a mounted platoon of the republican guards, followed by three companies of French soldiers. Then came a car carrying General Pershing, Marshal Foch and Commander Savage to the reviewing stand.

Near the two wartime commanders in the stand were a group of women and girls from Alsace Lorraine, who gave a flag to Pershing and flowers to Commander Savage.

The first delegation to pass in review was that from Florida. Then came Doughboys from Delaware and men from Arizona in the wide-brimmed hats of the west.

Illinois followed and then Louisiana. Texas was the next in line. Tennessee followed, and after the southerners the Yanks from Connecticut. Behind these paraded the delegation from West Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas and Idaho followed. Oklahoma, with a squad of real Indians—squaws as well as warriors—all in their paint, feathers and cloaks of many colors, followed.

After them marched the Legionnaires from New Jersey. Then came California. Oregon followed California and Pennsylvania followed Oregon. In succession came Washington, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nevada, Kansas, Ohio, the Dakotas, Maine, Vermont and Hawaii. New York was next and Arkansas and Michigan. Behind them marched Alaska, Virginia and Maryland, with Baltimore's Bugle Corps furnishing the music. Iowa's Legionnaires, headed by Senator Daniel Steck, followed. Nebraska, Utah, Missouri and Colorado followed. Then came Massachusetts, marching to the tune of a band from Weymouth and another from Hyde Park. Rhode Island and the District of Columbia wound up the parade of the states. Groups representing Italy, China, Cuba, Panama, London, Greece and finally the Paris post of the legion with a squad of mounted republican guards brought up the rear.

ABORTIVE DEMONSTRATION BY FRENCH COMMUNISTS

PARIS, Sept. 19—(AP)—American and French flags were torn down, several shots fired and a lot of noses punched in an anti-American Legion demonstration at Clichy today. The extremists had gathered at this place outside the city because of he police precautions taken to prevent any demonstration in Paris. Clichy is a communist community and the place where the reds gather regularly on Sunday and police only interfere when trouble starts.

The extremists as a protest against the American Legion parade rechristened a small square "Place Sacco-Vanzetti." They paraded with red flags and wearing mourning bands. The community deputy Vaillant-Couturier and others of their leaders addressed them and spent nearly four hours expressing themselves against "the fascist troops" of the legion and against "the Sacco-Vanzetti executioneers."

The French and American flags were torn down from stores where they were hung and others were taken from passing taxicabs. The communist crowd ran afoul of the police in front of a flag bedecked store, and one revolver shot was fired through a window. Four alleged ringleaders were jailed.

Three small riots occurred in all but the police promptly squelched them.

The communistic extremist communities had announced counter demonstrations for Legion day and a number of them were held. There was no disorder, however, except at Clichy, and in many cases the advertised meetings petered out because there were too few persons attending. The biggest meeting was held at Saint Etienne, where the crowd was estimated at 1,000. Parades were permitted nowhere and these meetings were always overshadowed by patriotic and official observances in honor of the legion, which in many cases had been organized in order to overbalance communist outbursts.

AMERICAN WOMEN FOLKS GREETED AS HEROINES

PARIS, Sept. 19—(AP)—The American Legion's women folks today began getting a full measure of the aftertaste of wartime glory. Paris took them to its heart as heroines just as it made heroes of the doughboys in the capital on leave during the war days and showed them that nothing was too good for "Les Jolies Americaines."

The women received almost as much friendly attention and as many welcoming smiles as the men, though their numbers were fewer. Several thousand of them, tired but happy, will be at the Palais du Trocadero at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning when the legion and the auxiliary will hold a joint session.

The culmination of the French entertainment of the legion women will come after the close of the official sessions of the auxiliary. The duchess of Duzes, France's premier sportswoman despite her eighty years, will entertain 200 of them at her chateau at Bonelles close to Paris on Friday and the Marquise de Ganay has invited an equal number of auxiliary members to her chateau near Milly.

Mme. Rene du Fiot has invited twenty to be her guests at the former home of Lafayette at Domaine de Montfruit.

Mme. Jusserand, wife of the former French ambassador at Washington, is in charge of the social functions being held in honor of the American women.

FIRST DEATH AMONG LEGIONNAIRES IN FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 19—(AP)—The first death among the visiting Legionnaires occurred today when Wayne Schwennecker of Des Moines, Iowa, died at La Riboisiere hospital. He fell into a state of coma when coming from Antwerp by train. The Iowan delegation who looked after him has cabled his parents in Des Moines and asked for funeral instructions.

IRISH FREE STATE GOV'T HAS LEAD OF THREE SEATS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 19.—(AP)—With only 13 seats in the Dail Eireann not yet filled, the government has a lead of three seats over the combined opposition. The figures are: Government 71; Opposition 68.

Returns are awaited from Donegal and Cork, and from these the government hopes to increase its lead, and on final results it is believed the government will be safe. Whether with such a narrow majority President Cosgrave will consent to carry on is not known, but he will be subjected to strong pressure from business and commercial interests to retain the helm.

There is no doubt that the need of raising an internal loan will weigh with President Cosgrave, and in this the business community is deeply interested. At the same time the Cosgrave government's tenure must be very precarious, and doubts are expressed as to whether he would be able to carry our his previous determination to enforce the new public safety act.

TO REDUCE THE OUTPUT OF INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. —(AP)—Steps looking to rigid control of the amount of industrial alcohol used in the country and its subsequent reduction annually by five to ten million gallons were decided upon today by the prohibition bureau.

At the same time Commissioner Doran announced that under regulations to be put in effect Jan. 1 providing for this change he hoped to get at the source of supplies leaking to bootleg channels. At present about 95,000,000 gallons are used a year by industrial concerns and the commissioner said control of this alcohol would be attempted.

Action looking to curtailment of expenses in enforcement also was seen in the announced appointment today of John L. Keddy and Edward E. Berney, investigators of the federal bureau of efficiency, as field supervisors of prohibition. They will assist dry administrators in an effort to "get real economy in the enforcement business," Doran said.

WATERBURY MAN IS ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 19.—(AP)—A jury was impanelled in Essex County superior court here today for the trial of Leo Nolin of Groveland and Herman A. Reed of Waterbury, Conn., charged with the murder and robbery of William H. Griffin, Haverhill storekeeper, on March 7, last. Mary Cwickla of Suffield, Conn., also went on trial as an accessory after the fact.

The state charged that Griffin was shot down by Nolin when he refused to hand over his money are the demand of the defendant, and that Reed and the woman waited in an automobile while Nolin carried out the holdup. With the completion of the panel late today, court will be adjourned until tomorrow to enable the jury to view the scene of the murder in the Bardford section of Haverhill.

BOY SHOT AND KILLED AT PRACTICE SHOOTING

BROCKTON, Mass., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Edmund Roberts, 15, was shot and killed today when he and several schoolmates went to some woods to practice shooting with an improvised pistol.

The weapon, an old 22 calibrer rifle, with the battle cut to a length of eight inches, and the stock sawed off at the pistol grip, was discharged while one of the boys was taking it from his pocket. The bullet passed through Robert's head.

Airman Jensen Is Located in Arizona

On Ranch North of Roosevelt Lake—Jensen and His Lion Passenger Are Well—Plane Wrecked.

APACHE LODGE, Roosevelt, Ariz., Sept. 19—(AP)—Martin Jensen, San Diego-to-New York flier, who has been missing since last Friday, has been located at the H-Bar rand at Chilson's, on the upper Rye creek in Tonto basin, 40 miles north of Roosevelt lake, according to word received this afternoon by Roland Still, manager of Apache lodge.

Jensen was said to have been forced down the day the flight started by severe electrical storms.

Still received a telephone call from the ranch saying that both Jensen and his lion passenger were safe.

Jensen left San Diego Friday morning on what was announced to be a non-stop flight to New York. He had a motion picture company's lion in a cage in the airplane. He had not been definitely reported until word was received here today from H-Bar ranch.

The H-Bar ranch is 125 miles northeast of Phoenix.

Still said the only information he received from the ranch came from the foreman, who said Jensen had just walked into the ranch house and had reported both himself and his lion passenger uninjured in his forced landing.

The Tonto basin also was the landing place of Commander Francisco De Pinedo, Italian flier, who brought his seaplane down on the waters of Roosevelt lake April 6 last. A short time later it was destroyed by fire just as the commander was about to take off.

PLANE WAS WRECKED IN GROVE OF TREES

GLOBE, Ariz., Sept. 19—(AP)—Martin Jensen's lion carrying plane which took off Friday from San Diego for New York, was wrecked when it came down on top of a grove of trees in Tonto basin that afternoon, he told W. D. Boardman, Globe merchant, the latter said tonight when he returned from the H-Bar ranch. Jensen appeared at the ranch early this afternoon.

AVIATRIX ELDER WINS AIR PILOT'S LICENSE

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Ruth Elder, 23 year old Lakewood, Fla., aviatrix, who wants to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, made three solo flights today and passed her examinations for a pilot's license.

Miss Elder was given the examination by Inspector Frank Gerdone, of the department of commerce, who announced that she had passed the written questionnaire as well as the flying test. In the flying test, Miss Elder made three landings and three figure eights in the air. Gerdone was a passenger.

George Haldeman, her co-pilot and naviator on the proposed non-stop flight to Paris, announced that Miss Elder's monoplane, "The American Girl" would not take off on the ocean crossing until the compasses and other instruments have been checked. This checking was begun today. Haldeman said it might not be completed until tomorrow afternoon.

After that, he said, he and Miss Elder will be ready for the hazardous trans-oceanic flight which will be undertaken as soon as weather conditions permit.

BLOOD TESTS UNCERTAIN ON PARENTAGE OF BABY

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19. —(AP)—A mother's hope, banked on the old adage "blood will tell," was shattered tonight when she learned that masters of the medical profession agreed in conference today that "blood would not tell" whether the baby girl she nurses is her child.

Leading Cleveland physicians and blood specialists called into conference by Judge Carl V. Weygandt, of common pleas court, decided today that medical science could not conclusively prove that Mrs. Sam Smith is the mother of the girl she nurses, and that blood tests would serve only as flimsy evidence of the child's parentage.

Blood tests and other medical tests will be applied to the mother and child, however, in the hope that some clew might be found to establish the baby's parentage.

HUNGARY HALTS ACTION BY THE L. OF N. COUNCIL

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Hungary's determined refusal to accept the league council's proposed solution for the settlement of her differences with Rumania over the question of indemnities to expropriated Hungarian landowners in Transylvania caused the council today to defer action on this matter until its December session at the earliest.

The spectacle of a small former enemy state holding at bay the entire council machinery and the force of that body's moral authority amazed many visitors of all nations, who thronged the league palace at bota sessions.

Hungary wants the question referred to the permanent court of international justice for an advisory opinion. Rumania is ready to accept the council's decision as it stands.

MRS. LILLIENDAHL TO BE RELEASED ON $25,000 BAIL

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Arrangements for the release in $25,000 bail of Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl as a material witness in the murder of her aged husband Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, were virtually completed tonight and the woman was expected to be free to leave for her home at Vineland before morning. It will not be necessary for her to appear before a magistrate, it was said.

As far as authorities made known, no evidence tending to refute Mrs. Lilliendahl's story that her husband was shot by two negroes who sprang upon the running board of his automobile and fled after killing him and robbing her was brought to light.

INTOXICATION NO BAR FROM CITIZENSHIP

EAST GREENWICH, R. I., Sept. 19.—(AP)—"Most of our best citizens do that," Judge Herbert L. Carpenter said in Kent County superior court today when he admitted to citizenship an applicant who was said to have been fined some time ago for driving while intoxicated.

Dry Democrats Are Seeking New Leader

Vacancy Left by McAdoo's Withdrawal as Candidate For Presidential Nomination.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—(AP)—Edwin T. Meredith said today that the withdrawal of William G. McAdoo as an aspirant for the democratic presidential nomination has given Gov. Alfred E. Smith an advantage that can be offset beat by dry progressives of the party selecting a new leader within the next 30 days.

Meredith, who was secretary of agriculture under President Wilson, suggested as leaders to fill McAdoo's place, Newton D. Baker; Senator Thomas I. Walsh, of Montana; Joseph Robinson, of Arkansas; and Cordell Hull, of Tennessee. Senator Walsh's selection, Meredith said, would be accepted as a proof of an absence of religion as a real issue within the party.

The mechanism for selecting a successor to McAdoo for dry progressive leadership was also suggested by Meredith. He said a conference should be called upon and the leader chosen by the dry progressives thus assembled. He will not issue such a call himself.

Meredith said prohibition and farm relief are the most important issues before the country. The democrats can win, in his opinion, however, by stressing prohibition and the failure of the republican administration to enforce it. He is convinced that the majority of the democratic party as well as the republican party is dry. He said that if the democrats attack the republican enforcement record, the campaign probably would win a ten per cent dry republican vote in the cities, and thereby the election.

Meredith's arrival in New York about the time McAdoo drove in from the Berkshires with Mrs. McAdoo gave cause for speculation on whether they were here for a conference. Meredith had been reputed by political writers to have agreed to be Governor Smith's running mate. He said there was no truth in this.

Meredith and McAdoo declared they had not known they were to be in New York at the same time, and denied reports that they would confer. They did not see each other during the day, bot hsaid.

TESTIMONY BY MAYOR DUVALL OF INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Mayor John L. Duvall of Indianapolis, testifying in his trial on a charge of violating the corrupt practices act, admitted under cross examination that he had endorsed a note for $1,000 for George S. Elliott and Harvey Bedford, who disappeared three days after the Marion county grand jury began its investigation of alleged political graft in Indiana.

Elliott formerly was exalted cyclops of Marion county klan, No. 3, Bedford, a former Indianapolis policeman, was active in that order and was said to have been engaged in klan organization work in Missouri prior to his returning here to appear as a state witness against the mayor. Duvall is charged with bartering away positions for money and support at the 1925 election.

Duvall let it be known from the stand that he appointed Bedford inspector of police and Elliott as superintendent of parks on October 15, 1926—just before they disappeared. The appointments never had been made known until today. A nation-wide search was made for them after they had been subpoenaed by the grand jury. They reappeared voluntarily several weeks later.

Duvall said he had endorsed their note but he did not know they were going to leave town.

"If I had I sure wouldn't have signed their note," he declared.

Flatly denying that he offered for sale offices in his administration or that he agreed to accept the dictation and administration of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in political matters, Mayor Duvall branded as lies the testimony of prosecution witnesses.

FARM BUILDINGS WERE BURNED IN WETHERSFIELD

HARTFORD, Sept. 19—(AP)—A spectacular fire which burned unhampered for more than four hours tonight, destroyed a group of farm buildings on Wells road, near Ridge road, Wethersfield. The buildings were owned by Edward A. Isaacson, of Wethersfield and were used for the storage of salvaged lumber. Isaacson estimated the loss at about $35,000. He carried a comparatively small amount of insurance.

A call for assistance was sent to Hartford and one company was sent to the fire.

The flames were visible for miles around and soon roads for a mile around the fire was completely blocked by automobiles.

One cow and two horses were rescued. At midnight the barns were still blazing and it was said the fire might continue until after dawn.

EXCURSIONISTS WERE MAROONED BY FLOODS

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Three hundred excursionists, marooned for 36 hours by high waters of Lake Winnipeg on its eastern shore, arrived here tonight on a relief train of the Canadian National Railways. Eight hours was required to make the 60-mile return trip over a dangerously washed road-bed.

The excursionists were trapped Saturday in camps at Victoria and Grand beaches and isolated from the mainland by a violent gale. Waters today had receded sufficiently from tracks of the only connecting railroad to permit the relief train to proceed over a hastily right-of-way. None of the excursionists suffered injury in the storm.

KIWANIS CONVENTION OPENS IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 19. — (AP) — "Reds and bolsheviks are enemies of the spiritual and human qualities which Kiwanis puts first," Henry C. Heinz, governor of Kiwanis International, of Atlanta, Ga., declared tonight before 500 Kiwanians and members of other services clubs, assembled for an entertainment in the auditorium of Central high school. The entertainment was a part of the four day New England district convention which began Sunday.

PLANE NO. 41 LEADING IN CROSS-COUNTRY AIR DERBY

Leslie Miller of Des Moines Piloted Plane No. 41 to the Lead to Chicago Airport, the Fourth Leg of the New York-Spokane Flight—Fifteen Planes Are at Roosevelt Field Ready to Hop Off This Morning on the Second of the Trans-Continental Air Races.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19—(AP)—A former army pilot, characterized by his flying "Buddies" as the "Luckiest fellow in the world," Leslie Miller of Des Moines, Iowa, today winged his way in plane No. 41 through perilous fogs and over mountain tops to take the lead at the end of the fourth hop in the New York to Spokane Air Derby.

Flying alone in an Eaglerock plane, the Iowan took the lead after a close contest in which 24 others were entered. Although he left Roosevelt field, New York, the starting place, in ninth place, at 6:10 a. m., eastern standard time, he arrived at the municipal airport here, the end of the fourth lap and where most of the contestants must stop over for the night, ahead of the flying pack at 4:43 p. m., Chicago daylight saving time, completing the 763 miles in 10 hours and 42 minutes or a time average of about 71 miles an hour, including time taken for three stops.

A minute and a half behind Miller came C. W. Meyers of Detroit, who led today's flight most of the way. Meyers, who was fifth to leave Roosevelt field in the chase for the $5,000 prize which awaits the pilot making the best time to Spokane, is flying a Waco-10 and is carrying a passenger, Thomas B. Colby.

J. S. Charles of Richmond, Va., was next in another Eaglerock plane. He was the first to leave Roosevelt field this morning.

The three leaders said the first leg of the flight, from New York to Bellefonte, Pa., was one of the most dangerous hops they had ever made because of the heavy rain and fog.

Miller, especially, said he had a difficult time.

"I believe it was the most dangerous hop I have ever made," he told the Associated Press. "Most of the way I had a visibility range of but 500 feet. When I was about 50 miles east of Bellefonte, it rained so hard that the magneto of my machine got wet and the motor suddenly stopped. I looked about for a landing place, but all I could see for miles were tree tops. I worked on my engine as I was dropping and finally got one cylinder and then seven to working. I rode into Bellefonte on seven cylinders."

FIFTEEN PLANES READY TO HOP OFF THIS MORNING

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 19—(AP)—Fifteen pilots had their planes ready tonight to hop off tomorrow morning on the second of the transcontinental air races held as part of the national air meet at Spokane, Wash.

The race, scheduled to start at 5:30 a. m., eastern standard time, tomorrow, is for commercial planes capable of carrying a pilot and two passengers. Winners are to be awarded a first prize of $10,000, second $5,000, third $2,000, fourth $1,000, and fifth $500. The competitors will fly approximately 2,275 miles to Felts Field, Spokane, making an over-night stop at St. Paul, 25min. and five-minute compulsory stops at Cleveland, Chicago, Aberdeen, S. D., Miles City, Mont., and they are due to arrive at Spokane on Wednesday.

Although the rules require that the planes be heavy enough to carry two passengers, the pilots carry ballast instead if they desire.

The first race, for lighter commercial planes capable of carrying one passenger besides the pilot, began here at 8:01 a. m., eastern standard time today.

The last of the trans-continental air derbies, a non-stop race from Roosevelt Field to Felts Field, is to start from here on Wednesday.

"Duke" Schiller is the only Canadian entry in the race. His plane, the Royal Windsor, was built by Stinson, and was recently withdrawn from a proposed Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England, hop. A first prize of $10,000 and a second of $5,000 are offered the winners in this race. The pilots are permitted to follow any course they choose.

Schiller today flew his plane to Teterboro, N. J., where his engine was overhauled.

75 AVIATORS READY FOR NATIONAL AIR RACES

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 19—(AP)—While a contingent of airplanes was raing across the country from New York in the first transcontinental air derby, the Spokane airport, finishing point in the race, tonight assumed the aspect of an aviation capital with approximately 75 aviators ready for the national air races here Friday and Saturday.

Fifteen army aviators are on the entry list for the events and about 60 civilian flyers are entered. More entrants are expected.

The army entries include the pick of the army's aviators, who will compete in races for observation and pursuit ships, in a military free-for-all against the speediest fliers of other branches of the nation's military service.

Civilian entries were for races for short planes, light airplane, commercial ships and a test for speed and efficiency. From these races military ships are barred.

WOMAN ON TRIAL FOR POISONING HER HUSBAND

MOUNT VERNON, Ills., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The people of the village of Ina had their day in court today as the second week of the trial of Mrs. Elsie Sweetin charged with the posion murder of her husband, Wilford, began.

One after another, men and women of Ina were called to the stand to tell what they had seen or heard concerning Lawrence M. Hight, then pastor of an Ina church, and the pretty young wife of Wilford Sweetin.

Some willingly and glibly, some reluctantly and hesitantly, trey told their stories. By piling up a mass of such evidence, the state hopes to convince the jury that there was an affair between Hight and Mrs. Sweetin and that this was the motive for the poisoning of the husband.

One witness had seen Hight on a pile of lumber waving his hat energetically toward the Sweetin bungalow, nearby.

Another witness had seen Hight at the Sweetin home late at night. Others told of conduct on the part of Hight and Mrs. Sweetin on the occasion of Wilford Sweetin's death and of his funeral when Hight, now serving a life term for his murder preached the funeral sermon.

Still other witnesses were called to tell of alleged intimate relations between Hight and Mrs. Sweetin at a camp meeting revival at which Hight was one of the preachers, held shortly after Sweetin's death.

At the conclusion of this testimony, which the defense has characterized as that of "the Ina gossips," the most important legal battle of the trial will start when the state will seek to introduce one of more of the alleged confessions made by Mrs. Sweetin after her arrest.

The defense is prepared to make a hard fight to keep these alleged confessions from going to the jury.

19 NEW CASES INFANTILE PARALYSIS IN STATE

HARTFORD, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Nineteen new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in the state last week, exceeding those of the previous week by eight, according to the morbidity report issued today by the state department of health.

Commissioner of Health Stanley H. Osborn repeated his statement that although the number of cases is above the average it is not large enough to cause fear of an epidemic. Cooler weather will prevent spread of the disease, he said. Complete state reports as to the number of deaths which have resulted thus far from the outbreak of the disease are not yet available, it was said, but it is believed that there have been but few fatalities.

LEVINE TO ATTEMPT A LONG DISTANCE FLIGHT

PARIS, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine, who has been contemplating a long air flight for considerable time, came here by train yesterday and announced today that he will attempt from London an endurance long distance flight to the Orient. His present purpose is to land at Karachi, India, in 55 hours flying time, which would give him records of both distance and duration.

INDIANA ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPT. IN CONTEMPT

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 19.—(AP)—E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, declined today to discuss the action of Attorney-General Gilliom, who filed a motion Saturday asking the supreme court to increase the 60 day contempt sentence recently given Shumaker.

Gilliom's motion was based on the ground that an effort had been made to "corruptly influence" a decision of the court.

"I shall present my side of the case when it comes up for hearing before the supreme court," was all the liquor crusader would say regarding the contradictory statements, as to whether Senator James E. Watson had assured him over the telephone in August, 1926, that Shumaker would not be required to go to jail. Senator Watson in a letter denied he had made such a statement.

Henry Lane Wilson, former ambassador to Mexico, from whose summer home at Culver, Ind., Senator Watson talked by telephone to Shumaker, said last night that he recalled that Senator Watson refused to "give any of the assurances demanded my Shumaker."

NEW PRESIDENT OF NAVAL WAR COLLEGE

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Joel R. Pringle, U. S. N., arrived here today, assuming the active presidency of the United States navad war college. He succeeds Rear Admiral William V. Pratt, who left last week, to take command of the battleship division of the Pacific fleet.

Admiral Pringle was former chief of staff of the battle squadron of the Atlantic fleet. He will deliver an informal inaugural address to this year's class at the college tomorrow.

WATERBURY BOY DEAD OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

WATERBURY, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Joseph A. Bear, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Bear, of 20 Buckingham street, died this afternoon at his home of acute infantile paralysis. The boy was taken ill on Friday and later, when his condition became more serious, Dr. J. H. Green, children's specialist was called in. With Dr. E. J. Godfrey, city health officer, Dr. Green diagnosed the case as infantile paralysis. The diagnosis was made Sunday and the boy died within 24 hours.

The Bear lad's case is the third in Waterbury since the recent state epidemic began about two months ago. The other two cases are reported as improving.

VOTED TO RESCIND THE FAVORABLE VOTE OF SEPT. 7

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 19—What will remain a sentiment vote unless there is a future change of legal opinion from the attorney general's office, was expressed on the bi-ennial election controversy at tonight's special town meeting. On Sept. 7th 37 voters by a majority of 14 voted to ratify the special act of legislature providing for biennial town elections and effective in 1928. As the result of a petition the meeting tonight was held to reconsider that action and the meeting voted 86 to 49 in favor of rescinding the ratification vote of P. Chesbro was moderator and Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, clerk. Attorney John H. King, town counsel, read the heretofore published opinion of Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill, that the town could not rescind its action. He was seconded in his explanation of his opinion by Town Clerk Fenton. Valentine L. Murphy took up the opposition as to the legality of rescinding and as to the opportunity of a substantial number of voters expressing themselves by ballot on the act.

STATE SCHOOL TEACHERS TENDERED A RECEPTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 19—A reception and dinner was tendered tonight at the Nathan Hale hotel to the new teachers at the state controlled schools of the city, including the Willimantic State Normal school. Forty-two attended, including Principal and Mrs. George H. Shafer.

VALENTINE L. MURPHY EXPLAINS HIS STAND

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 19—Valentine L. Murphy, whose name headed the list of petitioners for a special town meeting to be held tonight to reconsider the action taken September 7, when it was voted to ratify biennial elections, issued a statement today explaining his reasons for being one of the petitioners. Mr. Murphy opens his statement with an explanation that he is in favor, heartily so, of biennial elections, but that he is opposed to the bill passed at the last session of legislature and opposed to the method by which this bill was supposedly ratified at the last town meeting. The attorney general's opinion that when the bill is ratified by a majority of the voters of the town makes it a law beyond the power of the town to rescind, is interpreted by Mr. Murphy as meaning an actual majority of the legal voters. He contends that 37 voters—the number who attended the September 7 meeting—does not constitute a majority.

"While the attorney general's office states that the September vote cannot be rescinded," states Mr. Murphy, "it does acknowledge the right of that meeting to rescind and annual the action taken at the annual town meeting held in October, 1926, because this meeting of September 7, did just that by shortening the term of the assessors by one year and lengthening the term of three members of the school board one year, contrary to the vote of 1926."

The statement continues: "The statutes of the state of Connecticut covering the election of town school committees provides that the town school committee shall consist of 2, 3, 6, 9 and 12 members and prescribes the manner in which they shall be chosen. The statutes further provide that in case two members shall be elected, no person shall vote for more than one, where three be elected, no person shall vote for more than two, and where four or six shall be elected no person shall vote for more than one-half of this number. Now, in the coming election each party has nominated four candidates for the school committee and each person may vote and can vote for four members of the school committee. The bill as passed by the general assembly of 1927 does not repeal or rescind any conflicting clause in the statutes, and therefore it is a very grave question as to the legality of the coming election in the town of Windham. The constitution of the state of Connecticut gives the right to the people of the town to determine the length of the terms of its elected officers, and yet this special act abrogates this right by shortening the term of an assessor one year and lengthening the term of three members of the school committee one year."

A number of invitations were received through the mail today to attend a gathering of the Klu Klux Klan to be held in this vicinity. The typewritten invitation bears the name of the recipient and several questions to be answered. There are also two pamphlets, one "How to Tell a Klansman" and "What the Klan Has Accomplished."

Sixty of the 173 applicants for electorship in the town, have thus far qualified before the examinging board consisting of the selectmen; Ernest P. Chesebro, Jeremiah Healys and C. Arthur Keeney and Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. It is expected that a majority of those who have not yet taken the oath will appear at the session to be held next Saturday. The week of September 26, the four voting places will be open for the reception of citizens who desire to be acquainted with the new voting machines.

The Knox Lunch on Union street is the most recent place to be visited by petty thieves. Maxim Bertrand, the proprietor discovered Sunday that the place had been broken into, the glass having been broken out of the rear door affording entrance. The crooks had first torn out the screen from a rear window but abandoned this means of entering because of the trouble that would be encountered in creeping through the small window. The door glass was smashed by two stones which were found in the place. Marks and other evidences showed that a thorough search had been made for a sum of money which Mr. Bertrand had hidden in a cache. The cash register had been rifled. The crooks left with a carton of cigarettes, cakes, pies and crullers.

NOANK

SHIPYARD TO START AGAIN—GOOD NEWS FOR VILLAGE

The good news has been passed around throughout the village that Noank Shipyard will start up again. Then the old carpenters will be back of a plank again with their axes. But not many old timers are left. It is to be a 90-foot fishing smack for a party in New York. Charles Butson, boat builder, is well known for his work; he has built some of the finest yachts for the richest men in the country. He ran a shop in Groton years ago. Mr. Butson will be in charge of building the boat and is to put on a large force of men so to have the craft in commission for winter fishing. So once again the noise of the mallets and axes will come from the old wooden shipyard on the water front. At one time it was the largest yard in the United States.

A small yellow kitten owned by Mrs. O. Gallio on Main street was born without a tail, something new in the village although some cats are born with only half a tail and are called rabbit cats. When this kitten runs, it almost falls on its face, on account of one high foot being longer than the other. Many people came to see the kitten, whose owner has named it "Freals".

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark and daughter Alice have returned to New York, after visiting relatives in the village.

Gordon Clark is spending a week in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. John Smith spent Sunday in Hartford.

John Bentley went down to Wilbur Fish's market, Friday morning, for his day's work and was surprised to see the market all decorated with flags of all colors in honor of a birthday. On the door was a sign "To our chief lobster packer—Many happy returns of the day." Then the fishermen and his associate workmen gave him a party. The one who told the best whale story received a prize. So nine old fishermen entered the race. E. Wilbur led them all, for he told a good one. He received a trout-fishing outfit. Berand Davis gave a cornet solo. Then John Bentley told about his experiences in the Spanish-American war, when he did not sleep for three days, had to live on one bacon sandwich and drank water from a wagon hole. He said that he was glad to serve his country for the good old U. S. John Latham served them clam chowder with lobster and crabs. On the table was a large birthday cake with 54 large candles, the cake being made by Miss Minnie Swanson. He received a number of gifts.

Sidney Butson and Mrs. Lois Shandor have returned from an auto trip to the White Mountains and over Bear Mountain.

Miss Janet Labony of Baltic spent the week end with Miss Mary Maloney.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Graham came from Bristol to pay a visit to the village and to see Mrs. George Brown. They are on their honeymoon, having been married in that town. Mrs. Graham was Miss Helen Spicer and used to spend her summers in Noank. They left on Monday to motor to Pansion, N. S., where they are to make their home.

The lobster men are having new sport while waiting for the tide to change to haul their pots, it is blue fishing. The boats are so thick it is hard to steer so as not to hit a boat. Capt. Fred Fitzpatrick of schooner Catherine had a catch of 135 pounds, the fish weigh 3 pounds. Boat Mildred, Capt. John Daboll, was high book for the day, with 230 pounds. The other boats had good catches.

Seasoned fishermen can't tell where so many fish come from. It seems all you have to do its to whistle and they come right to the top of the water.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Webster have returned from a week's trip to Canada by automobile.

Mrs. Charles Rogers has spent a few days in Montreal with friends.

The largest crowd of the season turned out at the fire fighters' dance in Unity hall, Saturday night, where 75 couples were on the floor. Hanney's Speed Boys' orchestra, from Niantic, played for the dance fans. A spot light dance was a feature with Sam Carson handling the light.

Big Mike Passi has been training in South Boston for the last two weeks with his trainer, Tony Rossi for the wrestling match with Strong Man Jones in that town. It took place Thursday night, when the open air arena was packed with 5,000 fans including 50 from the village, to see Noank's heavyweight champ in action. Big Mike with his manager Arthur DeBlaisi entered the ring and soon Strong Man Jones with his Manager Billie Swah followed. The bell rang to let go and the match was on. Wrestling around the mat for 1 hour and 5 minutes neither man could get his opponents shoulders down on the mat; for Big Mike, heavy baby from Noank, got a toe hold on Jones, the champion of the bean town; but the latter would not give up so Passi put all the power he had and broke three toes on Strong Man Jones' right foot, so he had to quit, after one hour and 17 minutes of hard wrestling. Referee McKnight raised the hand of Big Mike and told the crowd he was the winner. The Noankers went wild over the victory but Jones was a good sport and took defeat with a smile. So Noank's heavyweight wrestler holds the championship in the village. It was his first match away from home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Conley of Waterbury are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wilcox.

Charles McCarthy a carpenter working on Brocky garage on Pearl street met with an accident on Friday afternoon when he went to put up a board inside the garage and it slipped from his hand, going through a pane of glass. Piles Go Quick

Let us tell you how to quickly end all Pile misery without messy salves or dangerous and expensive cutting. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, discovered Piles to be caused by blood congestion in the lower bowel, and a weakening of the parts. His prescription Hem-Roid banishes Piles by removing the cause.

We know of such wonderful results from Hem-Roid right here at home that we invite every Pile sufferer in this city to try this splendid prescription with our guarantee that Hem-Roid will end all Pile misery, even long standing and stubborn cases, or we will gladly refund the money. Fair enough, isn't it? Lee & Osgood Co.

DANIELSON

YOUTHS WHO TOOK AUTO PLACED ON PROBATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 19—This morning six youths were presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court to answer to a charge that they took, without permission of the owner, a small motor truck belonging to St. James' Cemetery association and used it on some sort of a joy ride that ended when the car was damaged. The youths were ordered into court by State Officer Elton Nolan. An agreement having been reached as to paying for the damage to the truck, the court placed the boys on probation, and they are to report weekly for a period of six months to Prosecuting Attorney A. G. Bill as probation officer.

This is Brooklyn's big week of the year—fair week. Now that state highways run through Brooklyn from the south and the east and west the vast majority of those who attend the fair each year come by motor cars, and this fact in itself has proved a fruitfull field of revenue for the fair association, for one pays to get a machine through the gate. Fair officials ask only fair weather to be certain of the same fine success the fair has enjoyed for years past.

That time flies is again impressed upon one by the fact that the first installment of $5,000 of the town school bonds, issued last year, has been paid and retired. This bond issue totaled $150,000, and is to be completely retired in a period of 30 years from the time of issue. As the town's grand list shows a consistent increase, the burden of carrying these bonds, taken with the fact that there will be fewer of them to pay interest on every year will become constantly lighter and lighter.

Comment has been made of late on the number of youths roaming about this section of the country, chiefly along or near trunk line highways. These young men have developed the hitch-hiking habit to a degree. It is not unusual to encounter one or more of them whose homes are as far away as Pennsylvania, while meeting these rovers from New York is almost an every day occurrence.

It was forecasted today that there will be lively working in Danielson this week to forestall, if possible, the talked of removal of two mail trains when the New Haven road changes its schedule next Sunday. Business interests here have not forgotten the handicaps and inconveniences to which they were subjected last spring when these trains were taken off, only to be restored, with their mail service, after a few weeks. It so happens that the post-office department is exerting its influence to have the trains kept in service.

With the end of the Eastern Baseball league playing season, this community will see no more of some of the teams making up that circuit for this year. All through the summer in traveling between cities on the eastern part of the circuit teams of the league regularly came through Danielson, traveling in special motor coaches. This was particularly true of the Waterbury club.

Kennedy had charge of the arrangements.

Only tuberculin tested cattle are to be shown at the Brooklyn fair this year. This is an innovation at Brooklyn. Having to choose between having either untested cattle or tested cattle, the agricultural society elected to have the latter. Each year finds a larger number of tested herds in Windham county. Owners of these tested herds have hesitated in the past to show them in competition with untested animals through fear that they might contract tuberculosis.

BEAR IN MIND

Throughout the cities, and also in the country, there are signs giving warning to automobile drivers that there is a schoolhouse a certain number of feet ahead. The purpose is to let the drivers know the situation so that they will drive slowly where children are likely to be encountered and slow driving would mean the prevention of possible accidents.

During the summer time, inasmuch as school is not in session, no attention is paid to such signs. It is recognized that it is the vacation period when children are elsewhere than in the vicinity of the schoolhouse and the need of slowing down at such points does not exist.

Now that the vacation is over and school is again in session it is well to bear in mind that the signs, which haven't been changed, once more mean what they say and should be heeded. It isn't in front or near a schoolhouse that all the accidents happen, but that is the point where children congregate in numbers before and after the sessions, where they are very apt to be playing and where, in the course of their play or in their burst of enthusiasm at the close of school, they frequently rush thoughtlessly into the road without regard for danger or anything other than what they are doing at that minute.

The "School Ahead" sign serves an excellent purpose. It is in keeping with the warning of a railroad crossing ahead or danger of any other kind. It is quite important that the children should be repeatedly warned of the need of being careful in crossing the roads and against playing in the streets but with the auto drivers on the lookout for them and the children looking to their own safety the number of accidents should be kept at the minimum.

When we stop to think of the number who are killed each year needlessly it becomes evident that there is great need of paying attention to each and every warning sign, and it is time to remember that the "School Ahead" signs cannot be wisely ignored any longer.

FEDERAL TAX CUTTING

One matter that will get special attention at the coming session of congress will be tax reduction. The treasury situation is such as to justify it and practically the only question about it hinges on the amount. This is a matter which ought to be treated in a businesslike fashion with the facts as the guide, but there are already evidences to the effect that there will be plenty who will use it for political purposes.

This is clearly indicated by a report from Washington which says that the insurgent republicans are turning a deaf ear to the overtures for a general offensive alliance with the democratic majority, and that the insurgents and the democrats are "as far apart as the poles" in regrd to tax legislation.

Certain of the democratic leaders have already indicated their inclinations by calling for huge tax reductions, something like the full amount of the surplus. Such is not likely to get anywhere for it is all out of reason in view of the many other demands and the non-repeating revenue from which part of that surplus was made up. For such a move to be put through with the aid of the insurgents and then let the administration suffer the effects of going in a hole would would be the aim of those working for political capital, but it would be highly unfortunate for any combination to be effected for such a purpose.

Tax reduction is to be expected and is justified at the coming session of congress. It should be, so far as possible, a non partisan revision. Opinions may differ as to where the cuts should be made but in the amount there should be no conspicuous difference. If the view from Washington concerning the insurgent attitude about tax revision is correct there probably will be no fighting of the administration at the expense of the country and there should be none. The insurgents have played too frequently into the hands of the democrats already with no credit to themselves, and no benefit to the country.

PUBLIC SERVICE PLANES

Within the past few days much has been said against placing restrictions on flying in such a way as to prevent pioneers from carrying on their work. There has been opposition to the idea of standing in the way of anything that would contribute to the advancement of aviation, and yet those who have favored restrictions have taken their stand in full realization of the fact that the continued loss of life in unwise flying chiefly for publicity purposes should be discouraged.

However much may be said about letting those who are ready to risk their lives in transoceanic flying go ahead as often as they desire, the same attitude cannot be felt about those who are ready to take the chances connected with brief pleasure flights. Reference is made to the death of seven and the injury of five others when a big Fokker plane crashed at Hadley field in New Jersey last Saturday. That affair deserves and probably will get a thorough investigation. The machine was a big one, one that had seen much service in Europe and was being used to carry for profit those who desired the experience of riding in a flying machine. From all accounts it was a bargain day when rates were low and many were responding to the opportunity to go up in the air for little money.

What the trouble was and whether the airplane was overloaded remains to be determined. Whether as much care as should be exerted under such conditions, where public transportation is being sold, was taken will be carefully looked into for it is quite evident that there must be all possible safeguards thrown about the public in flying machines even as efforts are devoted to that end in connection with other forms of transportation.

It was not a case of stunt flying at Hadley field, at least it was not the belief of the patrons of that machine that there was any abnormal risk being run in making the flight, and certainly when it comes to rendering public service in the air safety must be the leading requirement.

TOO MUCH RIDING

There are those who seek to be made the exception to all rules, so that the effort of the student at the University of Michigan to avoid the effect of the rule that students cannot have automobiles was probably not surprising. However, it didn't work for the college authorities evidently felt that they recognized an exception in one case the whole ruling would quickly disappear.

It is perfectly evident that such a rule does not fall alike upon all students. There are those who can use a machine while in college without ill effects even if others cannot, and the new ruling means that the innocent are being made to suffer with the guilty. Yet that is invariably the effect.

The ground for the exception by the student, however, was that he needed a machine because he lives two miles from the campus. Under most conditions two miles is not prohibitive. It is just about the right distance to provide good exercise, and at least that much exercise should be assured each day for the healthy young man. And yet his residence places him under a handicap to the fellow student who resides on or near the campus.

While a two mile walk would have been thought nothing of some years ago by students, clerks, business men, it is not so today. The idea of walking such a distance is never entertained. There must be some form of transportation and if it isn't one method it is another. Perhaps it would be an excellent thing for most individuals, students included, if there were obliged to walk two to four miles a day as a health exercise. Aren't we getting into the habit of doing more riding than is really good for us?

THE VISIT TO FRANCE

The arrival of the American Legion members in France has awakened the hearty reception that was to be expected. Members of that expeditionary force that went across in 1917 are back again on French soil, back where they spent some hard and uncertain days, back where they experienced hardships and saw the spilling of much blood and the loss of many comrades, back where they rendered a valiant service in driving the enemy back, back where their influence was conspicuous in hastening the end of the World war.

It was inevitable that France welcome the shiploads of visitors, a decade after those terrible days. That country was not unmindful then of the assistance it received and it is not unappreciative now. The welcome is significant of the French attitude.

The Legion members who have gone across are going to see a different France than they left after the signing of the armistice. France hasn't been completely restored but restoration is well along and the country will be seen under markedly different conditions than before.

It is evident that France is going to experience quite as much pleasure in being the host on this occasion as the Legionnaires are in being the guests and the visitation should prove to be one of the greatest satisfaction to all concerned even though it does serve to revive memories which many would like to forget.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Never pick a quarrel even if it is ripe.

There's only one chance to go wrong in picking the winner of this week's fight.

Tunney and Dempsey are going to divide about a million and a half. Perhaps if they strike they'll get more.

Think what a lot of fun France is going to have with the French the Legion members remember after ten years.

Henceforth Connecticut is to get its dry enforcement orders from Boston instead of New York. But will that make the state any dryer?

In fixing the date for the next war so definitely, the former kaiser is doing pretty well for one who isn't supposed to be on the inside.

If it is so that Maine is ready to change its mind in regard to the power situation the Pine Tree state is to be congratulated though it has taken a long time.

It would be an excellent idea if some of the fields and yards in Connecticut, filled with wild carrots, could get treatment from one of those weed-cutting crews for which Florida has gained some fame

DEAR DEPARTED RUBY

Gregory Spaulding selected a thick clump of bushes on the edge of the park and glanced guiltily aout him. This early in the evening the coast was practically clear, so he set down the large brown-paper parcel he had been carrying. From the breast pocket of his overcoat he produced a long-handled spoon, which argued that somewhere he had both a wife and a kitchen. With this culinary weapon he began to prod the frozen earth beneath the leafless bush.

"What do you think you're doing, young fellow?" Gregory started and looked up. An uncompromising red face and a large silver star gleamed equally in the light of a near-by street lamp.

"I'm conducting a funeral," replied Gregory with dignity. It is a delicate matter to appear dignified when a hound of the law catches you excavating the public domain with your wife's biggest stirring spoon. The policeman was unimpressed.

"You'd better get along out of that. We don't allow nobody in the shrubbery for any purpose."

Gregory was a lawyer by training and inclination.

"This isn't shrubbery. Shrubbery means leafy bushes, and there won't be any leaves until spring."

"I don't care what it is. Get out of it."

Sadly Gregory took up his bundle, replaced his miniature shovel and removed an insignificant amount of real estate from the knees of his trousers.

His temper was still uncertain when he reached his apartment and dropped the package on the dining room table. The paper split and revealed a large green parrot. The parrot had splashes of red on the back of its head and shoulders; also it was quite dead.

"Ruby is still with us," he informed his wife fiercely.

"What's the matter?" demanded Gloria. "You've been gone nearly an hour! I should think you could bury a horse in that time."

"You never tried to bury anything in the city, did you? The janitor nearly had a fit when I tried to borrow a shovel; he said he'd lose his job if he let anybody dig around the lawns. Of course, the back yard's all concrete. Then I tried the vacant lot, but there was a nasty little dog just waiting for me to get through and go away. Then I found a lonesome place over on Chappel street."

"What was the matter with that?"

"Nothing. I just carelessly forgot to take any dynamite with me. Have you any idea how hard everything is frozen! I knew they'd been digging up some bushes in the park and I thought I might find a soft spot, but the whole city police force came charging up with drawn revolvers."

"I don't believe it!"

"It had to be seen to be believed. I left the old girl on a street car, but a blithering idiot chased me half a block with her."

"Gregory! After you promised me you'd bury her decently! You might as well put her in the ash can as leave her in a car."

"Now you're talking sensibly. Let's do it."

"I will not. Mother had Ruby 18 years and she's just like a member of the family. Couldn't you cremate her in the furnace?"

"I could not. Once in my misguided youth I put an exceedingly dead kitten in our furnace at home and we nearly had to move out." Gregory rewrapped the carcas. The neat package bore a startling resemblance to an undernourished turkey fresh from the meat market.

As a compromise it was decided that the body should lie in state on the kitchen table until morning. If Gloria thought of a practical plan, so much the better. Otherwise, Ruby would have for a casket a large green box, tastefully lettered with the slogan, "Help Keep the City Clean!"

That evening the conversation in the Spaulding household was strongly flavored with parrot, and Gregory's sleep was troubled by large parrots with silver stars, who chased him through a forest of stirring spoons. Gloria awakened him when escape seemed impossible.

"I thing the kitchen door's blown open, dear. Would you mind going to see? I don't remember locking it."

Gregory stumbled away into the dark. Then Gloria heard him laugh.

"We've been robbed," he chuckled. Gloria gasped. "It's all right; he heard me coming and ran."

"What did he get?" whispered Gloria.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Major Gen. Frank McIntyre, U. S. A., who is being urged for appointment to the vacant post of governor general of the Philippines, is regarded as especially well equipped by experience for the duties of that office. As chief of the bureau of insular affairs, which position he filled for six years, he displayed administrative ability of a high order. He also has a personal acquaintance with the Philippines, having served there for several years during the period of insurrection. Gen. McIntyre is an Alabamian, who prior to going to West Point, studied at the University of Alabama. He was graduated from the military academy in 1886, and returned there in 1890-94 to teach. His pre-Spanish war experiences were with the infantry arm of the service. During the World war he served as chief military censor.

NEW BOOKS

Chivalry Peak. By Irvin S. Cobb. Illustrated by Herbert M. Stoops. Cloth, 314 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book corporation, New York. Price $2.

Seldom is a writer, famous for one type of writing, able to swing into an entirely different type with such success as Irvin S. Cobb has achieved in his first novel, Chivalry Peak. This is an adventure romance. While the elements which have endeared Cobb's writings to a multitude of readers are by no means lacking, in it there are also the constantly growing suspense, the mounting mystery, the more and more exciting episodes which make so many readers prefer a sustained book-length narrative to the best short stories ever written. Typical of Cobb's stories, the opening paragraph captures the interest by delineating a character so penetrating that you follow it deep in the first chapter without coming up for breath. By that time you are inextricably drawn into the plot.

Chivalry Peak is a western romance. But some of the southern mountain men who he depicts so vividly are to be found in it. It's a tale which lovers both of Bret Harte and of Irvin Cobb will favor, with a Lindberg sort of hero who wages a single handed battle that the reader is likely to approve in spite of certain dark aspects.

There is in the book not only consummate characterization, but some extraordinarily fine western description—probably ascribed to the fact that the grandeurs of a new terrain were being seen through eastern eyes to which all was new. And then, as the climax rushes quickly upon you, there's suddenly a Cobb surprise ending. All this constitutes mighty good measure in one romance.

The Fortunate Calamity. By "Pansy." (Isabelle M. Alden). Illustrated by Grace Norcross. Published by J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $1.75.

Poor old Aunt Elsie didn't seem the kind of person who would be much of an addition to the family. And only Ray, the oldest daughter, was willing to make the sacrifice of being friendly and hospitable to the penniless, homely old aunt. Florence's dress, however, gave Aunt Elsie her opening wedge. It just wouldn't go right and Florence couldn't go to the party without it. Then Aunt Elsie came to the rescue and Florence reluctantly yielded. What else could she do? She simply had to have that dress. Dick couldn't get his Latin and Aunt Elsie solved it for him. She seemed to adore Dick; probably because he had the name of her favorite brother who had run away and never came home. All the rest of the family had forgotten Uncle Dick—but she had written him often and received the most beautiful letters—and something else—something that made her more than ever interested in her nephew, Dick. Then more trouble. The mortgage on the house was foreclosed. Again the "Fairy Godmother" was the only one who could smooth things over. Now, that's settled, thought Aunt Elsie, it's high time Ray and Kendall Forsythe stopped their foolishness and were married. And when the old lady decided a thing it was as good as done. It was that, one short year after Aunt Elsie's dreaded arrival, each member of the family said to the others, "I don't know what we'd do without Aunt Elsie."

Travesty. By Clare Thornton. Cloth, 328 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book corporation, New York. Price $2.

Some philosopher has remarked that originality consists in a rediscovery of the obvious. The theory is borne out in Travesty, a surprising original variation on one of the oldest of story teller's themes.

This novel by a young English writer might be described as a triangle with a completely new set of angles. Cesca Gilson wanted "the good things of life"—and so turned down the man she loved in order to marry a rich, titled young hero. Up to this point, of course, the story is as old as the hills. But what comes afterwards is as new as today's paper. The poor young man came into an inheritance, and became eligible when it was too late. Then the rich young man, showing a flare-up of spirit, offered her freedom back to Cesca. The way out seemed clear enough now—but the punishment of the beautiful Cesca was only beginning. There is a swift succession of ironical situations that leaves her bewildered, scrambling for a sound footing. And poor, hard-boiled Cesca, who finds it as difficult to realize that she has been a bad sport, goes through a painful education in masculine psychology.

This is Miss Thornton's second novel and her first published in America. The volume deals with convincing human beings and their story is chronicled with insight and a deep sincerity of feeling.

Nolichucky Jack. By John T. Faris, with illustrations by D. Cammerota. Cloth, 283 pages. Published by J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

A thrilling tale of a little known American hero, John Sevier, whom his devoted followers nicknamed Nolichucky Jack. In Watauga settlement 160 years ago life was hard—all around was the brooding forest of North Carolina, hiding the savage redman and the still more dangerous renegade and outlaw. It was a day when strong men were needed—the British and Spanish were a continual menace — neighbors farther east looked with a jealous eye on the fertile fields of Washington county—and the Indians were on the warpath. Attacks, ambushes, sudden raids kept Nolichucky Jack on the jump—hurrying from east to west, rallying his small but determined band to meet the savages on their ground-making sallies into enemy country—always the leader, dauntless, tireless. Then came the revolution and the battle of King's Mountain. Tories excited the Cherokees and Creeks against the white men, and Jack led his men on campaigns fraught with danger and hardship, through forests and over mountains and rivers—on and on over ground never trodden by white man—fighting, every painful foot, against hunger and disaster—but at every step building a great nation. Seldom has frontier life been so realistically painted, with Indian legends told around the campfire, vivid description of games, pictures of sturdy settlers, and of great community events like Jack's wedding, the peace council with Oconostota the great chief of the Cherokees, and the building of the log fort.

Cubby Refuses to Come Down

Wise is he, though others scoff,
Who knows and keeps himself well off.
—Cubby the Bear.

You will remember that Farmer Brown had called upstairs to ask if that Bear had been found yet, and Farmer Brown's Boy had replied, "Yes and no." That was such a queer answer that Farmer Brown demanded an explanation.

"Well, you see," replied Farmer Brown's Boy, "I found him in the night and lost him this morning."

"Good land!" exclaimed Mother Brown. "What do you mean by saying you found him in the night? If you found him, what did you do with him? Where did you find him? Where is he now? Why didn't you hold onto him?"

"Wait a minute—wait a minute!" cried Farmer Brown's Boy. "How do you expect me to answer all those questions at once? I found him up in the bedsprings in the middle of the night. I didn't want to waken you folks, so I left him there because I knew that he couldn't get out of my room with the door shut and the window screen in."

"Well, if he couldn't get out, where is he now?" demanded Farmer Brown.

Farmer Brown's Boy smiled somewhat ruefully. "I knew he couldn't get out," said he, "but he did jest the same; he climbed up the chimney."

"Good land!" exclaimed Mother Brown again. "Do you suppose he's up the chimney now?"

"That's what I'm going outdoors to see," replied Farmer Brown's Boy, and out he went.

Cubby was on the roof of the house. He was walking back and forth along the ridgepole, seemingly very well satisfied. Cubby looked down at him, but he made no move to come down.

Cubby was on the roof of the house

In the first place there really was no way for him to come down. This suddenly occurred to Farmer Brown's Boy, and he ran to get a ladder. With the ladder placed against the edge of the roof, he once more began calling Cubby. But Cubby still had a guilty feeling. He had no intention of coming down while Farmer Brown's Boy was waiting for him. Farmer Brown's Boy went into the house and brought out some cookies. He knew there was nothing that would tempt Cubby more than some of Mother Brown's cookies. He held them up so that Cubby could see them. Cubby started down toward the ladder. Then he changed his mind and went back. Back and forth, back and forth, along the ridgepole he walked, looking down at those cookies. He wouldn't sell his freedom for all the cookies in the world.

Finally Farmer Brown's Boy went off, leaving the plate of cookies a little way from the foot of the ladder, but where Cubby could see them. But Farmer Brown's Boy didn't go far. He didn't propose to have Cubby come down and get those cookies and then get back up on the house again. But even then Cubby refused to come down. The fact is, he wasn't very hungry. He had had so much that was sweet the day before that his appetite was not yet very keen. He preferred to stay up on the house. Perhaps he suspected that Farmer Brown's Boy was hiding nearby.

Stories That Recall Others

Her Version

Jean was almost three years old, and had been to Sunday school several times. One day her mother found her standing on a chair beside the kitchen sink vigorously scrubbing the drainboard with a brush.

"Why, Jean," she said in astonishment, "what are you doing?"

"I'm shining this board," was the calm reply.

"You get down at once. You know you shouldn't be playing in the water."

"But, mother," the child protested, "I want to do what Jesus said."

Failing to see the relation between shining the sink board and being obedient to Jesus, the mother questioned her further. "Jean, I do not understand what you mean. Tell me what Jesus said?"

The child replied at once: "Jesus wants me for a sun beam to shine for him each day."

Innocents Abroad

When mother and father made their vacation plans they included their son James, age four, to accompany them for the first time.

They went to a western city and registered at a hotel in the business district which was within walking distance of many interesting points. After several days James became a familiar figure in the hotel lobby. One day the family left the hotel, en masse, for a visit to the museum. In response to their inquiry, the hotel clerk directed them: "It's a six block walk straight down this street, or you can take a street car right out here at the corner." An hour later James appeared in the lobby of the hotel alone.

The clerk, visibly surprised, remarked: "Why, James, I thought you went to the museum."

"I did," answered James.

"Well, how did you get back here so soon?" ased the clerk.

"I walked back. I just followed the street car track," was the youngster's reply.

"But where are your mother and father?" the anxious clerk inquired.

"They're lost," answered James.

Hearing a strange noise in the cellar, seeming to come from the boiler, E. C. Murch, of Norway, Me., opened the door. Out flew a large bird, bringing with it a cloud of dust and dirt, besmearing him all over. Mr. Murch finally got it out the window and the bird proved to be a dove which had fallen down the chimney. It flew to the street, somewhat dazed, but soon recovered.

Mass will be continued Sundays at St. Francis' Catholic church, Crescent Beach, at 10 o'clock, for the remainder of the present month. Rev. Leo Weston of Hartford will assist Rev. Edwin A. Flynn of Niantic parish.

Flannels and crepes are two of the outstanding groups of women's wear fabrics for the spring season. Plain and printed flannels are being featured by the mills in large variety. They will be used for dresses and coats.

A number of informal social affairs have been held at Cinderella inn, under the new management. This favorite and attractive tea-room and modern tavern occupies one of the most beautiful sites on the Norwich-New London road.

An item on the Central Baptist calendar reads: Although in recent years able to attend services but rarely, Mrs. Susan Dean held the church in her heart's interest to an unusual degree. Our sympathy goes out to Miss Dean and Miss Eugenie Dean.

Mooseheart Women Form Club

The Women of Mooseheart Legion held their outing last week at Atlantic beach. The members left the bus terminal at 10 o'clock and arrived back in this city at 6:30. A very pleasant day was enjoyed. Games were played also cards. Those taking prizes were Mae Lasch, Mrs. Peterson, Mae Hunter and Vera Sterry. Swimming was also enjoyed. After the ladies arrived in Norwich, a theatre party attended the Broadway. Those attending formed a club and are to meet to decide upon a name for the club.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB VOTES TO INCORPORATE

Miss Helen Marshall of 71 Williams street was the speaker at the dinner meeting of the Professional and Business Women's club held Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Norwich Golf club. In the absence of the president, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, who is on vacation, the meeting was in charge of the vice president, Dr. Catherine Bryan of the state hospital. There was a large attendance.

During the business session, which was of short duration, it was voted to have the club incorporated and arrangements were definitely made to hold the club's meetings in the rooms over the George W. Kies company's store at 118 Main street. It is planned to redecorate the new quarters and make other necessary changes, so that the rooms may be rented to different societies for social gatherings. The next meeting is to be held at Gregory's.

In her talk Miss Marshall gave a vivid and interesting description of the whaling business in Nantucket, the building of ships and of the preparations for the trips, which were usually from four to five years duration. She told how the whales were captured, how the blubber was cut and how the oil and bone were taken from the whale for market. She gave an interesting sketch on the life of the captain and family and in conclusion related a number of personal experiences; also a description of her life in Nantucket.

Miss Marshall was given a vote of thanks at the conclusion of her delightful talk.

MADE FIVE DAY TOUR THROUGH NEW ENGLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Brown of Yantic have returned from a five day automobile trip on which they were accompanied by Mr. Brown's aunt, Mrs. Edward L. Greene of 15 Yerrington avenue, and cousin, Albert O. Roach of Mystic. From Norwich they went to Providence and Fall River, where there had been a hard thunderstorm and the water in the streets was up to the running boards. Trolleys and autos were stalled all along the streets. From there past Buzzard's bay they went on to Cape Cod, taking the south shore route and having lunch at Hyannis. Thence to Provincetown, where they stayed over night and spent the next morning visiting points of interest. From Provincetown they returned by the north shore route to Boston and went on to Newburyport to spend the night at Wolfe's tavern. Portland in Maine was reached the next day, proceeding from there through Redstone, Bartlett, Crawford Notch, Bretton Woods and Twin Mountain to North Woodstock where they spent the night. The next morning they drove six miles to see the Lost river in the White mountains. The trip through the gorge occupied about an hour under the direction of guides to watch out for the safety of visitors. From there they returned by way of Concord, N. H., where they stayed overnight and the next day reached Norwich by way of Manchester, Lowell, Fitchburg and Worcester.

CUSHMAN-LANMAN ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED

From their summer home at Southwest Harbor, Me., Professor and Mrs. Charles Rockwell Lanman of Cambridge, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Esther Cook Lanman, to Robert Adams Cushman of Cambridge.

Miss Lanman, who is a graduate of Radcliffe college, was for two years secretary to Miss M. Carey Thomas, president emeritus of Bryn Mawr college. She is a descendant, on her mother's side, of Thomas Hinckley, governor of Plymouth Colony, and, on her father's side, is a descendant of Jonathan Trumbull, governor of Connecticut through the Revolution.

Mr. Cushman is a son of Mrs. Cushman and the late Charles E. Cushman, who organized and was for many years the head of the municipal bond and public utility department of the New York Life Insurance company. Mr. Cushman is a graduate of Harvard college. The wedding is to take place in November.

CONTRACT FOR WARDS AT NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

The general contract for the erection of two new ward buildings at the Norwich state hospital has been awarded to the H. Wales Lines Co., of Meriden. The bids were opened Monday by the board of trustees. The plumbing and heating contract was awarded to the Frederic Raff Co., of Hartford and the O'Neil Electric Co., this city was awarded the contract for the electric wiring. The plans were drawn by Cudworth and Thompson, this city. The two wards will be known as the north and south wards, one for men and the other for women.

The appropriation made by the legislature for the construction of the two ward buildings was $400,000, which includes furnishings and architect's fees.

NORWICH HIBERNIANS AT FIELD DAY AT MERIDEN

In the attendance of several thousand Hibernians from all parts of the state at the annual field day held in Meriden Sunday, the Norwich A. O. H. had a good representation of about 50 members, both men and women. The programme of sports followed the fine dinner that was served from 12 to 2, in Ulert's grove.

Mrs. Annie Connelly won first prize in the fat ladies race with Mrs. Julia Breen a close second. Mrs. Nellie McHale, Mrs. Margaret Peterson, Mrs. Frank Williams, and Mrs. Rose Dwyer formed a combination hard to beat in the married ladies' baseball team. A five-piece orchestra furnished music for both old-fashioned and modern dancing in the extensive pavilion.

MASTER BARBERS WILL STUDY MERGER IDEA

At the state convention of the Connecticut Master Protective Barbers' association, to be held in the Putnam Phalanx hall, Hartford, October 2, the question as to whether or not this association should affiliate with the Associated Barbers of America will be the main point of discussion. The convention will also receive the report on the state hairdressers' and cosmeticians' license law.

J. C. Cartellano of Hartford will preside at the convention and Mayor Stevens has been invited to welcome the delegates. After the business session, which starts at 9 a. m., a recess will be taken at noon, when luncheon will be served, followed by a march to the capitol by the delegates, where a group picture will be taken.

A tour of the city will follow the election of officers in the afternoon and at night a banquet will be held at the Allyn House ballroom, to which Governor Trumbull and Secretary of State Francis A. Pallotti have been invited. Over 400 barbers are expected at the convention.

The state officers are: President, J. C. Cartellano, Hartford; first vice-president, Walter Abendroth, Norwich; second vice-president, N. W. Sandale, New Britain; secretary, Vito A. D'Urso, New Haven; recorder, Henry Di Sesa, Bridgeport; trustees, James Pellegrino, Torrington, Frank Bosco, New Britain and John O. Eno, New London.

Cary in command, assisted by Commodore John J. O'Rourke of the Destroyers; Commodore Edwin Hill of the Submarines; and Commodore Earl Taggart of the Battleships.

The Land Regiment Division in command of Major Edwin A. Harris to be supported by the Infantry, Captain Abner Schwartz; Calvary, Clarence A. Spear; and the Artillery, Harold E. Robbins.

Air Squadron in charge of Colonel Ernest O. Rodier and the following lieutenants, Louis M. Crandall, Bomb Carriers; Henry D. Johnson, Dirigibles; and F. Russell Smith, Aeroplanes.

Each captain drew the names of eight prospective workers and immediately proceeded to line up his men. Other plans for the detailed operation of the campaign were explained in detail by the secretary.

WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE TO MEET IN WATERBURY

Miss Edith Chase of Waterbury will be general chairman of arrangements of the state convention of the Connecticut League of Women Voters to be held in that city Nov. 8, 9 and 10, it was announced last week after the meeting of the state board at Hartford.

A feature of the convention will be an address by Harrison Elliott of New York, professor at the Union Theological Seminary, on Truth Through Discussion. This will be given at a luncheon Wednesday noon, Nov. 9 at the Hotel Elton. A series of discussions on the address will follow at dinners to be held that evening under the auspices of the standing committee chairmen.

Meetings of the convention will be held both at the Elton and at the Mattuck Historical society.

Mrs. Annie G. Poritt of West Hartford presided.

GOLDEN SPUR HOUSE IS TOTAL LOSS BY FIRE

An unoccupied two-story frame house on the Oil Mill road at Golden Spur, Waterford, owned by A. J. Perry, was totally destroyed by fire at 2:45 o'clock Monday morning with an estimated loss of $5,000. The fire is believed to have started in the kitchen, but from what cause is not known. Neighbors who discovered the fire summoned the Waterford fire engine company, but the house was a mass of flames when the firemen arrived and they could do little but save a cottage nearby from taking fire by wetting its roof and walls down with chemical.

MISS EVON BROADHURST IS TO BE "MISS NORWICH"

Receiving about two thirds of the total votes cast, Miss Evon M. Broadhurst of No. 135 West Thames street has been chosen as "Miss Norwich" and will be extended an invitation to ride on the city's float in the New London county parade at the New London county fair this week. Other leaders in the contest were Miss Helen Gallup, Miss Marie Hunzinger, Miss Fanny Digangi, Miss Una Belle Harbeck and Miss J. Augusta Hanlon.

MISS EVON BROADHURST

The amusement committee of the court of common council which has charge of the city's float will extend Miss Broadhurst an invitation to represent Norwich on the float.

GRISWOLD JUNIORS MADE FINE VEGETABLE EXHIBIT

The largest and best exhibit of vegetables ever shown in Griswold by juniors was put on by 4 H club members at the Pachaug fair, eliciting much favorable comment.

Early in the summer the Pachaug grange gave two pounds of certified seed potatoes to every boy and girl who would plant them, care for them, and exhibit the potatoes grown from the two pounds. Several boys and girls did this, but due to so much wet weather this summer the yield was not as great as was expected. The eight children who received the most potatoes, in weight, from the seed given them received premiums. The winner of the contest, and the person who received first money, obtained 54.7 pounds of potatoes from two pounds of seed. This was a very good result considering the season.

At the same time the potatoes were distributed three squash seed were given to each child by the county club leader, the eight boys or girls who received the greatest total weight of squash from these three seeds also received premiums. The results of this project were very good and many large, mature squash were shown.

Health garden collections of seed were sold to a number of boys and girls for 20 cents a collection. The children who bought these enjoyed many of the vegetables during the summer and also exhibited many of the varieties at the fair. These health garden vegetables made very attractive exhibits and premiums were given for the largest collection of vegetables from them.

4 H club work does not confine itself to garden projects alone as was shown by the exhibits of clothing from the Franklin Thimble Wearers of North Franklin and the Jolly Cookers and Sewers of Gales Ferry. The exhibit from North Franklin received first premium and that from Gales Ferry second.

Stuart Babcock, son of Tefley E. Babcock of 219 McKinley avenue, a member of the club, had on exhibition an interesting and attractive display of bees and honey. He showed observatory hives of Caucasian bees and of Italian bees, extracted honey, comb honey and display of all varieties of honey. He received six first premiums on his exhibits, which won several premiums at the state fair in Hartford.

This is the first taste of 4-H club work that Griswold has had, but the first taste did not satisfy and now plans are under way for the organization of a girls club in that town.

Such Flavor

as this comes only in real Quaker Oats

THE price you pay for substitutes is the same as for the genuine Quaker Oats. The difference is in the flavor. And flavor, above all things, is important in oats.

That rich and toasty Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years' milling experience. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

That is why millions demand the Quaker brand—why you should accept no other.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamines and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently "balanced" food.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

GRAND PRIZE OFFERED FOR BEST PARIS GOWN

PARIS, Sept. 19—(AP)—The well known Parisienne now has an annual 50,000-franc Grand Prize of Elegance. Leonard R. Jonthal, the pearl merchant, put up the money, with the understanding that the 50 1,000-franc notes would be given by the winner to the little, hard-working midinettes in the dressmaking shop that made the prize gown.

"Other countries, larger than ours, have massiveness and strength," says the announcement of the prize. "They are the roots of the world. France is the flower," it goes on modestly. "Her mission is to produce, in every line, the rare and the exquisite, whether an ocean liner, a woman's dress, a rose or a perfume. The Parisienne is the supreme expression of this hothouse culture which will not flourish alone. It must be helped a little."

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

MISS M'KENZIE SHOWS WAY TO FIELD WITH RECORD 77 IN NATIONAL GOLF

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 19—(AP)—In a stern golf struggle between and during showers which threatened to flood the Cherry Valley course and drenched some of the best women players in four countries 32 qualifying places were won today in the national womens golf championship.

Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, Canadian women's champion showed the way with a sensational 77, five under the women's par of 82 for the Cherry Valley course. In winning the medal Miss Mackenzie went out in 329 and came home one stroke better.

Mrs. G. Henry Stetson of Philadelphia, the champion failed to qualify and will not have a chance to defend her crown in the match play beginning tomorrow.

Mrs. Stetson was indisposed as she started her play and never struck her stride finishing the 18 holes with a score of 96 six strokes more than was needed to qualify without a struggle and five strokes too many to win a place in the play-off at 91 in which seven women played for four places.

Close behind Miss Mackenzie were Miss Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N. J., and Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn of Kansas City, tied at 78. Mrs. W. G. Fraser of Ottawa Canada, who as Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, Ga., three times won the United States championship, was fourth with a score of 82.

Mrs. Henry Pressler, of Los Angeles, who recently won the Western Women's title was tied with Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, another sensational player, at 83.

Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaume, French and British champion was in constant trouble on her first nine when she needed 46 strokes but she came home in great style and finished in 87, comfortable in the select circle.

Miss Eileen Pattison, champion of Bermuda, was well in the 32 match players with 86, a score at which she found herself tied with Miss Edith Quier of Reading, Pa., and Miss Martha Kinsey of Cincinnati.

Miss Glenna Collett, former national champion, was one of the five players to score 85. The others were Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, Mrs. G. H. Lifur, Los Angeles, Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, and Miss Beatrice Gottlieb, Delawater Gap, Pa., Miss Marie Jenney of New York stood alone at 84.

Mlle. De La Chaume shared her 37 with Miss Dorothy Brown Page of Madison, Wis., and Mrs. E. G. Fitler of Philadelphia.

Mrs. E. P. Harwood of Chicago, Mrs. Arnold Jackson of Greenwich, Conn., Mrs. Benjamin Briggs of Pelham, N. Y., scored 88 and Miss Virginia Wilson of Chicago and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, who won the championship under the colors of Great Britain, Canada and the United States finished in 89.

A group of five 90s represented the highest comfortable score as a play-off was necessary to decide which of the 91 class should survive.

It was composed of Miss Rosalie Knapp New York, Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., Mrs. J. L. Anderson, New York, Mrs. H. G. Hugbie, Detroit, Miss Helen Payson of Portland.

Seven players tied at 91 and entered the play-off from which Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Grossepoint Shores, Mich., Mrs. Courtland Smith, Genridge, N. J., Miss Jane Brooks, Englewood, N. J., and Mrs. J. D. Woodfin, Boston, won their way into the continuation of play.

Mrs. F. Burrows of New York, Mrs. Dan Jones of Los Angeles and Miss Isobel Harris of New York were eliminated the post-day.

The 32 survivors will go out at 10 o'clock tomorrow and at five minute intervals leave the first tee in 18 hole play in the first round. The pairing:

Miss Ada Mackenzie vs. Mrs. E. H. Fitler.

Mrs. Gregory Lifur vs. Miss Helen Payson.

Miss Virginia Van Wie vs. Mrs. B. B. Briggs.

Miss Edith Quier vs. Mrs. J. D. Woodfin.

Miss Maureen Orcutt vs. E. P. Harwood.

Miss Peggy Wattles vs. Miss Rosalie Knapp.

Miss Marie Jenney vs. Miss Virginia Wilson.

Miss Eileen Pattison vs. Miss Jane Brooks.

Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn vs. Miss Dorothy B. Page.

Miss Beatrice Gottlieb vs. Miss Bernice Wall.

Mrs. Henry Pressler vs. Mrs. Dorothy C. Hurd.

Miss Martha Kinsey vs. Mrs. Courtland Smith.

Mrs. W. G. Fraser vs. Mrs. Arnold Jackson.

Miss Glenna Collett vs. Mrs. J. L. Anderson.

Mrs. O. S. Hill vs. Mrs. H. G. Higbie.

Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaume vs. Mrs. Stewart Hanley.

CRITICS CLAIM DEMPSEY IS CHANGED FIGHTER

(By Charles W. Dunkley, Associated Press Sports Writer, who has Covered Dempsey's Major Battles from 1918 to 1927)

LINCOLN FIELDS, Crete, Ills., Sept. 19—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, on edge today for his battle of $5,000,000 with Gene Tunney in Soldier field next Thursday night is as different from the Dempsey of a year ago, when he lost the world's heavyweight championship to Tunney in the rain at Philadelphia as black is from white.

That at least is the verdict of unbiased observers who have watched the former world's heavyweight champion in all his battles from the time he battered Jess Willard into a helpless hulk in Toledo back in 1919, to his last engagement—his knockout victory over Jack Sharkey seven weeks ago.

If the present day Dempsey isn't the same old Dempsey of the Firpo days, he is so close to the real article that his admirers hardly can distinguish the difference. Some say his victory over Sharkey caused the change: that it dispelled all doubt in his mind as to whether or not he could come back and, having convinced himself that he still carries the old murderous punch and can stand up under a punching, is certain he can destroy the popular belief that "they never come back." Dempsey is determined to come back not half way, but all the way.

This afternoon as he lounged about his training camp he found difficulty in keeping still—a picture of a fighter brim full of nervous energy and in condition.

"I know I am in the very best of condition; I feel it," Dempsey said. "When I fought Tunney a year ago I did not have a fight for three years. It took that fight and the one I had with Sharkey to bring me back. I'll retain the title. I feel sure of it."

Some of Dempsey's admirers and played-this also goes for unbiased critics, say that he is 25 per cent better than when he fought Tunney a year ago.

GIANTS PICK UP FULL GAME BY BEATING REDS

CINCINATI, Sept. 19—(AP)—The New York Giants slashed the Pirates' hold on the National pinnacle to three and one half games today by defeating Cincinnati 10 to 6, while Pittsburgh lost to Brooklyn. The season's series with the Reds went to the Giants on a margin of 15 victories in 22 starts.

Burleigh Grimes, working with only two days rest, went the route to his 18th victory which was also his ninth triumph in a row. Cincinnati called upon seventeen players including three pitchers, Kolp, Jablonowski and May.

The McGrawmen amassed six runs in the fourth inning during which Terry produced his 20th homer with one on base. Terry was on base five times, and besides his homer, he got a triple and two singles the three bagger coming with one on base in the ninth. Lindstrom connected for a homer and a double. The score:

VANCE HALTS RUSH OF PIRATES WITH SHUTOUT

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 19—(AP)—Brooklyn snapped the winning streak of the league leading Pirates today as Dazzy Vance pitched the Robins to a 5 to 0 shutout victory, halting Pittsburgh at 11 in a row.

Vance and Carmen Hill indulged in a slab duel that was scoreless until the sixth when Herman doubled with two on base and two out to score Statz and Carey. Flowers followed with a single that scored Herman.

The Corsairs were held to hix hits, all singles, by the Robins' star, while Hill held Brooklyn to the same number in eight innings. The Pittsburgh hurler stepped aside for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Cvengros finished.

The busmen did not get a runner as far as second until the eighth when Smith and L. Waner made singles. In the ninth, Traynor singled with two out and was allowed to go all the way to third. The game ended when Grantham flied to Statz. Score:

CARDS WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT FROM PHILLIES

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals won their fourth straight game from the Phillies today, 12 to 5, and thus remained at the heels of the second place Giants in the National league race.

It was the fourth victory in as many starts for Pitcher Fred Frankhouse, recently obtained from Houston. He allowed the visitors nine scattered hits while his teammates were slamming Sweeland, Decatur and Willoughby for fourteen safeties.

The Cardinals' big inning was the seventh when Bottomley hit a homer, scoring behind Frisch, who had doubled and Hafey, who had been hit by a pitched ball. Then Blades singled, Holm hit his third straight double and Snyder singled for his third straight hit, scoring Blades and Holm.

Frisch in the sixth got his 259th assist of the season, establishing a new National league record. The score:

PIRATES NEED NINE VICTORIES TO GET FLAG

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—(AP)—Pittsburgh's leeway on first place in the National was whittled a full game today as the Corsairs bowed before the Robins while the Giants trimmed the Reds and the Cards bowled over the Phils. Nevertheless, the Buccaneers are in front by three and one half games with a crucial Giants' clash in the offing.

To clinch the pennant, the Pirates require nine of thirteen remaining contests in the event the New Yorkers capture all of ten games left and the Cardinals all eleven yet to be played.

RUTH IS CERTAIN OF HOME RUN HONORS FOR 1927

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—(AP)—The reign of Babe Ruth as king of the swat is practically certain. Although endangered by the meteoric rise of Lou Gehrig, co-star of Ruth with the Yanks, the threat for the current year, at least, is past as the Bambino has broken out with a sensational eleventh hour spurt of eleven homers so far this month to boost his total to 54 against 45 for his competitor. Eight games are left to play.

Ruth has been hard pressed this year, however. Comparison during the preceding months of the campaign shows that Gehrig has been unable to match Ruth's stride only in the past three weks.

The end of June found both tied with 25 homers apiece. In April, each made four. Ruth turned out twelve in May against eight for Gehrig. The Columbia buster cracked thirteen in June against nine for the Babe. Ruth got nine in July Gehrig ten. In August, Ruth produced nine, Gehrig six. Gehrig has had but four since September 1.

An open date kept the Yankees idle today. The standing:

	G.	H.
Yankees
Ruth, 1921	146	56
Ruth, 1927	146	54
Gehrig, 1927	140	45

TROLAND INTENDS TO SEND FAST CLUB AGAINST RIVERVIEW

Jim Troland, astute manager of the Martafts, has been culling the Eastern league in search of players to bolster up his club for the coming series against the Riverview club of the Norwich State hospital. Last night Troland said that he had his team pretty well lined up for the opening game but refused to divulge the real names of his players. In a joking sort of way Troland said that as Riverview was pitching a player under the name of Gray he also would resort to the colors and say that he had signed Brown, White, Black and Green which might mean much or little.

However, Troland will use four of his present team, Carlie Krauss, Enoch Eccleston, Bill Gley and Lloyd Jarvis which leaves five places to be filled. It is rumored that he has been in communication with "Fud" Sullivan, a former local boy, now business manager of the Hartford club. Through Sullivan he is reported to have signed a number of Hartford players but just which ones is not known. Troland in conclusion says that although he is not ready to announce his lineup he promises that fans will see the strongest team to appear at the state hospital this season.

LAST OUTDOOR SHOW AT OCEAN BEACH TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—Twenty-eight rounds of fighting will be presented by the Thames athletic club of this city in what will probably be the last outdoor card of the season at the Ocean Beach arena here Tuesday night.

The card follows:

Main bout—Tommey Lemieux, Woonsocket, R. I., vs. "Irish" Benny Tell, New York, 10 rounds.

Semi-final—Steve Culver, Bridgeport, vs. Ralph Landis, New York, 8 rounds.

Farmer Hill, Westerly, R. I., vs. Eddie Ryan, Providence, R. I., 6 rounds.

Battling Eurk, Westerly, R. I., vs. Young Bellizzi, Norwich, 4 rounds.

TENNIS WRITERS FORM ORGANIZATION OF THEIR OWN

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—(AP)—The Lawn Tennis Writers' Association of America was formed today at the Harvard club with election of the following officers: J. P. Allen, The New York Sun, president; George C. Carens, Boston Transcript, vice president; A. D. Rothman, Australian Press Association, secretary-treasurer. The body adopted a constitution and by-laws similar to those of the Lawn Tennis Journalists' association of England with which it expects to affiliate.

LOCKHART WINS 25-MILE SPRINT AT CHARLOTTE

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 19—(AP)—Frank Lockhart won the 25 mile sprint for high speed professional drivers on the automobile speedway here today.

Peter D. Paola was second and Cliff Woodbury third. Lockhart's time was 11:45:66, an average of 127 miles per hour.

TEN FAST BOUTS AT DUWELL A. A. AMATEUR SHOW THIS EVENING

Twenty amateur boxers hailing from various points in Conneticut and Rhode Island will be bracketed into 10 bouts for the final card of the outdoor season, over at the Duwell field this evening.

In bringing the outdoor season to a close, the Duwell matchmaker has arranged a card which should be equally as good and full of thrills as those which during the past two months have sent away close to 2000 fans on each occasion satisfied that there still is some boxing which is on the level.

The high lights of tonight's show which will be featured by the appearance of many new faces, will be the return to the ring of Young Peloquin of Danielson, following a short lay off due to a sore hand, the initial appearance of Westerly's premier welterweights, Young Spasato and Young Bruno; the attempts of "Al" Zoziol and Young Salinsky to continue their ride on the waves of victory; the attempted comeback of both "Vic" Darr and "Happy" Bontempo, and a possible heavyweight match with Big Boy Burlap as one of the principles.

YOUNG SALINSKY
of Jewett City

Of the 8 entries whose names are on file over at the Duwell club, the two, whom local fandom wish to see in action most of all are Kozlol and Burlap. Both of these men have been bowling them over without much opposition, and the crowd wants to see them matched up once ,where each will be forced to extend hemself. Although there are several men enterell in Kozlol's division, the 130 pound class, it is not certain as yet as to whether an opponent will be found for the big colored boy.

YOUNG PELOQUIN

Another bright spot in tonight's show is the initial appearance of "Boots" Laroy the 120 pound protege of Tony Brusso of this city. Although Laroy will be christened into the fight game this evening, he has many admirers both in the center and the West Side section of the city, who insist that he is a comer, and will easily dispose of his first opponent. Willimantic, which up until now has not been represented in any of the amateur bouts tonight for the first time will send forth one of its boys in the person of Paul Bernier, 118 pounds.

Other cities represented on the entry list are New London, Westerly Danielson, Putnam, Colchester, Hartford, Jewett City and Norwich.

Jackie Wilson, the local referee who has been calling them to perfection in the past shows will be assisted tonight by "Frankie" Busch, our own well known heavyweight boxer, who now is engaged as an instructor at South aMnchester. At this time with the Dempsey-Tunney bout so near, Busch will be remembered as the boy whom Jack Dempsey (while still the world's champion in 1926) declared was his best sparring partner. The local boy who has fought a world's champion and trained with two others knows boxing from A to Z and will be a big help to Wilson. The remainder of the officials for the show this evening are Jack Sweeney and Michael Kelley, judges; Mr. Adams, timekeeper; John J. Riley, announcer and Dr. David A. Sussler, examining physician.

The boxers are all requested to be at the Duwell club at 6:30 o'clock to weigh in and be examined.

TUNNEY CONCLUDES GRIND IN PERFECT CONDITION

TUNEY'S TRAINING CABP, Lake Villa, Ill., Sept. 19—(AP)—Gene Tunney's training gloves, huge sixteen ounce mittens that have jabbed and slammed thousands of times into his sparring partners' bodies in the past five months, were laid away in the heavyweight champion's ring chest tonight to await the next training siege.

With a chill wind sweeping through the tiny covered ring, Tunney boxed for the last time today before climbing through the ropes Thursday night to face Jack Dempsey's desperate bid to regain the heavyweight diadem. His body heavily swathed in full length woolen underwear and a thick purple sweater, Gene pranced through five rounds against two sparring partners after assaulting both light and heavy bags for six minutes each.

Critics were unanimous that Tunney, right on the edge of perfect condition, was more impressive today than at any previous point in the long grind for the champion's first title test since he clubbed Dempsey into submission at Philadelphia last fall. Gene boxed with the speed and skill of a lightweight, punched eagerly and with perfect marksmanship.

Chick Wiggins again was not called into action for fear that his erratic attack might again damage Tunney's right eye lid, split by a head butt ten days ago, and further irritated by a jab from Williams' glove last Friday.

Tunney swabbed the injured eyelid with collodion before tackling the day's grind but the safety measure appeared unnecessary.

"Training is over, at least as far as boxing is concerned," Tunney said after the workout. "I never felt better in my life. The cool weather just suited me. My weight is around 189 pounds."

The public was barred from Tunney's final ring drill.

RAIN HALTS ACADEMY FIRST GRID PRACTICE

A heavy downpour cut in on the Academy's first grid workout of the season Monday afternoon at the campus but before it did Court Whitney's boys got enough in to call yesterday's work a session, at least.

Close onto 75 swarmed over the field during the afternoon and uniforms were issued to many.

Not much of a definite nature was undertaken with kicking and passing the ball occupying the session.

Today should see the locals out strong to get a real start on the 1927 campaign. There are less than two weeks before the first game, Oct. 1, with Chapman Tech here, and plenty of hard work lies just ahead in order to be at anything like top form for this tilt.

Tech opens this week end against Plainfield High and they will have this one tilt under their belt when they tackle the Red and Whitesters.

The 1927 football schedule is reprinted as follows:

Oct. 1, Chapman Tech at Home; Oct. 8, Torrington at Home; Oct. 14, Westerly at Home; Oct. 22, Warren Harding at Home; Oct. 29, Wilby at Waterbury; Nov. 5, Windham at Home; Nov. 12, Bulkeley at New London; Nov. 19, Stonington at Stonington; Nov. 24, Alumni at Home.

ALBANY WINS FIRST GAME OF SERIES

ALBANY, Sept. 19—(AP)—Albany, Eastern league champion, defeated Buffalo, International league pennant winner, by a score of 5 to 3 today. This was the first game of a series of three.

Buffalo broke a two to two tie in the 10th on Pons' infield hit, Devine's sacrifice and Carter's double.

Albany won in its half of the inning when with one out Solomon singled to left and Yordy hit over the left field fence for a home run, scoring Gleason and Solomon ahead of him.

Yordy's home run was made on Ogden who went in to pitch the tenth for Buffalo.

GOLF CLUB NOTES

Good weather over the week-end saw a large number of players enjoying the ideal golf weather.

The second round matches in the first and second sixteens were either played or defaulted during the week-end.

In the first 16 Dave Morton went to the semi-finals by beating W. G. Park 9 and 8; W. L. Chaffin beat Bill Mitchell 1 up in a close match; John Moulton won from Dr. Eldred 3 and 1, while J. R. Howe defeated John F. Rogers 1 up.

In the upper half of the semi-finals Morton will meet Chaffin and in the lower half Moulton lashes with Howe. Morton and Moulton are favorites to meet in the finals.

The second 16 reached the semi-finals when C. A. Gager beat Walt Turner, 3 and 2; Goffe Briggs downed Bill Shields, 2 and 1; L. M. Young won by default from E. L. Bliven, as did F. R. Smith from E. R. Bean.

Gager and Briggs meet in the upper half of the semi-finals and Smith and Young in the lower half.

It is hoped to finish up the Labor Day tourney by Sunday night.

In the week-end tourney Eddie McKay with a 78 took low gross prize. First low net went to Dave Morton who came in with a gross of 73 for a net of 69. Johnny Sayles shot an 88 which gave him a net score of 76 for second low; W. R. Baird had third low with a 78 net.

Those who were out on the course Monday afternoon came in soaking wet when the thunder storm caught them. Jim Knott and his foursome as usual were among those to take a ducking.

Bill Skelly, the efficient superintendent of grounds, on Sunday pulled the entirely unexpected by shooting the last nine holes in a foursome in 41. Maybe Russ Miller's fatherly talk had something to do with it.

Dow Ahearn, youthful phenom of the Willimantic Country club set up a new mark while engaged in a golf game with his father, John F. Ahearn, Sunday by scoring a 70 for the 18 holes. 37 for the first nine and 33 for the last nine. His scores by holes was:

PRIEST 98 YEARS OLD STILL OFFICIATES

BERLIN, Sept. 19, (AP)—Father Heidegger of Holzkirchen, in Lower Bavaria, is the oldest priest in Europe and perhaps in the world. Father Heidegger is 98. He recently celebrated the 75th anniversary of his induction into the priesthood.

Now Holds World's Altitude Record

Lieut. John A. Macready, former Army ace, following expoeure of an alleged hoax by which Jean Callizo, French airman, made a mark of 42,650 feet, will claim the world airplane altitude record. Lieut. Macready is credited officially with reaching an altitude of 38,704 feet in a flight at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, on January 29, 1926. It is charged that Callizo's claim was based on falsification of his barograph reading.

POETRY

Autumn Longing

There's a gypsy thrill
In the pale blue haze
That kisses my hill
These first Fall days;
I yearn to follow . . . afar I'd roam . . .
But a dear little three-year-old holds me home!

There's a laugh and a sigh
In the winds that pass—
In a cricket's cry
In the sun-warmed grass;
I ache to wander . . for fields to roam . .
But a dear little three-year-old holds me home!

I must sit quite still,
Nor desire to go
From my home on the hill
When the Fall calls low;
I crush my longings . . I could not roam
From the dear little three-year-old boy at home!

Agnes Choate Wonson in Boston Globe.

Geography

I teach them interesting things
Of where all goods are made,
Of what their manufacture brings
In profitable trade.

I teach them from a bloodless book
To scan a bloodless chart,
And pray one day their eyes may look
To find the throbbing heart.

I teach that crumbling mountains built
The spreading plains below;
But I can smell the river silt
In lands I do not know.

I teach of rain that comes in June
To slake the withered grass;
But I can hear the fresh monsoon
Roar down, thin out, and pass.

Shall I so teach, the livelong day,
In inches and degrees,
And never try to sail away
Beyond the charted seas?

Nay; after dinner, lessons done,
I have my fitful nap,
And point my dream boat to the sun
Across a worn old map.

G. D. Martineau in The London Spectator.

WESTERLY

SEVEN INDICTMENTS RETURNED ON MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I. Sept. 19—September term of superior court for Washington county came in at the county court house at West Kingston this morning at 11 o'clock with Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh of Providence on the bench. Court proclamations were made by Crier Elmer Edwards and Third Assistant Attorney General Louis V. Jackvony examined the 26 jurors, under summons for grand jury duty, all reporting and found eligible for duty. The oath was administered by County Clerk Herbert Caswell and Judge Walsh charged them as to their duties and they retired at 11.45 a. m.

Claude R. Saunders, farmer, of Woody Hill district, Westerly, was appointed foreman. The jurors who retired to the grand jury room on the first floor to hear such evidence as Attorney General Jackvony had to offer for indictments were as follows:

North Kingston—Walter R. Pierce, Harold W. Madison, Prescott Arnold, Levador E. Browning.

South Kingstown—John E. Stedman, William I. Main, William A. Hathaway, Frank A. McVay, John A. Edward.

Westerly—George B. Spargo, Frank W. Taylor, Frank A. Shippee, W. F. Greenman, Claude R. Saunders.

Richmond—Friend W. Brooks.

Hopkinton—Joseph B. Pendleton, John Hurtado.

Exeter—Oscar E. Stone.

Charlestown—Walter E. Brooks.

Narragansett—Richard L. Barnes.

When the grand jury returned to the court room, just following an hour's recess, at 2 p. m., they reported 7 indictments, 6 open and 1 sealed, involving nine persons.

Arthur Hazard was indicted for forging and uttering a check for $11.73 for H. N. Girard, signed "Frank Pagio." Hazard pleaded not guilty and in $2,000 bail his case was continued to Sept. 21st for trial.

Loof H. Fields, 29, alias, pleaded nolo to the larceny of an automobile of Horace Hraley of South Kingstown, having been apprehended in Pawtucket, R. I., by Sergt. Flynn. His record showed three previous convictions for larceny. Judge Walsh sentenced him to two years in Rhode Island state prison.

Elmer J. Fagan, indicted for breaking and entering an occupied house in the night time of Martin Fox in North Kingston and larceny of $109.-88 pleaded not guilty. He was held in $10,000 bail for trial on Sept. 21st.

Alonzo Lenyon, of Hartford, previously tried in third district court in Westerly for larceny of a $1,000 diamond ring from Mrs. Isabelle T. Dauchy, and under indictment, pleaded not guilty and was held in $2,000 bail for trial on Sept. 21st.

Francis A. Welch, 19, of Florida, who related that he had escaped 13 or 14 times from Exeter school, R. I., and Albert F. Williams, 19, colored, also having been at the Exeter school, both indicted for stealing an automobile of John Franklin on June 14 1927, pleaded guilty. Judge Walsh directed that both be held without bail 30 days while the attorney general inquired into their mental condition.

Arthur R. Day and Robert A. Kamm, the latter not appearing, were indicted for breaking and entering a building in Charlestown and the larceny of dynamite. Capias was ordered and both will be called to plead on Wednesday next.

A Rhode Island militiaman was found not guilty of manslaughter in a bayonet stabbing fracas at state camp grounds and as no true bill was returned he was ordered discharged and his bail returned.

While the grand jury was out the assignment docket was taken up and motion calendar heard and later four divorce cases heard on depositions and divorces granted. The regular divorce docket will be taken up Tuesday and the trial calendar with petit jurors on Wednesday.

Annie Tingley was granted a divorce from Earl S. Tingley of Peacedale, on grounds of neglect to provide, and given custody of two minor children.

Charles D. Lewis of Lafayette was given a bill from Almira B. Lewis on grounds of desertion.

Linda Turano of Westerly was granted a divorce from Angelo G. Turano and permission to resume maiden name on grounds of neglect to provide.

Ethel Magno of Westerly was given a divorce from Abraham Magno of Mystic on grounds of neglect to provide and to resume maiden name.

This morning at 9 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception church on High street Miss Helen Ursula McWeeney, daughter of the late Thomas and Catherin McGrane McWeeney of 31 Elm street, became the bride of John Patrick Cushman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cushman of Narragansett avenue. The nuptial high mass was celebrated by Rev. Eugene Hughes of Pawtucket. Rev. Father Hughes also celebrated the nuptial mass which followed the wedding ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret McWeeney, and was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Frank G. Ahern. William Cushman of New York, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride was charming in her gown of white transparent velvet with tulle vail and cap of duchess lace nad orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a period gown of yellow pompadour tulle over pink and yellow taffeta. Her hat was of brown tulle trimmed with a large bow of gold ribbon. She carried Columbia roses and baby's breath.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Frank G. Ahern, organist of the church and sister of the bride, played Liebestraume, by Liszt, as an organ solo Harold Nichols played a violin solo, On Wings of Song, by Mendelssohn, accompaniment for all the numbers.

For the entering wedding march the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was sung by Miss Rose M. Bannon, soprano, and Martin H. Spellman, tenor, accompanied by Mrs. Ahern, organist, and Mrs. Nicholas, violinist.

During the mass, Mrs. Spellman sang O Lord Most Holy, by Cesar Frank, and there were several other musical numbers, including a vocal duet, Ave Maria by Lambiotte, sung by Miss Bannon and Mr. Spellman; a violin solo, The Swan by Saint-Saens, played by Mr. Nicholas, and a soprano solo, Mother of Christ, sung by Miss Bannon, with violin obligato by Mr. Nicholas. Mrs. Ahern furnished organ accompaniment for all the numbers.

For the recessional Mrs. Ahern played Mendelssohn's Midsummer Night's Dream.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Stonington Manor Inn immediately following the ceremony at the church. Only members of the immediate families of the bride and groom attended the breakfast.

Mr. and Mrs. Cushman left this afternoon for a motor trip to the Adirondacks and Quebec. Upon their return they will reside at 31 Elm St.

Mr. and Mrs. William Grant left here this morning to visit in Kingston, R. I.

Such flavor! such aroma!

This old Maine woods recipe catches the very fragrance of the forest—in

BEAN HOLE BEANS

Never did baked beans have such flavor as those old-time beans baked in the "bean hole"—the outdoor oven—of the Maine woods lumber camps.

The great round-bellied bean pot was filled brim full with the richest of ingredients; then baked all night in a bed of glowing embers. No wonder those Maine woods beans had the fragrance of pine trees, the seasoning of wood smoke!

Everyone wanted that delightful outdoor flavor—but no home cook could attain it!

But a packer of distinctive foods has captured it, at last—in Bean Hole Beans. His own unique method brings it to you.

One taste of Bean Hole Beans—and you'll know what rare flavor baked beans can have! Enjoy it always—get a can today from your grocer. Two sizes—medium and large.

Crowd them a little and most of the cars that you're likely to buy will give you more speed than you're likely to need.

But you never need to crowd a Wolverine. It does its job easily, smoothly, willingly.

Try one yourself and see the way it goes through its paces. Watch how quickly it gathers speed—no straining, no rumbling, no laboring. Hold it at forty or fifty for awhile—that will tell you how easily it will carry you fast hour after hour, mile after mile.

Push it a little faster than you think you dare over a road that's half holes and half bumps—you'll know then what comfort means to the owner of a Wolverine.

If you like a car that's so quick to respond to your every wish, that you can forget the car in the joy of going—you'll find the Wolverine is the kind of car you'll like to own.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

My Pets

I've six small creamy balls of fluff
And each one says, "Cheep, cheep."
My daddy brought 'em from the farm
And says they're mine to keep.

Their eyes are just as black and bright
As two wee beads cut round.
And, Oh, I'm sure a sweeter gift
My dad could not have found.

My mother cooks an egg real hard
And mashes it with bread
And lets me feed 'em every day,
For chickens must be fed.

And when our sour milk gets thick
I put some in a pan
And my! they gobble it right up.
They eat just all they can.

I know I will not want to kill
My pets when they grow old.
If giants killed me when I'm big
I bet my dad would scold.

And yet he says my pets will be
An awful nuisance then,
And there's no place to keep 'em when
Each chick becomes a hen.

Tonight I just will pray real hard
For God to show me where
To put my pets when they get big.
I'll say the longest prayer,

And if there isn't room enough
I'll pray: "God, keep them small."
I know I cannot really have
My chickens killed at all.

Edna Smith Doran.

To a Whippoorwill

It was midnight, as I leaned upon the still
Of my chamber window, Clear and still
The stars shone down, and beyond the hill
The moon rose in gorgeous splendor, while in the still Midnight air, I heard "Whip-poor-Will!"
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip- -Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!"

One hundred times, and more, I heard that mystic call
As it echoed far and near, o'er all
The woodland, till
It waked the midnight silence, and every rock and rill Seemed resonant with "Whip-poor-Will!"
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!"

Is it because of fear
Of daylight full and clear,
My Whip-poor-Will, that only in the night,
Beneath the mellow light
Of moon and stars you cry your "Whip-poor-Will?"
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!"

Oh! weird, wild, woodland bird, will you kindly tell
Me from your rocky dell,
Why, beneath those silent stars, o'er vale and hill,
You sent that oft-repeated cry of "Whip-poor-Will?"
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!
"Whip-poor-Will!"

—George B. Foster.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The birds of the air taught man how to construct machines that fly instead of being propelled along the ground. Twenty-five years ago flying machines were unheard of and when the idea that man could fly through the air was first advanced it was ridiculed as being impossible. Today it is possible for aviators to fly long distances, even around the earth.

How birds taught man to fly is told as follows by Dr. A. H. Palmer, a well known writer:

When the Wright brothers were conducting their early experiments with gliders, about 25 years ago, it was their custom to travel back and forth by ferry across the Hudson river, between New York city and Jersey City, for the purpose of observing the easy flight of the sea-gulls which follow close behind every boat. These birds knew the secret of flight long before men mastered the air. Birds, of large wing-spread, like sea-gulls, hawks, owls, eagles, ducks, and geese, know how to soar and to glide without visible movement of the wings, and with no apparent expenditure of energy. Their wings have been shaped for this purpose by mother nature, and their instincts tell them how to take advantage of ascending and descending air currents.

It was natural, therefore, that in experiments having for their object the conquest of the air, the birds should be the center of interest, for man has learned much by studying nature. The first step in the invention of the aeroplane was a successful and trustworthy air glider, and this the Wright brothers developed by imitating the sea-gulls. The secret of their glider was incorporated in certain curves of the plane surfaces which form its principal part. After the art of gliding was mastered, the next step was to add to the glider a gasoline motor to provide the necessary motive power to turn a propeller, and thus the first successful aeroplanes of today are simply gliders provided with highly efficient gasoline engines, which provide motive power to turn the propeller blades very rapidly. But in Germany, gliders are still in use which can be kept aloft for many hours, even though they carry no motor or propeller.

Thus man's conquest of the atmosphere has followed his imitation of the birds. But the latter are still our superiors as aviators, and well they deserve to be, for they have been flying for many thousands of years, whereas man learned to fly but yesterday, comparatively speaking. Now that the secret of flight is out, however, man will continue to increase in efficiency in his flying, and some day in the future may rival the birds.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE WIDE

Our Hike from Camp Tippecan

Dear Uncle Jed: I enjoy reading the Wide Awake letters. This is the first letter I have written. While I was at camp this summer we took a hike. As we left the camp road and started along the highway it started to rain. We passed a large number of farm houses on the way. Later we found ourselves at the Wheeler high school in North Stonington.

After eating lunch there, we started back for camp. As we were nearing Lantern hill we saw many dead snakes and turtles. At the foot of the hill we met another group of scouts planning to climb up.

Very soon we were climbing through brush, ridges, and entanglements. We went upon the railroad and kept going upward. I thought we might need some sticks for protection against snakes. As I went to pick up mine, I saw it wiggle. We then knew it was a copper head, about four feet long. After throwing many stones at it we were successful in driving it away. After an hour of hard climbing we reached the top. We saw a wonderful sight.

On our way back to camp we saw a beautiful sunset. When we were back in camp we counted that we had hiked 18 miles.

Made Ice Cream

Dear Uncle Jed: A few days ago we made some ice cream at our house. My mother allowed me to help her and my brother turned the freezer. It was good ice cream. Here is how we made it.

Two cups scalded milk, one tablespoon flour, one cup sugar, one egg, pinch of salt, one quart thin cream, vanilla flavoring to taste. Mix flour, sugar, and salt, add eggs slightly beaten, and milk gradually; cook very slowly for about 20 minutes, stirring constantly at first. (Should custard have curdled appearance it will disappear in freezing.) When cool add cream and flavoring; strain and freeze.

MARY SCHULER, Age 13.
Waterford.

The Beaver

Uncle Jed: A beaver needs bark for food and timber for building his house, and he is the greatest "logger" among the lower animals. You probably are familiar with his dam-building talents, but he is equally clever and efficient in the forest.

At tree-felling each beaver works independently. A small tree is cut through from one side, but a larger one usually on two sides or all around, the chips being split out much as by a woodsman's axe.

The common impression is that only small saplings are cut down by beavers; but this is a mistake; trees three feet in diameter are sometimes felled—and in workmanlike style, too.

The small tree offers no problem at all. A big one may keep a family of beavers busy for several nights, but a single experienced beaver can fell a four-inch poplar, chop it into five-foot sections, and transport the whole tree to the water in a single night.

BENNY RODERIQUES, Age 12.
Putnam.

What I Wrote

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you in a long time. So I thought I would write to you. One day I wrote this and am going to send it to you. My first is in pie; my second is in bend; my third is in guy; my fourth is in grand; my fifth is in yarn; no sixth can I find; no seventh or eighth; but the name spelled is mine.

Helps the Farmers

Dear Wide Awakes: The farmer considers the beautiful rose-breasted grosbeck one of the most valuable of birds because it destroys great quantities of destructive potato beetles. This rose-breasted fellow is one of the few birds that will eat these noxious insects, and therefore the farmer is always glad to see a pair of them nesting in his orchard near the potato patch.

The rose-breasted, or cardinal grosbeak, as he is sometimes called, is one of the most beautiful of birds. His red breast, white underparts, and black wings quickly attract our attention as we hear him utter his rich warble from the midst of some leafy tree. Mrs. Grosbeak, however, is a bird of entirely different plumage, and looks like a big striped sparrow. Both birds have large heads.

They build a thin nest of dry grasses and horse hairs which is placed on the horizontal branches of trees at quite low elevations. When the grosbeak is flushed from her nest she often makes a squealing sort of noise and drags her wings as if in great pain. This is done as a ruse to attract our attention to herself and thus lead us away from her little home.

The Twins

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there was a pair of twins. They were a boy and a girl. Their names were Betty and Bobby. They were both nine years old, and in the fourth grade.

On the night of their tenth birthday their mother handed them each a box. As soon as the lid was off the box they both cried, "Oh," for in each box was a pair of roller skates. And they were as happy as could be.

A Clever Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: Dash was a large St. Bernard. His master had raised him from a little pup. He was a lovely dog, with a heavy coat of soft dark brown hair and a band of pure white around his neck. Dash worked very hard for he had the care of three little children. Their mother was a very busy woman, for they were poor, and she had not much spare time. The big, good-natured dog seemed to understand this perfectly and acted as if it was his duty to care for the children.

His master's home was on the bank of a large river, a dangerous place for such little children to play, but no one was ever uneasy as long as the dog was with the children. When they played by the river Dash never left them for a moment. He always walked along between them and the water. If any one of them ventured too near the edge, he would shove the child away from the water a safe distance on the bank.

Saving the Life of a Squirrel

Dear Uncle Jed: One evening my sister said that she was going for a walk. I said I would accompany her. When we were about a half-mile from home we saw a fluffy little gray squirrel which had been run over by a car. He was still living so I took him in my arms and hurried home. I doctored him and gave him a cozy home. My sister said that she would feed her and I too. She gave her nuts and crumbs every day. Of course she gave some milk. I named him Frisky. Now he comes jumping friskily when I call him to me. I think the Wide Awakes circle members would like to own such a nice pet.

My Pet Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a dog who's name is Cooney. The color of his fur is brown and black. His tail is very short. It is about three inches long. I feed him milk and bread every morning, noon and night. He is a very strong dog. He pulls me around on the sled in winter. He can fight my friend's dog.

A Trip to New York

Dear Uncle Jed: A few weeks ago my mother, my sister and I visited New York. We started on Saturday.

We took the bus to New London and from there we took a train to New York. We reached the Grand Central station at 3:30 and from there took a trolley to Brooklyn.

We remained with my mother's friends for five days. While we were there we visited many interesting places, some of which were the aquarium, Bronx park, natural history museum, and we also went to the movies.

At the park we saw many birds, elephants, lions, bears, monkeys, leopards, kangaroos, and snakes. We saw many fish, some sealions and turtles at the equarium, and things too numerous to mention at the Natural History museum.

The person we were visiting had a lovely cat whose name was Timmy. At mealtimes he hat at table and sometimes they would feed him, but usually he would eat in the kitchen. Once a day he would have a yeast foam pill. They would put the pill on the table and he would jump on to the chair, take the pill from the table with his paw and eat it.

We came home Thursday by train. We arrived home a four o'clock feeling we had had a very enjoyable trip.

Our Play House

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write to you about our play house.

My friend, Elizabeth Winslow, and I thought we would have a play house. Grandma said we could have it in the barn. We decided to have it upstairs in front of a door used to put hay in.

We swept it clean an dthen we got two rugs And two boxes and we put them down. Then we put some blankets and a pillow on each box for a bed.

We took two more boxes for bureau's and put lace on top of them and we put some perfume bottles and a picture on top of them.

I then got a table and two chairs and two telephones. Elizabeth connected the telephones. We got some little stands for the telephone to stand on.

I took a card board box and nailed it to the wall and kept dishes in it. Then we took a box with two parts too it and put some cloth in front of it and we kept food in it. We did not want all of the barn so we hung curtains around our part.

My First Letter

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awake circle. I'll tell about my school vacation. During my school vacation I picked raspberries. I earned about $5 all together. When I could pick no no more I went picking huckleberries and sold all I could to people nearby and had about $4. So I earned $9 altogether.

A Brave Mother

Uncle Jed: One day when the ground was parched with a long drought, a fire came sweeping down across the big prairie in the great northwest. The territory was thickly settled, and the fire raging across the settlement destroyed in its course the entire improvements of several farmers, in some cases even the people themselves being unable to escape.

When the fire was out, a relief party rode out from a neighboring town to see if possibly someone might have escaped the flames and be in need of assistance. Riding past the ashes of one of these destroyed homes, one of the men saw what appeared to be a black hen sitting on the ground. On going up to it he found that it was quite dead, the head and back being burned almost to a cinder; but the bird sat in such a striking position, her wings partly spread out, that he gave her a poke, turning her over; whereupon three little chickens ran out.

Bravely the poor mother hen had covered them, in the face of the roaring, consuming fire; paying the extreme price in the midst of the scorching flames, choosing to be burned to death rather than that one of her brood should be harmed.

There were several races. A mile race between John Switch and Peter Garand was won by Switch. The 10-mile race was the most remarkable one, when it was considered that the Narragansett Indian runner, Chief Horatio Stanton, ran 15 miles Thursday, wrestled Friday night, and was to run 55 miles Sunday. His competitor was Antoch of Westerly. The latter was given a quarter mile handicap, but the Indian beat him by nearly three laps. He completed the 10-mile race in an hour, four minutes and a few seconds, a little under the world's record. Within a few weeks he is to run from New York to Chicago.

A tug-of-war, between Pachaug and Ashland, proved a victory for Pachaug.

PENDLETON HILL

MR. AND MRS. JOHN RAE ATTRACT ARTISTS TO TOWN

English folk dancing conducted by generous neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. John Rae comes to a close with its last assembly Saturday evening. The Raes have generously given their time every Thursday afternoon and evening, and have inaugurated the prettiest and cleanest form of dancing on the boards today. Mr. and Mrs. Rae are doing much to benefit the town of North Stonington. No less than six or eight families of artists, and other highly talented people have taken up residence in this town, as the result of their interest in the town. It is reported that the celebrated historian and author, Roy Nash, has purchased a fine farm in this vicinity. Mr. Nash's latest book, The Conquest of Brazil is praised for its brilliant English, its splendid outlook on life and its unequivocal truthfulness makes it one of, if not the noted books of the day.

A number from the Hill attended the Tuesday school convention held at the Third Baptist church, Wednesday. An interesting program, especially a demonstration of work done by children at the church school at Storrs during its summer session, was among the most valuable features of the convention.

Mrs. Charles A. Palmer of Wheeler Brook district has a beautiful garden and is very generous with her flowers. Gladioli and dahlias are her specialty. Mrs. Charles Cottrell has a remarkable display of four o'clocks. Mrs. Annie Cook beautifies the highway with her flowers. Mrs. Willis Almy has another lovely garden, with a fine display of geraniums. The prize will probably have to be given Mrs. Vernon Thompson for the largest and handsomest display of flowers. Among other flowers, Mrs. Thompson has a brilliant bed of salvia of several rods in length. Mrs. Palmer has imbedded her home in beautiful geraniums and other blossoming plants. Mrs. Clifford Thompson also has a lovely garden.

Miss Amelia M. Palmer is attending the Willimantic State Normal school. Richard Palmer and Paul Koestinen have returned for their sophomore year at Plainfield high school.

Mrs. Harris Boardman, her son, Harris and daughter, Juliet returned to Montclair Sunday. They report a difficult trip. Torrential rain twice stalled their engine, and twice a telephone pole was struck by lightning and splintered near the car. Both Harris and Juliet Boardman are students at the Montclair high school.

Mr and Mrs. Richard Polhamus of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and daughter have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willis S. Almy. Mrs. Polhamus was Miss Claire Almy, a sister of Mr. Almy.

Recent house guests at the Palmer homestead were John and Donald Blackman of Bellport, Long Island and Montclair, N. J., Dr. Lillian Starkweather Higginbotham of Pine Bluff, Arkansas, Mrs. Grace Sharkweather of Chey Center, Kansas, and Mrs. C. Dwight Thompson and Lucile Wheeler of the Road district.

(Special to The Bulletin).

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—The funeral of George G. Avery, of 241 Broad street, who dropped dead at Norwich Thursday night, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Union lodge room, and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church and Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were Patrick H. O'Brien, Cyrus W. Brown, George E. Bigood, George Kenney, H. Coe Gardner, and David Armstrong, the last named of Groton. Prior to the public services in the lodge room, a prayer service was conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe at Mr. Avery's home. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

THE LATE MRS. M. C. ELLIOTT WAS A NATIVE OF YANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Cooney Elliott, widow of Edward Elliott, was held from the residence of her son, Edward F. Elliott, 93 Benham road, Groton, this morning at 8:30 o'clock. Requiem high mass was sung by Rev. William J. Fox at 9 o'clock in Sacred Heart church, Groton. The bearers were Ernest Beane, George Kilroy, Charles Smith and Jeremiah Elliott. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in this city.

Mary Cooney, 72, widow of Edward Elliott, died Friday morning at 12:45 o'clock at her home, Groton, after an illness of a year. Death resulted from a general breakdown of health attended by a series of shocks, the most recent of which occurred a week ago. Mrs. Elliott was a native of Yantic a daughter of Michael and Anna Hayes Cooney. She lived in Yantic as a girl. Her family moved to Norwich when she was still a young woman. She married Edward Elliott in Norwich. They resided in this city until about 30 years ago when they moved to New York. Mr. Elliott died nine years ago. Three months ago Mrs. Elliott moved to Groton, where she made her home at 93 Benham road. Her son, Edward F. Elliott, resides at the same address. Mrs. Elliott resided at 93 Terrace avenue in this city. She was a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church in a resident of this city, but upon removing to Groton she became a member of the Sacred Heart church there. Besides her son, Mrs. Elliott leaves a daughter, Mrs. Helen Lowa, of Yonkers, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. Charles Smith of Norwich. She leaves two grandchildren, Edward C. and Mary H. Elliott, of Groton.

DISGRACEFUL CASE SETTLED FOR NOMINAL FINE AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—Charles W. Jolley, 32, of Rocky Hill, where he is employed as watchmaker, who was arrested Saturday night by Patrolmen John Sullivan and John Foley, charged with indecent assault, was in the police court today on the less serious charge of breach of the peace. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs. G. R. Gilson, sailor, who was in Jolley's company, and who was arrested as a material witness, was not penalized, for judgment was suspended in his case. Jolley was arrested when he was found in a compromising position at the rear of the Williams Memorial institute. After the arrest of the two men, Gilson made a signed confession of what had occurred. Jolley is married and has been a frequent visitor in New London.

CORNELIUS C. TOBIN LEAVES RELATIVES IN NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin).

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—Cornelius C. Tobin, 62, died Saturday night at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Frederick Lewis, 66 Connecticut avenue. Besides Mrs. Lewis, Mr. Tobin is survived by three daughters, Misses Norine, Agnes and Cornelia Tobin, of this city; two step-sisters, Mrs. Daniel G. Driscoll and Mrs. William Casey, of Norwich; a brother, Richard Tobin, of Norwich and a step-brother, Jeremiah Desmond, also of Norwich. Mr. Tobin was a moulder by occupation and was employed many years by the Whiton Machine company. He was a member of Loyal Order of Moose and the Iron Moulders' Union.

Fred A. Strickland, 19 Woodbridge street, was charged in the city court with reckless driving, but his case was continued until the 26th inst. Strickland was driving an automobile on Broad street, last night and when between Brainard and Hempstead streets, the car struck and knocked down Joseph D. Campion, United States Coast Guard, state pier. Campion sustained an injury to his right leg and a laceration of the back, which injuries were treated at the sick bay, state pier. Jesse Cooms, who was with Campion and is also a coast guarder, escaped being hit. Strickland said that the headlights of an approaching auto interfered with his vision. After the car struck Campion it continued across the highway and up on the sidewalk before Strickland could bring it to a stop.

Albert W. Attelzhouse, United States Coast Guard, state pier, was charged with evasion of responsibility and was fined $50 and costs. Attelzhouse was driving an automobile owned by John Virag, also a coast guarder, on Crystal avenue and there it collided with another auto. Attelzhouse drove away and a short time afterwards the auto was found parked outside the coast guard reservation. Attelzhouse could not be found, and when Virag appeared to take charge of the car he was arrested, for he was intoxicated. Two hours afterwards Attelzhouse was found and arrested. Virag escaped penalty for he was discharged without being presented in court. When the machine was found it contained a partially filled bottle of whiskey and a bottle that had contained liquor.

Solomon H. Johnson, United States Coast Guard, a member of the crew of the destroyer McLane, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving an automobile without license or registration. His case was disposed of by Johnson paying the costs of court.

Edward G. Bump, R. F. D., No. 2, Waterford was charged with reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs. When arrested Sunday afternoon by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy Bump was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor.

The funeral of Mrs. Ella H. Crocker, wife of Dayton O. Atwood, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of her cousin, Frank B. Bentley, 286 Ocean avenue and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were James N. Snow, Frank B. Bentley, Clayton Crocker and William Bentley. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The body of George Vorves, United States Coast Guard, was taken to the Union station under a military escort, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The body was placed aboard the 10.28 o'clock train for Washington. Burial will be in Arlington National cemetery.

The funeral of Mortimer H. Cadwell, formerly of New London, who died last week at Sunmount, N. Y., was held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at 15 Masonic street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The bearers were Henry C. Hensley, Matthew M. Baker, John H. Shea, William Beasley, Spanish war vet-Winder E. Reed, Albert P. Ware and erans. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

James C. Carlin, of New Haven, died at Odd Fellows' home, Groton, Saturday. The funeral was held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the residence of his son, Charles Carlson, 9 Parker street. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles F. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The body was forwarded to West Haven for burial.

Mrs. John Keating and infant son, of 457 Ocean avenue; Mrs. Benjamin Bidwell and infant daughter, 35 Evergreen avenue; Master Joseph Clark, Lyme; Mrs. Joseph Simmons and infant daughter, New York; Mrs. Walter Gallow, Boston; Miss Jean Chappell, Lyme; Mrs. L. M. Wise, 849 Pequot avenue and Mrs. Jacob Lazarow and infant son, 87 Blackhall street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Carrie K. Purdy has sold a house and lot on Morgan street to Loren C. and Florence S. Trask.

Eagle Realty company has sold three building lots on the former Burroughs Homestead plat, Bayonet street, to Donato Pappas.

Belle Reynolds, executrix under the will of George F. Reynolds, has sold a house and lot on Alger place to Patrick J. and Annie M. Lynch.

CECIL T. CUNNINGHAM, U. S. N., SUICIDE BY INHALING GAS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—Cecil Thorne Cunningham, about 22, ended his life by inhaling gas last night or this morning. At 8 o'clock this morning his lifeless body was found in a lodging house at 41 Federal street, conducted by Mrs. Katherine Williams. Cunnigham had been dead several hours and it is believed that, although Cunningham had planned his self-destruction he did not carry out his plans until after midnight. No cause for Cunningham's act has been assigned, except that it is believed possibly he was disappointed in love, judging by initials and words he had cut into the arm of the chair in which he expired.

Cunningham went to the Federal street house Saturday night and after representing that he was married and that he expected his wife to arrive in New London Saturday or Sunday night, he rented two rooms for light housekeeping paying $1 in advance. It is not believed that Cunningham was married, neither did a woman arrive, so far as is known. At least she did not go to the Federal street house. Nothing was seen of Cunningham Sunday. This morning when Mrs. Williams arose she detected the odor of gas. She summoned a boy who resides at the house and he climbed through the window of Cunningham's sleeping room and when the sailor was not there the boy entered the kitchen. There he found Cunningham dead in a rocking chair, with two cocks of the gase stove fully turned on and allowing a flow of the poisonous fumes to enter the room. Cunningham was fully dressed. He had brought the chair beside the stove and after having placed a large dish pan on the chair he seated himself at the stove and in a position where he could hold his head above the two burners and inhale the fumes, finally being overcome.

On a dresser was found a two ounce vial of chloroform, which, it is believed Cunningham had contemplated using to end his life, but later had decided on gas inhalation.

On an arm of the chair in which Cunningham died was the following and cut with a knife was found on the chair: "I'm a fool—E. M's, E. L. 1927—E. E.—Love is Great—Here 'tis." The letters "E. E." were cut into representations of hearts.

Cunningham's home is in Herms, Tenn., and his mother has been notified of her son's suicide. He had been in the navy about four years and last month started his second enlistment. The only money found in Cunningham's clothing was 97 cents.

In the police court today, Thomas Feeney was charged with intoxication and fined $5 and costs. Feeney went to a store on Main street, Saturday night and created such a disturbance that complaint was made to the police and he was arrested by Patrolman George McCaskey.

Guido Giliami, 272 Jefferson avenue, was charged with blocking traffic on State street Saturday night and was arrested by Patrolman Walter O'Neill. He failed to appear in court today and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

Joseph King, employed by the Merrit-Chapman-Scott company, was charged with intoxication. He was fined $5 and costs.

Wilfred Labrie, U. S. S. Bushnell was arrested Saturday night on Bank street by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman John Sullivan. He was not presented in court.

Frank Thomas was charged with vagrancy. Judgment was suspended in his case. He was arrested Sunday at the corner of Green and Golden streets by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray and Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy where he was soliciting alms.

Harold C. Albin, of Winthrop street, was charged with intoxication and breach of the peace and was fined $5 and costs on each count. Albin was at a dance hall Saturday night and his conduct was so offensive that he was arrested by Sergeant William Babcock and Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

Harold Caldon was charged with intoxication, but judgment was suspended in his case. He was arrested Saturday night on John street by Patrolman William Riordan.

D. W. Foster was charged with intoxication. Judgment was suspended in his case. He was arrested Sunday night on North Bank street by Patrolman Edward Riordan.

Antonio Chabot, charged with intoxication, was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested at the Union station Sunday night when he was taken from a bus by Special Agent Perreault, of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Louis Margolis, Bank street, was charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinances in blocking traffic on State street. He failed to appear in court and his bond of $2 was forfeited.

Lawrence E. Packer, 56 Fort street, Groton, was charged with breach of the peace by a State street restaurant proprietor. He was arrested Sunday night by Patrolman William Riordan when the proprietor had been annoyed some time by the conduct of Packer. Judgment in his case was suspended.

Andrew Boris, found drunk on Truman street Saturday night and B. L. Hatfin, J. W. McKay and C. R. Thompson, found drunk on Potter street, were not presented in court for they are sailors and were turned over to the United States Coast Guard shore patrol.

R. P. Smith, owner of an automobile sales station, drove his car to Washington street Sunday night and parked it for about two hours. When he returned to drive home Smith discovered that the auto had been tampered with in an effort to steal it. The thief had disconnected the wiring of the coils and then crossed them in an endeavor to start the engine. He was unsuccessful, however, for the auto is equipped with a theft-proof lock. The thief caused Smith inconvenience for the latter could not start the engine and the machine was towed to a garage.

COUNCIL REJECTS ALL BIDS ON PAINTING MUNICIPAL BLDG.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19.—At the regular meeting of the city council this evening, twenty-one building applications were received and approved.

Sealed bids were received recently for painting the interior and exterior of the municipal building. The New London Paint and Wall Paper company was the lowest bidder with an alternate bid, which was even lower if the work was not started before December 1st. The bid for the work being performed at the present time was $1850 and if deferred until after December 1st would be $1350. It was voted to reject all bids, which means that new bids will be asked so that all bidders can bid on the work, which will be started after December 1st.

Bids for the purchase of gasoline for the use of city automobiles were received recently and it was voted to award the contract to the Gulf Refining company. The bid calls for furnishing the city with gasoline from Oct. 1st, 1927 until March 31st, 1928, for a minimum aggregate price of $1350 or a maximum price of $2000.

A communication from the New London county Agricultural society was received which urged participation by the city of New London in the project. The communication stated that there would be 23 floats in the exhibit. No definite action was taken.

It was voted to award the contract for the raising of the building at 9-11 Atlantic street, owned by the estate of Bartholomew Daly to Robillo and Polito for $400. The building is one of six recently condemned by the city.

It was voted to award a contract for furnishing the city with tile pipe for construction work, the entire cost of the pipe being $375, to the Raymond & Alexander company.

A hearing on the matter of continuing the lease of the New London-Groton ferry, which lease is now held by Messrs Crandall and Sheehan, was held in chambers and will not be decided until a meeting next week. The lease of Messrs Crandall and Sheehan will expire Oct. 1st and a new lease is asked for after that date. At the special meetin numerous matters that have been formulated and are in process of perfection by the present council, will be acted upon before the new council is seated in October.

Frank Porkorincky, 185 North Bank street, was arrested tonight charged with breach of the peace. In default of bail of $50 he was locked up at police headquarters pending the convening of the police court tomorrow morning. Porkorincky went to his home about 6:30 o'clock and had been drinking. He quickly engaged in an alteration with his wife and other members of his family. Porkorincky procured a window weight and placing it inside a stocking he threatened to use it as a weapon and annihilate his wife and the rest of his family. He informed the family that after he was successful in killing them all that he would hide himself away in the attic of his home and that if the police sought him he would kill with a hatchet whoever attempted to reach the attic. Mrs. Porkorincky sent word to the police of the threat against herself and family and Patrolman Braxton Hill, George Cockrell and Elwood Bailey went to the Porkorincky house and arrested Porkorincky. He was found secreted in the attic but without the weapon in his possession which he claimed he would use. He accepted arrest without trouble and was quickly landed in a cell at police headquarters.

A sailor went to the Capitol theatre tonight and as he had been drinking he was demonstrative and annoying. He was arrested by Patrolman William Manice on duty at the theatre and James Lyman, special officer there. The sailor will be in the police court tomorrow morning.

An automobile owned by Dr. Frank E. Wilson, Glenwood park and driven by Mrs. Wilson, and a truck owned by Morris Greenblatt, collided this evening on Ocean avenue, corner of Glenwood avenue. Both automobiles were damaged. Dr. Wilson's to the extent of over $100. None of the occupants of the autos were injured.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

The management of the theater announces the coming of Monte Blue in One Round Hogan, a Warner Bros. production, on next Wednesday for a run of two days.

One Round Hogan is an up-to-the-minute fight film. The support includes beautiful Leila, Hayams (the only woman.) James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champion of the world, Frank Hagney, Texas Kid and Abdul the Turk and others of note in ringside circles. It is a breathtaking drama of the whirlwind adventures of One Round Hogan, son of an ex-champion of the ring. Howard Bretherton, who directed, has succeeded in getting the atmosphere and action of the squared circle vividly. Blue was never more in his element than in this role of a fighting Hogan. The public will remember his other pugilistic part in Hogan's Alley. While that picture won unanimous acclaim all over the world, One Round Hogan, is winning even more enthusiastic commendation. See is by all means.

On this date 150 years ago occurred the massacre of the Continental troops of Gen. Anthony Wayne by the British and Hessians at Paoli, Pa.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

The biggest reception ever afforded any picture was given Beau Geste and after reviewing it, we say see it, by all means.

One of the greatest exhibitions of human bravery ever depicted on the screen is a part of the thrilling mystery story of the French Foreign Legion, Beau Geste, which makes its appearance at the Broadway theater two times daily.

One episode graphically shows the fearless defense by 40 legionnaires of a fort in the Sahara, a desert outpost, against hundreds of Touaregs, nomadic desert bandits who are among the best warriors and finest riders in the world. It shows Sergeant Lejaune, enacted by Noah Beery, "the cruelest beast and bravest soldier" in the legion, dominating the battle. It depicts him taking the fallen men, wedging them into the fort's embrasures and propping their rifles in lifeless hands to deceive the enemy.

Fighting to the last man, they refuse to surrender.

Donald Colman appears in the title role of Beau Geste which was directed for Paramount by Herbert Brenon. In addition to Colman and Beery the featured players include Alice Joyce, Neil Hamilton, Mary Brian, William Powell, Norman Trevor, Ralph Forbes and Victor McLaglan.

Palace Theater

If you want to know anything about what the life will be a thousand years from now you will have the opportunity of seeing it today and tomorrow at the Palace. Here is entertainment as you like it. With the tremendous length of Metropolis, the management booked three exceptional acts of big time vaudeville, which makes a combination show worth three times the admission price.

Norwich has a chance to show its appreciation of the best the motion picture industry has yet contributed. Metropolis the UFA production which Paramount presented at the Palace theater last night, deserves the support of every moviegoer in town.

Metropolis is the imaginative tale of what our old earth will be like in 2927. If we're to believe this remarkable picture, airplanes will be as common as autos. Buildings will shoot right up to the sky. The rich will live in beautiful homes on the surface, machine rooms will be down below and the workmen's homes will be located thousands of feet beneath. Huge elevators will be used in taking the men to work. Instead of names, each will have a number.

We are introduced to Eric Masterman, son of the master mind of Metropolis. Tired of his own empty life, he goes down to see how his father's men exist. There he falls in love with Mary, the magnetic daughter of a workman. John Masterman sends a soulless automaton, made in the form and figure of Mary, down to a meeting to preach contentment but she plays false, advising them to strike. Then comes the most amazing spectacle ever seen. When the men forget their chains, the wheels stop turning and a terrible flood ensues. The workers, dancing around the deserted machines, suddenly remember that their children have been left in the city below! Then the flood waters start rising and—well, those who saw Metropolis last night burst into repeated avalanches of applause.

For Slater Hall Concert Series

A resumption of the Slater hall concert series under Norwich Free Academy auspices is in prospect provided enough interest is shown by local music lovers to warrant it.

A tentative program has been arranged by Principal H. A. Tirrell and Archibald Mitchell, 4th, which includes the following celebrated artists:

Reginald Werrenrath, famous concert baritone.

Mary Lewis, soprano soloist of the Metropolitan Opera company.

John Corigliano, youthful American violinist.

Rising late from the Boston Symphony orchestra, consisting of Burgin, violin, concert master of the orchestra, Beditti, 'cello, Fox, piano.

This series is unusually attractive and balanced and it is believed will prove of great interest to all music lovers. A subscription list will be placed at Cranston company's store on Broadway in order to see if sufficient support will be given the program to make it possible to contract for the artists' appearances here. Request for tickets may also be sent to Mr. Tirrell and Mr. Mitchell.

Mr. Werrenrath is too well known in musical circles to need comment. He was in the Connecticut college series in New London two or three years ago and was a great success. Miss Lewis, one of the leading sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera company, has had a meteoric career. She first appeared in the Follels where her voice attracted much attention. She was subsequently sent to France to study under the best teachers and later became a member of the Metropolitan Opera company. She has toured the country in concert work.

My Corigliano is one of the most promising young American violinists. He toured with Marion Talley, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company last year. The Boston Symphony trio has a reputation for excellence long established.

The subscription list is being placed at Cranston's now in order that an estimate of the desire of music lovers for a resumption of the series may be obtained. Unless the public shows a disposition to support the tentative program it manifestly will be impossible for the sponsors to go through with it, so an early indication of opinion is requested.

"You Need a Diuretic!"
You Can't Feel Well When Kidneys Act Sluggishly
The part played by the kidneys and their importance to bodily health should be clearly understood.
The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish, they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. Such impurities are apt to make one dull, tired and achy with often a nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common warning of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.
Doan's Pills, stimulant diuretic, aid the kidneys in their eliminative work. 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

MASSAPEAG

At a supper held at the Massapeag chapel Wednesday, a good sum was raised for insurance. Those on the committee were Mrs. Lyman Smith, Mrs. A. M. Etheridge, Mrs. Ernest Nickerson. The waitresses were Mrs. K. Ferris, Mrs. E. Nickerson, Mrs. Earl Smith and Mrs. Ed Bushnell. Mrs. Lena Mackenzie had charge of the children's table. Mrs. J. Colt sold supper and ice cream tickets at the door. Plans are being made for another supper.

Electric lights have been installed in the church recently.

Mrs. Arthur Botham, of New York, is spending a few weeks at her summer home at Massapeag.

Lyman Smith is having his silo filled.

Mrs. K. Ferris and her son, James Ferris, of New York, are spending a few weeks at the Murphy cottage here.

New England Industries

STOVES, GAS AND OIL APPLIANCES, HOT AIR FURNACES, FIRELESS COOKERS

(Note: The information, on which this article, issued by the research department of the New England council, is based, was obtained by the domestic commerce division, United States department of commerce, through an industrial survey of New England conducted in co-operation with the New England council. The department of commerce is now preparing for publication a full report of this industry which will contain additional information of practical value to all New England business men.)

One of the notable features of this New England industry, which produces annually some $14,500,000 of goods, is the length of continuous operation of its plants. The average age of factories making stoves, furnaces and similar commodities is 42 years, according to answers made in a survey conducted by the United States department of commerce and the New England council, thus making this important industry one of the oldest in this section.

The principal products includes stoves, ranges, furnaces, burners, fireless cookers, heaters, flatirons, etc. According to 1923 census figures there were 600 such establishments in the United States. Of these 30 are in New England—17 in Massachusetts, five in Connecticut, four in Maine, two in New Hampshire and two in Rhode Island. The 25 establishments for which figures are available employ a total average of 2,700 wage earners receiving a total income of $4,000,000, or 5 per cent of the national income from this industry. Their product is 5.8 per cent. of the value of the entire country's. New England plants are on the whole larger than those in other parts of the United States, averaging 108 employes per plant.

Sales have been on the upward trend since 1921, although a decided drop in 1924 was not balanced by the 1925 increase, which was 51 per cent over 1924. Of the sales, those made in New England approximate 49 per cent and New England is the major market for 75 per cent of the companies reporting. Increasing New England sales are reported by a majority of the companies. Brands are used on 95 per cent of the output, and sales are chiefly to the retailer direct or through a wholesaler or jobber.

Twenty per cent. of the firms reporting have kept their present management for their entire existence. All the others have made management changes in the last 25 years. Labor conditions and a convenient market are the main reasons for locating or continuing in this section.

Incentive methods of wage payment are in general use. The percentage of employes so paid ranges in individual plants from 5 per cent to 99 per cent.

Seasonal demand is a potent element in this branch of industry, and seasonal fluctuations as shown on payrolls during 1923 and 1925 show a minimum employment in July and a maximum in October. The difference of 23 per cent. between these extremes in 1923 increased to 26 per cent in 1925.

The manufacture of castings is the only supplementary employment resorted to fill in during dull periods. Improvement methods, in order of importance, are organization and executive control, continuous maintenance, accident prevention, development of purchasing schedules, inspection, uniform cost accounting, standardization of product, and relations between management and workers.

New sales methods and extension of territories are the chief reasons for sales increases.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks heavy; General Motors rallies after 8 1-2 point drop.
Bonds dull; 2nd Liberty 4 1-2s firm.
Foreign exchanges firm; Sterling close to parity.
Cotton lower; southern selling.
Sugar easy; commission house liquidation.
Coffee higher; firmer Brazilian reports.

Chicago

Wheat higher; steadier cash situation.
Corn firm; predictions cold weather.
Cattle strong to higher.
Hogs steady.

MARKET WAS HEAVY

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The stock market displayed a startling reversal in form today, an early break which carried many stocks down 5 to nearly 15 points being followed by a brisk recovery which practically wiped out many of the losses, and converted a few of them into moderate gains. Final quotations were irregular, but mostly lower, a long list of declines ranging from fractions to 6 points in the active issues being offset by a sprinkling of gains running as high as 4 points.

There was a heavy accumulation of selling orders at the opening, due to the nervousness created by the sharp break at the close on Saturday and the unexpectedly large deficiency shown in the clearing house statement. Selling pressure increased when banks called $15,000,000 in loans, and sent the call money rate up to 4 per cent. Owing to the rapidity of the recent advance, several commission houses expressed the opinion that the technical position of the market had been weakened and suggested a lightening of long accounts.

Offerings apeared, however, to come largely from professional "bear" traders, who have been seeking an excuse to attack the market. Operators working for higher prices lowered their bids when this selling was in progress, and then suddenly poured a flood of buying orders into the market which sent many of the shorts scurrying to cover.

General Motors, (old) which had touched a new high of 277 1-4 on Saturday and sold down to 262 1-2 during the morning, snapped back to 271, unchanged from Saturday's close. The new stock rallied from a low of 131 1-8 to 136 and then eased to 135, off 1-2 net. Total transactions in these two issues ran well over half a million shares, or approximately one-fifth of the day's entire volume of business.

Similar recoveries took place in other high priced specialities. National Tea opened at 167 1-2, dropped to 156 and rallied to 163. Dupont rallied from 329 to 337 3-4, Baldwin from 249 to 254 3-4, General Electric from 132 1-2 to 136, Green Cananea Copper from 65 5-8 to 76, Rossia Insurance from 121 5-8 to 129, Texas Gulf Sulphur from 72 1-8 to 77 3-4 and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe from 204 1-2 to 208 5-8.

Bullish operations were most pronounced in such issues as Continental Insurance, Corn Products, Cudahy Packing, Midland Steel Products preferred, Texas Gulf Sulphur, United Drug and Wilson Co. preferred, all of which closed 3 or more points higher, and a few of which reached new high ground.

Call money renewed at 3 3-4 per cent., as against 3 1-2 on Friday, and then advanced to 4. Time money and comercial paper rates were unchanged.

Cotton started upward at the opening in sympathy with the strength of the Liverpool market, but broke sharply on predictions of more favorable weather and expectations of a bearish ginnings report. The December option broke from an early high of 21.55 cents to 20.66 cents, closing around the bottom. Wheat prices advanced about 1 1-2 cents a bushel, with an even larger gain in some of the other grains, on buying inspired by the prospects of poorer European crops and colder weather in the western half of the wheat belt. Coffee prices advanced moderately, and sugar showed little change.

A further advance in Sterling to within 1-16 of a cent of parity, a spectacular advance of 22 points in Spanish pesetas to 17.32 cents and another break of more than 30 points in Japanese yen to around 46.20 cents, divided speculative interest in the mixed foreign exchange market. Sterling Cables held firm around $4.86 9-16 and French francs were quoted just above 3.92 cents.

TAFTVILLE

Miss Dorothy Packer of Norwich spent the week end with Miss Dorothy M. Aberg of North A street.

Rally day exercises which each year mark the official opening of the Taftville Congregational church school are to be held this year on the first Sunday in October.

Richard Oat who has been spending his vacation with his mother, Mrs. Joseph L. Oat at her summer cottage, Camp Moma-Binna at Gardner lake, has returned to his home on North A street.

Mrs. Alfred Porter Staebner of Derby who is spending this week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Atkins and family of South Second avenue, and Miss Helen C. Aberg of North Third avenue, have been spending a few days at the Atkins' summer home at Eastern Point.

Edwin Pollard of Boston, spent the week end with his father, William Pollard and family of South Second avenue.

Gustave Hedler of Terrace avenue has been spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Hedler of Baltic.

Roderick Molleur of Providence street is a patient at a New London hospital following an operation for the removal of tonsils.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Weeks and children Etta, Edmund and Gilbert who have been spending several weeks at the home of Mrs. Weeks' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Kendall of Lisbon, left Monday to start the return trip to their home in Hialeah, Florida.

Mrs. Joseph George of Bristol has been the guest for the past few days of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Blood of North Third avenue.

TWO AUTOMOBILE CASES IN THE CITY COURT

At the city court session Monday morning the case against James F. Chass of Division street, captain of the steamer Carisco, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, was continued until this (Tuesday) morning. The steamer will dock here this morning.

Another automobile case was thrown out of court when it was decided that it is a matter for the civil courts. The principals in this case were Louis Pastor of No. 693 Main street and William Confrey of No. 59 Palmer street. Machines driven by them collided Sunday afternoon on Main street. Confrey's machine then crashed into a window at the Preston Public Market. Both machines were somewhat damaged.

Memorial Flowers at Church

The beautiful flowers in the chancel at Trinity Methodist church on Sunday were given in loving memory of Henry Smith who entered into more abundant life nine years ago.

Here it is at last!

FOREST FIRES IN STATE BURNED OVER 21,644 ACRES; DAMAGE $84,637

Seven hundred and forty-three forest fires burned over an area of 21,644 acres of protected land in Connecticut and caused damage to the extent of $84,637 during 1926, according to word from the federal department of agriculture at Washington. In the entire country, 91,793 forest fires burned over an area of 24,300,000 acres and resulted in a loss of $27,000,000.

In Connecticut, 24.9 per cent. of the total fire damage was done to standing timber. Such losses totaled $21,122. Sixty-two and five-tenths per cent. of the state loss was caused by fires in reproduction timber, amounting to $52,888. One and six-tenths per cent. of the fire loss was the result of fires in forage areas, and 11 per cent. of the loss or $9,285 was due to the burning over of other types of productive lands.

The average damage per fire in the Nutmeg state during 1926 was $113.-94, and the average loss per acre burned over amounted to $3.91.

Of the entire forest fire loss of the state, 25.7 per cent. or $21,788 was caused by conflagrations started through the carelessness of smokers. Eight and five-tenths of the loss or $7,176 resulted from railroads. Campfires caused four per cent. of the damage, or $3,386; brush burning 16.4 per cent. or $13,855; incendiary, 4.8 per cent. or $4,025; lumbering, 19.9 per cent. or $16,860. Nineteen and six-tenths per cent. of the loss of the state was attributed to unknown causes resulting in a loss of $16,595.

Connecticut ranked third of the New England states in the amount of damage done by forest fires during 1926.

GOING TO CANADIAN WILDS FOR SIX MONTHS

Leaving Thursday for Canada Donald B. Smith of Canterbury plans to spend the next six months in the province of Ontario near the Hudson Bay region in trapping fur bearing animals. Three winters spent in the same place have given him ample experiences, but he has had the company of his brother on previous trips but this year he goes alone.

Mr. Smith goes by the way of Montreal and to get to his destination from that city he takes a fast express for 27 hours to Hearst, Ontario. There he lays in his supplies and leaves over the A. C. railroad for Horsey, a distance of 25 miles which marks the point where he enters the woods for his trapping camp five miles distant. Over this distance it is necessary to carry all his supplies on his back. He will carry in with him at the start 600 pounds of supplies and these will be replenished as needed on those occasions when he comes out of the woods to dispose of his furs during the winter.

Mr. Smith has a 100 mile trap line along which there have been constructed eight log cabins where he gets his meals and shelter while making his rounds along the paths which have been cut out of the primeval forest. He will set and tend 500 traps and during his stay in the woods will see no one barring the chance sight of other trappers who may be at certain points on their trap lines which adjoin his. Traps and snares are used in the catching of beaver, otter, muskrat, mink, martin, ermine, fisher, fox, wolf and lynx although in the capture of many of the wolves and foxes on the ice where other animals would not go strychnine is used. Good prices are obtained from the furs which have to be cared for and stretched in addition to trapping the animals.

Mr. Smith states that his trapping line is located in a swampy country with many creeks and lakes and that the greatest danger is from the extreme cold and from the holes in the ice which may be covered with snow. Snow however, is never over three feet in depth but the mercury goes to 63 degrees below zero. There is plenty of game including moose, caribou, some deer, millions of rabbits, partridge, spruce hens and prairie chickens.

Mr. Smith looks forward to a very busy winter for he states that his time is always occupied for when it isn't a case of getting out and tending the traps there's cooking to be done, mending of clothing and shoes and the care that must be given to the hides. Also his supplies must be distributed among the various cabins. He doesn't anticipate that he is going to be lonesome for he is a great reader and does much writing.

NO CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE AGAINST AUTOMOBILE DRIVER

Coroner J. J. Desmond of Norwich finds no criminal negligence on the part of Dominick Lumberardo of Westerly in the death of Mrs. Mary Sullivan, 75, of Pawcatuck, in a finding handed down Saturday.

Mrs. Sullivan died shortly after being struck by the automobile operated by Lumberardo in West Broad street, Pawcatuck, on July 30, at which time Lumberardo was held under bonds of $2,500 in the Stonington town court, pending the finding of the coroner. It is expected that the case will be presented in court this week and in view of the coroner's finding it is expected that Lumberardo will be freed of the charge of manslaughter.

THREE GO TO JAIL FROM CITY COURT

Unable to pay their fines in the city court Monday morning, Ephriam Dorous, Robert Frost and Edmund Robinson, went to jail to work them out. Dorous was fined $10 and costs on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and the others were fined $5 and costs on charges of being frequentors. Horace Simonds, another frequentor, paid his fine and costs amounting to $10.05. Sarah Dorous, arrested by the raiding party Saturday night, had her case nolled.

The raid took place at No. 197 West Main street late Saturday night. The officers testified that they heard noise and considerable singing. Officer Charles Perry testified that when he entered the house he found four of the party dead drunk on a bed.

The accused had poor excuses to offer in court. Dorous claimed he was asleep and did not know what was going on. Robinson stated that he had only been in the place a short while. Simonds claimed he was only rooming at the house while passing a few days in Norwich. He is a nephew of Dorous.

UNIVERSALIST SCHOOL WILL HAVE RALLY DAY

Sunday October 2, will be observed as Rally day by the Sunday school of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, and a special program will be given at the noon hour session of the school.

Friday evening September 30 will be observed as Stunt night. The exercises will include reports from the summer institutes at Ferry Beach, Maine, by the numerous delegates from the Norwich Sunday school and Young Peoples Christian Union.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Minnie Boon, 89 Franklin street.

Gave Flowers for Church Service

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pereue of Trading Cove gave the beautiful dahlias and Mrs. Stanley of "The Stanley Gladioli Farm" donated the lovely gladioli which adorned the auditorium of the Central Baptist church Sunday. After services they brought joy to the sick and shut-ins at home, at the W. W. Backus hospital and at the Sheltering Arms.

JEWISH SOCIETY GETS NOTHING FROM FORECLOSURE

Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court has allowed supplemental judgment to be entered in the foreclosure proceedings brought by Charles H. Smith of Pembroke, N. H., against Max and Minnie Gordon of New York city, formerly of Pawcatuck, Albert G. Martin of Stonington and the Jewish Agricultural Society, Inc., of New York city.

Property owned by the Gordons in lower Pawcatuck was sold by William A. Wilcox of Stonington on July 9, to Albert G. Martin of the town of Stonington for $17,000. Mr. Wilcox is allowed $98.88 as his fees and expenses for conducting the sale Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey, Henry A. Stahle and Charles J. Ryan, all of Stonington, are given $15 each as appraisers.

Charles H. Smith, from the proceeds of the sale, is given $1,114.28 with costs of $50.33 and interest of $7.23 as he is the holder of the first mortgage debt. Albert G. Martin of Stonington, who purchased the property, is given the remainder of the proceeds of the sale, amounting to $379.28. Martin held a $2,000 mortgage. The Jewish Agricultural Society, Inc., of New York, which claimed to have a $2,000 mortgage on the property received nothing, according to the supplemental judgment ,there being no more money left.

FEELS NO ALARM FOR NEW ENGLAND'S FUTURE

"I have no reason to feel alarmed about the economic future of New England," said Judge Chester B. Jordan of Keene, N. H., when he spoke Friday night at the fall meeting of the New England Association of Commercial Secretaries, which was held at Northampton. "Industrial prosperity will return in five, maybe ten years," continued Judge Jordan, "but it will surely come. There is no longer a frontier in the west: our New England trained men are filling western cities. The time is not far off when the backwash will start. The pull of old New England will be felt. The opportunities at home will be greater than they are now in the west.

"What we do need to do is to stop kicking and do something. In every New England town and city one is constantly hearing the grumblers, one might almost call it a general sourness. The situation reminds me of a friend of mine who was traveling in the south. In driving along he came across a big yellow dog sitting on a rock, yelping and barking as if his heart would break. So my friend stopped and whistled to him but he just kept on yelping and barking with his nose pointed to the sky. So my friend got out and tried to pat him and talk to him but it was all of no avail. Finally he gave up in disgust and drove on. A short distance down the road he met a boy and stopped his car again. He asked the boy if he knew whose dog was barking so hard up the road, so the boy said what color was he? My friend said 'Yellow', and the boy said 'He's my dog, what about it?' 'Well' my friend said, 'he must be sick as he keeps yelping and yelping. I whistled and talked to him but it was all of no avail.'

"'Oh man', said the boy, 'dat dog ain't sick, he's just settin on a cockleburr and he's too doggone lazy to move so he just sits and yelps.'

"Now I sometimes think we are inclined to be like the yellow dog. We find many reasons to yelp, when as a matter of fact if we would just move a little we might discover that our pain is only a temporary one and that New England still has better reasons for attracting industry, better trained men for manning the mills, better transporation, better power facilities and last but not least more production per man than many sections that are drawing from us."

Local secretary Pilcher of the chamber of commerce represented Norwich at the convention.

Round table conferences on two subjects of particular interest to the local situation took place Saturday morning. They were "Modern Aspects of Aviation," led by Col. E. H. Blee, senior business specialist, for the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, and "Eliminating the Evils of Good Will Advertising, Prizes and Solicitations," led by Secretary George Rit of Manchester chamber of commerce.

STORRS COLLEGE HEAD SEES GOOD FUTURE FOR FARMING

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Sept. 19—"Farming, the first and still basic industry of mankind, offers a future for the intelligent, technically trained young man commensurate with the opportunities in other fields," declared President Charles Lewis Beach of Connecticut Agricultural college here upon the opening of the Connecticut institution for its forty-seventh year. "Modern agriculture demands a high standard of managerial ability and of specialized knowledge. In no field of human endeavor has greater progress been recently made in the application of scientific facts to an established vocation.

"No one need hesitate to advise the young man interested in farming to attend an agricultural college and prepare himself for a life on the soil," continued President Beach. "While the primary purpose of an agricultural college is to train young men for farming, it must be recognized that a considerable proportion of its graduates cannot expect to enter immediately into the business of farming because modern farming requires capital. The boy without capital, however, has the opportunity of taking a position with a view to ultimate farm ownership through his savings, or of entering a satisfactory and profitable lifetime profession. Fortunately, there is a broad outlet for profitable employment in related industries and professions for young men trained in the agricultural sciences.

"The number of salaried positions open to agricultural college graduates is steadily increasing. The multitudinous industries that serve agriculture—farm supply houses, manufacturies, the feed and fertilizer industries, railroads, banks, milk plants, the farm press, to mention just a few of them—absorb a vast number of technically trained men. State and government service, teaching research agencies—these offer another wide field to graduates from agricultural colleges. For the most part, salaries of these men compare favorably with those obtained by graduates from other technical schools."

Sixth Birthday Party

A pleasant birthday party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Snitman Monday evening at their home at 319 West Main street in honor of their son, Melvin, who is 6 years old. Games were played, songs, recitations and dances were given by the children. The table was prettily decorated. Refreshments were prepared and served by Mrs. George Snitman assisted by Mrs. Philip Sherman. Those present were Estelle and William Sherman, Ida and Marian Zeiler, Israel and Samuel Gordon, Jannette Mendel, Doris, Thelma, Ethel, Mildred and Morris Wesinger, Augusta Markoff, Leo Abramson, Marris, Herman, and Elizabeth Hurst.

Took Part in Pageant

Members of Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., of Lebanon who took part in the historical pageant at the Norwich fair grounds on Labor day were the regent, Mrs. A. R. Manning, Mrs. O. L. Pultz, Mrs. David Pitcher, and Miss Eleanor Burgess; also two associate members, Miss Bertha Perry and Miss Blanche V. Smith.

NORWICH TOWN

For the New London county district conference held Saturday at the Congregational church, a banquet was served in the chapel at 6 o'clock in the evening by the entertaining church, during which a three piece orchestra played. Rev. Dwight C. Stone, pastor of Hanover Congregational church, asked blessing. The menu consisted of beef loaf, baked beans, pickles, rolls, cake, coffee and ice cream. State President Andrew Keen of Bridgeport was present and spoke during the banquet. Other speakers included Rev. Mr. Stone and Ralph Krout of Ledyard. President Reginald Avery of the Norwich Town Congregational C. E. society, under whose auspicious arrangement the banquet was given, was leader of the banquet hour, assisted by President Harold Muttart of Norwich C. E. union, both occupying seas at the officers' table. Cheers were given the visiting speakers, also to the entertaining church for its splendid banquet. Songs and cheers were led by Mr. Hamilton.

The C. E. committee of the Norwich Town church, which supervised the menu, etc., comprised the Misses Esther and Rose Durr, and the Misses Elizabeth and Louise Avery. They were ably assisted by Mrs. Frank E. Sterry as chairman, and Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe and Mrs. Frank S. Wheeler, in serving the banquet. The tables were prettily decorated with the seasons garden flowers. Red streamers festooned from the chandeliers to the corners of the room, also several Christian Endeavor flags, found the decorations in the chapel. About 75 were present at the banquet. The waitresses were the Misses Esther and Rose Rurr, Elizabeth and Louise Avery, Dorothea and Marion Buckley, Dorothy Waterman, Ruth Taylor and Grace Wheeler. The young men who assisted in waiting on table were Ralph H. Marsh, Crosby Peck, Robert Stott, Henry Counterman, and Carl, Oliver and Ernest Nyler.

The musicians were Miss Ruth Sterry, violin, Miss Louise Sterry, piano, and Howard Lucy, banjo. When the conference was resumed at 7:30, representatives from the several societies in Norwich C. E. union were as follows: First Baptist, Norwich, 1; Third Baptist, Norwich, 5; Hanover Congregational, 13; Leyard Congregational, 4; Lebanon Congregational, 1; Bozrah church, 2; Goshen church, 1; Preston City, 5; Norwich Town Methodist, 1; Norwich Town Congregational, 14.

Christian Endeavor books were on sale by the C. E. literature superintendent, Mrs. Edith Murray, of New Haven, during the conference.

Organist Herbert L. Yerrington accompanied for the hymns.

BORAH SEES PROMISE IN NEW MEXICAN AMBASSADOR

Believes Dwight W. Moody is in a Position to Render a Public Service of Incalculable Value—Would Carry Out a Policy of Friendly Cooperation—President Coolidge Has Drafted Mr. Morrow in a Determined Effort to Settle the Mexican Problem—Morrow Was a College Classmate of President Coolidge and is a Partner in Banking Firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—(AP)—Apparently determined to leave no stone unturned toward settlement of the Mexican problem before his term expires, President Coolidge disclosed today that he had drafted Dwight W. Morrow, his friend and college classmate, and a partner in the New York Banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., for duty as ambassador to Mexico.

The appointment was approved today by the Mexican government and was announced immediately at the White House.

Mr. Morrow will sever his connection with the Morgan company at once and the president expects him to take up his duties in Mexico City under recess appointment without delay, although the exact date of his departure has not been fixed. He succeeds James R. Sheffield, resigned.

That Morrow's selection would meet opposition because of his connection with the Morgan company, which has been closely identified with dealings between American bankers and Mexico on loan problems, was recognized at the state department even before the president's decision became known. There were hints of this opposition as soon as word of the appointment reached Senators now in Washington.

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, which will pass on Mr. Morrow's nomination, said in a formal statement that Mr. Morrow undoubtedly would carry out the policy of the American government toward Mexico and his opposition or support of his nomination would rest entirely on what he regarded as that policy.

Mr. Borah, who was an outspoken critic of the Mexican policy of the administration during flare ups over it during the last session of Congress, said of the Morrow appointment:

"If Mr. Morrow is going to Mexio to carry out a policy of friendly cooperation, a policy of looking to the adjustment of our controversy with Mexico, upon peaceful and just lines and with a due regard for the rights of all parties, I think he is in a position to render a public service of incalculable value. His known ability will enable him to perform a real and distinct service.

"My own feeling in regard to the matter turns entirely upon what I would regard as the policy of this government toward Mexico I think Mr. Morrow would carry out the policy of the government."

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, confined himself to this cryptic comment:

"It is a capital appointment."

Senators Frazier and Nye of North Dakota, both of the republican insurgent group, expressed the opinion that the Morrow selection would not tend to clear away misunderstandings with Mexico. Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, however, said he believed Morrow would be confirmed by the senate while another democrat, Fletcher of Florida, said he was sure Mr. Morrow had the "ability and qualifications" required for the position.

It was an open secret that some members of the foreign relations committee desired additional light as to what policy the administration intended to pursue toward Mexico under Mr. Morrow's ambassadorship. Some indicated they would want to know from Mr. Morrow personally whether he had severed for all time his connection with Morgan and company.

Presumably, however, Mr. Morrow will have been on the job as ambassador for some weeks at least before the question of his confirmation can be taken up in the senate in December, and in that time the policy of the administration may be defined more clearly.

MARINE AND GUARDSMAN KILLED IN NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—(AP)—Another outbreak between roving bands of bandits and the American marines in Nicaragua was reported today to the state department with indications that it was one of the most serious since the American occupation.

Although neither the marine corps nor the navy department had received official information late today of the battle, dispatches arriving through diplomatic channels declared that one marine and one Nicaraguan national guardsman had been killed and another marine wounded. The bandit losses were placed at 20 killed and 50 injured.

The engagement started, the dispatch said, when about 140 members of the Salgado band, well armed, with rifles, machine guns and bombs, descended on the garrison of Telpaneca at 1 a. m., yesterday and continued the attack for four hours before they withdrew.

During the fight hand bombs and dynamite bombs were used freely by the bandits while the newly organized Nicaraguan national guard, co-operating with the marines, was described by the officer in command as putting up "a splendid fight as on other occasions."

The other bandit leader, Sandino, has been reported to the navy department as attempting to rally his forces in the mountains around the Puerto Cabezas railroad after his rout by American aviators.

RESULTS OF IRISH FREE STATE ELECTIONS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 20—(AP)—The Saorstat elections have ended almost in a stalemate, president Cosgrave's party has 14 members more than it had at dissolution and has won by four votes the race with the De Valera republicans for the honor of being the largest single party in the Dail Eireann. But the De Valera party, which it was calculated must seriously suffer by taking the oath of allegiance, numbers 13 more than at dissolution.

Presiden Cosgrave, it is expected, can retain office, but the De Valera will be a formidable leader of the opposition.

The government combination has a majority of six in the Dail, the final standing of the parties being government Cosgrave party 61, independents 12, farmers 6—Total 79; fianna fail (De Valera followers) 57, labor 13, national league 2, Larkinite 1—total 73.

Kedian, of 5 Highland avenue, Beacon Falls, widow of Patrick Kedian, who died August 24 at St. Mary's hospital, this city, as a result of injuries received when he fell off a truck in Beacon Falls the previous day, was awarded compensation totalling $3,937.60 today by Commissioner Frederic M. Williams. The respondent in the action is the Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe company. Mrs. Kedian will receive the award at the rate of $12.50 for 312 weeks.

GASOLINE STATION GUTTED BY FLAMES AND EXPLOSION

WATERBURY, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Flames, caused by an explosion as a company truck was filling a gasoline tank of the Connecticut Oil company, gasoline service bstation, 383 Nort Main street at 3 p. m. today, gutted the station's interior, badly damaged the truck and sent a flaming river of gasoline for a hundred yards down Grove street before the blaze was extinguished.

Edward M. Bryne, assistant treasurer of the company stated tonight that the damage, which is completely covered by insurance, would not be more than $10,000.

ATTENDED FUNERAL OF HER MURDERED HUSBAND

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 20.—(AP)—While Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, attended the funeral in Brooklyn today of her murdered husband, Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, state police and county detectives re-enacted the tragedy at the scene of the slaying. Dr. Lilliendahl was shot to death last Thursday while he and his wife were riding intheir automobile through a thickly wooded section of the road three miles from here.

The investigators discovered that the point where the car stopped was a place where it was necessary to change the gears.

The widow of the murdered man, who was released last night on $25,000 bail as a material witness after she had remained at the state police barracks here since the day of the killing, was accompanied to the burial place of her 8-year old son, Albert, and J. Sherwood Thompson, of Bridgeport, Conn., her half brother.

WILL BE NO SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Proposals for a special session of congress have been sidetracked by President Coolidge.

He also has been advised by republican leaders here that there is no occasion for a special session of the senate alone, and it was indicated today at the white house that no call for one would be issued.

In rejecting a definite decision against calling congress into session before the regular convening date in December, Mr. Coolidge has been guided by the advice of Senator Curtis and Representative Tilson, republican leaders of the senate and house, who have told him there would be sufficient time in the regular session convening in December to enact pending business.

FALL FROM COUCH FATAL TO EAST HAMPTON MAN

EAST HAMPTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—A fall from a couch, in which he struck his head on a water pail, was believed responsible for injuries received today by Charles Fuller, 62, which are expected to prove fatal.

When William Fuller, a brother, returned home from work he found the door locked. After he and a constable had forced their way in, they found Charles Fuller on the floor, with a deep gash in his forehead and a possible fracture of the skull. He was taken to Middlesex hospital at Middletown. It is believed that he suffered a dizzy spell while on the couch and fell, striking his head on the water pail.

OLD GLORY WRECKAGE ARRIVES AT ST. JOHN'S

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The Newfoundland steamer Kyle, chartered to make a search for the lost trans-Atlantic monoplane Old Glory, arrived tonight at Bay Roberts on the east coast, bringing part of the wreckage of the plane. The little steamer Silver City, also chartered by representatives of William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, who sponsored the Old Glory flight, was awaiting the Kyle at that point.

UNTRAINED PRACTIONERS HURT MEDICAL PROFESSION

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The elevation of both medical education and practice are being retarted, at lease temporarily, by the acceptance of untrained practioners, Dr. William C. Rappleye, director of study of the national commission on medical education, said here tonight. Dr. Rappleye was the principal speaker at a dinner given to the physicians attending the clinical congress being held at Sprague Memorial hall, Yale university.

Legionnaires Are Visiting Battlefields

See Graves of Their Comrades Who Fell in the Great World War.

PARIS, Sept. 20—(AP)—Leaving [illegible] shouting and tumult of their [illegible] tion behind, thousand of [illegible] Legionnaires today re[illegible] out for the real pilgrim[illegible] visit to France, the ba[illegible] Rheims, Lillie and Verdu[illegible] are the the graves of their comrades in arms who fell in the great upheaval.

At the Palais Du Trocadero they had heard General Pershing and Marshal Foch vaunt their heroic war deeds, and later they solemnly placed a wreath at the tomb of Lafayette. Later they were the guests of President Doumergue and still later enjoyed Marshal Foch's hospitality at a garden party.

The big parade of yesterday—which will go down in French history as a marvel of American organization and efficiency—had placed the visitors from overseas prominently before the population of Paris but today brought the renewal of old acquaintances in towns, villages and hamlets in the hills they knew during the war.

The convention got down to business today and a large dinner tendered by the Legion tonight in honor of President Doumergue ended the official parties and receptions.

Impatient to pay tribute to their dead comrades, a thousand legionnaires were off for Verdun—cockpit of France—traveling by motor. It was subdued and quiet group. Gone was the usual free and easy gaiety of the Legionnaire of Paris. He was going to visit his dead, and left his carnival spirit behind in Paris. At the Verdun market place the legionnaires were welcomed by the mayor Deputy Schlleiter.

After a luncheon in the city they moved on to visit Fort Douaumont, Hatton, Chatel, Saint Mihiel, Thiaucourt, Point a Mousson—names written in gold on the pages of American history.

On the road from Verdun to Saint Mihiel, two miles from Verdun, is a little cemetery called "The Cemetery of the Unknown." There the Americans stopped today and stood at attention for a full minute.

The day in Paris was not depressing, although there was much dignity in the beautiful gardens of the Palace Elysee where President Deumergue entertained many of the legionnaires and their wives. France's bachelor president was handicapped by lack of English with which to converse with his guests, but found many of them able to speak French.

The Iowa delegation presented the president of France with a banner made for him by vote of the Iowa legislature.

In contrast to Doumergue's dignified official function was Marshal Foch's chatty and intimate reception. The marshal was in great good humor, and despite his 76 years of age he was remarkably alert.

General Pershing's usually stern face broke into a cordial smile as he shook Foch's hand again, accompanied by the applause of the more than 1,000 guests.

These two great generals had brought the convention delegates yelling to their feet earlier in the day at Palais Du Trocadero when they shook hands on the platform before addressing the Legion.

The "international police court," established by the French to take care of any unruly legionnaire has had only a few cases, none serious.

The court, functioning at all hours, has a judge and sitting with him is a state commander.

Accidents have been inconsequential, first aid from the Red Cross or a police surgeon satisfying most calls.

"More jack" is the text of 20 per cent. of the cables filed at the two American cable company's offices at convention headquarters.

LEGIONNAIRES GUESTS OF PRESIDENT OF FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 20—(AP)—The American legionnaires were hosts tonight to the president of the French republic, M. Gaston Doumergue, at a banquet, at which were assembled almost all the great French leaders, civil as well as military, with whom the American expeditionary force cooperated in the war.

Before the speechmaking began, the gathering of 400 Americans and French drank to "the memory of Woodrow Wilson," commander in chief of the American forces in the World war. This act of homage was proposed by the toastmaster, General Milton J. Foreman.

National Commander Howard P. Savage was made a commander of the Legion of Honor at the conclusion of his tribute to France. President Doumergue himself fastened the color and cross about Commander Savage's neck, and the commander, who is much taller than the French president, stooped far over to be kissed on both cheeks.

As Commander Savage ended his speech, M. Doumergue rose, saying: "I drink to a great citizen and a great statesman, President Coolidge."

When the applause ended, President Doumergue went on: "I wish to address a thought to the dead, and after the dead a thought to the living who have come to establish justice." Turning to Commander Savage, he said: "I create you, Commander Savage, a commander of the Legion of Honor."

PUTTING GIRL BABY ON MOTHER OF BABY BOY

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Sam Smith, husband of the mother who is fighting in Fairview Park hospital here for a baby boy which she said hospital officials told her was hers, declared today the baby girl with which his wife had been presented might remain at the hospital forever, as far as he and his wife are concerned, unless doctors can prove conclusively that the child is their own.

In the meantime Mrs. Smith continued to maintain that officials participated in a shuffle of babies, giving her a baby girl a week after she had been told a baby boy had been born to her.

Report Kidnapping of Boy in Bridgeport

While Mother Was on Her Way to Answer For Contempt of Court.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(AP)—Mrs. Marie S. Carter, divorced wife of Paul O. Carter, attorney for the Interstate Commerce commission at Washington, D. C., told Supreme Court Justice Ingraham today that her six-year-old son, John, had been kidnapped this morning at Bridgeport, Conn., while she was on her way here to answer a summons for contempt of court.

Carter was reported to be on his way to Washington. The parents agreed, after their divorce that the father was to have charge of the child during the school months and the mother during the summer months. The present difference began when Mrs. Carter refused to turn the boy over to his father.

The contempt proceedings against Mrs. Carter were postponed for ten days. She threatened an attempt to have the divorce decree vacated on the ground of fraud, inasmuch, she said, as she and Carter had lived apart but 18 months before the divorce, whereas the laws of Maryland where they were divorced, prescribe a three year separation before divorce may be granted for desertion.

Lawrence K. Brown, counsel for Mrs. Carter, said that when Mrs. Carter was served with a notice ordering the appearance of the child in court, she caused him to be taken to Bridgeport. Brown said he went to the place where she was hiding and after hours of argument she agreed to go after the child and bring him to New York for the hearing.

"At 3 o'clock this morning she started for Bridgeport by automobile," the attorney said. "She reached her destina ion. The child was awakened and was dressed, preparatory to a hurried breakfast and a return trip. While waiting he was allowed to go outdoors to play—and that's the last she saw of him."

BRIDGEPORT POLICE UNAWARE OF KIDNAPPING

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 20— (AP) — Bridgeport police are unawafe that any kidnapping has taken place here today and have received no report that John, six year old son of Paul O. Carter, attorney for the Interstate Commerce commission at Washington, D. C., had been kidnapped or was missing in Bridgeport. Mrs. Marie S. Carter, divorced wife of Carter, told Supreme Court Justice Ingraham of New York today that her son had been kidnapped in Bridgeport, press dispatches said.

DISORDERS AT PRIMARY ELECTION IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, P., Sept. 20—(AP)—The most disorderly primary election campaign in the history of Allegheny county ended tonight when the polls closed, the record showing that two men met death at the hands of political gangsters, many others were wounded, sundry riots occurred, police officers were jailed and many election officials were brought before the court charged with violating the election laws.

Hardly had the polls opened today than police reserves were forced to go into action to put down free-for-all fights at polling places. Early in the day came the report that two men, shot by gangsters in automobiles during the campaign, had died.

FLYING FOR THE U. S. BY WAY OF THE ORIENT

VIENNA, Sept. 20—(AP)—Flying so high and in such a haze that it could hardly be seen although its motors could be plainly heard, an airplane believed to be the Germania, headed for the United States by way of the Orient, passed over Vienna tonight at 7:30.

The officials of the Aspern airdrome on the outskirts of Vienna turned on the flying field's powerful searchlights in event that Captain Otto Koennecke, pilot of the Germania, wished to land. The plane, however, stayed on a course pointing toward Budapest.

As the plane cleared the hills which form the gateway to Vienna, two gendarmes reported they had observed "a big black spot" in the heavens. This was the first indication Austrian officials had that the German airman might be flying over Vienna.

The sky was overcast and it was a starless and moonless night but the weather was calm and there was no wind.

TWO LIVES LOST AND SIX PLANES UNACCOUNTED FOR

Other Planes Had Battle With Head Wind and Chilling Rain in Flight From Chicago to St. Paul—Several Planes Have Been Forced Down—Miller of Des Moines First to Arrive at Glendive Mont.—Canada Will Compete With the United States in the New York Spokane Non-Stop Flight, Which Starts Today.

GLENDIVE, Mont., Sept. 20—(AP)—Leslie Miller, Des Moines, flying his Eaglerock airplane in the Class B races of the Spokane Air Derby, landed here at 4:50 p. m., today from Bismark, N. D., to be followed one minute later by C. W. Myers, Detroit, Miller's flight number is 31 and Myers' 36.

Miller made the flight from Bismark in 1 hour, 13 minutes and Myers in 1 hour and 15 minutes. The flight was originally expected to take 1 hour and 45 minutes.

FLIERS ENCOUNTER COLD RAINS AND STIFF WINDS

CHICAGO, Sept. 20—(AP)—The elements frowned on the winged cross-country races today and helped thin the ranks of contestants in the national air derby.

As evening fell, after a day of cold rains and stiff winds, only thirty-odd planes of the 40 that left New York city were still on their way to Spokane.

Tragedy marred the start of the bigger, Class A ships today when a plane crashed at Long Valley, N. J., killing the pilot, E. E. Hudson of Marysville, Mich., and his mechanic, Jay Radike, of St. Clair, Mich. The race then progressed without further incident until a plane, its gasoline supply exhausted from bucking head winds, attempted a landing in a street in the south part of Chicago.

An unlucky ice wagon brought the plane to an abrupt halt and Pilot Louis F. Royal of Flint, Mich., and his passenger, Joseph Potten, climbed out uninjured. The plane was so damaged, however, that it could not continue the flight.

A nip and tuck race developed between Pilots Leslie Miller of Des Moines and C. W. Myers of Detroit leading the twenty remaining Class B ships which left New York yesterday. Although succeeding in landing first at Cleveland, Chicago and St. Paul, Miller was beaten into Fargo, N. D., by Myers, who never was far behind.

The only woman in the derby, Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Whittier, Calif., mother of two children, was forced down with her husband Pilot James O'Donnell, on account of engine trouble, at Auburn, Ind. The O'Donnells, who were the last to leave Roosevelt field, expected to resume their flight tomorrow.

Two other Class A planes had difficulties. An hour and a half after taking off from Roosevelt Field, Emil Burgin returned to Curtis Field, nearby, with motor trouble, and Pilot R. S. Fogg announced on landing at Cleveland that he is definitely out of the race and will return to New England tomorrow.

Frank M. Hawks, in plane number 10, landed here at 5:56 this afternoon, the last of the Class A planes. He will resume his flight early tomorrow.

E. E. Ballough of Chicago, O. W. Holman, St. Paul, N. B. Namer, Spokane, and J. P. Wood, Wausau, Wis., were in the van guard of the larger ships most of the day. St. Paul was their overnight stop, while Glendive, Mont., was set for the Class B planes.

The severity of the weather put two of the smaller ships out of the race in Chicago, and Pilot L. F. Hughes, who had spent the night in Cleveland, announced he would not continue the race.

Engine trouble and the stiff winds influenced R. T. Guinby of Rock Island, and S. Darius, Chicago, not to continue from here. Missing yesterday, Tex Lagrone, Kansas City Class B flier, reported today from Ashland, Pa., that he was out of the race.

The third section of the derby, the non-stop flight, starts from New York tomorrow. The A planes are taking a route which covers 2,275 miles and the B ships are covering 2,350 miles. Both classes are due in Spokane tomorrow.

Twelve of the Class B ships spent last night in Chicago, seven in Bryan, O., and four in Cleveland.

Nine of the 15 starters in the Class A derby reached St. Paul, their scheduled stop, one other was forced to stay all night in Chicago, another plane with the only woman passenger in the race was down at Auburn, Ind., two others withdraw and two others were wrecked, one causing two deaths.

HARTFORD PLANE HAS BEEN FORCED DOWN

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 20—(AP)—E. W. Fleet of Hartford, Conn., piloting Entry No. 33 in the Class B race, was forced down at Viroqua, Wisconsin, by a broken connecting rod, officials here were informed tonight.

This left six planes in Class B unaccounted for between here and Chicago.

NEW YORK-SPOKANE NON-STOP FLIGHT STARTS TODAY

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 20—(AP)—An international airplane race between Canada and the United States, starting from here tomorrow and ending at Spokane, Washington, today as the climax of the national air derby being held as a feature of ari meet at Spokane.

At least two planes, Duke Schiller's Royal Windsor, from Windsor, Ont., and Eddie Stinson, Detroiter, were assured of starting in the race, which is to be a non-stop one for a first prize of $10,000 and a second prize of $5,000.

There was a possibility late today, moreover, that two more competitors would fly in the cross country grind, bringing the total up to four racers. Officials here were advised by telegram that Pilot Jack Rand, flying the monoplane Miss Southern California from San Diego, would arrive here late today in preparation for the start of the non-stop flight tomorrow. Edward Mulligan, motor expert for the Wright Aeronautical Co., also received a telegram stating that Glenn J. Romkey of Lomax, Ills., would compete. Romkey was reported to have left Lomax for Roosevelt Field this afternoon.

Tomorrow's race promises to be unique because Stinson in striving to beat Schiller, will be competing against a plane designed and built by himself, as is the one he will use. The Royal Windsor, was designed by Stinson especially for a flight by Schiller and Phil Wood, from Windsor, Canada, to Windsor, England. The proposed Windsor to Windsor hop, however, was cancelled recently because of the agitation against transoceanic flight arising from the loss of lives in such flights over the Atlantic and Pacific.

JENSEN TELLS OF HIS UNSUCCESSFUL FLIGHT

ROOSEVELT, Ariz., Sept. 20—(AP)—Martin Jensen today backtracked along the winding mountainous trail to Fall Wash Gulch, 40 miles from Roosevelt, where Leo, movie stunt lion, passenger in the aviator's monoplane in an unsuccessful non-stop cross country flight, kept vigil in a steel barred cage in the wreckage of the plane.

Last Friday it took Jensen nearly seven hours, following a twisting, circling creek from the lonely wash where he crashed in a clump of oaks, to walk to the H-Bar ranch, only 15 miles further on, and relieve fears for his safety. Leaving here at noon today with a party of cowboys, Jensen expected to reach the gulch tonight, but word of his arrival probably would be delayed from the isolated spot.

Leo, with whom Jensen divided his sandwiches and provided water when he left him Friday after the crash, was expected to be hungry, so the party prepared to kill a cow at the ranch and provide the beast a substantial meal of fresh meat.

It was a case of light air, a heavy load and a turn up the wrong fork of a mountain creek, Jensen said in explaining his mishap. The craft sideslipped and came down on its tail in the narrow defile when the motor refused to pull the plane to high enough levels to miss the tree tops.

The trip from Camp Kearney near San Diego, where a prefect start was made at 10:11 a. m., last Friday, was uneventful until the aviator made the wrong turn at the fork of Tonto creek.

MUST WAIT TILL FRIDAY FOR HOP-OFF TO PARIS

CURTISS IELD, N. Y., Sept. 20—(AP)—Ruth Elder, 23 year old Florida aviatrix must wait until Friday and possibly longer, depending on weather conditions, before starting to seek realization of her ambition to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic.

George Haldeman, her co-pilot and navigator in the Stinson Detroit monoplane, The American Girl, said today that the plane's compass and other flight instruments would be given a thorough checking tomorrow, since they had not been checked today as had been planned. Whether the checking would be needed again on Thursday, Haldeman was not sure, but, he said, "we certainly will be ready for the trans-Atlantic hop on Friday."

It was indicated that Haldeman and Miss Elder may consider a daylight start for Europe, instead of an early morning one as was the case with Col. Charles Lindbergh, Clarence D. Chamberlin and Commander Richard E. Byrd on their flights to Europe this summer.

TWO ROBBERS KILLED MERCHANT IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., Sept 20—(AP)—Two young men shot and killed Morris Kirtzwn, 49, tobacco merchant, in his store today and escaped with $20,000 which he had brought from a bank to cash checks for the employes of a motor company nearby.

The robbers entered the store and while Mrs. Kirtz was using the telephone one of them went her side, pressed a revolver against her and ordered her to keep quiet.

Kirtz came from the rear, unaware of what was going on and when he asked the men what they wanted the second robber levelled a gun at him.

Thinking of the $20,000 in his safe, the door of which was open, Kirtz made a lunge at the man and tried to knock the revolver from his hand. Three shots were fired and the tobacco merchant fell with two bullets in his left lung and one in his left arm.

The men took the money from the safe and ran from the store, escaping in what was said to be a stolen automobile.

WOULD SEND WARSHIP TO BRING LEVINE HOME

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(AP)—Dudley Field Malone, formerly collector of the port of New York, wants the United States to send a battleship to Europe and bring home Charles A. Levine.

Mr. Malone, who returned today from Paris on the liner Majestic, expressed pronounced views on the amateur airman who flew the English channel single handed, after making the ocean hop with Clarence D. Chamberlin.

"If he doesn't come here soon," Malone said, "We are apt to be drawn into another world war. He has the French people all upset and now he is doing the same thing in England. He is not the diplomat that Lindbergh was, and this country ought to send over a battleship to bring him back."

CHILD SERIOUSLY BURNED PLAYING WITH MATCHES

NEW BRITAIN, Sept. 20—(AP)—Matches with which three year old Edward Zeigler was playing today ignited his clothing. The child was burned so badly all over the body that his condition was reported tonight at the New Britain General hospital as critical.

ROTARY CLUB VISITED BY DISTRICT GOVERNOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 20—Allen H. Bagg of Pittsfield, Mass., governor of the 30th Rotary district initiated his visitation to the 35 district clubs by giving an inspiring message to members of the Willimantic Rotary club at their noon luncheon held in the Nathan Hale hotel today. Governor "A" as he is called in Rotary set forth new thoughts on Rotary, its effects and its unparrelled growth. "A Study of Rotary's principles and ethics causes men to think," said the governor. "The benefits of anything that will make men stop for thought need no review here," he continued, adding the statement that "Rotary is cooperative, not competitive." Three new clubs recently received their charters in this district and two more charter nights are scheduled for the near future. Governor Bagg left here this afternoon for Norwich where he will visit the Rotary club there. The minutes of the last council meeting as read by Secretary Gerard E. Loisell showed that considerable work has already been planned by the new club administration. Prizes are to be offered in connection with the vocational agricultural course at Windham high school. The annual football dinner for the W. H. S. squad will be held and a joint meeting is planned with the Exchange club. President Richard E Dodge introduced the following guests, Charles J. Twist of Norwich and Peter G. Diener of Harrisburg, Pa., Rotarians, and Frederick W. Staebner of the Willimantic State Normal school faculty. Raymond A. Parker was appointed editor of The Cog for the coming week.

Miss Clara Hernberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hernberg of Mansfield Depot and Arthur J. Caisse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank X. Caisse of 47 Johnstreet, this city, were united in marriage in the presence of many friends at St. Mary's church, South Coventry, this morning. Rev. Dennis F. Moran officiated and was celebrant of the nuptial mass at 9:15 o'clock. Miss Blanche Caisse, sister of the groom was maid of honor and William Hernberg, brother of the bride, was best man. The reception was held at the home of the bride. Guests came from Woonsocket, R. I., Boston, Mass., Detroit, Mich., New York, Pennsylvania and this city.

The bride was attractively gowned in white crepe de chine with a bridal veil and she carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Caisse, maid of honor, wore pink georgette with hat to match and her shower bouquet was of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Caisse will spend their honeymoon in New York state. They will make their home in Mansfield Depot. The groom is employed here at the Joseph P. Gagnon barber shop.

Herbert D. Pollard, cashier of the Windham National bank for the past four years was elected to the board of directors of the institution at a meeting of the board held to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George E. Stiles. Mr. Pollard has been with the banking institution since May 1, 1895 and cashier since February 26, 1923. His election to the directorship is considered well deserved and has been the occasion of congratulations from his many friends. A high mass of requiem was solemnized in St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock this morning for Theodore LaVallee, the remains being taken from the late home, 38 Maple avenue. Rev. J. J. Papillon, the pastor, was celebrant. With Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau at the organ the choir rendered special hymns. The services were largely attended and many floral tributes were in evidence. The bearers were, Emile Roy, Arthur Bertrand, Joseph Lefebvre, Honore Tellier, Thomas Perreault and Joseph Beaulieu. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Papillon read a committal prayer. At the church the remains were escorted to the sanctuary rails by a delegation from the Sacred Heart society of which the deceased was a a member. Victor Chassee was banner bearer.

The bell in the tower of the main building at Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, tolled lustily this morning, the opening of the 47th year of the institution. Nearly all of the 500 students had registered and were prepared for the initial class of the present semester. Registrar David L. Green stated that the exact number of students could not be determined until Thursday afternoon. In the freshman class there are 174 students enrolled. According to Registrar Green the three upper classes returning will in the aggregate compose the largest student body in the history of the college. About 35 per cent of the students come from within Connecticut, in line with a policy of the administration to give Connecticut young men and women a preference.

A phenomenal nivasion of moths that had failed in their summer quest of woolens and furs in milady's wardrobe was noted along Main street early this morning. It was at first thought that the white way standards from Bridge street to Lincoln square had been decorated with brown wreaths by some practical joker but a closer inspection, revealed that the brown masses were made up of myriads of moths.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mott of Pleasant street entertained in honor of the 20th birthday of Antonio Delude, last evening. The rooms had been tastefully arranged for the event and a program of music, games and dancing was enjoyed. Mr. Delude received many gifts. Lunch was served by Mrs. Mott.

CORNS

Ends pain at once

No waiting—one minute after you apply Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads the pain is gone. After the corn is healed it never comes back. If new shoes irritate the spot again, a Zino-pad fixes it overnight. Old methods of paring corns, or using caustic acids, are dangerous.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are safe, antiseptic, protective, healing. They stop the cause of corns—rubbing and pressing of shoes. At all druggist's and shoe dealer's. Cost but a trifle.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone!

DANIELSON

SEVERAL MEN FINED FOR MOTOR LAW INFRACTIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 20.—There were three cases for the consideration of the town court this morning, all of them growing out of matters pertaining to automobiles. Jesse Burgess of Putnam was fined $5.00 and actual costs by Judge W. Fenner Woodward for failure to grant the right of way, his failure in this instance resulting in an accident on North Main street a week ago last Sunday. His lapse from the rules resulted in a crash between his car and a motorcycle driven by Oliver Joseph Brand of Franklin, Mass., who was considerably injured. Brand also appeared in court today to answer to driving a motor vehicle at a time when he did not have his operator's license with him, as was ascertained when the accident was checked up by State Officer Donald J. Geddes. For this oversight Brand was fined $1.00 and costs.

Lyman A. Geer of Dayville also paid a fine of $1.00 and actual costs for operating an unregistered automobile.

Express service, like the mail service, is going to be hampered by the removal of trains, as now forecasted, when the fall time table of the New Haven road on the local line becomes effective next Sunday. While curtailment of the facilities for forwarding and receiving express, will handicap many a firm and individual, it will go particularly hard with one of Danielson's big manufacturing concerns, which ships many thousands of dollars worth of express matter out of Danielson every month. This one account alone is sufficiently large to be of prime importance to the American Railway Express company, and it is likely that will be exactly the effect.

October 1, it is now announced, is set as the time limit, instead of October 15, for former service men to record their discharge papers with the town clerk of Killingly if they would benefit by a $1,000 tax exemption to which they are entitled under the law. If they fail to have their discharges recorded with the town clerk by that time they will not be allowed any special exemption on the next grand list of the town to be compiled.

On Friday evening of this week members of Killingly grange are to neighbor with Hampton grange at Hampton. Next week Wednesday evening Killingly grange will neighbor with Norwich grange. There was a good attendance at last evening's meeting of the local grange. A program arranged by the Home Economics committee was very interesting. Features were a reading by Clark Wood, a paper—Benefits Derived from the Home Economics Department of our High School, by Miss Cora Brown, jokes told by Alton Eldridge and a question on Know Your Grange, and a report by Walter G. Bruce on the New England Lecturers' conference at Kingston, R. I. In the question contest Rev. Charles A. Downs, master, was first and Past Master Mariet L. Wood second.

This morning Chief John McFarland summarily halted the soliciting activities of a man whose cap band carried the legend "Church of God" and who was going about in the business section carrying a tambourine. The stronger's inability to produce a certificate from the state board of charities authorizing him to do any soliciting led to his being told to stop asking contributions immediately. A second warning, in another part of the business section, was necessary to force the man to stop his activities. He arrived here last evening. Chief McFarland is insistent that no unauthorized solicitors shall be allowed to canvass Danielson and makes a regular practice of ordering them to desist.

An amazingly beautiful display of dahlias, among many other varieties of flowers is promised for the annual flower and vegetable show at the Union Baptist church in East Killingly. Vegetables, canne dgoods and other such things also will be displayed at this show, which was instituted a number of years ago as a part of community affair for local flower growers and has grown to have wide-spread interest. The committee in charge has extended a cordial invitation to all interested to attend.

Following a custom of many years, the Windham County National bank will close at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon to permit of its force attending the Brooklyn fair, and in recognition of that event. Many school children in the surrounding territory also, through recess arrangements, will be given an opportunity to attend the fair on Wednesday.

Attorney A. G. Bill, to whose ears in various official capacities, come many an interesting tale, the majority of which never become public knowledge, told this morning of an incident illustrating the passion of the public to own a motor car. This matter concerns a man who recently was presented in a justice's court in one of the agricultural towns of Windham county to face a charge of non-support of his wife and two children. The man is the owner of an automobile, and he did not hesitate to offer as a defence in court of his failure to provide support for his family that it was really necessary for his pleasure and well being to have a car, indicating that whether the family late or not was a secondary matter. Sounds incredulous, but guaranteed to be true.

WOMEN APPROACHING MIDDLE AGE

Pass Through This Trying Period in Good Condition by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. HARVEY TUCKER
R. R. 9, SHELBYVILLE, IND.

"Grow old along with me, The best is yet to be"

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age, say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

"I had been in bad condition for three months. I could not do my work. One day I read what your medicine had done and just had a feeling that it would help me, so I sent and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had only taken half a bottle when I got up and started to do my work. It gave me an appetite, and helped me wonderfully. I can not praise this medicine highly enough. I surely will advise all women and girls to take it, and they don't have to use rouge to look healthy. My two daughters are taking it now and one is also using the Sanative Wash. I am willing to have you use this testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. Harvey Tucker, R. R. No. 9, Shelbyville, Indiana.

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. Jennie Bollerman, 611-11th St. Union City, N. J.

FIGHTING RECKLESSNESS

In their efforts to decrease the danger on the highways of that state, the authorities of Rhode Island are resorting quite extensively to the revocation or suspension of driving licenses when evidence is provided showing that reckless driving warrants such action.

Whether this course is going to accomplish the desired purpose of causing the menacing drivers to reform and to warn others against acquiring a bad habit may be indicated somewhat by the results obtained this year in following the adopted policy. Rhode Island requires at least 35 miles an hour on its main thoroughfares but it doesn't expect that the highways will be filled with reckless drivers and when the board of public roads takes away the licenses or gives suspensions to more than 2,000 drivers in less than nine months of the year it makes it clear that it is seriously engaged in trying to bring about safer conditions.

There is nothing that will encourage the menacing driver like tolerant treatment. If they get the idea that they can get away with anything they are not going to bother themselves about the other fellow, about rules of the road, about pedestrians, about anything that would interfere with their helter skelter driving. On the other hand if they are going to be denied the right to drive, temporarily or permanently, they are going to do a little thinking occasionally about what they should not do and about the rules, regulations and laws that they should obey.

But Rhode Island isn't the only state that is employing stricter supervision of infringement of motor vehicle laws for it has been shown by the report of the Connecticut motor vehicle department that, for the first five months of this year, 3,125 licenses were suspended, or 600 more than for the same period last year.

This makes it evident that in both of these states that while there is more attention being given to this situation the attitude of the drivers themselves has brought it about. Even with a larger number of motor vehicles there should be a decrease rather than an increase in recklessness if any progress toward greater safety is going to be made. There is enough at stake so that drivers ought to realize this themselves, but statistics show to the contrary.

MAKING VOTERS

When 754 persons placed their applications to be made voters in the hands of the registrar of voters it was indicated how many in Norwich should be able to become voters and how many ought to be sufficiently interested in obtaining the franchise to spend the little time necessary to qualify.

When only 128 of that number appeared before the board last week it can hardly be said to reflect the proper interest on the part of to-be-mades. What a howl would go up if a similar number qualified to become voters should be denied the right, and yet when the opportunity is open to them less than one sixth of them make a response. It cannot be regarded as a healthy indication. It is never the fact that all those whose applications are put in are made voters. Various reasons stand in the way for some of them, but for the large majority of the applicants a proper appreciation of the value of the franchise should prompt them to action.

Next Saturday will be the last opportunity for the to-be-mades to take the elector's oath this year. There are 356 who are eligible to become voters here and it is to be hoped that a much larger number will avail themselves of the opportunity than did last week. The board is ready to be kept busy during the day if those listed to appear before it will simply bear it in mind and present themselves to comply with the simple requirements. There are times when it seems to be even harder to get out the to-be-mades than it is get the voters to go to the polls. With the right interest in public affairs such a situation would not prevail.

THE FREE STATE'S ELECTION

When President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State dissolved parliament and called for a new election he thought that the conditions were ripe for the election of enough additional government candidates to give him a clear majority within his own party. That was what he sought and the importance of having such a majority can be appreciated when it is realized that otherwise dependence must be placed upon a coalition government which means decided uncertainties.

The election results have disclosed that the government has gotten the largest number of members in the next parliament but it has failed to get the desired majority. The ballots have been the means of taking some of the prominent men out of parliament and reducing some of the parties to almost nothing, but there will be need of a coalition government which must be prepared to withstand the opposition from the republican forces.

Because the government has a larger number of members than the republicans doesn't insure that degree of control which President Cosgrave desired. It will be dependent upon those others with whom he can reach an agreement for support, which must mean the showing of a certain amount of respect for some of their policies. The election must therefore be looked upon by President Cosgrave as a disappointment. He has failed to get the support from the people that he had anticipated. He was unquestionably justified in taking the view and the action that he did for the Free State is at a point where it deserves the advantages of a majority government. It is always well that there should be a strong minority party representation in parliament, but a healthy administration requires that there should be a sufficient control to carry out desired policies without being subjected to the handicap of opponents who cannot agree amongst themselves but who combine accomplishment of government measures. The Free State government will continue but it will encounter troubles which it had been hoped by President Cosgrave to prevent.

COTTON PRICES

Provision has been made by congress for the collection of statistics as to acreage and the condition of crops throughout the country by the department of agriculture, and it is also expected that the department will make an estimate of the yield. This makes it possible for it to be indicated what can be expected from the various crops so that it can be known from time to time what bearing the crop outlook is going to have upon the nation's supplies.

Such figures as are put forth are supposed to be as accurate as can be obtained. Dependence is placed upon them. Business is guided by them. Their effect upon prices is inevitable for small crops or bumper crops carry their own meaning. It was not the intention, however, that the department should undertake to say what could be expected in the way of prices. That might be easily inferred, but it should be left to inference or figuring on the past of those interest.

Because a recent department report included a statement to the effect that lower prices might be expected, even though that was not much more than putting two and two together, it caused a great flurry in cotton and large losses were sustained. It was an object lesson in what ought not to be done on the part of the department of agriculture. It was forecasting prices, which is outside the province of the department and because one such bulletin caused no trouble it was a poor reason for thinking others would not.

The president has indicated his disapproval of such a practice and the secretary of agriculture has made a statement to the effect that henceforth there will be no reference in the department forecasts to the price of commodities based upon crop conditions. The assurance of no repetitions came as a quick recognition of the justice of the protests made against it. Henceforth those interested in price effect must draw their own conclusions.

HISTORICAL PLACES

Everyone knows that Virginia has played an important part in the history of this country and yet there are thousands of motorists going through that state every day who have no idea that they are passing historic places of outstanding importance. There are those which will be sought by some but there are many others which would be visited with much interest if it were known that their journey was taking them directly past them.

Virginia has a conservation and development commission which has recognized the desirability of marking historic places along its highways and it is hoped that 500 of the projected 3,000 can be put in place before the end of the year. It cannot be hoped that such efforts will be appreciated by all for there are those who will ignore such markers quite as persistently and nonchalantly as they do warning signs along the highway, but there will be others who will give heed and will stop and revel in the opportunity to enjoy a sight of such places which have so close a bearing upon the early days of this country and individuals who had a conspicuous part in state and national history.

Such action as that being taken by the Virginia commission has been followed in many of the old cities and towns. Wherever historic places remain, the sites of battles during colonial or revolutionary days can be observed or the burial places or residences of prominent personages still remain it is fitting that they should be prominently identified. It means the rendition of a service that will get much genuine appreciation from thousands of visitors.

BRED IN THE BONE

Effie White had 18 years of being poor and counting pennies after she was born and there followed 15 more after she married Turner Dorman, who was an office clerk in a foundry. The favorite pastime of idle minds—deciding what one would do with a sudden million dollars—never wasted any of Effie's time. She was too busy making one dollar do the work of two, especially after the children came.

When she was 33, one year after Turner had invented a method of treating metals, the million was theirs, with more to follow. He had sold his process and kept a percentage on future sales.

"We can have anything we want anything!" Turner repeated to Effie emphatically when she hesitated over the price of the house he wished to buy. "Just forget to ask what things cost, old girl, and go ahead! The world is youds and you deserve it!"

A trifle awkardly, a-thrill with the unbelievable novelty, Effie spent days and weeks buying things for the new home, for herself and the girls. Not that she plunged; rather she made her purchases cautiously, unable to believe that she actually could afford silk where all her life she had bought cotton and crystal instead of ten-cent glassware. Turner wrinkled his brow over the sales slips he picked up one day.

"Why the deuce," he asked irritatedly, "do you buy at all the cheapest stores? Why don't you go to the ones that have class and the best of everything?" Effie tried to tell him but could not voice it. She was afraid of those stores, of the graceful clerks, the expensively dressed shoppers. And when you know you can get a $25 article for $18.50 at another place—that is an article just about as good—naturally you go to the $18.50 shop.

After a year in the new house, during which Turner had known wrathfully that every article in it was all wrong and after a scene which had left Effie weeping bitterly and himself red and breathing hard, Turner bundled out of the entire contents of their home and got an interior decorator.

If her life depended on it, Effie could never get the hang of buying royally. When the clerk told her the dress she liked was $150, try as she might her head would turn on her rigid neck seeking the one not so attractive but which would "do" and which cost only 75.

The girls made up for it. They were young and adaptable and Turner Dorman had no cause for complaint either, at their appearance or their purchases.

Effie regarded them with wonder and a little despair. They were so pretty, so instantly fashionable, so at home in their new station in life. She grew accustomed to their protesting exclamation, "But, moth—errr!"

Gradually they took into their hands her complete outfitting. Furs, silks, millinery, handmade shoes, imported lingerie—she learned to wear them without a sinking feeling considering their cost, but always she was a little aloof from the lovely things. They were not a part of her as they should have been. The bath crystals and perfumes, at whose price she shut her eyes, stood on her table untouched for months or were used so sparingly that their fragrance died away before they were a quarter gone. The girls were amused and angry in turn. Their mother was so handsome, but so set in her old ways!

Money came in a golden flood. They had not one establishment but three: servants met one at every turn and still she fingered filmy frocks, asked the cost and clicked her tongue as she shook her head protestingly. Turner, now that his family was presentable, had ceased to argue with her. Possibly he fancied she had outgrown the power of those old days. But neither he nor the girls ever saw the half-puzzled, almost frightened expression that lurked in the depths of her eyes when she essayed to manage any enterprise on her own account.

And then Turner died!

"Everything of the loveliest and the best," Effie ordered through cold lips. It was her last gesture of apology to her husband.

"What he would like. The cost does not matter, of course. Send to an Italian sculptor for a monument."

Even in their grief the girls felt satisfied that their mother's weakness of insistent economy was at last overcome.

"And the floral blanket?" inquired a deferential florist. "Of orchids it would be $500 of roses two—"

Effie, her throat tight, her lips dry, hesitated. The room was very still. Five hundred—Turner had never cared especially about orchids. But he had certainly liked roses.

"Roses," Effie Dorman whispered.—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

WEAK AND FLAT FEET

By Joseph O'Dwyer, M. D., New York City
Member Gorgas Memorial

The causes of weak feet or foot strain are legion, but the most prolific cause is shoes that do not conform to the shape of the foot. Pointed shoes cause crumpling and distortion of the toes.

Acute illness or protracted convalescence weaken all muscles, and naturally the muscles of the feet, bearing all the superincumbent weight, often suffer. Excessive weight is occasionally the cause of weak feet, and this may arise from either carrying heavy loads or from a person putting on 15 or 30 pounds in weight for a short time.

Over-use of the feet in walking or standing, especially where people are either inactive or under-trained, is another fairly common cause of painful feet.

The foot is just as individual as the eyes. You may go in and buy a pair of glasses without having your eyes examined. You can buy arch supports and the chances are that neither were meant for you.

Among some of the first symptoms an individual notices with foot strain is that his feet feel hot and uncomfortable and perspire more than before. There is lameness and stiffness. The stiffness is more noticeable after sitting some time, and also on arising in the morning. Pain is rather a constant symptom in acute cases. In long continued cases of flat foot, it is fairly common to have a pain in back of the knee or in the hip and in very severe cases a pain in the lower part of the back.

The people who need treatment for their feet are those suffering from pain, or impaired function, not necessarily those with flat feet. Many men went through the war with flat feet, without any discomfort.

Treatment, which should aim at a restoration of function, depends upon the type of foot, and may be roughly divided into three types. (1) Acute painful feet, with or without a collapsed arch; (2) the flexible flat foot, which is freely movable; and (3) the rigid flat foot, which is bound together by adhesions and has limitations of motion in every direction.

In the first type of case, complete rest is the first requisite, followed by hot foot baths and massage. When the condition becomes less acute, the patient may be allowed to try weight-bearing with the feet well strapped.

Flat foot may be either congenital or acquired. Congenital cases are brought to the doctor more for the awkward gait and deformity than for pain. First find the cause and, if possible, remove it. After that, the simplest procedure is to raise the inner side of the sole and heel one-quarter inch. This tilts the foot on the outer side and turns the toes in when walking, so that the weight comes upon the foot in a position of strength. The rigid foot needs surgical treatment.

People about to be fitted for shoes should walk three or four miles before the fitting, as feet are apt to swell after exercise, and that is the time to try on shoes, and even then, with all the weight on one foot, the shoe should be comfortable.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

M. Gaston Doumergue, who has given his personal attention to the welcome and entertainment of the American Legionnaires during their stay in Paris, has been president of the French republic since 1924. Previous to his election to the office of chief executive he had been premier and had held a number of portfolios in various ministries. His first reputation in public life was made in the French colonial service. He began as a special magistrate in Cochin, China, and later filled a high judicial office in Algeria. He was born at Aigues-Vives in 1863 and began his career as a practicing lawyer at Nimes. At the time of his election to the president he was the presiding officer of the French senate.

Stories That Recall Others

The Official Starter

The following conversation took place among some girls who were discussing the cast which had been chosen for a play their society was to present.

"Grace, did you try out for the play?" asked one of her companions.

"No," replied Grace, "but I could have been in the cast and held the most important part without trying out."

"Why, how is that possible?" asked one of the girls in amazement.

"I could have been the curtain raiser," she answered triumphantly.

Reason for Preference

A minister moved his family from a town of 400 to 500 to one of many thousand inhabitants. His son, age ten, could see no advantages in moving, and stoutly insisted the smaller town was superior.

"Why," he exclaimed, "you ought to see the postoffice in L——. It has the one here beat a long way. There you can get anything you want—groceries and marbles and shoes. But here at the postoffice all you can get is just letters and stamps."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Cubby Gets the Cookies

No matter what the world may say,
Somehow, somewhere you'll find a way.
—Cubby the Bear.

Farmer Brown, Mother Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy ate their breakfast, and while they were eating it discussed plans for catching Cubby, the mischievous little Bear who was up on top of the house. You will remember that Farmer Brown's Boy had placed a ladder for Cubby to come down and had tempted him with cookies. But Cubby had refused to come down. That ladder was so placed that as Farmer Brown's Boy sat at the breakfast table he could keep an eye on the ladder. He had left the cookies a little way out from the ladder. It would be impossible for Cubby to come down that ladder and not be seen.

After breakfast Farmer Brown's Boy went out. He looked toward the place where he had left the cookies. The cookies were not there. He rubbed his eyes twice to make sure. Now, from where he had sat at the table he could watch the ladder, but he couldn't see the cookies. He hadn't thought it necessary to watch the cookies as well as the ladder. Now that the cookies were gone he didn't know what to make of it.

"It must be that a stray dog has come into the yard and eaten those cookies," said Farmer Brown's Boy, as he walked over to the empty dish. Close to that dish he found a little soot. You should have seen his eyes open then. He turned and looked up at the roof. Nowhere could he see anything of Cubby. Perhaps he was behind the chimney. Farmer Brown's Boy ran around to look on the other side of the chimney. There was no Cubby.

"He couldn't have come down that ladder and not be seen," muttered Farmer Brown's Boy. "He just couldn't have. Yet he isn't on the roof and those cookies are gone. That little Bear is a fast worker. He does the most impossible things. How under the sun did he get off that roof and get those cookies? And where is he now?"

The last question was answered first. Happening to glance over to Cubby's favorite tree, he discovered a little black ball up near the top. He knew it was Cubby. It was up in that tree that Cubby always climbed when he had been in trouble or when he wanted to get away from folks; and there he was now.

It was up in that tree that Cubby always climbed when he had been in trouble

Just then Farmer Brown came to the door. "Well, Son," said he, "have you decided how you are going to get that Bear down?"

Farmer Brown's Boy grinned rather sheepishly. "Look up in that tree," said he.

Farmer Brown looked up, and such a funny look as there was on his face. "How did he get down from that roof without being caught?" he demanded.

"That's what I haven't found out yet," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "When I came out here those cookies were gone, but there is some soot over near where they were. So I knew who had taken the cookies. But how he got off the roof I didn't know."

Together Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy started around the house. At one corner was a wooden drain pipe leading down from an eaves trough. When they reached this Farmer Brown's Boy discovered some claw marks on this wooden drain pipe. He knew right away that Cubby had shinned down that drain pipe. Then he had stolen around the house to the cookies without being seen.

"PUNCH BROTHERS"

(From the Kansas City Times)

Isaac H. Bromley was an editorial writer on the New York Tribune in the seventies, but he chiefly earned his salary in holding at safe distance the peril of being too serious, which hangs over every really earnest and conservative journal. Riding on the street car to work one morning his attention was caught by the following posted sign:

"The conductor, when he receives a fare, will punch, in the presense of the passenger—

"A blue trip-slip for an 8-cent fare,
"A buff trip-slip for a 6-cent fare,
"A pink trip-slip for a 3-cent fare."

Bromley turned to a fellow newspaperman and exclaimed, "By George, it's poetry!" and upon reaching the Tribune office he wrote out the "poetry" as follows:

The conductor, when he received a fare,
Will punch in the presence of the passenjare,
A blue trip-slip for an eight-cent fare,
A buff trip-slip for a six-cent fare,
A pink trip-slip for a three-cent fare.
All in the presence of the passinjare.
Chorus: "Punch, brothers, punch with care," etc.

The "poem" was published on an inside page, without signature. In all parts of the country it not only caught the popular fancy, but seized upon it like a nightmare. It was like an eternal roundelay whereupon the eyes once alighting continued to dance until the rhythmic lines were read again and again and the mind wearied. Everybody fell a victim to the jingle and it even traveled abroad where the Parisians took up its monodic singsong. Mark Twain caught the infection and wrote an amusing account of his suffering in the Atlantic Monthly under the title of "A Literary Nightmare." This publication gave rise to a general belief that Clemens was the author of it and that belief persists to the present day.

Isaac H. Bromley was one of the founders and the first editor of The Bulletin.

ENNA JETTICK
Health Shoes

From the diary of
Enna Jettick

"The I. O. R.'s had their annual charity bazar today. I helped Mabel with her booth. Sold oodles of stuff. Matt and Sid each bought an enormous Egyptian vase and I wonder where their mothers will put them! Mabel was tired out before noon. I told her to buy some Enna Jettick shoes like mine. I ought to get a commission from those people! Went to the Pines with Matt. Danced all evening. Just got in and it's 12 o'clock. Good Night, Diary!"

FUNERAL
Gerard L. Parker

The body of Gerard Lester Parker, who died Sunday at his home in Brookline, Mass., reached Norwich about one o'clock Tuesday for burial in the family plot in Yantic cemetery. Funeral services had been conducted at his home, 78 Lancaster Terrace, Brookline, Monday evening by Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt and Rev. Barrett P. Tyler. The committal in Norwich was by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, in which parish Mr. Parker's family has always been prominent. Relatives acted as bearers.

The basket was covered with a pall of fern tips and rose buds. Beautiful flowers in many symbolic forms came from friends in Norwich, Brookline and other cities.

The funeral arrangements in Norwich were in charge of the Henry Allen & Son company.

Driving Without Registration

Louis Richmond of No. 177 North Bank street, New London, was arrested in Greeneville Tuesday night on a charge of driving a machine without having registration. He was booked at police headquarters and summoned to appear in the city court this (Wednesday) morning. Richmond was arrested by Officer John Quinn.

ROMANCE AT C. A.C. RESULTS IN MARRIAGE

STORRS, Sept. 20.—(AP)—A classroom romance was discovered here today when it was learned that Winthrop Tilley, instructor in English at Connecticut Agricultural college for the past four years, and Miss Emily Catherine Wicks, of Greenwich, Conn., a freshman in the home economics course at the college last year, were married in New York Saturday in the "Little Church Around the Corner."

Tilley, a graduate of Amherst college in 1923, comes from Providence, R. I. He is on leave of absence this year. The bride has transferred to Columbia university in New York city to continue her studies this fall.

BEING OUT OF TOWN SAVES MAN'S LIFE

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Joaquin Fortes, who yesterday shot his wife to death and then killed himself with the same pistol, would have killed "the other man" had he not been out of town picking cranberries, a note left by the husband and found today revealed.

Fortes said in the letter that his wife had been unfaithful to him and that he could not "stand it any longer."

A double funeral will be held for Fortes and his wife Thursday.

Their small children will be cared for by Fortes' mother, she said, if the city welfare department helps.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels, take Baalmann's Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear, that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish, and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Baalmann's Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with the circulation. Get the genuine, in the yellow package, at any good drug store. Price $1.
